In her New York City apartment Mrs. John F. Kennedy remained in seclusion on the second anniversary of her husband's death.

But the children, Caroline, 8 and John Jr., 5, went to school as usual.

Mrs. Kennedy's was the first floral remembrance placed on Monday at the Arlington National Cemetery graveside. Her mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, brought a bouquet of small white lilies, and placed the widow's offering at the base of the eternal flame that flickers over the grave.

Senator Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts came early in the afternoon to place bouquets of white carnations and chrysanthemums.

Kennedy's other brother, Senator Robert F. Kennedy of New York, was in Brazil, midway through a South American tour. Some of his children, accompanied by a nursemaid, placed flowers on the grave Sunday.

All day long a stream of citizens came to Kennedy's Arlington grave to pay silent homage. The grave was ringed with flowers and wreaths.

Attorney - General Nicholas Katzenbach placed a presidential wreath of red and white carnations, dotted with tiny blue flowers, at the Kennedy grave.

As he fulfilled that mission for President Johnson, a bugler sounded taps on the damp hillside behind the grave.

Police Kill Negro Stoning Bus

From AP-Reuters

SALISBURY (CP) — Police shot and killed a Negro demonstrator in the southern town of Bulawayo early today, the government announced.

The Negro was throwing stones at a bus when a police man on the bus opened fire and killed him.

It was the first fatality in the scattered unrest which has followed the announcement of Rhodesia's declaration of independence from Britain Nov. 11.

PC Chief Approved As Leader

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—A post-election Conservative caucus Monday gave Party Leader John Diefenbaker a pat op the back and approved a move to declare non-confidence in the minority Liberal government.

Ironically, it was an old anti-Diefenbaker rebel, George Hees, who filled in reporters on a vote of confidence for the leader by the party MPs elected Nov. 8. The vote of support, he said, was "enthusiastically carried" by all.

Reporters sought details from Mr. Hees after Mr. Diefenbaker shied away from questions on leadership. Mr. Hees walked out on Mr. Diefenbaker in the 1963 conservative cabinet crisis.

Both Mr. Hees and Mr. Diefenbaker talked to reporters before the one-day caucus in the Parliament Building's West Block broke up. With 97 members, the Conservatives will be the official Opposition when Parliament opens Jan. 18.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the party plans to move an amendment to the speech from the throne, which outlines government legislative plans at the start of the session.

DESCRIBES MOTION

Parroting reporters, he said an amendment involves the question of non-confidence. He said his party will introduce it even though the NDP has indicated it will not support an early non-confidence motion, which could topple the government.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said Conservatives will press for the institution of a number of campaign promises, including a $25-a-month increase in old age pensions at 70.

He also announced that Mr.

Mayor Tells Kenora Indians Of Move to Meet Complaints

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — A march Monday by 450 Indians protesting discrimination in this northwestern Ontario resort community resulted in an announcement by Mayor Ed Norton that efforts were already under way to explore means of improving the situation.

Mayor Norton told the mass delegation, after two representatives presented a five-page brief of complaints and recommendations to town council that he had written to Welfare Minister Louis Cecile Nov 8 requesting a meeting between municipal, provincial and Indian officials.

He said the meeting was scheduled for Thursday "to discuss conditions (on the reserves) and explore means of designating Kenora and area as a project area for community development."

Plans for the march on the council meeting were started a week ago during a conference of Lake Kenora Indian - White committee. Mayor Norton said, however, representatives of the committee would not be invited to participate at Thursday's meeting.

Indians from reserves in the area were brought in the town by chartered buses and by the committee. They gathered at friendship centre and then marched, to the Legion Hall where town council decided to hold its meeting.

At least three Kenora policemen escorted the group through the largely empty streets and there were no incidents.

About 150 white spectators joined the marchers at the hall where Mayor Norton and his council conducted their business on the auditorium stage.

Fred Kelly, co-chairman of the Indian - White committee, and Peter Seymour, grand chairman of Treaty No. 3, each read half of the brief.

It complained of discrimination against Indians; unemployment and when they attempted to transact business with Kenora merchants. It also appealed to the town to aid Indians in getting the provincial and federal governments to improve inadequate living conditions on the reserves.

On employment, the brief said: "When you consider that about 2,000 Indians live close to Kenora, come often to Kenora and that great numbers of them desperately need employment, how can we explain that scarcely more than a dozen have jobs in Kenora? Obviously something is terribly wrong."

Indian high school students, it said, never seem to be able to get the type of employment obtained by non-Indian students, such as in supermarkets.

After listing complaints, the brief requested the council to take resolutions to establish a committee dedicated to improving relations between Indians and non-Indians; ask provincial authorities to extend the fur trapping season; ask that measures be taken to help overcome alcoholism in the area; and ask federal officials to establish a radio-telephone system between Kenora and the reserves.

In a 10-minute address after the presentation of the brief, when he announced the Thursday meeting, Mayor Norton said he had expected the Indian brief to contain broader proposals.

There was no discussion of the brief and council referred it to its committee of the whole.

NATO's Nuclear Arms All Under U.S. Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Monday that all nuclear warheads made available to NATO forces in Western Europe are under U.S. control and cannot be used without "specific authority of the President of the United States."

The statement issued by Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers at Johnson City, Tex., also declared:

"President Johnson is, and as vice-president was, fully aware of the specific arrangements (concerning nuclear - weapons control) made by the department of defence with our NATO allies."

The U.S. has deployed thousands of tactical nuclear weapons in Western Europe, particularly in West Germany, in recent years. And there is reviving controversy now over proposals for a NATO nuclear weapons force in which West Germany would participate.

American forces stationed in West Germany are armed with nuclear warheads for delivery by missile or aircraft. In addition, warheads have been deployed, under U.S. physical control, with West German forces.

According to informants here, some West German F-104 jet fighters have been armed with nuclear weapons to put them in readiness for quick action but the planes so armed are under constant guard of U.S. sentries.

The New York Times said Sunday in a Washington dispatch that the President "has been kept informed of the general program" but that it was understood that airmen and other top policymakers have "been largely unaware of the specific arrangements made by the defence department with the allies."

In a statement apparently prompted by The Times dispatch, Moyers said: "As has been the case before, we have made nuclear warheads available to our NATO allies, but custody of all such warheads remains with the United States.

"As has often been stated no nuclear warheads can be fired once or held on U.S. custody for our NATO allies can be used without specific authority of the president of the United States."

LBJ Prepares To Meet Erhard

Johnson is relaxing at his LBJ ranch here before the meeting with the West German chancellor, now set for Dec 3-3.

A.A. Member and Mayor Of Lake Ontario Town Tells Of Work to Rotary Club

Ontario society has a potential of about 7,000 alcoholics a year, Belleville Rotarians were told yesterday by a member of Alcoholics Anonymous.

The speaker, who is mayor of a Lake Ontario community between Belleville and Toronto, emphasized that his talk had nothing to do with yesterday's vote on cocktail lounges in Belleville.

"I don't want to become a political football," said the A. A. member, adding that the organization has no affiliation with any outside enterprise. "We will co-operate with this club, with the churches and with the psychiatric and medical profession, but we will not become embroiled in public controversy."

A. A. was not a temperance organization, for liquor was condoned by society and "Christ changed water into wine. It was concerned only with the rehabilitation of those who had crossed the border between social and compulsive drinking and personally sought the help of A.A. in ridding themselves of the habit.

Where young people were concerned, the speaker said, A.A. sought to make them understand the effects of excessive drinking. At a high school dance in his community, he added, four young people had been turned away as being unfit to attend.

He said that before becoming associated with Alcoholics Anonymous he was arrested 29 times in his home town for being drunk and disorderly, as well as half-a-dozen times in Toronto.

Alcoholism knew no social or monetary distinctions. Men worship in the A.A. Toronto included 160 lawyers and doctors and even some magistrates.

OWES PLENTY TO A.A.

"The disease of alcoholism has snapped more wedding rings, filled more mental institutions and dug more graves than any other disease" he said. "When drink becomes more important than your wife, your business and your friends then you have a problem."

The speaker said an alcoholic might feel hopeless, but never helpless. "Everything I have, I owe to the fellowship of Alcoholics Anonymous."

He added that when he was first elected to his community and became mayor, he was elected with the highest vote in the 100-year history of the town. He attributed his position today to faith in his fellow men.

He spoke at the invitation of long past the defects to discover the goodness in men," he said.

The club, in common with other clubs around the world was observing the celebrated Rotary Foundation Week.

This year the Foundation has provided nearly $1 million for its various programs. These include the award of Fellowships to students and grants to study teams of young business and professional men to be exchanged among Rotary district in different countries.

Belleville is among the clubs which have been asked to name a student as a possible choice for technical training overseas.

Rotary president Ernest Burnham presided.

Down-town Stores Not Backing Agency

"The Down - Town Merchants' Association is not any way connected with any organization soliciting magazine subscriptions here," Ronald Reed, president of that Association, asserted today.

Mr. Reed made his statement because representatives of a sales organization are reported to have used the words "downtown Belleville" in telephone solicitations and some people have drawn the erroneous inference that the magazine subscription agency was operating under the auspices of the Merchants' Association.

UEL Meeting Told of Early Missionaries

The November meeting of the Bay of Quinte Branch, United Empire Loyalists' Association, was held in Bellville Public Library, Mrs. Ethel Mott occupied the chair.

Three new applicants were voted into membership: Miss Jane R. Scott, Belleville, (U.E. ancestor, John Lake, Loyalist); Mrs. Oliver Owen, Belleville, (Grau, Everett, Marsh, Ostberry days in the Adolphustown district and particularly of the activities of Rev. John Stuart and Rev. John Langhorn, missionaries of the Anglican Church.

The first clergyman to settle in Upper Canada was Rev. John Stuart, born in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, of Loyalist parents. He emigrated to Canada in 1785 and settled in Kingston. At the request of the Governor, ships of Ernestown and Fredericksburgh for a minister of their own, Rev. John Langhorne was appointed missionary and arrived at Ernestown, now Bath, in October 1787. He was a native of Wales, educated at St. Bees College, Cumberland, England. He was selected as a missionary to Upper Canada by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in England. He held service in all townships extending from Kingston to Carrying Place. Before any churches were erected he held services in private homes. His churches were St. John's, Bath, built in 1793 and still in use though several times renovated and repaired; and St. Paul's in Fredericksburgh, built as early as 1791. He remained in this country until 1813 when he left Canada to return to his native land. His record of marriages and baptisms is now preserved at Kingston.

Col. W. A. Davern thanked the speaker.

Raze Buildings To Provide More Parking

The continued demand for more and more off street parking space is currently seeing the destruction of three old places of business in downtown Belleville.

On Pinnacle Street, immediately north of the Hotel Quinte, quarters formerly occupied by the Boutique Shop and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, along with what was formerly known as the Moorman service station and garage, are being razed to make way for a hotel parking lot.

On Dundas Street, a Supertest service station at the corner of Dundas and Foster, is being torn down to provide additional parking space for the Masonic Temple.

The new Hotel Quinte lot will provide parking space for approximately 50 cars. When the lot goes into use it will mark the first time the hotel has been able to provide adjacent off street parking for hotel guests.

$1,300 Damage In Collision Of Two Cars

Nominations for Civic Offices Will Be Taken At City Hall on Wed.

With the federal election all but forgotten and yesterday's local liquor plebiscite also out of the way, Belleville residents can now turn their attention to municipal affairs and the upcoming December 6th municipal election.

The kick - off for the early December election is tomorrow (Wednesday) when the city's annual nomination meeting is being held at city hall. Nominations will be received from 1 p.m. and continue for one hour.

It is here that candidates for the various civic offices — council, school board, and public utilities – must get their names on the ballot for office.

There will be nominations for the office of mayor, city council, public and separate school boards and for public utilities commissioner with the December 5th election for all offices to be for two years.

A two-way fight for the office of mayor is in the offing with incumbent Jack Ellis and Alderman Don Whalen to compete for the office.

Most of this year's council members will be competing for a seat on next year's 10-member city council, with at least four already having announced they will seek re-election. These are Alderman Don Joss, Douglas Boyle and Kenneth Soden, while Ald. George Brown today added his name to the list.

Two council members, Aldermen Ben Corke and Joseph Sayyerd, have stated they will not run.

Other men to seek council seats include Dr. J. Russell Scott, a member of this year's public School Board, former alderman Arthur Keegan and local accountant Paul Fleming.

Eight members each are to be elected for the Public and Separate School Boards and two hydro commissioners.

Confederation Train Will Depict Canada From Ice Age To Present

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — After 18 months of what Tom Spaulding calls "debilitating head-scratching" two centennial commission programs are moving into the final stages.

Spaulding, 38, is the design director for what will be the Confederation Train and eight centennial caravans, groups of eight tractor-trailers to be filled with the essence of Canada from the ice age to the present. Six standard Grove coaches—a series named after Grove Lake, Island, etc.—have been bought from the CPR and are being stripped for action.

The two F-3 diesels that will pull the exhibition coaches and seven service cars across Canada beginning Jan. 3, 1967, will form what Spaulding calls "a continuous billboard."

"I don't think anywhere ever will a train be seen like this," said Spaulding, hired by the government on contract from a Toronto film company.

It certainly will be the wildest quarter-mile of cannonball that ever thundered down a Canadian track when it makes its trial run next summer in B.C.

IT'S MOBILE MURAL

The decorated exterior, still in the design stage, will be a kind of mobile mural of Canadian history, culture and resources.

Everything from the ticker tapes of '29 to the iron ore of Ungava will be represented.

Spaulding and his team have been trying to get away from the school book and museum to present "a theatrical experience starting with the ice age and ending with the future.

"All the dramatic curves, the climaxes, the depressions of the country," he said.

"... drive home atmosphere, even temperatures in the railway coaches will change as viewers move from "a little chink of Canada 25,000 years ago" into modern periods. Sound and odor, artifacts and touch will be used to create a feeling of being there.

"Y'll be able to smell the pine tar of the immigrant ship, feel the guy's palm on the voyageur's paddle," said Spaulding in an interview.

The caravans of tractor-trailers will contain much the same material as the train. While the train hits the cities, the eight caravans will venture into smaller cities and towns off the railway lines and remote communities like St. Anthony's, Nfld., and Rae, N.W.T.

Scouting activities

The regular monthly meeting of Belleville District Council for Scouting held Monday evening, November 15th in the auditorium of Eastminster United Church was opened with prayer by president "Al" Clover. Secretary Mrs. "Bette" Feet read the minutes of the September meeting and they were adopted. Only one application has been received from the District for the United Kingdom Exchange program and it has been forwarded to the region for consideration. District Council agreed to underwrite the cost of copies of "Scout Leader" for the District Commissioner and his staff who will no longer receive this magazine. Committees were appointed to make preparations for the annual "Scouters Get Together" and to investigate possibilities of a combined Guide-Brownie-Scout-Cub Church parade next spring. The Badge Committee was strengthened to provide depth in testing of candidates for badges and Mr. Emerson and Mr. Hall agreed to act on behalf of the Police Department and Fire Department to clear all matters of visitations of interesting scouting particularly as relating to fire and traffic safety.

As only about 25% of the groups in Belleville have reported registrations it was noted that the by-law regarding subdistribution will be invoked after November 30th as already reported to Group Committees. The appointment of D.C. Arthur Port for the 1963-66 season has been confirmed. The president pointed out that few of the Group Committees are accepting their responsibilities on District Council and thereby missing out on decisions which directly relate to their groups. Each group should have at least one representative at every meeting and preferably two. The meeting closed with the presentation and appointment of the District Commissioner's report.

Three of Four RCAF Flyers Are Tied to Jobs Aground

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — There are 5,000 fully-qualified flyers in the Royal Canadian Air Force but 3,800 of them—three of every four—hold down ground jobs, authorities have disclosed.

The aircrew surplus was even greater until last year when Defence Minister Hellyer ordered 500 officer pilots and navigators compulsorily retired.

Official sources said the 500-man surplus was built up during the 1961 Berlin crisis even though the RCAF ordered no additional planes for these men to fly.

There are a total of 4,308 qualified aircrew in the armed forces who are holding ground jobs—3,794 in the RCAF, 308 in the navy and 206 in the army.

About 1,400 of these, however, are in jobs which have to be filled by aircrew personnel—1,205 in the RCAF, 59 in the navy and 136 in the army.

HOLD GROUND JOBS

This still leaves 2,912 flyers—2,589 in the air force, 249 in the navy and 74 in the army—occupying ground jobs where no aircrew status is required.

Officials said these flyers are available for rotation to squadrons. In other words, the 1,205 men now flying RCAF planes aren't expected to keep flying for the rest of their service years.

Officials added that it would be difficult to obtain RCAF recruits unless there were service careers open to them once their flying days were over.

Even with allowances for rotation between air and ground jobs, there is far from a short age of flyers in the RCAF, one highly-placed official said.

It now costs more than $85,000 to train an RCAF pilot.

GET FLYING PAY

In 1963, Mr. Hellyer disclosed that more than half of the officers in the RCAF—2,779 out of a total of 3,112 at that time—were receiving flying pay while performing full-time duties which did not necessarily involve flying.

Cost of aircrew allowances for these officers was $2,055,000 annually. Cost of maintaining and operating aircraft for them was $7,036,000 a year.

Informants said this situation has been corrected to some extent but that many officers in ground jobs still do enough flying—100 hours a year—to receive aircrew allowances.

An air force spokesman said aircrew officers must keep up their flying proficiency while on ground duties. Many would return to aircrew duties while others had to be able to judge RCAF equipment needs.

Deputy Chief of Personnel Gives Integration Talk

TRENTON — A "skeleton", staff kept shop at RCAF Station Trenton and No. 5 Repair Depot while airmen, airwomen and officers attended in relays, briefings on the integration of Canada's armed services by Air Vice Marshal E. M. Reyno, deputy chief of personnel with the tri-service organization.

Air Vice Marshal Reyno said there was great economy in military services over a higher percentage of men on hand of drop outs in the air force, army and navy. On the present basis, 12 per cent of the navy work force, (as opposed to a normal nine to ten per cent); was dropping out; 14 per cent for the army and 16 per cent for the navy. This is calculated on an annual basis.

A. V. M. REYNO

The deputy chief of personnel said the higher percentage of drop outs was owing to a "fear of the unknown." He said sailors expected to be sent up to the DEW line and airmen to be sent out to sea. In an hour and a half address to 600 airmen and airwomen yesterday morning he brought out facts about integration, which, he said, were meant to "squash rumors."

He said integration of the three armed services was the most economical way of assuring that the services would have enough money in the future to provide equipment for defence. In Canada's unique position in the western world and the United Nations, the air vice marshal said there was no room for competition with other countries in the defence line.

"With the high intelligence rating demanded by the RCAF in all ranks, the air force would be the ideal service to test, in the tri-service arrangement," he said. Salaries in the RCAF are comparable with industry and a committee is now sitting in Ottawa, trying to come up with a progressive pay scale.

PROMOTIONS TO COME

Promotions will come through for armed service personnel where brains and initiative indicate promotions, Air Vice Marshal Rayno said, but he reminded his audience that "there couldn't be all chiefs and no Indians." At the present time, there are about half as many NCOs in the RCAF as men.

The Hon. Paul Hellyer, minister of defence, was commended by the deputy personnel officer as "a man with the foresight and courage to do something which should have been done years ago."

"It's not integration one hundred per cent," AVM Reyno said, "it's the best thing that ever hit the armed forces of Canada."

Life "on the outside" wasn't that "D - - - ed good," the officer told the men. "We've had 10,000 men re-enlist after a taste of it . . . 215 in the past month alone."

In the armed services, the men and their families have security, and many "intangible" benefits.

Yes, women would be kept in the tri-services, the AVM said, but he added he could not elaborate on what job categories would be open.

The AVM said that he would press for a 20-year volunteer term without penalties, to make way for promotions in the service, but he said he couldn't promise this would come about, as the military was up against the pensions' board and the treasury board on the issue.

Three Taken To Hospital After Collision

TRENTON — Three persons were taken to Trenton hospital by Rushnell Ambulance, following a two car accident on the corner of Heber and Campbell Streets around 12:47 p.m. yesterday.

Driver of one car, (a taxicab), Alan Russell; Mrs. Irene Seabrook of Orchards Street and Mrs. Mary Ellen Sharrard of West Street, were treated at the hospital for cuts and bruises and released. James Seabrook, driver of the second car, was not injured.

Santa Parade Plans Made

TRENTON—The Santa Claus parade is beginning to take shape. All entries are to be in by Friday and the parade will then be set up and lists prepared showing where each entry goes and these lists will be given to the entries on Saturday morning.

The parade will officially end at Queen Street but Santa Claus and his float will proceed to the hospital.

Stores, Post Offices Faced With Lack of Christmas Help

By DAVE MILLER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Unemployment, the chronic enigma of the Canadian labor market, seems to have switched course.

Canadian stores and post offices are faced with king-sized headaches in the search for workers during the Christmas holiday season.

National Employment Service officials attribute the situation to an improved Canadian economy and higher employment rate, leaving many retail outlets with a back-log of unemployed workers to fill its temporary labor force.

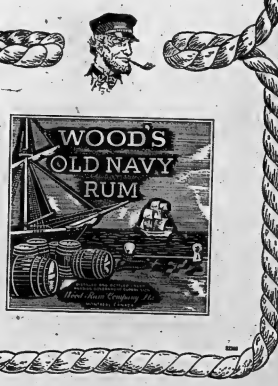
Other reasons for the shortage include lighter high school examination schedules and a late, pre-Christmas closing of many Canadian educational institutions; lack of men and women willing to work night shifts and shortage of expected part-time workers qualified for skilled jobs.

WAGES HIGHER

In Toronto, the shortage is reflected in higher wages offered by the post office. Hourly wages have been raised 25 cents for approximately 8,000 sorters, letter carriers and carriers needed to handle the holiday mail.

In Ottawa, William Thomson, director of the National Employment Service, said the hiring of extra help is difficult because housewives, who make up the normal holiday labor ranks, are not under the same pressure due to a general prosperity raising family incomes.

Elsewhere in Ontario, most centres report little difficulty in finding part-time help, but Kitchener and Sarnia officials anticipate a shortage in qualified workers for mail delivery and sales personnel.



In the Maritimes, G. A. Fraser of Moncton, N.B., regional employment officer, says the labor market is "much lighter than it has been in some years."

Quebec employment officials say the labor market is down 30 per cent due to a higher provincial employment rate and late Christmas dismissal in universities and schools.

"I miss you, too, Grandma."

Nuclear Control

A report that for more than six years U.S. nuclear warheads have been mounted secretly on planes and missiles in West Germany and other NATO allies is disturbing.

Although the U.S. retains control over the warheads, even to the extent of forbidding any allied pilot to enter the cockpit of a nuclear-armed plane without permission of sentries mounting guard over it, the report is a further indication that the U.S. Defence Department is making decisions on its own, without the sanction of the administration let alone the knowledge of the public.

President Johnson and his top advisers presumably are aware of the broad outline of U.S. policy with regard to European defence, but not necessarily with the specific arrangements made by the Defence Department with NATO allies.

However, if the physical integrity of these awesome weapons is guaranteed in time of peace, what of the political aspect? Is President Johnson keeping as tight a rein on defence policy as he should, and nuclear policy in particular?

The immediate prospects of a nuclear war, happily, have receded. But that is not to say such a conflict might never occur. One of the great fears in this regard is that nuclear war might be touched off by accident or misunderstanding. That is why the U.S. Defence Department should be made answerable to the administration for its actions, and why the administration should exercise the strictest control over its nuclear arsenal.

Measuring Brain Waves

IQ tests, as most educators have come to realize, are not the best method in the world for determining the intellectual capacity or ability of our young people.

The tests, even when used wisely and in the knowledge that they are creations of fallible man, often fail to detect young people with hidden depths of creativity.

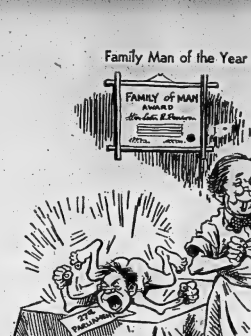
However, far from the system being discredited, it looks as if IQ tests in one form or another will remain a permanent feature of education. The latest development is a machine that measures intelligence by monitoring brain waves. It has been developed by a team of psychologists at the University of Ottawa.

It is said that if the machine fulfills its early promise, it could lead to the development of the world's first objective system of intelligence testing.

The researchers discovered a correlation between intelligence and the speed with which the brain responds to outside stimuli. In tests, the speed of response has corresponded closely to the scores achieved on written IQ tests.

Still, the new method is somewhat eloquent of 1984 or at least of electric shock treatment for mental depressives. The subject sits in a chair and electrodes are clamped to his head. A light is flashed in his eyes 100 times, the space between flashes varying from three to six seconds. The brain's responses to the flashes are fed through a computer which cancels out all brain waves except those which are a response to the light flashes.

If IQ tests are going to be maintained as a permanent fixture in modern education—and it appears that this is the case, it is still a system that should be used with discernment. Whether in the hit-and-miss fashion of the written test, or with electronic gadgetry, an IQ score can represent a convenient and subtle method of discrimination which at best are only an indication of ability. As often as not they fail to plumb the hidden depths and latent talents of the subject.



Miss World Title

Canada can boast some of the best looking girls in the world, yet such international titles as Miss World continue to elude Canadian representatives.

Carol Ann Tidey, of Hamilton, nevertheless must be congratulated in reaching the final stages of the contest in London, a distinction she shared with the white representative of embattled Rhodesia, Leslie Bunting.

The title was won for the second year running by a British girl. As Dr. Charles Taylor pointed out in his travelogue on England at Belleville last week, Britain is far from being down and out. The spirit of the people lives on and it still produces girls with peaches-and-cream complexions like the new Miss World, 21-year-old Lesley Langley.

Miss Langley was chosen ahead of Miss United States, Miss Ireland, Miss Austria and Miss Tahiti. Then came Miss Canada and Miss Rhodesia. Thus the contest was a triumph largely for the English-speaking world. Who knows but this may augur well next year for Diane Landry, the beautiful young Winnipeg girl who has just been chosen Miss French Canada.

Strictly Personal
Charities Bilk U.S. of $100 Million

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It is estimated that fraudulent charities take at least $100 million from the American public each year. One wonders how much more is absorbed by charities that are not fraudulent, but simply take too much off the top, leaving only a small amount for charity.

Last Christmas, for instance, among the many appeals I received was one from a group treating children who suffered from a certain physical ailment. Since my oldest daughter was a victim of this ailment as a little girl, I was naturally sympathetic toward the cause.

I was about to slip a cheque into the return envelope — for the accompanying literature was most persuasive and touching — when it occurred to me to check the Better Business Bureau, to see what their files contained on this group.

Their report showed that the organization spent 74 percent of its income on fund-raising, and another 11 percent on administrative costs. This is a total of 85 percent, leaving only 12 percent for the object of its concern. If I sent the organization a cheque for $10 then, only $1.20 would have been spent on care of the children. This did not seem to me a good investment. Outright fraudulent groups can be prosecuted by the law enforcement agencies of the various states in which they are incorporated. But the average citizen can also play an important part in forcing all charitable organizations to toe the mark.

These groups invariably send self-addressed envelopes to their mailing lists. Instead of throwing away the envelope, or popping in a cheque, one should write back a list of inquiry, like so: "Before I contribute, please send me a statement of your costs, including the exact percentage that is actually spent on the object of your charity."

They will either send you a statement — which can be verified at the nearest Better Business Bureau — or hastily remove your name from their mailing list. Either way, you win. Moreover, you are aiding the legitimate charities, by narrowing down your possible decisions to only those that are low-cost operations.

We keep complaining that the government wants to do too much for us and to us — but the best way to circumvent government action is by taking individual action, which we seem loath to do. The public has the power to improve both morality and efficiency among these charitable organizations; but if we do not exercise this power, it will be done on the government level. What we call "government interference" is in most cases, merely the consequence of individual apathy.

Chronic Bronchitis Explained in Detail

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you please write about "chronic bronchitis" and what to do for it? — Mrs. R. L. R.

Yes. Bronchitis is inflammation of the bronchial passages, but beware of thinking that bronchitis is only one thing. It can be one of many. Don't regard "bronchitis" as something which has only one particular symptom.

If the chronically rough throat, or cough, or wheeze is due to bacterial infection, suitable antibiotics are the proper treatment — or part of it. Other measures may be needed, too.

But if the bronchitis isn't a bacterial infection, then some other treatment is needed, and antibiotics won't be the solution.

So for chronic bronchitis, if we don't have a definite diagnosis of the type involved, start with a tuberculin or "skin" test to rule out tuberculosis. If the test is positive, then a chest X-ray is in order to make certain.

TB while not as deadly as it used to be, remains one of the most dangerous diseases. We would have a great deal less of it if only we could be sufficiently suspicious.

Again, once TB is eliminated, X-rays can still be important to find out whether bronchiectasis or another of the various kinds of lung involvement is present. They can look and sound like "bronchitis," too.

Or suppose the "bronchitis" is the result of allergy, and that's not uncommon. In such a case the use of the treatments for the foregoing ailments will be of value, but will cough and chest excess most fleetingly. No, treatment for allergy and measures to avoid contact with the bothersome allergens are the successful way.

Histoplasmosis, a fungus infection of the lung that is prevalent in some parts of the country, is a possible cause of what you might think is "bronchitis." Or emphysema, common in older people, or cancer of the lung, although this is uncommon in women.

Or it may be irritation from fumes, smoke, chemicals or dust. The commonest fumes are tobacco smoke which decidedly can irritate and inflame bronchial tubes. Medicine isn't going to overcome that. It's no use saying, I've smoked since I was thirteen years old and it never bothered me, so it can't be that." It can be that because it can take 20 or 30 years of smoking before the irritation becomes severe.

Post nasal drip can inflame the throat. Infected teeth are a more frequent cause of "bronchitis" than is commonly supposed.

To paraphrase the late President Kennedy: Ask not what to do for chronic bronchitis; ask first what kind of bronchitis it is.

Dear Dr. Molner: How much milk do children from 6 to 10 years old, need daily? They do not get green or yellow vegetables. Could this harm them in any way? Peanut butter and jelly are about all they get. — Mrs. T. B.

Do you mean that's all they get, or all they will eat?

Children of that age should get a quart of milk a day. It contains many of the essentials for good growth and health. Milk is low in Vitamins C and iron, however, and these come from green and yellow vegetables.

Peanut butter and jelly make a delicious (and sticky) combination; and it is nutritious — but it does not include all the essentials.

Dear Dr. Molner: How could we investigate radio treatments? Also how could we get in touch with the medical association? — S. M. E.

Radio-frequency (diathermy) machines have been used for quite a few years now for special purposes, and I'm not sure what kind of "investigating" you want to do. There's no reason for writing to me about it if you live in a city, look in the phone book for the address of your county medical society. In a smaller community, ask any M.D.

Crippen, an American born physician, had fallen in love with his receptionist and murdered his wife. When police started looking for the body, which was buried in the cellar, the pair fled to the United States, the girl disguised as a young man. The captain of their vessel became suspicious and radioed for directives to intercept the ship.

Cheers for Hees Mix With Tears for 'Polly' Jewett

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Amid all the cheering now that George Hees is returning to Parliament — and some of it is being done by Liberals who enjoy his particular political jest de vivre as much as anyone — you can hear the gentle falling of tears for the defeat and departure of Dr. Pauline Jewett.

It is generally agreed by both Liberals and Conservatives that it was a solid plus for Parliament and the public that George Hees won re-election in Eastern Ontario's Northumberland riding.

And it is just as generally agreed that Dr. Jewett is a certain miss that "Polly" Jewett, in his winning, had to do the losing.

In exactly the same way, it was to be regretted that the victory of Mitchell Sharp in Toronto's Eglington had to be equated with the defeat there of Dalton Camp.

All this, of course, based on the proposition that there just aren't enough really good people to go around as candidates to be able to afford having the best of them knock each other off.

Well, you ask, what made "Polly" Jewett all that good?

Just this: she has a fine and well-trained mind and she does not hesitate to speak it.

She called the shots as she saw them, and in Parliament where public diplomacy is often the order of the day, such forthrightness seldom is in oversupply.

CONFIDENCE THE KEY

She's back now from the campaign wars, picking up after some two years, at Ottawa's Carleton University where she lectures in Political Science, Public Administration and International Affairs.

Miss Jewett not only is a remarkably attractive 46-year-old bachelor girl, but was part of the "New Wave" of fresh, young-er faces, the new "Elite" that was to have been the intellectual powerhouse of this Government and this Parliament as she began to be in the last.

Bear in mind, too, that she was one of a small, select band of better-than-average women who added glamour to the Liberal campaign in the '63 election by posing with Prime Minister Pearson for a strikingly appealing photograph used in the Party's national advertising campaign in newspapers all across the land.

And bear in mind further that the Prime Minister spent almost a half day in her riding this time in a vain attempt to block George Hees out of the Parliamentary play.

That would seem to make almost anyone a member of the select inner circle.

But not "Polly" Jewett.

Or at least she didn't consider herself so, for she has been busying off some more basic home truths, these, this time, bearing on Mr. Pearson's personal political performance.

In another of her outspoken public interviews since she left the plushly has said that the voters failed to give the Prime Minister the majority he wanted because "they feel he lacks the kind of confidence in himself necessary to see and solve the problems now facing this country."

Without self-confidence, says Miss Jewett, a political leader is "terribly vulnerable." But with it, he's all but unchallengeable."

AWARENESS, TOO

But there must be one other indispensable quality in a leading alive awareness of the issues. Regional, national and international.

"Mike Pearson," she judges with brutal directness, "has that awareness, but not the self-confidence.

"And John Diefenbaker has the self-confidence almost overwhelmingly, but an absolute unawareness."

In Sensing these "basic flaws" in the two leaders, she says, the public instinctively denied either majority support.

And without the required "awareness," she calls him a "phoney."

The challenges now, the way she sees it, for Mr. Pearson's Conservatives or the Liberals to find "the man or woman with sensibility to understand the toughness to deal with them."

Mix those two indispensable basic qualities and you have leadership . . . intelligent, tough leadership.

"Polly" Jewett, since she came to Parliament, almost always said what she thought — and the critics be damned.

In the heat of the Flag Debate last year, she announced she was going to vote for the Emblem that "I want and feel the nation should have" — and to hell with what her own electors, mostly descendants of the old United Empire Loyalists, and so, Red Ensign people, might want.

She was intelligent, and tough and she lost — lost, she says, to a man "who might very well end up in the years to come as Prime Minister," George Hees — which sort of proves she really can as she sees 'em, no matter what.

Student Tests Set by U.S. Body

The Intelligencer

Sometime ago I read with disgust that our Canadian police hired a test which was written and corrected in the United States. The results of this particular test had only a few points between a pass & a fail. I was happy to see that those who failed did not get fired. For we have a wonderful police force in Canada and they do not deserve to be fired for this reason.

I believe that the United States should look to Canada as an example of how we live and tolerate our fellow man. Also we have no open seaion in Canada for people should (they do something of the sort which we momentarily approve. The United States would indeed do well to try our tests.

As an example of the hate in the "Deep South," I was appalled to see in stores and garages in Louisiana two separate sets of entrances, one marked white the other black and in washrooms one set for white women and while men, then a partition and facilities for the Negroes. One day in Belleville as I was going into the store a Negro was coming out and he had a big smile on his face and he held the door open for me. I thanked him for such a gentleman. But in the U.S. they wouldn't dare do this and you couldn't possibly side with the white or the people who are colored darker than we are.

The reason for this letter is to ask why our high school students have to assemble at the Belleville Secondary School in the spring of 1966 to try a test set up by the Americans and omitted entirely in Parliament, and taken to the United States to be corrected for our children to enter secondary colleges in Canada. Why? What happens if they should fail this test, and what are the words that differ from the United States. Will the professors of Canada be as lenient as the policemen were? What other measures may a student who fails this test resort to other than accept it and take some other field in life which he deeply disapproves of, and work at something which he does not wish to do. Basically this is morally wrong, and no one is happiest when he is working at something which he enjoys doing.

My son is fortunate. He has worked hard & brave for two summers and has earned the wages which he has invested in bonds and can resort to should he fail. Unfortunately he has greatly desired to become a surgeon and has worked hard to this end. Students like this make parents proud of them.

There must be a solution for these colleges who are there than capable of setting these weak tests for our children and they should at least give the students the right to let them try them in their own high schools without trotting over to Quinte to fail.

The solution of the people who set these exams is The College Entrance Examination Board, Box 592, Princeton, New Jersey, 08540.

The P.T.A. could do well to explain Bill 54 to the public and the people who are behind this nonsense. They keep clamoring for no social studies in the schools that if some of the fuddy-duddys that make up the P.T.A. body were to re-enter high school they would drop out in a week.

Teenagers today have a difficult grind and most of them are a wonderful group. I am justly proud of my two children whether they pass or not. Both are very average, few in the grades they are now.

I thank you most sincerely for printing this and hope that it comes to the attention of the authorities and that this test be taken off and set up by Canadians, as he is not trying to enter an American College.

Mrs. Ivan Quay.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 23, 1945

Under ideal weather conditions that were more like those of spring than autumn, upwards of 10,000 people took advantage of the invitation to "Open House" held at the Bata Shoe Company's plant on Sunday afternoon.

Shortly after 2 p.m., the scheduled time for opening, practically every available parking place was filled to capacity. People inside through the spacious grounds, visited the "village" where the company had built up a well - kept grounds were consistent sources of interest, as visited patients till hard-working plant policemen allowed them through the buildings from time to time.

Here they saw the things that "make Bata click," the large and small machines and the many intricate phases of manufacture that form an important place in the plant operation. They saw machinery that makes machinery, and many other interesting things.

In the large cafeteria on the second floor, plant waitresses catered throughout the afternoon to provide the thousands with refreshments.

Toronto Stocks

In the main list, Bell Telephone lost ½ to 56¾, MacMillan, Bloedel ½ to 25¾, Trans-Canada Pipeline to 35¾, Moore Corp. and Dofasco each to 79¼ and 27¼ and Algoma ¼ to 59¾.

Banks were fractionally softer with Royal, Nova Scotia and Imperial-Commerce all off each to 71¾, 70¼ and 62¼ respectively and Montreal ¼ to 80¼. Toronto-Dominion was the exception, adding ¼ at 61 on news of record earnings for the year.

Quebec Natural Gas was a featured trader, advancing to a record 14¼ then easing to 13¾ to lose ¼ on the day.

A Mere Formality

The time was set, the kickoff near,
Would Hamilton win another year?

Or would the Roughies stop them up,
And represent the East in the '65 Cup.

It didn't take long to spot the trend,
Ottawa was gutting thumped again.

And slack and alas, when the game was through,
Hamilton had won — so what else is new?

Far be it from me (though not very far) to rub something in when I happen to be correct in my forecast of athletic events.

However, seeing that I have been subjected to the wails of so many Ottawa fans for so long, I cannot help but sit down and express my views.

Being first, last and always a Hamilton fan, some of the enjoyment was taken out of the Tiger-Cat victory in the first game of the Ottawa series because of the disputed call in the second half. It was, I admit, a bad call, but a call is a call. However, it did give the Ottawa lovers in this office something to howl about and a chance to disguise the fact that Hamilton was knocking the stuffings out of their dearly beloved Roughies Rompers anyway.

I was forced to sit through a whole week of crying and carrying-on from the Ottawa side, and the only thing that saved me was that I knew that they knew, deep down in their shaky hearts, that Hamilton was simply the better football team. They never admitted it of course, but I could tell they believed it because of the length of their protests. As Shakespeare said, "... the lady protests too much."

Because I am such a sporting gentleman about these things, I put up with their excuses and simply informed them that the day of reckoning was nigh and October would prove it.

Well Winnipeg came to town," they holler. (They being the loyal Ottawa supporters who now categorically refuse to talk about Ottawa and can only mumble something incoherent about the Blue Bombers.)

I will admit, reluctantly, that Winnipeg has given Hamilton a rough time in the past. But this is in the past, and in every more recent match the Cats will be out for the kill.

Back to Hamilton and Ottawa again, I have an obligation to make. In the newspaper strike I were trapped and forced to declare themselves vociferously in order to get a word in, though now they've all switched to the west and will probably be wearing cowboy hats and riding a horse to work by Friday. Outside the newsroom I was greeted with all kinds of catcalls during the past week whenever I went around waving my little Tiger Cat flag.

Today, for some strange reason, the same people who I am sure were Ottawa fans no matter what, are now either Hamilton fans or like the Winnipeg fans, even though in the west, "Calgary is a cinch to win," was the before-game consensus.

There is always a crowd of people in any sporting event and probably every other event who, after the results are known, are the greatest fans ever for the winning team. They are large in number around here. However, little-goes on.

It should be an exciting game Saturday. Winnipeg, win or lose, always plays an attractive type of game to watch. They play razzle dazzle football and, unlike Ottawa, are not afraid to gamble.

Hamilton of course is as strong a defensive team as you'll ever want to see. In the last few games of the season, thanks mainly to the addition of Hal Patterson, they also started to show some signs of an offense. And if Eager plays the kind of football in the classic that he played Saturday, then watch out Winnipeg!

Now I must resign myself to another week of shouting and screaming about Hamilton's luck. Ottawa will, of course, probably after Hamilton wins the Grey Cup they won't even admit it then . . . "Wait'll next year," or "They were lucky, will be the calls of the day.

You just can't win sometimes, (That does not apply to Hamilton on Saturday.)

Now I had better finish up with something brilliant, so here goes:

I hate to say I told you so,
But the Cats will win when it means the dough.*

* Dough meaning money, cash, loot, scratch or what-have-you even, as opposed to doe, a female deer, not that Ottawa's so-called football team is deer, or even dear, but the female part fits — they play worse than a bunch of elderly females would play football. Perhaps you saw the game Saturday and saw that exuberant Hamilton woman come onto the field. The reason for that was to illustrate the fact that she was even good enough to whip Ottawa. However, had she played, Ottawa would probably have protested, poor sports that they are.

Now let us all gather round in a circle and repeat five times after me: "Oskee-wee-wee, Oskee-wa-wa, Holy Mackinaw! Yes Cats! Eat 'em raw!"

OFF THE RECORD — By Ed Reed

"You're three weeks behind in your work and three months ahead on your coffee breaks."

PC Chief

chael Starr was confirmed in his position of House leader. Waldo Monteith, a former health minister, and Theogene Ricard, chairman of the Quebec caucus, were named co-chairmen of the national caucus. Another will be held before Parliament meets.

Mr. Diefenbaker ticked off the CBC for "emphasizing and re-emphasizing" Gallup polls that showed the Liberals with a handsome lead in popular support before the election.

He found it "difficult to understand why the CBC devoted so much time to aid the Liberal party in this regard."

DOESN'T GIVE DETAILS

Declining to go into details about the throne speech amendment, Mr. Diefenbaker said he did not wish to "telegraph in advance" what the party plans to do. Earlier he had promised a challenge on the honesty-and-integrity issue.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it was "an exceptionally fine" caucus. It showed a "great spirit of unity" within the party.

These words were echoed by Mr. Hees, who captured Northumberland riding in the Nov. 8 vote in a successful political comeback following his 1963 departure.

Mr. Hees said he planned to "play a full a part" as he could in Commons debates, but he had no specific role in mind. At the caucus there was talk of creation of the establishment of a party cabinet"—a group of Opposition critic-counterparts to the government cabinet.

Mr. Hees said the question of the Conservative leadership—a factor in the 1963 crisis—was now "a dead issue." He was looking forward to getting back into" the Commons arena.

There have been repeated attempts in the past Diefenbaker as leader. However, no renewal was expected at the caucus and nothing developed.

Mr. Hees was one of four men at the caucus who have been mentioned as possible successors to Mr. Diefenbaker. The others are Mr. Starr, Davie Fulton and Alvin Hamilton, all former Diefenbaker ministers.

Sophiasburg Central School Opening Held

PICTON (Staff) — Sophiasburg was a big day for the Township of Sophiasburg when members of parliament, representatives of the Ontario Board of Education, local officials and some 400 interested citizens and parents witnessed the official opening and display of the cornerstone for the new Sophiasburg Central School.

At 3:30 p.m., the new $325,000 school was opened officially by Mr. William Wood, Assistant Superintendent on behalf of the Minister of Education, who could not be present.

The corner stone was well and truly laid by reeve of the township Donald Kolchaser at an earlier ceremony held at 2 p.m. As the stone was laid, the reeve said, "that he hoped this would not be the last cornerstone to be laid in the township." He said "with some 30 miles of shore line we must do all we can to bring industry in this area. As we educate our children let us do all we can to provide jobs and keep at least some of them in our midst."

It was also a great day for the principal of the school, Mr. Arthur Jackson, as well as members of his teaching staff and members of the school board.

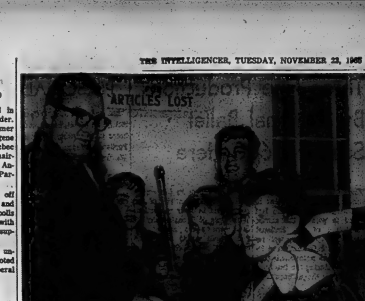
Present also for the occasion were; Mr. Knight, school inspector; A. Douglas Alkenbrack, MP; Harris Whitney, MLA, and Belleville architects Watson and Wiegand.

The dedication of the new school was conducted by Rev. W. H. Stobbart of Northport United Church.

BIG BUSINESS

Mr. William Wood, the guest of honor, as he officially opened the new school said: "A building such as this, does not just happen. Many hours of unsiring work are behind it." He congratulated the committee and the school trustees on their hard work and their splendid unifiring efforts. "Education today," he said, "is the biggest business we carry on in Ontario. It has become most important that our school be kept up to date." He advised the children present to cherish their new school. "Be proud of this school, it is your school and one of the newest and finest in the Quinte area."

Following the ceremonies the school was thrown open for inspection. Hundreds of parents and interested citizens from throughout the county met the teachers, viewed the thirteen modern classrooms and enjoyed coffee and refreshments.



The school has all the latest features of modern school design. Is electrically heated throughout and is radio equipped with intercommunication between all classrooms. FM sound is piped in all classrooms during the children's lunch hour. The school replaces twelve of the old-fashioned one-room country schools in the township and the 335 students have brought to the school by seven buses, one of which is an RCAF bus from Smiths Mountain View.

Mr. Jackson, the school's principal, was for 11 years vice-principal of Queen Elizabeth Public School in Picton and has been teaching for 31 years, 20 of them in Picton.

Whipper Billy Watson Recreation Day Closed

PICTON (Staff) — Saturday was recreation day in Picton. Whipper Billy Watson, one of Canada's best known wrestlers, was in town to appear as guest speaker at a recreation conference held in Queen Elizabeth School in the afternoon.

The "Whipper" arrived at Picton's Royal Hotel at 12 noon where he was officially greeted by town and county officials. On hand were; A. Douglas Alkenbrack, MP; Norman Whitney, MLA; His Worship Mayor H. J. McFarland, Warden of the county Bernard Fitzpatrick, Wayne Ring, recreation director for the town and his committee, along with a number of the town's prominent business men.

The luncheon at the hotel was a formal one provided for by Mayor McFarland. Following lunch Whipper Watson was taken to the community centre where he met and talked with many of the county's young hockey-players.

Whipper Watson, when not working at wrestling, is working as a director of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, a position he has held for the past ten years.

At the afternoon conference Mr. Watson said that the program on which he was engaged has taken him from coast to coast many times and its purpose is to talk to influential bodies to promote a National Physical Fitness program for Canada's youth. He says 50 percent of the country's youth are in poor physical shape.

Mr. Watson was followed by Dr. Lionel Dockrill, chairman of the Picton Recreation and Parks Committee, who presented facts on community sports action. He was followed by J. W. Ring, town recreation director.

A panel discussion moderated by H. J. Colliver, presented a summary of their problems and activities and outlined their needs.

Troops Guard Train Robbers In Durham Jail

From AP-Reuters

DURHAM, England (CP) — Troops with fixed bayonets and automatic rifles today patrolled the top-security wing of Durham prison to thwart a repeated plot to snatch at least three key men convicted in the Great Train Robbery.

Underworld sources have for some time been talking of a private army raised to grab the robbers—and with them the secret of their looted millions.

The government showed Monday it took the talk seriously. In a move unprecedented in peacetime it ordered a regiment of infantry to take charge of the top security wing where three of the perhaps five of the train robbers are held.

The underworld tip was that an attempt on the jail would be made this week. How long the army would continue in control was not announced.

A gang ambushed a Glasgow-London mail train and escaped more, than £2,500,000 ($7,500,000) in untraceable cash.

CONTROL COPPER

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government Monday clamped a cabinet order passed Monday, "had become necessary . . . as a precautionary move to ensure supply for Canadian users and to assist in maintaining orderly marketing in a situation of growing world shortage."

Three Fine Productions By National Ballet Seen by 600 Here

By EUGENE LANG

The six hundred odd ballet enthusiasts, who were present in the Collegiate Auditorium last evening to witness the second presentation of the National Ballet of Canada were well rewarded for their attendance by the three fine productions that were given during the two hour exhibition by the distinguished cast.

Belleville has been very fortunate in being on the annual circuit of the National Ballet each year in their transcontinental tours and it was a disappointment not to see more enthusiasts of the dance in the audience last evening. To those who did not show, it was their loss in not being on hand, as anyone who was there will vouch.

The opening production "Solitaire" set to music by Malcolm Arnold was a study in rhythmic motions molded by a fluidity of form in the varied aspects of the creativity of the entire cast in their projection. With hints of Trebakhowsky in the more suave scenes the music built up to Respighian orchestrate in the closing crescendos, which the dancers mirrored faithfully in their vivifying violations. Sensuous and subtle was the artistry of Jacqueline Ivinga in her performance.

A glimpse into the 18th century was afforded the audiences in witnessing the rousing and ribald productions of "The Rake's Progress" as backed by the music of Gavin Gordon. Through a Hogarthian lense we peered into the carefree corruptibility of life as England knew it two centuries ago complete with wilful wastrel, his required social redress, the betrayed coquette, the creditors, gamblers, card players, bawdy house busies, and on to even to the King and Pope in the concatenation of circumstances that lead (naturally) to Bedlam and its pitiful assortment of inmates, and the inglorious end of our hero here in the arms of his faithful (but hitherto wronged) beloved. The cast gave a superlative performance of this classic story in colorful dress of the period. Action and excitement were correlatives throughout with meticulous detail being given by the dancers in their timings and cues. Jeremy Blanton and Lois Smith were given trying roles but they captured their parts with superior finesse in their portrayals. Orchestral backgrounds were capably hosed.

FINE ORCHESTRA

The final number was "Triptych" based upon the pensive Clarinet Concerto of Mozart. This was a very cohesive work that displayed the lithe movement of the dancers to advantage, especially the principals. In the Adagio section the four male dancers seemed to create a new idea in the pylon effect given with the horizontal capping of it by the graceful movements of Martine van Hamel. This was a production of charm and motivated feeling in all three scenes. Lawrence Adams carried his performance with sensitivity. Angela Leigh likewise was a model of poetic reserve balanced by graceful caprice in the last movement.

James Morton played the difficult solo Clarinet part with ease and purity of tone backed by a delicate string section in the orchestra tutiis. Conductors George Crum and Walter Babiak capably handled the baton.

With summations in mind we can only say that this was a very gratifying performance and it is to be hoped that next year will see a larger attendance—they really merit this.

West in Lead In Miss Grey Cup Contest

TORONTO (CP)—The West has a 9-5 lead over the East in the Miss Grey Cup contest. Since 1951, they've provided four more winning lovelies.

Edmonton's girls have been voted queen three times, more than girls from any other city. Hamilton goes into this year's contest with one winner, in 1961. Winnipeg won in 1958 and 1952, the second year of the contest. The big week starts for the girls on Wednesday with a parade and city hall welcome from Mayor Philip Givens.

On Thursday, they tour the Hospital for Sick Children and go to a Miss Grey Cup skating party at the outdoor rink in front of Toronto's new city hall. Thursday and Friday other festivities are scheduled.

The winner will be crowned at about 10:30 Friday night after the Miss Grey Cup dinner at the Royal York Hotel. The ceremony is broadcast on both radio and television.

The winner presides over the Grey Cup parade, the game and the victory dance on Saturday.

This year's winner will be given the $430 Linde Star sapphire pendant, awarded for the first time last year, a convertible and a wardrobe.

The runner-up will receive a number of appliances including a television set, tape recorder and radio. The third-place girl wins a set of luggage.

Hungarian Accent Bothering Speaker

DEAR DORIS: I came to Canada from Hungary nine years ago. Now that I have a wife and family I am becoming active in community affairs and am often asked to speak in public.

My trouble is that when I am on the platform my foreign accent becomes twice as noticeable as it is otherwise. I have always prided myself on good grammar and enunciation.

What do you think is wrong, and how do I correct it? — JUST JAN.

DORIS CLARE

DEAR JAN: It is usually tough for an adult to learn, and speak, a new language without accent. But do your case I'd suspect the anxiety and tension which comes of speaking in public intensifies the lapse.

Speech lessons could give you marked improvement. Also, the more familiar you are with your subject, and the more comfortable you become with the people you are addressing, the easier it will get.

Personally, I find an accent quite appealing, as long as the speaker is easy to understand.

Think again about talking to your family. Don't underate their ability to understand and rally around; you really need them now.

SECOND OATMEAL VARIATIONS

Yesterday I gave here a Basic Rolled Oats Mix and two recipes to be made using it: Oatmeal Fruit Muffins and Oatmeal Fruit Drop Cookies.

Today I will repeat in shortened form the formula for B.R.O.M. for the benefit of those who did not see yesterday's column (Heaven forbid!) and add two more recipes using it: Bishop's Bread and Fruit (Apple) Batter Pudding.

Shortening is cut into dry ingredients in large mixing mixing bowl until size of peas. BISHOP'S BREAD (a traditional Southern hot bread—delicious).

3 cups BROM
1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup chopped dates, 2/3 cup light brown sugar, 2 tablespoons grated orange rind (or 1 tablespoon bottled orange peel), 2 eggs, 1 cup orange juice (this may be fresh frozen orange juice diluted as directed).

Topping
¼ cup sifted icing sugar; ½ teaspoon cinnamon.

Measure BROM into mixing bowl, add cinnamon, dates, sugar and orange rind and mix well to separate date pieces and coat them with mix. Beat in eggs and orange juice until blended. Turn into well buttered 13" by 9" by 2" pan and bake at 350 deg. F. for about 23 to 25 minutes, having pan on centre shelf of oven. Remove from oven, sprinkle entire surface with mixture of icing sugar and cinnamon. Cut into squares and serve hot or warm when over possible. Lovely for a late evening snack with coffee or tea, as it keeps well, as a hot bread in the "Southern" manner. It is good cold too.

2 or 3 cups sliced raw fruit (see below), 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablespoons BROM, 1 egg, ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoon nutmeg (or mace), 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Into an 8 x 8" baking dish put the raw fruit (sliced peaches, plum or peaches. Sprinkle the fruit with 1 tablespoon sugar. Beat together the batter ingredients and pour over prepared fruit and bake at centre shelf of oven at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes or until fruit is tender and juice bubbles up. Serve hot with Brown Sugar Sauce: Mix together dry in small saucepan 1 tablespoon corn starch, ½ cup light brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon (or nutmeg). Stir in 1 cup boiling water until boiling. Remove from heat and stir in 1 tablespoon butter. Serve as an all-purpose pudding sauce. Serve hot.

STIRLING — St. Paul's Stirling U.C.W. Christmas bazaar and dessert tea held last Thursday afternoon was a gala affair. The event was held in the Sunday School rooms under the convenorship of Mrs. Robert Philp.

Mrs. John Good, president of the United Church Women, welcomed the guests as they arrived. The treasurers were Mrs. D. M. Armstrong and Mrs. Norman Harlow and they reported an attendance of 225 people.

The large room was divided into sections and long tables were placed along the east and north where the various booths displayed their wares. The Christmas boutique was most attractive in a large assortment of articles suitable for Christmas gifts, including home cooking in charge of Mrs. Wes McDonell and members of Unit One were in charge. Ann Landers' A Shotgun Marriage That Did Not Fold

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Has anyone ever told you how much men enjoy your column? Well, I'm a man and I do, Toots.

I don't think you have ever published a letter in defence of shot-gun marriages, and for good reason. You certainly can't endorse them, but I hope you will print my letter. It might give courage and hope to some couples who made a mistake — and it might help their parents, too.

Our son came to us three years ago and he was terrified. His steady was pregnant. They were barely out of high school. The kids refused to consider putting the baby up for adoption and waiting to marry later if they were still in love. Reluctantly we agreed to their marriage.

Five months later along came a beautiful little boy. The following year they had a precious baby girl. Our son and his wife have done extremely well. They have a modest home but it is filled with love and joy and genuine happiness.

This may be an exceptional case, Ann, but it does prove that all "must" marriages needn't end in disaster. — GRAMP.

DEAR GRAMP: It is an exceptional case. Usually the pregnant bride feels ashamed and the "drafted" groom feels hooked. I'm glad things turned out so well in your family. Congratulations.

DEAR ANN: I'm a boy who will be 16 in four weeks. I've been waiting a long time for the big day; now that the big day is almost here I don't know if I really want to go through with it. I am thinking about quitting school and getting a job.

My parents are divorced and Mom remarried two years ago. I can't stand her new husband and the feeling is mutual. I've wanted to be an engineer but it would be a real rough go. Nobody is going to put me through college and I know I can't get a scholarship. My grades are just fair.

It seems like a waste of time to stay in school when I could be out making money. A buddy of mine quit six months ago. He makes $88 a week and has bought himself a car. I'm not asking for advice. I just want to know what you think. — RED.

DEAR RED: I won't offer any advice but kids who have quit school have told me it was the dumbest move they ever made.

Education is your handle on a more productive, more rewarding life. Without it you are stymied. That $88 a week job may be as far as you'll ever go — and as far as you'll deserve to go.

How you spend the next two years of your life will determine what happens to you in the next 50 years. Stay in school. I promise you'll never regret it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A man in our social group is becoming so obnoxious that one day I'm going to explode like a firecracker and tell him off.

This man (I will call him Sam) has a one-track mind, and that track is sex. He has a sickening way of putting a second and third meaning on everything. We can be talking about a saint and Sam will say "What do you think he's doing for dames?"

Every time we get together he hauls out a dirty picture or a pornographic typographical error from a newspaper. He knows more off-color jokes than anybody in town.

I'd love to have from you what I would say to a person who is so preoccupied with sex that it is on his mind night and day.— GULLET FULL.

DEAR FULL: People who talk about sex constantly usually are doing all they can do about it. Talk.

The really active ones have very little to say. They are too busy doing.

If excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Wellman's WI Marks 60th Anniversary

RAWDON — Wellman's Women's Institute observed its 60th anniversary on Wednesday in the United Church. Members of River Valley, Rylstone and Ivanhoe Institutes joined with Wellman's for the occasion.

The president, Mrs. Alfred Aikins, welcomed the guests and presided for the afternoon. Mrs. Fred Beckett was pianist. The Tweedsmuir history book, compiled by Miss Emma Rainie, was on display.

HISTORY OF WELLMAN'S

Mrs. Carl W. Clancy gave a synopsis of the highlights of Wellman's W.I. since its organization in 1905. In September, 1905, the president of Spring-brook Institute, Mrs. Jacob McComb, organized the Wellman's Branch in the Orange Hall. The first president was the late Mrs. Andrew Meiklejohn. There were 26 charter members and five are still living. They are Mrs. Blake Tolton of Toronto, Mrs. Lyman Weaver of Trenton, Mrs. Ames of Bowmanville, Mrs. Hugh Morton of Stirling and Miss Emma Rainie of Wellman's. Of these five, Miss Rainie was the only charter member in the audience at the 50th anniversary.

Mrs. Clancy said these pioneer presidents studied the hand book and emphasized the need for parliamentary procedure. They gave many well prepared papers and held numerous debates and social gatherings. Many years ago they donated a 30 dozen crate of eggs at Easter time to the children's hospital in Belleville. At the time of the western relief campaign they contributed vegetables, pound for pound and dollar for dollar. During the years many short courses were held and in 1916 Wellman's W.I. took up the project of the beautification of Wellman's cemetery. Today it is registered and perpetual. The first meeting of Hastings North district was held in Wellman's Orange Hall about 1930.

Mrs. Clancy said the keynotes of institute work are friendship, co-operation, harmony and understanding. The Women's Institutes had a purpose when it was organized 60 years ago and there is still a place in the Wellman's community to carry out these aims and obligations.

Festive Plans

It's not too much to begin collecting tips for the holiday season. Once the festivities get into full swing it's wonderful to have a treasury of good food ideas for handy reference.

Soup per Starter

Start off holiday suppers with a special Soula Soula Soup. Combine a can of condensed soup and cream of pea soup with a soup can of water. Heat as usual, then just before serving top individual bowls with whipped cream and broil until the cream is lightly browned.

Holiday Alaska

Baked Alaska, a frankly showy dessert, takes no Christmas fixing easily. Try filling a 9-inch baked pie shell with 1 quart of softened vanilla ice cream, and spoon 1 cup of your best mincemeat over top. Keep the pie frozen until serving time. Then cover completely with meringue, bringing it out to the edge of the pastry all around. Bake in a 450°F oven until the meringue is golden and serve immediately.

Cranberry Special

For Santa's helpers, a Cranberry Shake, adds a bit of cheer the pre-Christmas rush. Just combine cranberry juice cocktail and vanilla ice cream and beat until smooth. Blender cooks can mix their own!

Sweet Nibbler

Why not renew the fine old art of candy making this Christmas? Our favorite recipe for Maple Pecan Fudge, calls for 3 cups brown sugar, 1 can dairy sour cream and a pinch of salt. Cook this mixture over medium heat until the soft ball stage (237°F on a candy thermometer). Remove from heat and stir in ¾ cup butter and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cool without stirring to lukewarm then beat and stir in 2 cups pecans and quickly turn into a buttered pan. Dairy sour cream adds a distinctive flavor to this wonderful candy.

Freezer Reminder

Tender flaky shortbreads, made with butter, lard, freeze to the freezer. Why not bake up a batch or two now. Wrap them well in heavy duty foil and they'll keep until Christmas.

Party Parfaits

Folks will never guess you were short of time when you serve them pretty mixed parfaits. For the stand'Kiam with 1¾ cups bottled mint jelly; beat until smooth; then fold in 1 cup whipped cream. Layer in parfait glasses with vanilla ice cream. Quick and glamorous!

Susanna's Family Fare

INGENIOUS GENIUS

Dear Susanna: If my husband isn't a genius, I'd like to know who is. We were in the midst of closing up our cottage and boat house for the winter and we needed a funnel desperately for several quite messy chores. Someone else must have ended our funnel badly (no, because it wasn't in its usual place, or anywhere else, for that matter. Without wasting any more time hunting, my husband made one that served the purpose every bit as well. He searched for several quite messy chores. Someone else must have ended our funnel badly (no, because it wasn't in its usual place, or anywhere else, for that matter. Without wasting any more time hunting, my husband made one that served the purpose every bit as well. He scorched a little blotting paper and made a funnel. I keep underneath the sink, until he found a plastic bottle with a fairly long neck that had contained liquid dishwashing detergent. He removed the lid, cut off the bottom two-thirds, and there was as fine a little funnel as I ever say. —Wizard's Wife

Wizard, indeed! You know, a curious thought just occurred to me. What would a wizard's wife be called anyway? —SUSANNA

HOME FROZEN SOUP

Dear Susanna: Homemade vegetable soup is a favorite with our family but washing, paring and grating the vegetables each time always seemed a nuisance until I hit on a better plan.

I grate about two cups of carrots, two of potatoes and one of onion at a time and mix all together well. I make several full packages of about 2-3 of a cup each of the mixture and add a good tablespoon of rice to each packet. I place all of these small packages into a plastic bag and store in the freezer.

When soup is needed, I dump one or two of my little bundles into the boiling soup stock and it is ready in a short time. — Mr. Manson McCrugg

P. S. Principal In Kingston Is Convicted

KINGSTON (CP) — Gerald Ivan Bildson, 33-year-old Kingston public school principal, was convicted Monday on four charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency through acts of indecent assault.

Bildson, who pleaded not guilty to the charges, was remanded to Dec. 6 for sentence. Magistrate James B. Garvin is awaiting a pre-sentence report.

Bildson, a school teacher for 12 years, was convicted of committing acts likely to cause four girls under the age of 16 to become juvenile delinquents.

Teamsters

would be no milk, bread, newsto homes.

Mail would be affected as would shipments of food to villages along the coast. There are few industries not served to some degree by the Teamsters.

The Teamsters' decision came as spokesmen for several unions rejected the general strike idea, many claiming they would be open to legal action by their employers. These include an estimated 17,000 machinists, paper workers, hospital workers, letter carriers and beer parlor and cocktail lounge waiters.

However, the federation hopes the rank and file union members will respond to the general strike call despite the public position of their leaders. This, in effect, would take their leaders off the legal hook.

Many more unions have pledged support, including the large woodworkers' and fishermen's unions, garbage collectors in some cities and other civic and municipal workers.

Despite appeals from Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, plans for the work stoppage were moving ahead swiftly. Officials of the Canadian Labor Congress were here to discuss the situation with federation officials.

TALKS GO ON

Meanwhile, conciliation talks were going on behind closed doors but there was no word of progress, if any. The talks were to continue today.

While individual unions affiliated with the labor federation were considering whether to support a general work stoppage, companies issued warnings to employees the stoppage would violate contracts and might result in dismissals.

Automation, a major issue in the oil industry dispute, has struck a responsive chord in many union members.

With a threatened work stoppage less than 48 hours off, Mr. Peterson said Monday "we are at the stage when no one knows what will happen. But as long as meetings are going on there is hope for a settlement."

The oil workers are seeking an automation agreement that will be effective for employees of all major oil companies in Canada. They have said that if a settlement is reached here it will set the pattern.

WANTS NOTICE

The union has demanded 18 months' notice of technological changes, severance pay amounting to one year's pay for every five worked in the event automation forces partial or complete plant shutdowns, and retraining of employees whose jobs are made obsolete. It also has sought a 30-cent hourly wage increase over the current base rate of $2.50.

The B.C. division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association issued a statement to all its members that "employers have a responsibility to advise their employees that by participating in the (general) strike, the employees could find themselves liable to dismissal, suspension or other disciplinary action . . ."

Employees, their union and its officers would also "place themselves in the position of being subject to legal action."

Pat O'Nea, secretary of the federation of labor, has said unions members participating in the general work stoppage would be protected against any subsequent "victimization."

LEMASS BREAKING DOWN THE OLD WALLS — Ireland's Prime Minister Sean Lemass (left) tells Canadian Press reporter Harold Morrison that Ireland is ending its old isolation. The old revolutionary talks about "practical co-operation" with Britain and Northern Ireland and modified free trade with Canada and other countries. He said Ireland had been successful in increasing its trade with Canada. (CP Photo)

Irish Leader Eyes Trade With Canada

By HAROLD MORRISON

DUBLIN (CP)—Prime Minister Sean Lemass has an eye on some form of modified free trade between Ireland and overseas countries, Canada in particular.

The Irish leader said in an interview he wishes Canada the industrial capital and know-how to Ireland; wants to see generally closer relations with Canada, and is ready to experiment with trade arrangements.

"We now are negotiating free trade with Britain," he said. "If we get that free trade, we will be willing to try similar arrangements with other countries —certainly with Canada. These arrangements would not be as comprehensive as with Britain —perhaps free trade in particular commodities".

The 66-year-old former revolutionary, four times a prisoner during the old uprisings against the British, now-talks of breaking down Ireland's brooding introspection, forging new bonds with old enemies and opening what he calls an era of "practical co-operation" with Britain and Northern Ireland.

END ANIMOSITIES

"We've got to get rid of the old animosities and suspicions," he said. "We've got to develop practical co-operation with others. I welcome the movement of foreign capital and technology to Ireland. I welcome the Canadians who come here and help us develop our mines and industries.

"We have been trying hard to expand our trade. In Canada our efforts have not been without major success. Canada has given us the lowest rates of tariff available, and we have urged our producers to avail themselves of these advantages.

"We are participating in Canada's Expo of centennial exhibition and, if I can get a good excuse, I shall make that the basis for a trip to your country. I am most anxious to have all kinds of good relations with Canada."

AIMS FOR UNITY

"Our ultimate objective is to unite the country," he said. "I believe this can be done and still leave Northern Ireland room for some local government. There is some resistance in the North to this idea, but this resistance is not as strong as it used to be. The problem is one largely of misunderstanding."

If his exchanges with Premier Terence O'Neill of Northern Ireland bear fruit, there would be two Irish governments operating under one constitution. The limited powers which the six northern counties now enjoy under the British Parliament would be safeguarded, to help eliminate suspicions that Ireland intends swallowing them.

Looking beyond the British Isles for opportunity, Lemass at one time hoped Ireland could join the European Common Market. But when the continental countries shut the door against Britain in 1963, he realized this was impracticable.

"Britain would consider it a hostile act if we tried to get into the common market without her," he said. "Since about 25 per cent of our exports go to Britain, there would be no advantage in Ireland now trying to join the common market without Britain."

SEES REDUCED ROLE

Turning to the political front, Lemass believes it is inevitable that Britain will have to reduce her world military role. It is his belief, however, he said, that even the British Conservative party is arguing that Britain's military role cannot be committed beyond her available resources. If Britain pulls out of certain areas, he said, he believes United States will step in.

Though Ireland has no diplomatic missions in Communist countries, Lemass sees the big powers continuing to operate in "spheres of influence" beyond the control of the United Nations. Mere size alone would indicate that China must be included among these major powers.

Ireland, its prime minister said, wants to build up the effectiveness of the UN but feels that more peacekeeping troops cannot be provided without the ability to recoup the cost through compulsory UN levies on all members.

Ireland, however, recognized its almost unique role in UN peacekeeping operations. It had built up a position of non-alignment. Irish troops were in demand because of this recognized position. Indeed, said Lemass, in Cyprus "there might have been no United Nations force at all if Ireland had not agreed to participate."

And it may be a reflection of Ireland's new outward-looking personality that when in one case an erroneous report flashed back that a company of Irish troops had been slain on one of its peacekeeping missions, there was no public reaction to have the remaining troops brought back.

"There was not a single voice against our contribution of troops—not the slightest public reaction," Lemass said proudly.

Traces of Black Powder Found Says Chemist

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCMP chemist said Monday traces of black powder were found near the rear toilet of a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane that crashed following an explosion July 8, killing 52.

Rolande Ouzan of the RCMP crime laboratory said traces of the black powder were found in four sections of the aircraft in the area of the rear toilet.

She told an inquest into the death of the 52 passengers and crew an explosion from black powder would leave a trail of very dense white smoke.

In earlier evidence, John Hyro said he saw the explosion of the DC-6B aircraft near 100 Mile House in the B.C. interior. There had been a billow of white alley smoke from the tail.

Mrs. Rouan said there could have been other explosives combined with the black powder. The residue of this material, for instance nitro-glycerine—would have been washed away by rain after the crash.

Black powder could be made by mixing sulphur, charcoal and saltpeire.

FINDS ODD METAL

Ralph Barer, metallurgist with the Pacific naval laboratory in Esquimalt, testified a piece of metal removed from one of the crash victims was found to contain a copper content that appeared to be unique to the aircraft. He said the victim was sitting in the back of the plane.

George Murray, representing the attorney-general's department, asked if the copper content from the fragment could have been from some sort of a detonator.

Mr. Barer said he was not familiar with the content of a detonator. The fragment was different from all pieces of metal from the aircraft he had examined.

Fred Foster, a CPA pilot, said he had flown with Capt. John Steele, pilot of the crashed aircraft, and said there was no finer pilot. He had no doubt the pilot would have refused to take over a plane if he thought there was something wrong with it.

New Satellite For Canada To Be Launched

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's second satellite is scheduled to be launched into a polar orbit Wednesday night from the western rocket range at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

The 220-pound Alouette — Alouette 1 has been in space for more than three years—will be part of a double payload boosted into space by a United States National Aeronautics and Space Administration Thor-Agena B rocket.

Its companion, a 215-pound direct measurement Explorer-A is a NASA craft that will part from the launch vehicle 40 seconds after Canada's Defence Research Board satellite starts its first trip around the world.

Alouette II will follow an elliptical orbit, reaching a maximum altitude of 1,620 miles and a minimum of 270 miles. The U.S. satellite will follow a similar path, staying within 1,000 miles of Alouette II for at least a month.

While the two craft have different jobs to do in space, they will make co-operative measurements of temperatures of the space between them and the NASA craft will provide check data for some of Alouette's information. One of the main reasons for the check data is to determine the effect of electrical charges picked up by the Canadian satellite's 240-foot telescoping antenna.

The launching was scheduled to take place tonight but was postponed last Friday when instrument trouble developed in the U.S. satellite.

TWINS IN ORBIT — Canada's Alouette II will join Aloyette I in orbit November 24. Alouette I launched September, 1962, is in a nearly circular polar orbit 630 miles up. Alouette II will have an elliptical polar orbit with a high of 1620 miles and a low of 270 miles. Both satelites are equipped to chart the ionosphere from above, especially over the poles where Aurora flares cause disruption of radio communications. In addition both satellites pass through the Van Allen radiation belts and the artificial radiation belts caused by high atmosphere nuclear detonations. (CP Newsmap)

Woman Already Doomed Says Pathologist

TORONTO (CP)—A 61-year-old woman who received an incompatible blood transfusion in hospital last month already was doomed, a pathologist testified Monday.

Dr. Ronald Ryder said at a coroner's inquest that Agnes Lowe already was suffering from cancer of the pancreas, liver and lungs, a kidney disorder and jaundice before the transfusion.

"It was felt that the patient was already doomed," Dr. Ryder said. "The incompatible transfusion just tipped the scales."

Mrs. Love died Oct. 21, eight days after being admitted to Toronto East General Hospital.

Dr. Gerald Hart, staff hematologist at the hospital, and Dr. John Brebner, a resident physician at East General, both testified the transfusion was not the major cause of Mrs. Love's death.

"It could (have been) a contributing factor" said Dr. Hart.

"I don't feel it (her death) was a major transfusion reaction by any means," said Dr. Brebner.

Dr. Ryder said a blockage of the coronary artery, which occurred 24 hours before Mrs. Love died, could have contributed to her death.

The inquest continues.

Prospect That France Will Quit NATO Is Accepted

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The prospect that France under Charles de Gaulle may withdraw from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in 1969 has become accepted in high places in the Western community. But some experts still adhere to the view that while the French axe may cut a hole, it will not destroy the 13-country alliance.

Secret contingency planning, based on the assumption that France will withdraw and that the Paris headquarters and other French-linked NATO elements may have to be moved elsewhere, has in fact been under study for some time.

West Germany has been claiming for greater "involvement" in the actual operational planning of Western nuclear strategy, or, more particularly, in the operations of the United States nuclear force which makes up about 85 per cent of the overall Western nuclear power.

WANT VOICE

The smaller NATO members, concerned that U.S. policy might involve them in an unwanted nuclear war, have been seeking U.S. assurances that they will be consulted in advance, before the U.S. ever pulls the nuclear trizzer.

In line with the increasing importance of this dual problem, 16 of the NATO defence ministers will meet in Paris Saturday to see how far they can go in accepting a U.S. proposal for greater Allied participation and consultation in nuclear planning.

Their decision will not be final. All they will do is prepare an interim report to be put before the NATO foreign ministers in Paris in mid-December and it is understood that the foreign ministers will review the issue but make no attempt to reach a final decision this year.

The issue may then be carried over to 1966, along with parallel discussions on whether NATO should adopt the U.S.-proposed multilateral, mixed-manned seaborne Polaris nuclear force which would have only a few mixed-manned elements.

BRITAIN'S STAND

There have been reports that Britain would prefer to shelve all talk of a NATO nuclear force in favor of securing an agreement with the Soviet Union to ban the dissemination of nuclear weapons. Britain, however, insists that its Atlantic force idea is still on the table. It continues to reject the U.S.-proposed concept.

There is no indication of any compromise that would please the Germans. It appears evident, therefore, that the NATO countries may move into 1966 with their crucial problems unresolved and that German frustration may increase.

Britain and the U.S. can say, of course, that Germans are already participating in a nuclear role since German planes and missiles are fitted with American nuclear warheads. But this equipment has a tactical rather than a strategic role. The warheads are electronically controlled by the U.S. and the decision whether they ever are to be fired rests entirely with the U.S.

Canadian Support for U.S. Principles and Objectives In Viet Nam Unshaken

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian government support for American principles and objectives in Viet Nam has not been shaken by U.S. rejection of offers or purported offers to negotiate, informed sources said Monday.

They said Communist North Viet Nam has attached conditions to any negotiations, the chief one being American withdrawal from South Viet Nam before peace talks can begin. The U.S. since April has offered to negotiate unconditionally.

An external affairs department spokesman said there has been no perceptible change in Hanoi's position. If anything, he said, North Viet Nam's attitude has become harder and more inflexible.

North Viet Nam attached great importance to protests in the U.S. against the Viet Nam war. It seemed to be convinced —misinformed—that if it could hold out long enough public opinion in the U.S. and elsewhere would force a unilateral American withdrawal from South Viet Nam.

DOMESTIC AFFAIR

Officials have declined to be drawn into discussion of how the American public was informed—misinformed—by the U.S. government concerning proposals for negotiations. This was strictly an American domestic affair, they said.

The proposals were disclosed and denied last week after the U.S. administration had maintained there had not been any. One of them, from U Thant, United Nations secretary-general, in August, 1964, another from Italian and French officials in May, 1965.

At a press conference Monday suggesting a pause in U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam he had been informed "there had been overtures made." But he had not "predicated" his speech on them.

There's some dispute whether these are proposals or overtures, but I knew about the contact that had been established by the secretary-general (U Thant) with certain authorities and governments."

He did not indicate whether he was referring to the August, 1964, proposals by U Thant for negotiations.

OVERTURES NEGATIVE

Informants here said the basic question, for Canada at least, was not how Washington had handled its communications with the American public but the nature of the Communist overtures. And these overtures were negative inasmuch as they insisted on conditions for negotiations.

Sources said the Canadian government has been aware of all diplomatic moves in the Viet Nam situation, including the two disclosed last week.

Moreover, as a member of the 11-year-old International Supervisory Commission in Viet Nam, Canada had first-hand knowledge of the North Vietnamese attitude.

SOUGHT REACTION

J. Blair Seaborn, Canadian delegate on the commission, was sent to Hanoi May 21 by External Affairs Minister Martin to get the reaction of North Viet Nam to the five-day pause, earlier that month in U.S. bombings.

Mr. Seaborn's mission occurred soon after—but was not connected with — North Viet Nam's first week made through French diplomats.

Sources said the end result was that he sensed North Viet Nam attached conditions to any negotiations with the U.S.

The Canadian government has generally supported U.S. policy in Viet Nam because, as Mr. Martin has put it in April, South Viet Nam were left to the mercy of the Communists by an American withdrawal, "there it would be only a matter of time before the next victim is selected."

SPORTS SLICES

Coach Red Sullivan's power-play theory is that if you don't have the cannons, you have to go with the pistols and hope they fire consistently. So far in this young National Hockey League season, his New York Rangers are generating almost as much firepower when they have the man advantage as are the big guns of Chicago Black Hawks, says an NHL release.

Before the games of the weekend, the Black Hawks had the most devastating power-play, scoring a remarkable 36.8 per cent of the time they held the edge in manpower. The Rangers were second with a 28.3 percentage. Both these figures are considerably higher than the league average of 19.6 after the first 20 games of 1965-66.

"We don't have a Bobby Hull or Gordie Howe to lead our attack," says Sullivan, "but our players are all working and I have been getting consistent power-play scoring from all three lines."

Normally, of course, a hockey coach tries to put his most potent scorers on the ice when the opposition is shorthanded. This is what coach Billy Reay does—Bobby Hull, Doug Mohns, Stan Mikita, Ken Wharram and Pierre Pilote forming his regular power-play.

While Hawks' power-play is the best in the league, Rangers have been more happy with their own attack. They held the lead average for goals in their first 19 games and scored 15 goals, or nearly half their total 34 goals scored. In other words, if the Rangers' power-play wasn't functioning well, New York wouldn't be third in the standings. By comparison, in Rangers' first 19 games a year ago, they scored nine goals on 54 chances for a 16.7 percentage.

Chicago had one less goal than New York on power-plays but the Hawks have also had fewer advantages. Of the 33 times they had the edge in their first nine games, Hawks scored 14 goals, an increase of 16.8 per cent over the figure for the same number of games a year ago when they scored nine goals on 45 manpower advantages for 20 per cent.

What the power-play means in points to them on it is shown in the scoring statistics. Of the 152 scoring points accumulated by the top 13 scorers in the league, including games of Nov. 14, 74 points were collected on power-play scoring.

More than half the points garnered by the two leaders, Hull and Bobby Rosseau of Montreal Canadiens, were from power-plays. Hull's 12 goals included six—three against Montreal and three against Toronto—while Hawks had the man advantage and he also received two of his six assists under similar circumstances. Rousseau's seven goal leadership total off the power-play and of his league-leading 11 assists, eight were picked up while Canadiens had the advantage.

For the first four games of the season, Montreal had the most devastating power-play, scoring nine goals on 24 opportunities for a 37.5 percentage. Then came six straight games without a power-play goal. That streak was stopped when Jacques Laperriere and Rousseau each scored against Detroit with the Wings shorthanded. For their first 11 games, Canadiens have a 21.2 percentage with 11 goals on 52 opportunities, a decrease of 1.5 per cent from the same number of games a year ago.

Boston Bruins were fourth in power-play scoring, getting four goals on 34 opportunities for 11.7 per cent in nine games. Toronto Maple Leafs are fifth with five goals on 43 opportunities for 11.1 per cent.

Detroit coach Sid Abel is aware what the power-play means to a club. A year ago after 10 games, the Wings had eight goals on 45 chances for a 17.8 percentage and were first in the regular standings. This season Wings have scored a meagre four goals on 48 chances for an 8.3 percentage ,and are now fifth in the standings.

In penalty killing, Chicago leads, fending off penalties 86.8 per cent of the time. . Next is Boston with an 82.8 percentage in successful penalty killing. New York, Toronto and Detroit all have 79.6 percentages while Montreal is last with 76.1, a drop of eight per cent from the figure a year ago after 11 games.

Kinsmen Blank Gananoque 4-0

After a scoreless first period the city team piled up a 3-0 lead adding the fourth goal two-thirds of the way in the third period.

Mario Venuuti started the scoring from Jim Pettis early in the second frame, Dennis McCormack adding another two 1959-60, Houston Astros in 1962-minutes later. Terry Magnifico, and New York Yankees last from Bill Storms and Allen Genereau scored the third marker.

The Kinsmen drew four of the five minor penalties.

Clay Stops Patterson, Wins By TKO

By MURRAY ROSE

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, having made good his boast to side "the rabbit" — Floyd Patterson—all night, he would be willing to take on Ernie Terrell within three months "if he's the best man and the public wants it."

"Whoever is the best man—that's for me," shouted the triumphant Clay, or Muhamad Ali, following his one-sided, one-knockdown, technical knockout of the game Patterson in 2:18 of the 12th round at Convention Centre Monday night.

CASSIUS CLAY

held to one of his pre-fight did nothing but dance and statements that he planned to taunt Floyd in the first round, punish "the rabbit."

The six-foot-three speedster was pop, pop, pop, with stinging left jabs right smack on target, followed by sharp left-right combinations to the head. He rarely went to the body.

Clay denied that he had carried Patterson. He clowned his bare fists. The knuckles on both hands were swollen.

"I didn't carry him," said Clay. "He took my best punches. He didn't fall. He was determined. He's a good fighter. You gotta give him credit."

The knockdown in the sixth round came after Patterson had absorbed a barrage in a corner. His right glove touched the canvas and he was down momentarily.

As the referee was tolling the mandatory eight - count, he stopped at five and ordered Clay to go to a neutral corner. He waited four more seconds for Clay to get in the corner and resumed counting. The count went to nine.

Patterson never landed a jarring blow. Several times he attempted his famed leaping left hook that had knocked out Archie Moore and Ingemar Johansson, but mostly it was blocked or sway off target.

GAVE CLAY LEAD

Referee Harry Krause and Clay ahead 53-46 on the five-point-must system, and 8-3-1 in rounds. He gave Patterson the first and 11th and called the fifth even. Judge Bill Somerwall had it 54-43 in points and 10-1 in rounds. He gave Patterson the first.

Judge Harold Buck had it 56-45 and 10-1 in rounds, also giving Floyd the first. The AP card had it 56-44 and 10-1 in rounds, awarding Patterson the first.

The promoters said the attendance was 8,106, of which 7,462 paid, and the gross receipts $300,011. The bout was broadcast by CBC and ABC radio and telecast to the theatres and arenas in the United States and Canada. It was also beamed by Early Bird satellite to theatres in the British Isles.

Clay may have earned $750,000 on his 40 per cent, and Patterson $375,000 on his 20 per cent.

The betting was even money in this legal gambling centre that it wouldn't go more than five.

Clay, a 13-to-5 favorite at fight time, weighed 210 pounds in boosting his record to 22-0, including 18 knockouts. Patterson, who scaled 196¾, now has a 43-3 record, four of them knockout losses.

WORKING WITH CAHA

"We're working closely with the CAHA and hope to obtain permission to add one or two other pro players to the team," Pollock said. "When we've worked out the details with Gordon Jukes (CAHA representative) I'm sure we'll have a team quite capable of meeting the Russians on even terms."

The Canadiens' nine Montreal a week later, on Dec. 22.

10 Ti-Cats In EFC All-Star Squad

Eight Riders

TORONTO (CP)—If anyone is puzzled about Hamilton Tiger-Cats' domination of the Eastern Football Conference a look at the 1965 EFC All-Stars provides an impressive key.

Ten Ticats were named to the 24-player squad, including three of four players who came to Hamilton in an off-season trade that sent quarterback Bernie Faloney to Montreal Alouettes.

The Hamilton list included three players named earlier as the EFC's outstanding player, top lineman and top Canadian and seven stalwarts who anchored Tiger-Cats muscular and hard-nosed defensive squad.

The Tiger - Cats will make their fifth consecutive appearance Saturday in the Grey Cup game in Toronto against Winnipeg Blue Bombers, the fruits of a solid performance in the EFC final against Ottawa Rough Riders.

All four teams placed players on both the offensive and defensive All-Star units selected by the Football Reporters of Canada. Ottawa placed five men on the attacking unit and three on the defensive team while Montreal and Toronto Argonauts each had two players on the offensive squad and one on the defensive side.

The All-Stars gained by Hamilton in the Faloney trade were guard Chuck Walton, defensive end Billy Ray Locklin and defensive half Billy Wayte. It was Wayte's first all-star selection, but Locklin was an all-star with Montreal in 1961 and 1962 and Walton in 1963.

Faloney, 33, the EFC's most valuable player this year, provided Als with some solace with his play. It earned him his fifth All-Star award.

Captain Ron Barrow of Hamilton made his ninth consecutive team, an EFC record. He was voted the EFC's top lineman this year.

Corner linebacker Zeno Karcz, the CFL's 1po Canadian player this season, made his second All - Star squad in 10 years and defensive halfback Garney Henley, voted the EFC's out-tanding player, made his third consecutive appearance on the team.

EFC scoring champion Don Sutherin, another Hamilton defensive half, was named to his fourth All-Star team while offensive tackle Bronco Nagurski and defensive tackle Angelo Mosca made their third and end Stan Crisson his first.

Hull May Miss Three, Four Games

Dr. Myron Tremayne, Black Hawks team physician, said the injury is not as severe as the pain itself, and Hull may return to action after missing three or four games.

Hull suffered a similar knee injury last year, which kept him out for a stretch of nine games and slowed him down considerably from the hot scoring pace he had set in the first part of the season.

He twisted his knee late in the first period of Sunday's 7-3 defeat here by Toronto Maple Leafs.

In The Dressing Rooms

By BOB MYERS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Unpredictable Cassius Clay was both belligerent and benevolent Monday night, following his 12th round technical knockout over Floyd Patterson.

Clay marched into the interview just as Dr. Donald Romeo, chief examining doctor for the Nevada Athletic Commission, had given a report on a neck injury Patterson said he suffered.

"What's the excuse now?" Clay shouted into the loudspeaker microphone.

"What's your excuse?" an observer shouted back.

"Excuse for what?"

"Excuse for not knocking him out," was the rejoinder. "Why did you carry him?"

"I didn't carry him," declared Clay. "He took my best punches. He didn't fall. He was determined. He's a good fighter. You gotta give him credit."

SHOWS FISTS

Clay held up his bare fists. Knuckles on both hands were swollen.

Did Patterson hurt him with any punches?

Clay answered: "He got some grazes in."

Whom will Clay fight next?

"Who you want me to fight? Who do you, the press, want me to fight? I'll fight anyone."

Rocky Marciano, who retired undefeated from the throne, was an onlooker. What did he think of Clay's performance?

"I thought he had Patterson four or five times but let up on the pressure," Marciano commented. He did not elaborate.

Clay's younger brother and sparring partner, Rudy Clay, put on a mild spectacle during the bout. He rose from an aisle seat several rows back and shouted to his brother:

"Play with this Uncle Tom. Play with that rabbit. You're the heavyweight Sugar Ray (Robinson)."

By TED SMITS

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Floyd Patterson, in obvious pain but game and dignified in defeat, apologized to the American public Monday night for not putting up a better fight against Cassius Clay.

"I am very sorry about what happened tonight," he said in a low voice in a delayed interview. "I had hoped to give Americans a better fight. Unfortunately I was not able to do so.

"I am not going to use my back as an excuse."

The back trouble, it developed, started in the third round and was so severe that by the time the fight was stopped in the 12th round Patterson was wincing in pain with every step he took.

Dr. Donald C. Romeo of Las Vegas reported that he went to Patterson's corner at the end of the 11th round and asked what the trouble was.

SEVERE SPAS M

"He said he had a severe back spasm which started in the third round," said Dr. Romeo. "I told his handlers to rub the muscles."

He had only praise for the victor.

"Mr. Clay can become a great fighter. He needs more experience. I don't think he benefited much from tonight except perhaps in confidence.

Deseronto Softball Star Dies

TORONTO (CP)—The "Iron Duke" of women's softball competition, Mrs. Ted Kirkpatrick, died Sunday at her home here. She was 51.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick played with the Sunday Morning Class, a Toronto team that had its beginning as a church group. She was active in women's softball for 27 years and became known as the "Iron Duke" for her dedication to the sport.

A native of Deseronto, Ont., Mrs. Kirkpatrick started playing in her home town when she was nine years old. She moved to Toronto in 1932, where she joined the Sunday Morning Class.

In the late 1940s, the team toured Ontario for a seven-game exhibition series in Bowmanville, Oshawa, Stratford and Toronto with the Phoenix Queens of Phoenix, Ariz., champions of the National Softball Congress, at the time.

Tigers Rate 3½ Points

TORONTO (CP) — First betting odds quoted by bookmakers on Saturday's Grey Cup football game here between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Winnipeg Blue Bombers list the Ticats as 3½-point favorites.

This means that if someone is making a wager on the Tiger-Cats he must give 3½ points and Hamilton must win by at least four before the Hamilton bettor may collect.

Milwaukee To Atlanta

Giles Approves Transfer

NEW YORK (AP) — President Warren Giles of the National Baseball League said Monday he approves of the Braves move from Milwaukee to Atlanta because it would take major league baseball into a new area.

Giles testified in connection with Milwaukee County's suit against the Braves, the National League and the other nine league teams.

The county seeks to prevent the Braves from opening in Atlanta next season unless Milwaukee obtains another major league team it charges the move to Atlanta violates anti-trust laws.

The testimony of Giles and others is being taken in a lawyer's office here in the form of depositions which will become part of the court record in the Milwaukee County suit.

"As I recall it," Giles replied to a question from Steven Keane, special counsel for Milwaukee County, "I stated it would be a fine thing to take major league baseball into an area which didn't enjoy it because it would complete the geographical picture of the National League and make it truly national.

"Major league baseball has to be considered on an area basis, not on corporate limits. In the consideration of granting a baseball franchise, you should give consideration to the area it serves. . . ."

Penalties Are Fine; Just That

NORTH BAY (CP)—Teams given five or more penalties in the last 10 minutes of Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A games will be fined $50, it was announced here Monday.

The ruling, which applies to teams of the Southern Division, was made in an effort to curb the rising number of penalties in games.

Business Demands More Than A Name

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP)—It takes more than a name to turn a successful athlete into a successful businessman.

Competitive spirit, essential during his playing career, must be converted into energy and drive when he goes into business. And he has to be ready to devote plenty of time to his interests.

Dickie Moore seems to retire this.

One of the National Hockey League's fiercest competitors during his 13 seasons, Moore turned down an opportunity to return to Toronto Maple Leafs this fall in favor of his businesses in Montreal.

He operates an expanding construction - equipment rental firm, two summertime soft ice cream outlets and is part-owner of Arundel Golf Club 70 miles north of Montreal.

Moore, who played with Montreal Canadiens for the better part of 12 seasons, retired because of knee troubles at the end of the 1962-63 hockey year.

After an operation and a one-year layoff he returned to hockey in a Maple Leaf uniform for the 1964-65 season but had difficulty getting untracked. This fall, at 34, he decided against returning to Toronto for another try.

'NO COMPLAINTS'

"When I got a letter to report this year from the Leafs, I had to weigh the advantages of playing another season or staying in Montreal and operating my business," Moore said the other day.

"Coach (Punch) Imlach and the Toronto management treated me fine—and I had no complaints . . . but I didn't know how long my knees would last."

Moore said his original retirement in 1963 was prompted not only by his dinky knees but by the knowledge that he had been designated as "trade bait" by Canadiens.

"I would have returned to Canadiens then, because all my career had been spent with their organization since I was a junior. All the players are my friends, but I knew in my heart it wouldn't be the same after I found out they were willing to trade me."

Nevertheless, the two - time NHL scoring champion insisted he had always received fair treatment from the Montreal management and hilds no malice toward anyone in the organization.

"Sure I took a few digs at them when I was with the Leafs last year but that's part of the game," he said with a grin.

A high - scoring left - winger when he was at his peak, Moore still holds the all - time NHL points record for one season. In 1958-59 he accumulated 96 points on 41 goals and 55 assists. In the playoffs that year he set another record with five goals and 12 assists in the 11 post-season games.

Last season he appeared sometimes only briefly, in 36 games with Toronto but was unable to match his old form. He scored two goals and assisted on four others and his test for competition was best exemplified by his 68 minutes in penalties.

"I still get the old pins and needles to get out there and play," Moore said. "I think every athlete does. But the time just comes along when you have to stop and think about the future . . . and my future lies here with my business and my family."

Without read trips to take him away, he sees a lot more of wife Joan, their two sons,

Brawl Blame on Francis

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Monday night that Emile Francis, general manager of New York Rangers, triggered the fracas at Madison Square Garden Sunday night.

"There is no question about it," the NHL head said.

"Had he not gone over to protest with the minor official, there would have been no occasion for anybody to get involved," Campbell said.

"He has no business interfering with any league official."

Francis protested to goal judge Arthur Reichert that Floyd Smith's third - period marker did not cross the goal line.

Fans in the area where Francis and Reichert were arguing suddenly decided to join in and surrounded the pair. Several New York players then scaled the 10-foot barrier which separates the goal judge from the playing surface and came to assist their boss.

Reichert has been a goal judge in New York for 30 years.

Ranger president William Jennings said he would bar Reichert from the Garden.

Goal judges are appointed by the NHL from lists submitted by the six clubs.

Campbell said the goal judge cannot be barred from the stadium.

The NHL president added that fines will be assessed those players involved in the melee and that he had given no thought to suspensions as a form of punishment.

Speculation Runs Riot

Ottawa Conjecture, Clair Done

OTTAWA (CP) — Speculation that Frank Clair is through as coach of Ottawa Rough Riders ran riot Monday.

"One faction (at least two of the seven directors) wants the club to buy up his contract," said a front page story by sports editor Jack Koffman of The Citizen.

A similar story on the front page of The Journal by Eddie MacCabe says "there is widespread conjecture whether Clair will be paid out and turned out."

Although Clair has never missed the layoffs in his 10 years with the Eastern Football Conference club, he has reached the Grey Cup only once—winning it in 1960.

The Riders have finished second and reached the eastern final for the last three years, but lost out to Hamilton Tiger-Cats each time.

His three-year contract, worth about $25,000 a year including bonuses, still has two years to go. But speculation about his possible dismissal started late in the season when the Riders went into a slump, losing six of their last eight games and finishing the season with a 7-7 won-lost record.

The nosedive, says MacCabe, "indicates there is decay in the organization somewhere."

"The dry rot, we believe, stems from a breakdown in team discipline, on and off the field. There was no punishment for individual mistakes and the Riders and a torrent of them. Inexcusable blunders were excused. Players were protected. There were no fines, no penalties, no iron fist to keep order."

Koffman says the fans are complaining about playing bridesmaid to Hamilton year after year, "and if Clair remains, the season ticket sale is bound to be affected."

Koffman says Jim Trimble, fired as coach of Montreal Alouettes last week, would be welcome in Ottawa.

"However it seems almost certain that Bill Smyth will be the next Rough Rider coach—if the Ottawa Club turns out a looser."

Smyth, who came to Ottawa with Clair in 1958, is the defensive coach and was regarded as Clair's logical successor last fall when Clair was considering an offer to return to Toronto as coach of the Argonauts. Clair started his Canadian coaching career in Toronto, winning two Grey Cups in five years.

Clair's future status may be cleared up when the directors meet after next Saturday's Grey Cup game between Hamilton and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Two jockeys shared the limelight Monday at Greenwood Race Track, each with three victories.

Frank Barroby, 32, of Ravenscraig, Sask., picked up his win by riding Pierlou to victory in the sixth, Chop-Em-Please in the seventh and Lord Saybrook in eighth.

Hugo Dittfach, leading rider of the meeting, scored in three successive races. He won with Flaming Victress in the third, Apple in the fourth and Minda in the fifth.

Zuger And Patterson

Ti-Cats "Recharging Main Battery"

Pitcher Joe Zuger and catcher Hal Patterson, two top members of the cast that has brought the Ticats to their eighth Grey Cup final in nine years, were on the sidelines Monday for a gently Monday while their team-mates held their first preparatory workout in the Saturday afternoon with Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Toronto.

Both suffered injuries in Hamilton's 17-7 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders in the second game of the two-game Eastern Conference finals last Saturday. Patterson suffered a stretched ligament in his ankle and Zuger limped off with a charley-horse.

Any impairment in the effectiveness of Hamilton's first-string quarterback and top offensive end would be a severe blow to the Ticats' chances but coach Ralph Sazio was unworried.

"There's no question in my mind that they'll be all right Saturday," said Sazio, who has a win and a loss in two trips to the Grey Cup game but has never grappled with the Tiger-Cats' Winnipeg jinx as a head coach. PLAYED HURT

Sazio played tactic for the Ticats when they downed the Bombers 14-7 in 1953 final and watched as a second-year assistant coach when Hamilton slipped into town in 1957. But the two clubs played four more Grey Cup games in the last eight years and Winnipeg won them all.

Patterson was around for two of those losses and watched Halfback Nelson Faloney's passes for 110 yards as Hamilton bowed 21-14 in last year's final. He was watching two each from Zuger and Frank Cosentino for 76 yards as the latter took over days to lose the celebrated Fog Bowl 28-27 the following year.

Patterson's baptism of fire as he took over from the injured Faloney in mid-season, broke a flock of passing records in his debut against Saskatchewan. Roughriders a and handled his team in the foggy first instalment of the final, giving way to Cosentino when a big injury stiffened overnight.

For awhile this season, it looked as if neither Zuger nor Patterson would be in the line-light for another Grey Cup game.

The 32-year-old and, as Al Star in nine of his 12 seasons made an abrupt decision to re tire just as the Hamilton training camp opened and didn't return until the desperate Ticats unsuccessful in their efforts to find a replacement, sent out a call for help with four games of the ETC schedule remaining.

NHL Scoring Race

Rousseau Takes Over Lead

MONTREAL (CP) — Bobby Rousseau, Montreal Canadiens' little right winger, is making his presence felt in the National Hockey League this season.

The 25-year-old Montreal native, who scored a mere 12 goals and picked up a total of 47 points in 68 games last season, has found his scoring touch early in this campaign to lead NHL individual scoring race.

Rousseau took over the scoring leadership from Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks by scoring three goals and picking up two assists against New York Rangers Saturday night.

Statistics released by NHL headquarters today show Rousseau has 10 goals and 13 assists, two more than Hull, who leads the league in goals with 12 and has six assists.

Jean Beliveau, Montreal's towering centre, picked up a goal and four assists against New York Saturday and jumped into third place with 18 points.

HOLDS FOURTH

Aces Lead Score Race

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Quebec Aces have gained an early lock on the American Hockey League individual point race as well as a commanding lead in the league's eastern division race.

Eight Aces, headed by Gord Labossiere and Leon Rochefort, are among the top 12 AHL scorers, according to official statistics released today.

Labossiere and Rochefort share first place with 23 points apiece. Labossiere has 11 goals and 12 assists while Rochefort has scored nine goals and set up 14 others. Both have played in 17 games.

Murray Hall of Pittsburgh Hornets is one point behind the Aces duo. He has tallied eight and set up 13 assists.

Jacques Caron of Rochester Americans for sixth place, and Guy Gendron, Cleland Morrison, in a three-way tie for the No. 10 spot, are the other Quebec sharpshooters.

Rookie Gary Smith of the streaking Rochester club is the league's top goalie, with a 1.73 goals-against average in eight games.

Leafs, Canadiens Won't Play National Squad

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is "very disappointed" that neither Montreal nor Toronto in the National Hockey League will play an exhibition game with Canada's national hockey team.

Gordon Juckes, secretary-manager of CAHA, said in a statement today the exhibition game with either of the NHL teams was requested in a letter is NHL president Clarence Campbell of Toronto. Campbell replied that neither the Montreal Canadiens nor Toronto Maple Leafs would consent to the contest but added he would try to arrange "something else."

In his letter, Juckes said:

"The team (the Nationals) has played eight games against both professional and amateur teams and has won all of them and too many of them without exceeding the opposition.

"The Nationals team, which will represent Canada in the world hockey championships next March, played their last exhibition game Sunday before they begin meeting European teams in exhibition games. The last game was against the Russians in London, Ont.

NEED COMPETITION

Juckes said the Nationals definitely need the type of competition that could be provided by NHL teams "and it would be proved a good pilot project.

He said Canada could not always expect the European teams to come to Canada on exhibition tours before the Nationals could be forewarned the day when Canada will have to go to Europe if it wants top-flight competition.

Juckes said both Toronto and Montreal have six-day layoffs before Dec. 10 when the CAHA 4-

Recruits Well Polished

Rookies Aided Rags--Riches Bombers

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP) — Able rookies were the silver threads among the gold as they joined a number of veterans to take Winnipeg Blue Bombers from rags to riches this year in the Western Football Conference.

Coach Bud Grant and assistants Joe Zaleski and John Mitchell recruited deftly and polished the newcomers capably to repair weaknesses that pinpointed the Bombers to 13 consecutive defeats and last place in 1964.

Halfback Dave Raimey was named to the all-star team of Browns of the National Football League to provide running balance to the unspectacular but efficient offence.

Raimey galloped to third place in the league with 1,052 yards, most on deadly sweeps to either side. The 24-year-old rookie took up the slack week 10-year veteran Leo Lewis was hobbled with injuries in mid-season.

Ken Nielsen, cut adrift by Hamilton Tiger-Cats after duty with University of Alberta Golden Bears, slipped into second slot to create extra strength for the pass, ground attack looked after by veteran Farrell Funston and sophomore flanker Phil Cooper.

Nielsen caught two touchdown passes, one a 109-yard pass-and-run combination for a WFC record, to propel Bombers to a 19-12 triumph over Calgary Stampeders in the third and deciding game of the conference final.

Quarterback Kenny Ploen did the job all season long as the club's pected of a man with nine years of experience.

Paul Desjardins, rookie centre from the University of Ottawa, did a competent job in an offensive line forced primarily of veterans—Herb Gray, Roger Hamelin, Cornel Piper, Frank Rigney, Sherwyn Thorson.

The complete recovery of veterans Gary Thornton and Henry Janzen, whose loss through injuries was a factor in Bombers' 1964 slumping into cellar in club's 20-year WFC history—turned, in Grant's words, "the poorest defensive secondary into one of the best."

Thornton, Ploen's relief man, and Janzen were selected to defensive halfback positions on the WFC all-star team.

Ottawa Rough Riders' reject whose booming punts time and again took Bombers from the shadow of their goal posts.

The newcomers made their greatest contribution on the defensive line. "That's where we made the most progress," said Grant.

Blefary Named Top AL Rookie

BOSTON (AP)—Curt Blefary, Baltimore Orioles' slugging outfielder who was spurned by New York Yankees, was named Monday as the American League's 1965 Rookie of the Year.

The 22-year-old Blefary won the rookie honor over pitcher Marcelino Lopez of California Angels in the balloting by a 20-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Blefary hit 22 homers, four triples and 21 doubles while driving in 70 runs with a .260 average last season.

Lopez, a 22-year-old southpaw acquired from Philadelphia Phillies of the National League after the 1964 season, won 14 games and lost 13 in 35 games with the Angels. He had a 2.93 earned-run average.

Weave Laughter and Tears into "Shenandoah" Civil War Epic starring James Stewart

"Shenandoah" is one of the finest and most sensitive pictures to come out of Hollywood this year highlighted by an outstanding performance by James Stewart that is certain to make him a strong contender in this year's Academy Award race. While completely different, Stewart's characterization easily is on a par with his performance of 20 years ago in "The Philadelphia Story," which won him an Oscar.

Two of the key elements which make for excellent movies are laughter and tears — and both of these elements are woven into this Civil War adventure-drama with consummate skill by director Andrew V. McLaglen.

Daily at the Belle Theatre audiences are enthralled as the wonderful story unfolds and there isn't a dry eye in the house when the lights went on.

It is a tour de force for Stewart acting-wise, ranking with the best of his starring roles he has had in the 30 years of motion picture making.

Filmed in Technicolor by Universal and produced by Robert Arthur, "Shenandoah" is a powerful, dramatic screen-play by James Lee Barrett. It is basically a sensitive story of the horrible futility of war.

In addition to Mr. Stewart's wonderful performance, a trace of youngsters playing key roles give inspired portrayals. Each one is a gem of proper casting.

Doug McClure was lifted right out of his regular starring role in "Virginian" TV series to portray a confederate officer who marries Stewart's daughter, lovely Rosemary Forsyth. Miss Forsyth's debut an auspicious one. Their tender love scenes are a highspot of the film.

As a masterful film, "Shenandoah" is a truly memorable, emotional impact on all audiences, young and old alike. The experience of viewing it will be remembered for a long time.

Blues Put Eight On All-Stars

TORONTO (CP)—The champion University of Toronto Bl- s won eight places on the Ontario - Quebec Intercollegiate Athletic Association's 1965 All-Star football team, the OQIAA announced Monday night.

The Blues, who finished in a second-place tie behind the University of Western Ontario in the regular schedule but defeated the Mustangs in the championship playoff game, placed five offensive and three defensive players on the team, selected in a poll of 31 newspaper men and coaches.

W tern won seven positions. Queen's University and Carleton Gaels, who tied Toronto for second place, were awarded six positions and the remaining three went to the last-place McGill Redmen.

Offensive end Mike Eben, who scored Toronto's winning touchdown against University of Alberta Golden Bears in Saturday's Save the Children Fund Bowl, was the only unanimous selection.

Britain Has No Immediate Plan to Impose Oil Embargo

By HAROLD MORRISON.

LONDON (CP)—The British government sees grave difficulties in attempting to implement a United Nations resolution calling for an oil embargo against and termination of economic relations with Rhodesia.

While Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart told the Commons Wednesday that Britain is committed to implementing the UN resolution, as far as it is in the country's power to do so, an official close to Prime Minister Wilson said there is no immediate plan to impose an oil embargo or take any measures other than those already announced.

Britain will attempt to confer with the world's oil exporters to determine whether an embargo against shipments to Rhodesia is feasible and decide its policy in the light of these talks, the official said.

The government's current view is that such a measure would not be feasible and even if it becomes possible, the action would be too late to maintain national unity in moves aimed against the outlawed Smith regime. Parts of the Tory opinion have condemned most of Stewart acknowledged that miss and the reason he participated in the Security Council meetings "was to prevent the adoption of any resolution or the resolution was a compromise which seems to us to be reckless or foolish."

It was important, he said, that Britain obtain the full support of other countries in implementing the steps Britain has already taken.

SOUGHT GROUP

Britain wanted the Security Council to establish a working group "to discuss how the embargo might be implemented but this proposal did not commend itself to the Security Council as a whole, Stewart said. It now will be up to the British government to take treasonable—along with other governments—on how this part of resolution can best be implemented.

The cautious British position, followed by Stewart's remarks and amplified by the British official later, follows Wilson's policy of attempting to maintain national unity in moves aimed against the outlawed Smith regime. Parts of the Tory opinion have condemned most of the existing Labor administration's actions against Smith and said stronger action at this stage might be sufficiently explosive to crush all unity hopes.

Judith Todd Urges Britain Send Troops

By JAMES BROWN

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Judith Todd, daughter of former Rhodesian premier Garfield Todd, arrived here today from London and immediately called on Britain to send troops to the breakaway colony.

The 22-year-old student told newspaper men she had returned to try to show Britain its responsibility to help Rhodesians who opposed Premier Ian Smith's declaration of war.

"I think the only way Britain can help is to give Sir Humphrey Gibbs (the British appointed governor) the power to govern and the only way they can do this is to send in troops," she said.

Image of Chinese Grows in Tanzania

TANZANIA, one of Africa's poorest countries, faces a huge task in trying to improve the health of its people and raise their standard of living. In this story, based on interviews with government ministers, Canadian Press reporter Joseph MacSween describes how the problem is being tackled.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

DAR ES SALAAM (CP)—"I suggest you walk around and see for yourself how many Chinese we have in Dar es Salaam."

That has become a routine challenge by aides of President Julius Nyerere when they are asked about Chinese penetration of Tanzania. They know the observer will probably find the Chinese.

You see practically every type of face except Chinese in the streets along the twisting streets and through the dusty alleys and dim markets and bazaars of Dar es Salaam, the "haven of peace" city on the Indian Ocean.

Populations raise world-weary shrugs at that mecca of the races, the sidewalk cafe of the early 1900s as a palace for the kaiser when this was a German colony.

Peering beyond the palm-fringed beaches, you will probably see ships flying flags of Communist countries at anchor in the harbor amid sailboats and dhows. There also will be Western ships. Tanzania's determination to achieve non-alignment is expressed by almost every person encountered, sometimes in impassioned tones.

Conversations with Nyerere and their government ministers as well as with Western diplomats, teachers, officials and various workers, give the impression that the event of Chinese influence has been exaggerated.

INFLUENCE GROWS

Yet, paradoxically, the impression also is gained that Communist penetration—or at any rate the acceptance of Communist aid, whether Chinese or Russian—may increase rather than decrease, not only in Tanzania but elsewhere in East Africa.

Putting politics aside, the urgency of Tanzania's need for development aid to alleviate by poverty and disease can be expressed in a couple of statistics: 40 per cent of the country's babies never reach maturity; the annual per capita income is £22 (£61).

"In this sense, aid is literally a matter of life and death," said one official.

A big health campaign has started from such basics as teaching people to wear shoes, use lavatories, learn the facts of nutrition and clean themselves properly, said Derek Bryceson, 41, former health minister.

"After the age of 15 hookworm and bilharzia, a liver ailment, afflict 80 per cent of the population. They're not killers in themselves, but they pull peoples down, so that even a small attack from another source may prove fatal. It's nonsense to think of building up the country without building up the people.

"One of the basic objectives of our five-year plan is to raise the period of life expectancy from 35 years to 45-50 years."

Paul Bomani, 39, planning minister who formerly held the finance portfolio, said the aim is to increase the standard of living by 50 per cent in five years in this land of nearly 10,000,000, including 90,000 Asians, 24,000 Arabs and 21,000 Europeans.

CLIMATE IS HARSH

About the size of British Columbia, Tanzania has an austere and sometimes gripping beauty: snow - capped Kilimanjaro, with its feet in the steamy tropics, towers to 19,340 feet, the highest mountain in Africa.

More than 100 tribes are knit together in the immensely varied country stretching from the Indian Ocean to the heart of Africa, with cattle plains, tea, tobacco, cotton and sisal plantations and thousands of miles of subsistence farming.

A harsh irregular climate means that elephants and other beasts sometimes forage widely in search of water, while at other times rain comes in such torrents that homes are flooded and crops washed away.

"Such is the variety of our vast country, and our problems are no less varied," said Bomani.

All this — combined with the government's passionate determination to steer the path of non - alignment between East and West—has a bearing on how China, with aid offers, established its now-famed African "bridgehead" in Tanzania, former United Nations trust territory under British administration.

The magnitude of the task of building a country "virtually from the ground up" was vividly described in an interview by Amir Jamal, 42, finance minister and former planning minister, who noted the native population got its first grip on political affairs only in 1958.

CITE REASONS

Diplomats cited other simple reasons for the swing to the east, sometimes termed the swing to necessity." The airline mileage, for instance, from Dar es Salaam is less to Peking, than to Washington.

Although Tanganyika, now Tanzania, was economically the poorest of British East African territories, it became the first to attain independence, in 1961. Then came Uganda in 1962 and Kenya in 1963.

"It's natural that any country receiving independence will associate with hitherto forbidden countries," said one Western diplomat. The surprising thing is that there isn't more communism.

"We must be conscious and cautious of Eastern influence, but it should be kept in perspective. It is inevitable that Communist influence would be greater now than four years ago."

Some observers said the Influence is further apparent in Tanzania than the other countries simply because it has been independent longer. Others said the impact of Chinese aid was greater because the Soviet Union — which is assisting Kenya and Uganda—had become comparatively "respectable" in Western eyes.

The crux of the matter, in the view of some authorities, is that Tanzania and the other countries will probably fall short of their high development goals, and thus will need greater assistance from the East unless Western sources are adequate to fill the gap.

STUDY RAILWAY LINK

China's biggest play so far has been the offer to build a 1,000 - mile Tanzania-Zambia railway. The two countries have form liy invited Britain, West Germany, France, the United States and China to help finance the line on which Canada and Britain have undertaken a feasibility survey.

Nyerere said there are 200 Chinese in Tanzania but added, laughing, that most of them were Nationalist Chinese, having come before the regime of Mao Tse-tung. Anyway, he said, there are far more Western advisers and Britain is by far the biggest benefactor. Canada has 50 advisers in the country.

But observers assume that a Peking railway project would inundate the countryside with Chinese.

Nyerere has said China gave Tanzania a grant of £1,000,000 and made credits available totalling more than £10,000,000. Jamal listed four Chinese projects—a textile mill, a model state farm, a farm implement factory and a radio transmitter. United States aid last year alone totalled $5,200,000.

Key ministers stressed the main aim of getting aid without political strings and on this score they praised Canada, although its scale of assistance is not in the same league as the big powers.

AID IS ELUSIVE

It was impossible to come by figures on Chinese military aid and there also was no way of finding out what proportion of this aid was funnelled through Tanzania to rebels in neighboring Portuguese Mozambique.

There were jokes in sidewalk cafes about Chinese aid in the form of mandolins and guitars, and about how Chinese diplomats go about in tight groups, emerging from their fenced-off embassy in a big American limousine. "They could learn something from the British about diplomacy," said one observer.

Pictures of Chinese Premier Chou En-lai are seen in many public places in Tanzania, performed in April, 1964, by the union of Tanganyika and Zanzibar, in Zanzibar, Chou's face is everywhere.

Asked about this, Bomani said: "Every country expects something, but then who is not expecting something from this country?

"Some want prestige. Some ask us to display posters on projects. This is a kind of propaganda."

And Jamal, discussing nonalignment, said wearily: "These days almost everything has something political attached to it."

Tomorrow: Africans appreciate no-strings Canadian aid.

Retired Set Wants to Work Says Spokesman

TORONTO (CP) — Bernard Sky, 76, said Monday he wants Ontario government assistance to open a small plant in Toronto to work for persons over 65.

"If a man retires at 65 and he happens to be lucky enough to live to 70 or 80, that's a heck of a long time to do nothing, isn't it?" he asked the legislature's select committee on aging.

The stocky, jovial Toronto resident and his daughter, Mrs. Sandra Shriner, held the committee spellbound for about 90 minutes as they emphasized a person's usefulness doesn't end at retirement.

"If you've no interest to do anything, you may as well be dead, as far as I'm concerned," Mr. Sky said.

"That keeps me younger than the average 76-year-old — new projects all the time, always something to do."

HAS IDEAS

Mr. Sky said he has lots of ideas for the retired set. Among them are setting up a plant to turn out portable insulated buildings and a shop to produce small tools.

He said that in 1963 he tried to start an old folks' business as co-operative among about 60 persons. Each put in $10—which hardly paid for stationery—but the group eventually disintegrated because of lack of working capital.

"All we actually need is a responsible group like your own to get behind the organization," he told the committee.

Committee Chairman Syl Apps told the two their ideas would be given to the department of economics and development and the committee would discuss them privately today.

Mr. Sky later told reporters he needs no more than $25,000, perhaps $10,000 would do, to put his plan in action.

Britain Will Not Impose Trade Ban On Rhodesia Unless Others Join In Move

LONDON (AP) — Britain will not impose an oil and trade embargo on Rhodesia unless other countries join to make it effective, Prime Minister Wilson declared Tuesday night.

"We are not going to do it on our own," he told an uproarious session of the House of Commons.

The British treasury, meanwhile, announced further sanctions against the breakaway government, imposing a strict currency controls on British residents going to Rhodesia.or wishing to send cash gifts there.

Wilson said the British government does not regard the United Nations embargo resolution as mandatory.

He said his government still considers the Rhodesian crisis to be primarily a British problem, but he warned that Britain must take action to avoid having "that responsibility taken out of our hands, by others, and possibly by methods which would involve lasting damage for Rhodesia, and indeed far beyond Rhodesia."

Wilson again ruled out the sending of any British troops to overthrow the Smith regime.

Wilson said his government will "study all aspects of trade and oil" sanctions and then report back to Parliament.

"We are not going in for a trade embargo or an oil embargo alone. This would make nonsense of the situation.

"The oil embargo is bristling with difficulties if it is going to be effective and if there is to be fairly general support for it.

"These things will have to be very carefully studied."

He emphasized that Britain does not want sanctions "which are damaging and ineffective" and he added:

"It is very important we should only proceed with the others principally concerned."

Three Guards Killed In Prison Riot

Four "Madmen" Start Uprising Then Surrender

CHESTER, Ill. (AP)—Three guards were killed and six injured Tuesday night in a bloody four-hour riot at Menard State Prison.

Russ Randolph, Illinois public safety director and former warden, talked convicts into releasing three guard hostages and surrendering.

He said four "madmen" instigated the uprising, making knives out of steel bars and throwing a fire bomb into a guard area in the dining hall at dinner. They said they wanted better food, more radios and more recreation.

The four convicts were talked into submission by Randolph and Menard Warden Max Frye as 300 guards and state troopers surrounded the prison kitchen in which the convicts had barricaded themselves with three guard hostages.

The ringleaders permitted a doctor to give guard Tom Gross a blood transfusion through prison bars after he was stabbed. They released Gross when his condition became obviously serious.

SUSPECT PLANNING

"We don't know what the real reason was," Randolph said. "There seemed to be some planning. The four men worked together in the vocational training department. One bomb apparently was a paint thinner, possibly in a vinegar bottle."

The other two hostages, guards Albert W. Rohling and Arthur Gene Bierman, were released unharmed when the four men surrendered. The convicts then fled to Rohling's cell and while they talked to Randolph.

"They didn't seem organized," said Bierman. "All I can say is that they were wild."

Stabbed seriously were guards John Russell and Clinto Alsup. Less seriously stabbed were guards Paul W. Simpson and Melvin K. Staton. All were in hospital.

ONE IS BURNED

Guard Wilburn A. Mortiz was seriously burned when the fire bomb was thrown into the cage where he sat with a shotgun.

CHESTER, Ill. (AP) — Albert Rohling and Art Bierman thought for three hours Tuesday night that they might not get out alive from the kitchen of Menard State Prison. Three other guards were killed in a bloody riot.

"But you know, Bierman said after he was released as a hostage, "I can't remember what went through my mind when they put that knife to my throat.

Rohling, 58, and Bierman, 37, were two of the three guards taken hostage by a small group of convicts at the prison. The third hostage, guard Thomas S. Gross, 32, was given a blood transfusion through prison bars and released by the rioters so he could get medical attention.

Rohling and Bierman then put out the riot until the four ringleaders threw down their homemade knives and walked back to cells.

DESCRIBE ORDEAL

Rohling: "Things were normal and quiet at dinner. Then I heard a scuffle. I looked back and saw flames in the guard's cage. (A fire bomb had been thrown.) I saw Alonzo Jones, one of the prisoners, running along by a wall. I grabbed him by the arm, and then he and another man grabbed me. When Jones held me around the shoulders, he put a knife to my throat. He was very excited and disturbed."

Bierman: "I heard the bomb and was going up to investigate when I got shoved into the kitchen. They were wild. They told us to keep still or they would kill us. Then Gross was there. He got stabbed by the door, I guess."

Rohling: "I've been here five years and I never saw anything like it. They were wound up, and it didn't seem like they had any plan at first."

Bierman: "They didn't seem organized at the start. All I can say is that they were wild. They forced us into the back of the kitchen and that's where we stayed most of the time with the 20 or so kitchen helpers. They were staying clear of the riot and helping the injured officer (Gross)."

U.S. Toll In Viet Nam Tripled

By RONALD L. DEUTSCH

SAIGON (AP)—The battle of the Ia Drang Valley pushed American casualties in Viet Nam last week to 240 killed in action, the U.S. military announced today. It was nearly three times the highest total announced for any previous week.

The U.S. command also reported 470 Americans were wounded during the week ending at midnight Nov. 20 and six are missing in action.

A record number of Communist casualties also was reported—2,328 dead and 136 captured. South Vietnamese forces reported 337 dead and 807 wounded, more than double the previous week.

The exact count of American casualties during the week was believed to be significantly higher than the totals announced. The full toll will not be available until later due to procedure which requires that each casualty be identified by name before being carried on a casualty list.

ARE CONCERNED

U.S. senior commanders in Viet Nam and officials in Washington are known to be deeply concerned over the effect on morale at home of the sudden upsurge in American combat casualties. But they consider the increase inevitable as the tempo of the war continues to increase as a number of U.S. fighting men involved goes up.

The average for the Korean war was about 220 Americans battle dead a week, but at times it rose far higher.

The report today brought the total of U.S. casualties reported in nearly five years of fighting in Viet Nam to 1,300 dead and about 6,000 wounded. Half the dead and a third of the wounded were reported in the last three months as U.S. combat troops who began arriving in Viet Nam in February took a bigger and bigger part in the war.

Avert Strike In B.C.?

VANCOUVER (CP)—An announcement that an imminent general work stoppage in British Columbia has been averted, or at least delayed, appeared likely today.

With a walkout deadline only hours away, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson told reporters that an announcement would be made about 10:30 a.m. PST. (1:30 p.m. EST).

He declined to indicate the content of the announcement but said: "I am hopeful that the strike can be settled."

He said the announcement would be made at a meeting attended by Premier W. A. C. Bennett and company and union negotiators involved in the key oil industry dispute.

Oil workers already are embroiled in a strike at some refineries in B.C. and in other provinces, were scheduled to strike all refineries in the province at midnight tonight.

WOULD BE TRAGIC

The strike would also have precipitated a general 48-hour work stoppage by more than 60,000 members of other unions affiliated with the B.C. Federation of Labor.

Although the key Teamsters Union, 11,000 strong in the transportation industry here, had refused to join in what they called an "illegal" work stoppage, they had pledged not to use, handle or transport "hot" oil products.

The effect of this would have hit as much as 85 per cent of industry in the province.

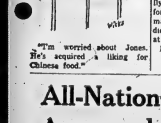
Elisabeth Of Belgium Dies At 89

BRUSSELS (AP) — Belgium's Queen Mother Elisabeth, who nursed the First World War wounded in the trenches and defied the Nazis in the Second World War, died Tuesday night. She was 89 and had suffered a heart attack Nov. 4.

Elisabeth was the widow of King Albert, mother of former King Leopold III and grandmother of the reigning monarch, King Baudouin.



A communique from the royal palace said:

"The king and the royal family have the deep sorrow to inform the country that her royal majesty, the Queen 'Elisabeth, died Nov. 23, 1965, at 9:25 p.m., at the Stuyvenberg Palace."

'Secret' Hearing Is Staged In $115,000 Quebec Fraud

QUEBEC (CP)—Gaston Constantin, charged with fraud and conspiracy to defraud $115,000, was released on $2,000 bail Monday during a closed hearing in the chambers of sessions Judge Gerard Simard, it was learned Tuesday.

He left the judge's office by a window which led into an inner courtyard of the courthouse.

The few reporters who heard about the "secret" hearing were asked not to print anything about it by Crown Prosecutor Anatole Corriveault because Constantin's life was "in danger." He didn't elucidate on the danger.

Constantin, a Quebec City salesman, Monday allowed testimony he gave at the trial of Lucien Darabanser to be added to his own dossier.

Constantin is co-accused with Darabanser, who now is before the courts. Judge Cyrille Potvin has asked the Crown and the defence to submit written summations of their cases in the Darabanser trial by Dec. 22.

Judge Simard ordered Constantin to stand trial at the next term of the criminal assizes in February. He will be sentenced in February for a $2,000 fraud to which he has already pleaded guilty.

The Crown maintains the documents were used in the $115,000 defrauding of the firm of Junior Holdings and of its president, Miss Rachel Smiley.

Stop Hunt For Skull Of Skeleton

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Police have temporarily suspended a search near a village in this Lake St. John district for the skull of a skeleton that may be the remains of an underworld purge victim.

Provincial police said the rest of the skeleton would be sent to Quebec City, 110 miles south of here, for tests.

The skeleton will be tested to determine whether it is that of Maurice Garneau of Disraeli, Que., missing since 1957.

Police were guided to the burial place in dense bush near the village of St. Andre du Lac St. Jean by a man arrested in Montreal last week. The man, aged 43, was still with officers during Tuesday's search.

Before the search began police were told Garneau's body would be found in segments, and Monday they found the main part of the skeleton. Tuesday, they found bones of the feet as well as the hands of the skeleton.

Apparently the only portion still missing was the skull, and police said indications were that it is not buried in the area where the other bones were found.

Garneau is believed to have

All-Nation Parley on Arms Approved by All But France

UNITED NATIONS (CP)— The United Nations opened the door Tuesday which could lead to a world disarmament conference, with Communist China taking part.

By a 91-to-0 vote, with only France abstaining, the UN General Assembly's main political committee approved a principle the holding of a world conference not later than 1967.

Canada joined the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain in backing an Asian-African resolution calling for the conference while Nationalist China declined to participate in the vote.

France abstained from voting on grounds that such a conference would be of no value unless it took up other issues involving world peace.

The resolution, sponsored by 43 nations, endorsed previous proposals for a world conference on disarmament "to which all countries would be invited." It urged that a widely-representative preparatory committee be appointed to take steps to convene the conference.

A leading non-aligned diplomat predicted privately that a world disarmament conference would take place in Vienna in the spring of 1967. He said Austria had offered Vienna as the site and other countries generally had approved it.

The thinking behind the resolution is to make it possible for both UN members and non-members to meet outside the world organization to study disarmament.

But despite the overwhelming support in the political committee, and virtually assured approval when the resolution comes up before the 117-nation General Assembly, a heavy cloud of uncertainty hangs over the proposed conference.

The resolution simply called for a preparatory committee to begin laying the groundwork for a world conference but it makes no mention of how the committee would be selected or how it would operate. All this has yet to be worked out.

U.S. Govt. Using Stockpiles As Economic Balance Wheel

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. government now has altered the role of $8,000,000,000 of national stockpile of key commodities so that it will serve as an economic balance wheel as well as a military weapon.

That balancing use was not foreseen in the various laws that began accumulation of supplies of 77 strategic commodities in 1939, the stated purpose of the stockpiles was to guarantee strategic materials for national defense needs.

But President Johnson's administration has put the full weight of the stockpiles behind the administration's economic guideposts for the booming peacetime economy.

During the last two weeks a government announcement that it would release 200,000 tons each of aluminum and copper from the stockpiles served to force major producers of both metals to rescind price increases.

With much less fanfare the government has been selling tin, lead and zinc this year. The sales have served to keep prices of those metals, which are in tight supply internationally, from soaring.

Officials in the government has said certain price rises lead to inflation. It has established guideposts calling for any price or wage increase in excess of 3.2 per cent as inflationary.

The aluminum boost was less than 3.2 per cent; the copper increase was not.

Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler said last week the government "will blow the whistle immediately" on economic changes exceeding the limits.

The national stockpile represents a formidable whistle.

As of June 30, 1965, the Office of Emergency Planning figured the stockpile's market value at $18,841,307,000. Of that total, about $4,000,000,000 is classified as in excess of defense needs.

How can the release of stockpile material hold down prices?

Price structures usually reflect the interworking of supply and demand. As demand advances close to, or past, available supply, prices go up. If an excess of supply develops, prices go down.

The government went into stockpiling in the wake of the Second World War when Con-

Pinnacle Paving Starts Today at Dundas Street

It's been a long, long time!

But paving operations on Pinnacle Street were scheduled to get underway some time today.

A city engineering department official said paving operations would commence at Dundas Street and work north to Bridge Street, with the asphalt to be laid on one side of the street at a time.

This morning the paving contractor, McFarland Construction, was finishing grading of the roadway and spreading more crushed stone in readiness for paving. Only the base course of asphalt will be put down this year, the finish coat to be applied next year.

Although installation of underground telephone cable is not yet completed north of Bridge Street, grading operations on this section of Pinnacle Street were commenced this week, with gravel fill being hauled in.

It is hoped that the base coat of asphalt north as far as Victoria Avenue can also be laid this fall.

Thurlow Phone Plans Changed Due to Growth

Telephone subscribers in the Thurlow exchange will dial their own calls, beginning Feb. 6, but the Belleville exchange will not be part of their local calling area.

C. H. Buckley, Bell Canada manager for this region, says the plan to eliminate long distance charges on calls between Thurlow and Belleville has been temporarily shelved.

"We are sorry the plan had to be cancelled but it would have resulted in higher rates for Belleville subscribers," Mr. Buckley says.

He explained that natural development in Belleville has increased the number of telephones that can be reached free of long distance charges to the maximum allowed in the exchange's present rate group. Board of Transport regulations provide for an automatic increase if this maximum is exceeded.

"Since the addition of 210 Thurlow customers to Belleville's free calling area would mean higher rates for all subscribers in the exchange, we need agreement from a majority of Belleville subscribers before we can proceed with the plan," Mr. Buckley says. He adds that the company did not believe such agreement would be forthcoming.

"It is expected that natural growth in Belleville will put the exchange in line for higher rates in 1967 or early 1968. At that time, we will be able to introduce local calling between Thurlow and Belleville," he says.

Charlotte Says Long, Cold Winter Ahead

OTTAWA (CP) — After keeping tabs on the squirrels and field mice around her cottage and noting the size of acorns, Charlotte Whitton has come up with a forecast for a long, cold winter.

The former Ottawa mayor said in an interview the acorns were larger than usual this fall and she watched squirrels and field mice gather them up and store them, rather than eating them. They stored more than the usual amount, Miss Whitton said.

"I don't know about the snow," she said, "but it's going to be cold. Cold enough to burst a few water pipes. And it will be a long one."

Jury Urges Birth Control Aid Be Given

GEORGETOWN, Ont. (CP)— A coroner's jury Tuesday recommended the Criminal Code be amended to allow information on birth control to be made legally available through health authorities.

It also recommended wider publicity be given to the dangers of abortion when it investigated the Oct. 29 death of Barbara Diane Butcher, 26, of nearby Glen Williams.

The jury said her death was caused by a self-inflicted air embolism, or clot, while attempting an abortion.

Mrs. Barbara Cadbury, executive director of the Planned Parenthood Association, told the jury that public health departments are not doing their duty in dealing with the abortion problem because they are not disseminating birth control information.

Mrs. Cadbury said police have a special squad to deal with abortions in Toronto, where there are 35,000 illegal abortions a year, but public health authorities will not help alleviate the problem by providing birth control advice.

Mrs. Cadbury, who was invited to speak at the inquest by the Crown counsel, said: "It is a reflection on us all when a person like Mrs. Butcher could know about intricate methods of abortion . . . but not know about contraceptives that are available."

Social Services Acquire Knowledgeable Worker To Further Council Aims

Belleville's Social Services have acquired a guiding hand and knowledgeable worker to make them more effective than ever before.

The man is Bob Porter, 30-year-old bachelor, named the Executive Director of the Social Services Planning Council. Bob came to Belleville from Ottawa, where he was a consultant for the Addiction Research Foundation and he worked before that as a consultant with the Federal Department of Northern Affairs, in the social and child welfare area. A graduate of the University of British Columbia, he spent two years there doing post graduate studies in social work. He came originally from Montreal.

Gerald Wisbart, President of the Social Services Planning Council, said, "The Council started when in 1964, upon the instigation of the Mayor, Jack Ellis, and the City Council, the Canadian Welfare Council made a survey of Belleville's needs in the Health, Welfare and Recreation fields.

"The researchers from the Canadian Welfare Council explored this city's problems in depth, talking to people and documented the findings together with the agencies.

"When the report was received by the City Council, the mayor called a meeting for interested parties and Belleville's Social Services Council grew out of that meeting.

OBJECTIVES OUTLINED

"The Council is still in the preliminary stages," Mr. Wisbart continued, "but before we went any where, we had to have an executive director and that is Bob Porter was hired. We are looking for great things in the coming year."

The objectives of the S.S.P.C. are one, to provide a voluntary association of citizens, organizations and agencies engaged in or concerned with studying and meeting the health, recreational and welfare needs of this community; two, to facilitate long range and co-operative action of the overall community services program by constant review, revision and development, to the end that the total resources of the community may be utilized to meet these needs in the most efficient and effective manner possible; and three, to administer a fund or funds into which shall be paid voluntary subscriptions, gifts and bequests encouraged by the best possible interpretation of the community's needs and services.

"Bob's job will be to help people carry out their studies of various problems brought to the attention of the Council," Mr. Wisbart said. "He will be doing some of the leg work for them, some of the research and will give an overall continuity to the work of various project committees."

Mr. Porter said, "Somewhere along the line, somebody has to feel there is a gap in social services in Belleville. The Planning Council then studies the problem and provided there is really a problem, a need in that area, a Project Committee is set up, under the auspices of the Council, to study the problem and make a report to the council.

"Members of these committees can be any persons who are interested and want to solve the problem. One of the wonderful things about work in the social field is that there is jobs enough for everyone, and vital, rewarding jobs.

"When committee members study a problem in a particular area, there may be 20 members or only three on one problem. I have become knowledgeable in that area and as they are studying, changes are taking place. One example of that is the new Family Counselling Service in Belleville. Though the Planning Council can take no credit for its formation, that service is now set up as offspring of the research the Canadian Welfare Council was doing into Belleville social services.

"The Planning Council has also been active in the area of immediate social activities relating to health, welfare and recreation in the community.

"Our goal is not to meet all our needs immediately. We want to help create a community gets the 'Best for its money and progresses in an orderly fashion. Not just private individual plans, for example, you do not buy a house, then a car, then a television all at once—you spread it out so you can afford it, the same with community services. Plan for the community in the most efficient and sensible fashion."

OPERATING ON GRANT

The new Social Services Planning Council is operating on a $25,000 budget, $15,000 of this year and hopes, within two or three years, to be able to obtain all its funds from donations through the United Appeal Campaign. Every city in Canada with a population over 70,000, and most with a population of 50,000 or greater, has a Social Services Planning Council. Belleville is one of the few smaller cities to have one. As Jack Ellis, Mayor, Emeritus said, "is a feather in our cap."

The board consists of 20 members, one of whom is an alderman of the city of Belleville. The others are from many areas: housewives, labor, industry, professions, clergy and others.

Mr. Porter said: "The community is full of people who want to help. Part of the reason for this is the increase in leisure time, but more important I think is that each of us has the need to be socially useful and the council would provide an excellent opportunity to be just that."

Subjects soon to be under study by the council are: the need for a day nursery in the city for working mothers with pre-school aged children; the co-ordination of the distribution of food hampers to needy families during the Christmas season; and the need for recreational facilities for those aged 10 to 18. All these problems and others, have been brought to the attention of the council by interested parties, and will be investigated and, where necessary, corrected.

NO OVERLAPPING

"Another job on the council," said Mr. Porter, "is to try and get people working in various groups to work together to avoid an overlapping of effort. We hope to act as a catalist between these groups. People want to work together, but someone has to provide the leadership first.

"We are trying to avoid the duplication of effort that results when various organizations are spending time and money on the same problem or in the same area, rather than one group doing one area and another group another area.

"We have the whole range of services in Belleville, but they are not always getting to the people who need them. We hope to solve this problem through co-ordination of the various social services."

And so the task awaits the infant Social Services Planning Council. It is not an easy task, but with the help of City Council and of the people of Belleville, it can be accomplished. Belleville will be better as a result.

The question of oral French as a regular curriculum study in Belleville public schools will again be before the public school board at its regular December meeting.

At this week's meeting of the board, Trustee Hazel Pugh gave notice that at the next meeting she would introduce a motion calling for board approval of oral French lessons and for application to the Ontario Department of Education for permission to include such classes in the regular school curriculum.

If department approval is received, the motion would call for the setting up of some oral French classes for the September 1966 opening of school.

The idea of introducing oral French as a regular curriculum has been discussed in recent days. It was before the board a couple of years ago but failed to meet with the approval of board members.

Since then the membership of the board has changed somewhat and the board attitude toward oral French in public schools may have changed.

Currently, oral French classes are being offered at some public schools as an after school study. The classes are sponsored by the home and school clubs.

Enrolment in the city public schools at the end of October was given as 5,142 as compared with 5,017 for the previous year. Attendance efficiency was stated lower than usual for the month of October by Attendance Teacher absence during October was 55 days for illness and two days for personal reasons.

Hamilton of the Kingston Area Office of the Department of Education, regarding physical education program in Belleville, November 1, 2, 3 and 4, and with Assistant Superintendent J. W. Grier, Simcoe, on November 5th, regarding the individual education program. Mr. Cousins reported satisfactory with the consultations in both instances and with the useful suggestions which resulted.

Business Assistant J. L. Anderson reported on attendance at the Department of Education Conference held on School Design at Kingston, November 2 and 3 which he attended in company with the Supervisor of Maintenance, D. W. Wilson. The board's architects, Watson and Wilkinson were also represented at this meeting.

Mr. Anderson also reported on suggestions for study for consideration in preparing the board's budget for the ensuing year. Approximately half of the survey was reported completed at the time of the meeting.

An offer to purchase a portion of the Queen Elizabeth School site by Targos Motel Limited, at $1,500, was not accepted.

TALK ON WAGGES

A report of the staff relations committee regarding wages and working conditions for custodial and maintenance employees was received with the committee authorized to continue consultations with the employees.

Report on the board's total insurance program was received and several changes were directed, including a fire insurance deductible item of $1,000, theft reinstatement, general liability coverage, alteration to blanket coverage for fidelity bond, and extension of the type of coverage for boilers.

A request from the city manager to bring the board's forecast of capital requirements up to date for the next five years was referred to committee of the chairman of property, the chairman of building and the chairman of the board, with the superintendent, to report at the December meeting.

Chairman J. R. Scott appointed Trustees F. P. Clarke, George Joyce and George Rutledge, with Superintendent L. A. Reid, a special committee on the board's policy manual, to report at the December meeting.

Chairman Scott told the board he would be resigning from the board in order that he might stand for election to the municipal council. He expressed satisfaction and pleasure with his membership and associations since first elected in December 1963, and particularly with his experience as chairman for the year 1965.

Present at the meeting were: Chairman J. R. Scott, M.D., and Trustees L. A. Bishop, F. P. Clarke, G. Hutchinson, G. W. Joyce, M. Lovelace, Hazel Pugh, B.A., J. N. McKibbon, B.Sc.; George Rutledge, James Ritchie, G. H. Tyll and W. A. Vantassel.

ing Canada, when he told the committee just before recess began that the United States regarded the vote merely as approval "in principle" of a world conference.

BURNS SPEAKS

LL-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canada's chief disarmament negotiator, said in explaining Canada's vote that it supported "the principle of convening a conference" to give an opportunity to all countries to "exchange views and express their opinion on the all-important question of disarmament."

Burns, however, said that there are a number of "practical problems which must subsequently have to be resolved." He said the eventual decision by Canada to participate in the conference will depend on a number of factors—such as whether the meeting is properly organized."

Burns suggested that when the preparatory commission is being established, the following considerations should be borne in mind:

—The necessity to keep the group relatively small, with a membership of 25 at the most to ensure effective work.

—Membership on it should be broadly representative of those countries whose attendance at the proposed conference is essential because of their significant military power.

—Membership should be made up to a large extent of those countries with practical experience in disarmament negotiations.

ITS SUPPLEMENT

The world conference "to be truly useful must supplement rather than supersede existing arrangements for considering disarmament problems, Burns said.

While preparatory work was taking place, he added, it should not interfere with the disarmament deliberations which may be taking place elsewhere in bodies such as the United General Assembly or the 18-nation disarmament committee, of which Canada is a member.

"No one disarmament forum can be expected to have a monopoly of wisdom on the most important field," he said, "and we must do everything we can to assure that, in addition to being a new forum, we are not in any way reducing the effectiveness of those which already exist."

Businessmen Get Diplomas On Graduation

TRENTON — Trenton "Jaycees" were Tuesday night commended by Mayor Lorne MacDonald for their "go-ahead" in sponsoring a management-accounting course for 22 Trenton businessmen, who received their graduation diplomas at the end of their ten weeks' course.

Mayor MacDonald said he had been disturbed to hear that the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce were "seriously thinking of folding up," owing to lack of interest in the organization. He added that he had been pleased to hear that the Jaycees had reconsidered at a meeting last week and had decided to continue operations, while attempting to attract new members.

"We need youthful thinking men like you in this town," the mayor said.

Ross Dean, from the technological and trades training branch of the Department of Education, on hand to assist course leader Thomas Fleming with the presentation of certificates, also praised the initiative of the Jaycees in co-sponsoring with the department the accounting course, designed to teach small businessmen how to run their operations more efficiently.

Mr. Dean especially noted that Jerry Goldberg, charter president of the Trenton Jaycees, had instigated the course. Mr. Goldberg took the course himself and, graduated last night.

Man Is Facing Bigamy Charge

TRENTON — A Kingston area man, Floyd Botting, was charged in magistrate's court yesterday with making a bigamous marriage in Trenton on March 8. Botting, who did not plead, is free on bail until a court appearance on Jan. 4. He was represented in court yesterday by Trenton lawyer, Wm. G. Weston.

Belleville lawyer, Ronald Cass will represent Crown Attorney Edward Wm. Gaffray of Trenton on December 28, when they appear in Trenton attempting to obtain a police officer while he was performing his duty. Both are charged with being intoxicated.

Williams readily admitted he had been driving a car on Nov. 24 and that his licence was under suspension, but said he had an explanation.

After police evidence had been heard, Williams made a statement to the court in which he said he had been showing a prospective buyer his car, and had not been satisfied with the way the potential buyer was driving, so had taken the wheel himself, within two blocks of his home, to avoid possible accident.

The case was enlarged for sentence, one week.

Will Call Road Tenders Next Year

TRENTON — The Department of Highways engineers, meeting in Port Hope this week, reviewed the contract for the completion of the new downtown street road in Murray township and decided to call tenders for the building of a road south of the railway overpass, (which is north of Highway Two), through to Highway 33, on April 15, 1966.

Tenders for completion of section of the new road between the overpass northward to Highway 401 will be called June 1, 1966.

Meanwhile, plans are going ahead for the Trenton utility commission to build a retaining 22 dam against the new road and a water storage pond in the immediate area.

Murray township council met this week to arrange adjustment of taxes on a motor shop owned by Nicko Crosby, which has not been used for a year and on an unused part of a cooper building, owned by Charles York.

A deputation attended council, objecting to Mike Mills adding an addition to his Barcoven Beach hot dog stand. Mr. Mills used the addition last year to unload fish from nets.

As the addition to the building is built out over land which once was part of Lake Ontario, council wasn't just sure if its jurisdiction extended to the lake—so bypassed the question. Council also agreed to pay one farmer for a lamb and another for a goat, said to have been killed by dogs running in packs.

Old House Burns

TRENTON — An empty, two-storey frame house at 262 Sidney Street, Trenton is the ground early yesterday. The old building, which was in the process of being torn down, was owned by Floyd Sharp.

GETS CASE BACK

TORONTO (CP)—A briefcase stolen from a car in a parking lot last week was returned Tuesday to its owner, Toronto Symphony Orchestra conductor Seiji Ozawa. The briefcase contained musical scores and a pair of gold cuff links, a gift to Mr. Ozawa from Mayor Philip Givens. The case was returned by a storekeeper who found it in a vacant lot.

Will Call Minister Of Accident Details

TRENTON — Details of an accident which occurred in Trenton on November 7 will be forwarded to the Ontario Minister of Transport, including explanation of Wilfred Willman, charged with careless driving, that his foot had slipped off the brake and onto the accelerator, and "stuck" there, because he suffered a kink to the knee.

W. C. Werton, Willman's lawyer, said in Trenton court yesterday that Willman had been in a parade on the day his car was involved in a collision with another vehicle and that his knee had been bothering him. Willman, he said, had driven 20 years without a mishap.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills said he thought the transport minister should be made aware of the details of the accident. Willman was fined $30 and ordered to pay court costs of $4.

Yukon Starts Long Journey to Deliver Goodies

TRENTON, Ont. (CP) — A four-engine Yukon aircraft has left here on the first leg of a globe-girdling mission to deliver Christmas goodies to Canadian servicemen spending the holiday season in foreign countries.

The 30,000-mile flight, longest Christmas mission ever carried out by the RCAF's Air Command, will carry 29,000 pounds of mail, parcels and groceries to servicemen and their dependents in Ghana, Tanzania, India, Laos, Thailand and South Viet Nam.

A total of 18 crewmen were aboard at departure Monday, including pilot Flt. Lt. E. J. McLaughlin and Sqdn. Ldr. Robert Sturgess, both of Toronto and Flt. Lt. E. M. Spencer of Belleville.

Inmates Help To Assemble Parade Float

TRENTON — One of the most interesting floats in Saturday's Santa Claus parade will be the entry of the Trenton Jaycees, "Grumpy Gumdrop." This float, designed to delight the small fry, was assembled last weekend in Kingston penitentiary, with some of the inmates lending a willing hand. The men helping out took a real delight in making their contribution to the joy of Christmas . . . for those on the "outside."

A Mature Decision

The substantial vote in favor of cocktail lounges in Belleville reflects a trend which has already taken hold in many other communities in Ontario.

The decision, in our opinion, was a mature one. It reflects the view that cocktail bars, as well as beverage rooms where beer is sold, are not necessarily an invitation to moral decline or an encouragement to alcoholism.

Alcoholism is something no responsible citizen willingly condones or encourages. But alcoholism is a disease, a weakness of the flesh that bears little or no relation to the number of cocktail lounges in a community. Those who suffer from it have no difficulty satisfying their craving from existing sources.

Belleville has now come into line with other communities in the area. We are satisfied that the new lounges, as they are provided, will be run in a responsible and orderly fashion. We are also satisfied that those who frequent them will exercise their new privileges in a like manner.

Safe-driving Week

On the subject of traffic safety, traffic accidents, traffic deaths—all the various aspects of this vast national problem—there is nothing that has not been said. No effort has been spared by the Highway Safety Council and by Press and Radio to try and educate the driving public to exercise greater care.

Yet the accidents still occur and people are still being killed and maimed daily. Last week 37 people died in accidents across Canada. Every other week it is the same, to a greater or lesser degree. By the end of the year some 4,000 Canadians will have lost their lives in traffic accidents.

The way some people drive makes it readily apparent to all but the dullest wits that accidents will happen. The tragedy is that innocent and guilty both become involved in such tragedies. To drive on Highway 401, particularly near Toronto, is to observe all the elements that make for rendering 30 or 40 people stone dead every week.

December 1 to 7 once again has been designated Safe-Driving Week, which in view of what we have said and having regard to the statistics is a grim contradiction in terms. Nevertheless, the week is one in which the accent is placed on safety. Possibly the words may fall on deaf ears; still we can only hope that, somehow, the oft-repeated message this time will have some effect on the car driving public.

The Highway Safety Council, itself seems pessimistic. It possibly feels the Council says, "to reduce the death toll to fewer than 50 for this special week," adding: "We cannot be proud of this objective, but it can be done. Weather, watchfulness and increased attention by all drivers and walkers could bring this down to 25."

Irish Recollections

Oscar Wilde, the celebrated Irish playwright of Victorian times, whose comedy The Importance of Being Earnest is being presented next week by Belleville Theatre Guild, received his early education in a part of Ireland well known to Canadian students during the last war.

He attended Portora Royal School, Enniskillen, an ancient pile founded by James 1 in 1618, and still one of Britain's leading public schools. Set on a bluff overlooking Lough Erne, in the heart of Fermanagh, Ireland's lakeland, Portora would seem an unlikely place for the spawning of such a sophisticated genius as Wilde.

But there were others in this tradition. The contemporary playwright, Samuel Beckett, of "Waiting for Godot" fame, went to Portora, and another, earlier, student who was to gain fame in later life was Henry Francis Lyte, cleric and author of the hymn Abide With Me.

Canadian and other Allied airmen knew Lough Erne as an RAF Coastal Command base during the last war. The shores of this beautiful Irish lake region reverberated to the roar of Sunderlands and Catalinas. It was a Catalina from this base which sighted the German battleship Bismarck after contact had been temporarily lost during the final search for the German raider.

British and U. S. land-based aircraft also operated from nearby St. Angelo. And General Eisenhower paid a visit to the area just prior to the invasion of Normandy, inspecting U.S. troops drawn up on the playing fields of Portora.

Fermanagh today retains its old serenity. The air bases, like our own Mountain View, are used rarely, if at all. Only the shells of the school oarsmen disturb the quiet waters of the lough. Portora itself, still site on the hill overlooking historic Enniskillen and the lower lough, as it has since early in the 17th century.

Strictly Personal

The Art of Discovering Oneself

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When young people ask, as they often do, about the best way to understand themselves and others, I usually refer them to a maxim of Goethe, which at first strikes them, because it seems upside down.

"If you want to know yourself, observe what your neighbors are doing," he said. "If you want to understand others, probe within yourself."

Most of us do exactly the opposite. We observe our neighbors in order to understand them; and we probe within ourselves, in order to understand ourselves better. But neither can be done in these obvious ways.

This is because we normally look at others objectively and look at ourselves subjectively. We see others in the cool light of sanity and realism — we detect their flaws, their weaknesses, their self-deceptions, their prejudices masquerading as principles.

When we probe within ourselves, we cannot see the same distortions, for the personality's angle of vision does not refract this far. We see only our own good intentions, our wistful dreams and hopes, our hidden fears and deepest needs and our unremitting calls for love and appreciation.

Even when we try to be self-critical, it is not in the same way in which others are critical of us. For it is not really justice we want, for ourselves, but mercy on top of it.

Since everyone — except, perhaps, the severely disturbed — feels this same way inside, it is when we probe within ourselves that we come closest to growing the essential nature of others. And it is only when we look at others, with a candid eye, that we can realize how equally transparent we must seem to them.

It is no accident that the most saintly men and women considered themselves as "sinners," while loving the rest of humanity. For this is precisely what makes a saint, and distinguish him from the rest of us; he looks at others subjectively, and at himself objectively. He judges himself with cold justice, and others with warm mercy, so that their major faults seem to him less grievous than his own minor flaws.

Most of us, of course, cannot approach anywhere near this profound reversal of everyday values. (And if we try to do it before we are ready for it, we have a neurotic imitation of sanctity; no one is worse than the person who wants to be a saint before he is fully human.)

Self-scrutiny is painful and futile, if its end is to "know thyself." Introspection is not at all what Socrates meant in his famous injunction; for we can know ourselves only by entering into the Other, and we can know the Other only when we appraise him by the same merciful standards we apply to the Self.

Baby's Warmth Is Important Factor

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our son-in-law claims that 60 degrees is the ideal temperature for all children until two years of age. What do you have to say about this? — Mrs. T. S.

He might be right or he might be a kook. There isn't any ideal temperature because we all have our individual preferences, but room temperature isn't the important thing—if that's what he means. How warm is the baby?

It is true that healthy babies tolerate lower temperatures very well, first because their metabolism tends to be high, and second because they usually're snuggly dressed in sleepers or what not.

A bedroom, for babies or adults, at 60 degrees is comfortable and perfect for appropriate night clothes and covers. If covers are light, however, 60 degrees would not be very comfortable.

If your son-in-law is talking about living room temperature, that's something else. Even he, I suspect, would want a sweater, or jacket at 60 degrees.

Common sense in dress is the main thing. Most babies being kept at 70 degrees or never gets that low? They thrive.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am fairly regular with my period and free from problems except my eyes. They become very puffy on the lids and corners for about five days. My face has an entirely different appearance during this time. Would hormones eliminate it? — Mrs. J. H.

One of the problems discussed in my leaflet, "Pre-Menstrual Blues," is the disorder in fluids in the body just prior to menstrual periods. Your puffiness is one of the ways it could easily be a part of that situation. If so, I would not expect hormones to be the answer, but your doctor might deem it wise to try them as a therapeutic test.

Dear Dr. Molner: I can't sleep with my period and free from problems except my eyes. They become very puffy on the lids and corners for about five days. My face has an entirely different appearance during this time. Would hormones eliminate it? — Mrs. J. H.

Dear Dr. Molner: I lost 110 pounds in a year with thyroid extract and a 1200-a-day diet, and I'm a happier person.

My friends tell me my blood can turn to water. Some say it can affect my head, is that true? The doctors give me credit for will power. My looks certainly have changed for the better. — Mrs. H.

I will never understand why calamity-hunters get so much pleasure out of telling people that something terrible is going to happen to them.

Clearly you have done this remarkable job by reducing under medical supervision and equally obviously, your thyroid was not operating properly, so the thyroid extract was used to get it into normal condition.

Thyroid treatment is not "an easy way to reduce." Rather, it helps in cases in which a lazy thyroid gland has contributed to the excess weight. And it still takes will power, restricted diet and exercise to accomplish results.

No, this medication certainly will not make your blood turn to water or affect your head.

Note to J.: The wheat germ won't hurt you, but neither will it improve your eye-sight or "open up your arteries."

—Lord Snowdon has come, with the unpardonable sin by asking for Scotch and ginger ale in San Francisco. Purists allow only four approved methods of imbibing — Scotch straight with water, Scotch and soda, Scotch on the rocks.

But Snowdon mixed it with ginger.

Alben Barkley, vice-president in the Truman regime, once was checked up on a similar heretical appetite while mixing ginger ale and Bourbon. Barkley replied that he concocted the ginger ale did nothing for the Bourbon but "Bourbon certain. ly does wonders for ginger ale," and nobody questioned that.

Possible needed future expansion of the educational system in Belleville was discussed by members of the Board of Education at their regular meeting Friday evening when a committee was formed to survey the city to determine the advisability of securing control of land which may be needed for future school expansion.

The question of possible increased school accommodation in Belleville was broached by a board member who put a motion that a committee of the chairman of the Board, the public school management, the chairman of finance, and the administrator be appointed to look into the matter.

The above committee will survey the present educational accommodation of the city from the viewpoint of future requirements and report on the advisability of securing control now of land that may be necessary and which should be acquired for future public school purposes.

It happened here yesterday. Two men, a farmer from Ameliasburg, arrived at an arrangement to come to Belleville from Ameliasburg for a country — one of them owned a horse but possessed no buggy or harness, the other had a buggy and harness, but no horse. They combined their outfits and journeyed hither. All went well for a time until they had some liquid refreshments, and, behold, sufficient to cause an argument between them. The result was that the man with the horse mounted same off with it and left the other in town with his harness and buggy, he hired a horse to drive him home.

Personal Needs Of Old People

Much is being said, written and discussed in conventions, about how to make homes for elderly people more congenial to the residents.

Owing to lengthened lives by science and medical care more homes are being built all across Canada to house old people. So now seems an appropriate time for new opinions.

I am a resident of such an institution for going on four years. So my comments may have some value.

What sparked me to give my views is an article in The Intelligencer of November 8, entitled "Elderly people should be called upon to help solve problems for the aged." In this article, in a convention at London, Ont., Miss Wilson said, "Fulfillment for the aged cannot be legislated." That is very true. A far more personal ground must be found. The Welfare Department of Government is a far cry from the life of a pensioner. Old mind function while failing are limits, no two alike. Referring again to the article mentioned above, I doubt that, outside of exceptional cases, old people could participate in organized local study groups or leadership programs. Service projects could be within the grasp of nimble fingers used to hand work.

To quote again kindness is the most important characteristic for anyone whose duty it is to care for the aged.

As far as institutional life can be made flexible, let old people live their individual lives as nearly reasonable to the lives they have lived. They are old with habits and tendencies already formed.

It is very true the falsely endearing terms grandma, grandpa, auntie, dearie must be eliminated in addressing old people. Nothing makes me feel so childish, silly and useless as to be so addressed. Elderly people are individuals and have a name which is their own.

Here is my ideal of Institutional life for elderly citizens. They are now in the backwater of life. They contributed to their generation in their day. They are entitled to their last years in physical and mental comfort.

The construction of the homes is wrong. Give each resident a private room. It be ever so small. It is assumed that old people like and need company. That is true, but in their limited liberties they want. Four old people 70 and over with life habits formed should not be put indiscriminately together. That kills friendship and fosters hate. Furthermore there are times when every human being needs to be absolutely alone. It is a necessity of nature.

The early breakfast is a trial. Most of these old people have been early risers for so many years, what a treat it would be could "sleep in", but, no, roused out before daylight, a hasty trip to the washroom, dressed and breakfast at 7:30 a.m. The poor sleepers (and they are many) have just got relaxed and sleeping their best sleep. This should not be. But remember I am describing ideals I am suggesting are "ideals".

Each separate room should have its own heating unit. People have their own version of ventilation and are entitled to it. A common heating unit for people causes dissension. To use "air" is life to another death.

Provision should be made for moisture in the rooms. Dry air works havoc on the breathing, nails, skin and general discomfort.

Each resident needs, beside a bedside stand, a ward robe, a bureau, and a locker. It adds to their self-respect that personal possession be tidy, handy and behind a closed door.

The standard height toilet seats are 2 to 4 inches too low, for an institution where people of higher, could not a device be made to raise the seat higher? Old backs, legs and arms and legs do not conform to the present height. Hand rails help some if arms are strong enough.

When a resident dies no official information is given. Only the grape vine. Why? All have come through much more poignant and personal grief. A simple announcement on an inconspicuous bulletin board would be sufficient. It would show respect for death.

The Home should provide one car for the funeral of a resident, unless the funeral home or cemetery is too far away. Every death means friends made in the Home, who would like to attend the last rites.

These suggestions I respectfully submit.

Veteran Resident.

Letters to the Editor

Phrase Omitted, Meaning Changed

In a letter from E. A. Schlevert on city sidewalks, published Monday, the following sentence appeared: "In an effort to establish just who is responsible, I approached an engineer of a certain city and was definitely informed that the property owner pays for the sidewalk repair and replacement." Unfortunately eleven words were omitted from this sentence, completely changing its original meaning. It should have read: "In an effort to establish just who is responsible, I approached an engineer of a certain city and was definitely informed that the property owner pays for the sidewalk when it is installed and thereafter the city is responsible for repair and replacement."

Negro Calmed Angry Crowd

Dallas Morning News

George Cobb, a student at Springfield, Ohio, South High, is being acclaimed as a hero in his home town. And he should be praised, for he demonstrated a courageous leadership.

George Cobb is a Negro. His best friend and teammate, also a Negro, was critically injured while trying to break up a fight between a Negro and a white. Cobb, a football star, attacked the assailant, a white student, on a murder charge.

When Negro students left school, they congregated without urging or direction at a nearby Y.M.C.A. Murmurings of attempts to get revenge by destruction against the school were heard.

George Cobb stepped upon the platform and told the tense crowd of possible fatality of destruction would accomplish nothing but the injury of the innocent, including Cobb himself, who would be burdened with the fines and damages caused by any vandalism. His words were calm and made sense. When the restless youngsters thought over what he had said, they decided to go home.

When anger or grief charges the emotions of a person, it is easy to whip a group into a mob bent on destruction. It is much more difficult to step forward and ask a crowd to think about the senselessness of such behavior. It is easy to point a mob to the path of hate; it is hard to lead individuals to the path of reason.

Those who can accomplish the latter must combine cool-headed rationality with courage. This is a rare combination. Despite his youth George Cobb seems to have it. He wonders his parents and his hometown are proud of him.

Stores and Xmas Rush

Windsor Star

Self - serving techniques have reduced the need in many stores for clerks. There are a few, however, many shops which by their nature require a competent sales staff. Automation has not enough if there be too few of them.

The Christmas shopping season is nigh and most stores will need extra help. These may not be so easily come by this year, with most who want work already having full time jobs. Already some stores are feeling the pinch.

We saw an example the other day, in one section of the store there were seven customers waiting to be served with many a sales person in sight. After seven minutes one harried clerk turned up. She did her very best, was courteous and efficient. But when we left that store area there were some customers still waiting to be served, after a 25 - minute delay.

This occurred at noon - hour. Understandably sales people have to eat, as anyone else. But that is the very hour when many downtown workers must do their shopping. They are in a hurry, as they must get back to their jobs.

Any store which lets prospective customers wait 15 minutes alone, let alone 25, to be served is apt to lose business.

Four bodies have already been recovered and two more are still being sought.

A coroner's jury has found four men criminally responsible in the deaths of the victims whose remains already have been recovered, and one man has been charged with capital murder of one of the victims.

QUEBEC (CP) — Lawrence Gilbert, a 37-year-old restaurateur, pleaded guilty Tuesday to two charges each of arson and conspiracy to commit arson in connection with a house fire earlier this year and a second fire.

Gilbert was the 15th person to plead guilty to charges connected with provincial investigation of arsons over the last few years.

A police spokesman said later a new arson ring which worked mainly in the Beauce County area south of here is being investigated. Reports are that a large number of persons are involved.

Elisabeth was known for her courage, her independence and her love of the arts and of travel, and was known jokingly as "The Red Queen" before showing sympathy toward Russia. She visited both Russia and Red China. Just before her 80th birthday she travelled to Puerto Rico and the United States to attend musical festivals.

Elizabethville, capital of Katanga province in the old Belgian Congo, was named, after her when it was founded in 1910.

Elisabeth married Albert in 1900 and he became king in 1909, upon the death of his uncle, King Leopold II.

She established surgical centres near the front lines to treat Belgian wounded faster and repeatedly visited the front.

Elisabeth remained in Brussels throughout the Second World War—her son Leopold III was then king—and helped countless Belgians, particularly Jews, escape from the Nazis.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell School Given 2 Flags

Students of Sir Mackenzie Bowell School were presented with two flags yesterday—one the new Canadian flag, and the other the Elmer Safety Flag.

In a general assembly at the school, School Inspector J. Cousins presented the new Canadian flag to Principal Robert Horwood. Mr. Horwood accepted it on behalf of the students.

Mr. Cousins said: "This flag is not merely a piece of cloth, it is a symbol of unity, strength and democracy; a symbol of our nationhood.

"This flag is the culmination of Canada's growth from a colony to the strong nation it is today and you boys and girls will see it grow even stronger.

"The flag is something that represents Canada as a nation, our loyalty to the Queen and our democratic way of life."

Brad Bradley, on behalf of the Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the school safety program, then presented the students with a safety plaque for an accident free year in 1964.

Mr. Bradley said: "We in Kiwanis Club are very pleased to sponsor the safety program. Safety is not just a five-day effort, you must learn the safety rules, remember them and practise them seven days a week."

PROGRAM INTERNATIONAL

Inspector Ralph Blatchford, who was Safety Officer at the school before he became inspector said: "You are getting the flag for your school and your Elmer flag today and I hope these will mean a great deal to all of you.

"The Elmer safety program is not just an isolated program confined to Belleville, it is very international in scope. It means you are entering into a form of providing—identifying with yourselves, your parents, your teachers and your safety officer that you are going to do the utmost to prevent accidents.

"When it is you who gets hit with a car, it is you who suffers the actual physical pain. You have never heard the bumper of a car cry yet and you never will.

"Why do accidents happen? Because we forget, we do not think all of the time. You must resolve to be safety conscious at all times and to finish the school year without another accident."

"I would ask you to honor them, cherish them and treat them with the dignity and respect they deserve."

"R.C.M.P. in the North" Topic at Canadian Club

"Canada has not fallen the victim," declared Supt. William George Fraser as he addressed the Canadian Club of Belleville and District at Sherman Centre Churchill School last evening.

Supt. Fraser, introduced by the president Mrs. J. G. Dann, joined the R.C.M.P. in 1931, and following recruit training was immediately posted to the Eastern Arctic. From 1940-44 he was officer commanding G Division, responsible for the policing of the entire Canadian Arctic which includes the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territory.

Using a large map of this area for illustration purposes, Supt. Fraser gave an interesting talk on the topic, "The R.C.M.P. in the North." He primarily dealt with the force's association with the Eskimos and of its purpose in policing a far north, which he stated is over half the size of Australia. Their main purpose is to establish sovereignty and to help the people in any way possible. As far as establishing law and order, the speaker said that there is little criminal crime in the Arctic and described the Eskimos as good living Christian-like people who will be accepted as Canadians.

He also stated that at one time they were completely self-sufficient and supported themselves by their own efforts. Since 1931 the population has doubled and is now recorded to be around the 10,000 mark.

WORK OF R.C.M.P.

Dealing with the work of the force in the north, the speaker told his audience that in 1897 the first police force, known then as the North West Mounted Police entered the Arctic and with overwhelming odds and circumstances defended the influx of people. There are now in G Division, five subdivisions, and 63 detachments to have the use of five planes, a watercraft, and trucks and jeeps where roads exist, but sled and travel along the coast is usually by dog teams.

Continuing along this line Supt. Fraser stated that approximately six persons a year are killed by the dogs that form obvious reasons all become jealous. For this reason Mr. Fraser felt this something could be done in regards to the breed of dog and believed that the Siberian Husky was best as it could pull a heavier sled and go much faster. The subject of breeding these dogs was started at Fort Norman following the kindness of Walt Gray who gave force 20 of this breed in 1960 and now there is a team for each R.C.M.P. detachment in the north.

The speaker also told of a few of the many patrols made by the force in opening up the Northland and dealt in particular with the cross country journeys of Fitzgerald and Moody, all from records left by the latter, the same route was used when the Alaskan Highway was built.

RECORD HISTORY

To conclude his remarks Supt. Fraser hoped that the history of north would be built on good while records and statistics were intact, which in turn would leave perpetual reference to the glory of the past.

An informative question and answer period followed, during which time the speaker informed his audience that education facilities for both the Eskimo and Indian in the north were excellent.

Mr. D. I. McKinnon expressed thanks to the speaker for sharing his experiences and trips of the north with the members. Refreshments in charge of Mrs. Claire and Mrs. Mayhew were served.

Mrs. S. Alec Gordon provided piano accompaniment opening and closing numbers. Next meeting January 14, 1966 will be a panel discussion.

Ladies' Aux. ANAF Enjoys Yule Party

Ladies' Auxiliary of A.N. and A.F. No. 49 enjoyed a delicious potluck supper prior to their general meeting recently. The tables were set in a festive manner as this will commence the Christmas activities, due in the busy month of December.

Following a report of tasty foods, the general meeting took place with Comrade E. Buckley presiding. The meeting opened in the usual manner, it was noted that several comrades were ill. Initiation took place of four new members and one re - instatement. Various items of interest were discussed, one of which was a bursary to be given to a veteran's child in one of the Belleville schools selected. Also a cheque to be sent to the related home at Plainfield. All shut in members are to be remembered at Christmas with a gift.

Following the meeting a Christmas gift exchange took place. A box of Christmas candy was donated by each member these will be sent through Mrs. Hurst to the Cobourg Mental Institution.

C.N.I.B. Advisory Board Holds Meet

The regular fall meeting of the Hastings County Advisory Board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was held at the home of Mrs. Mary Walker, Foxboro, on Tuesday evening with 20 members present.

Mrs. Maude Rollins chaired the meeting. Reports were presented on welfare work, United Appeal and campaign results, Board of Governors, Bilsdeart Sale, the eye bank, and the work of the field secretaries.

Mr. Preston Timmins, on behalf of the C.N.I.B., presented 25 year certificates for voluntary service to Miss Myrtle Peck and Mr. George Wishart, who, in expressing their pleasure for this recognition, declared the great rewards and the profound satisfaction they have experienced in their long service with the blind people of the district.

Mr. Timmins announced, regretfully, that Mr. Doug. McCallum has been transferred to Windsor as of January 1st.

Mr. Gordon Sheppard spoke on his experiences as a trainee for Field Secretary of the C.N.I.B. Mr. Sheppard has been in this area since the spring. He was previously with C.N.I.B. Catering Service in Ottawa. He said, "The role of a field secretary is diversified with a preponderance of duties."

"The trainee must attend all Advisory Board meetings, visit blind people, instigate recreation programs, look after public relations with news media and services to the blind, such as library service, talking books, Braille literature, vocational guidance, correspondence courses, rehabilitation and the eye bank."

Mr. Sheppard goes to Toronto in January to complete his course by studying psychology, psychiatry, medical terms, public speaking, publicity, business administration and the many policies of the CNIB. It is apparent that this is a very demanding position.

Mr. McCallum and Mr. Sheppard, though without sight, are pleased with much capacity for enjoying life and appear to be great and cheerful inspirations to the blind people with whom they have chosen to labor, as they are to everyone fortunate enough to have no such problems.

The Christmas party given by the Belleville Rotary Club will be held in St. Andrew's Church on December 19th.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Waller for hospitality and lunch.

Bringing Up Baby

NIANTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

How do you develop a good eater? Well, babies, like adults, need the eye-appeal of different colours, the taste-appeal of different flavours and the sensation of pleasing textures. For these are among the things that make eating enjoyable. And if your baby enjoys his food, he's more likely to establish good eating habits early.

Mode-to-order eating enjoyment . . . that's the sum and substance of Gerber Strained Foods. Add up these assets: lively colours, tempting true flavours and smoothness-can-be textures. What do you get? The special brand of Gerber goodness.

And how many varieties make up the delicious list? Over 60, including fruits, vegetables, meats, dinners, meat dinners, cereal-fruit combinations, egg yolks and desserts. All are "custom-cooked" according to their own requirements to preserve the utmost in nutritive values.

Gerber "Chef" Suggestion (Involved or Junior)

Chicken
Sweet Potatoes
Fruit Custard
Formula o' Milk

Attitude study. It pays to remember that hurry and worry take the pleasure out of baby's meals. If you hurry the feeding, he'll miss some of the fun of enjoying each flavour. If you worry about how much he eats, your frowns will show and he'll probably know instinctively that you're forcing him, even though unconsciously.

All-around plan. Cereal variety is just as important as strained food variety. Once baby has tried single-grain cereals such as Rice Cereal, Barley and Oatmeal, a winner in the taste department is likely to be Gerber Mixed Cereal. It's balanced blend of wholesome grains with a flavour that's delectable. Like the other Gerber Cereals, it has added iron, calcium, and the important B vitamins, thiamine, riboflavin, and niacin. Spring, Resort Wear Shown To Editors

By DORIS KLEIN

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Stand like a model, flat-bosomed chest exfoed in, narrow hips thrust forward.

Drape a bit of flaring fabric around the hips at night, narrow or Boonne it for day.

That's California's fashion-ka's look for 1966.

The long, lean look pervaded the windup Monday of spring and resort wear showings to fashion editors.

A blue silk lombey suit with an abstract tracing of red print turned up with a reverse print red-on-white blouse.

"In most of my daytime wear," explained Novarese, "the shaping is controlled by just 'our seams."

A saffron moire gown with high-rising waist was topped by a strapless bodice embroidered in paillettes and set for a Spanish effect. A two-piece, elbow-length cape matching the bodice completed the costume.

"Cotton is being woven so imaginatively," said Travila, "that I'm thinking seriously of using it in my fall and winter line."

Nelson used other fabrics, too —baby blue cut velvet in a body - skimming silk - weather coat, and soft pastel corduroy in front-fitted travel coats.

Travila also employed a new French synthetic fabric, rustica, which resembles fibrac, but is printed suits and costumes, the dresses with little rounded sleeves.

His look for day was long torso in both coats and dresses flipping into staggered flounces at mid-tone.

also in clutch styles for evening.

Fur hats or hoods are important also. White or black leather hats make a stunning contrast with a fur coat.

Folk Songs and Ballads Of Old-timers Collected

TORONTO (CP)—Armed with a tape recorder, a Toronto woman has been scouring the Ontario countryside with urgency for the last eight years.

Edith Fowke is seeking folk songs and ballads learned in early childhood by old-timers or picked up on cold winter nights in lumber camps.

The urgency, she says, is because the songs are seldom handed down from one generation to the next and are dying out.

The words are important because it's the story that really matters, says Mrs. Fowke. The tune is merely a vehicle to carry the story. A history graduate, she says she's learned more actual history from the ballads than from any course offered.

Touring Southern Ontario, Mrs. Fowke collected enough material on tape to produce a book, Traditional Singers and Songs From Ontario, just published by the Folklore Associates, Hatboro, Pa.

SEEKS OLD TIMERS

"It's a labor of love, really," she said. "Except for radio programs there is really isn't much money in it."

Mrs. Fowke has a formula for collecting material.

"I usually go to the local newspaper office or post office and ask for old timers. The oldest timer doesn't know any folk songs, he probably will know someone who does."

Because the Peterborough area was settled quite early and had a large Irish makeup, it is one of most fertile grounds for her material.

Many of the ditties collected are of British and Irish origin, but several are native Canadian songs of lumber camps and boating disasters on the Great Lakes. The former are broken into three categories: Those describing life in the camps; the light-hearted numbers dealing with pay day; and the realistic accident accounts such as the one about Johnny Styles who caught his foot in a log jam and was drowned when swept downstream.

U.C.W. Meetings

ELMSBROOK U.C.W.

The November meeting of the Elmsbrook U.C.W. was held in the Picton residence of Mrs. Herbert Lister, with an excellent attendance.

Mrs. Arthur Stone had charge of an interesting devotional program, with Armistice Day as the theme. She gave an inspiring Armistice Day reading with excerpts being: "We need the spirit of God to make us responsible upon each other, in order to prevent any more such calamities. It is lack of Christian faith and trust in one another that breeds world wars, and general feelings of unrest."

The December 8th meeting is to be held in the home of Mrs. R. Moore, in the afternoon, with Mrs. A. Ackerman in charge of the program; Mrs. A. Stone, the lunch; and Mrs. F. Ditchburn, the contact.

President, Mrs. Arnold Ackerman read letters received from U.C.W. officials: Mrs. Gray of Picton; Mrs. Pierson of Wellington; and Mrs. DeClare of Queenston, regarding various reports to be filled in, concerning the work being done by each group, and listing the officers.

An interesting chapter from the Brasil Study Book was read by Mrs. Ackerman, pertaining to the life in Brasil of Orona, an Ontario-born missionary, Lloyd Strachan, and his wife who is a registered nurse.

Mrs. Lister took charge of a brain-teasing contest (in the absence of Mrs. Arnold Weibanks), regarding the cities and towns of Canada.

Lunch was served by the hostess and Mrs. Ackerman; and gifts were exchanged.

A vote of thanks to the hostess, on behalf of those present, was extended by Mrs. R. Moore and Mrs. A. Stone.

Girls Meet After 12 Years As Pen Pals

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Twelve years of correspondence between a former Niagara Falls girl and her British pen pal were climaxed this autumn when the two met for the first time.

"We recognized each other right away," said Helen Sage, 21, of Oakville, Ont., recalling the meeting with Elaine Lively, 22, of Ossett, Yorkshire, England. Miss Lively now is a graduate student at McMaster University, Hamilton.

Miss Sage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Swayze of Niagara Falls, said she was given Miss Lively's name as a pen friend when she was a Grade 5 pupil at Falls View school here.

She added that the girls have corresponded regularly since then, exchanging information about their countries, "school, boyfriends, university and job plans."

Miss Lively, who is doing research for a year toward her master of philosophy degree at McMaster, said classes there are "far less formal" than in Britain. "There is more of a liaison between the masters and the students."

On their first weekend together, the two young women came here to visit Mrs. Sage's parents. They expect to see quite a bit of each other during the next year, especially on weekends.

Miss Lively plans to return to Britain for her doctorate in philosophy. And after that? "Either teach or join the Anglican Church in the mission field, or go to South America as a lecturer—or I just might get married."

Former U.S. Treasurer Seeks California Office

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For eight years or more, every American with a dollar bill in his pocket had Ivy Baker Priest's autograph.

In that neat hand learned in a sliding loop school her father, Abraham Canyon, Utah, she signed the U.S. currency as treasurer of the United States during the entire Eisenhower administration.

Now she lives in California, and has the optimistic expectation that her well-known autograph will help boost her to another office—treasurer of the country's most populous state.

"Many people said put my experience as treasurer to work and I said 'why not'," explains the smiling, well-dressed, grey-haired mother of three grown children.

But when she meets the voters of California, she's just Ivy Baker Priest — the lady who used to sign the money.

Today, Mrs. Stevens is the only announced candidate for the Republican nomination for treasurer. Party leaders expect her to win the nomination in next June's primary and think she has a chance to take the job away from the soft - spoken Democratic incumbent, Bert Betts, now in his second term.

BILL PLAYS PART

If she wins, the dollar bill will have played a big part.

"I think I can safely say that I have handled more money than any woman in the history of the world," she tells her audiences.

In her trips throughout the state, Mrs. Stevens has a kind word for everyone and a polished manner developed in years as Utah's national Republican committeewoman, assistant Republican national chairman and in other party positions.

Mrs. Stevens won't tell her age, saying "I was born in an appropriate time in history." Who's Who lists her birthdate as Sept. 7, 1905.

Mrs. Stevens came to California "to visit daughter Nancy, then under a movie contract to 20th Century Fox, met Sidney Stevens through friends and decided to marry him and stay.

If she wins election next year, it will be a precedent-setting victory.

Californians have never elected a woman to a state constitutional office.

An Ermine Nightgown? Why Not, Henry Did It

By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK (AP) — An ermine nightgown was a Christmas gift from Henry VIII to one of his wives. In medieval France, the nobility wore colored furs.

But furs had been in fashion centuries before Henry's lavish gift.

It's not known exactly when they ceased to be utility-garments and became luxury items. Certainly primitive men and women wore them for warmth in cold climates. First they tied the skins around their bodies. Later they sewed furlined trousers with bronze needles.

By the time the Normans conquered England, furs had been elevated to fashion. Otter and marten adorned silks and brocades. By the middle ages furs became status symbols. Cardinals wore ermine as a symbol of purity. Later it became the fur of the nobility. Leopard skins were worn by early Greek priests.

What is new in furs today? Perhaps the only thing is that now there are so many varieties from so many countries.

For example, there are at least seven colors in fox, including the cross, a long-haired pelt somewhat similar to silver with a reddish tinge. It's becoming quite popular. Lilly Dache featured it in her fall collection for Wells-Treister, in a wrapped and tied cuddle coat.

Canadian beaver became popular in Europe after Jacques Cartier opened up the fur export trade in 1534. Persian lamb was particularly prominent in the mid-19th century. Miss Dache uses it in a bisque dyed coat and hood, double-breasted and with notched lapels.

The great designer Charles Worth brought sealskin into high fashion as an innovation in 1890. Previously it had been worn only by coachmen. In the early 1900s red and blue fox muffs and neckpieces were all the rage. And just before the First World War, lingerie was trimmed with fur, simply because it was scarce and expensive.

Furs have even gone out of style. In 1812 the glittering gold dresses were so new and fashionable that bulky furs would have distracted from them. Furriers hadn't then discovered how to shuck guard hairs and sheer the pelts to a flat beauty.

This winter there is great and renewed interest in fur linings. From the 18th century on, capes and coats were mostly fur lined. Then Worth started the vogue for fur on the outside of women's coats. Men continued to wear it inside right up to the 20th century.

Fur-lined coats were reintroduced by Mainbocher in the 1940s, went out of style again and have been staging a revival the last couple of seasons.

Some 10 years ago there was a new luxury mood of fur on tweeds. Black and white fox appeared on tweed coats and slinky evening gowns. Fox is again popular this winter on knee-showing skirts and even some of the floor-length formals.

New in the last 10 years or so, too, is the fur suit, dress or tunic. New ability to handle fur like fabric has brought this rather extravagant fashion to public note, if not popularity.

These suits and dresses aren't entirely practical for warm, centrally heated homes and restaurants, but they are elegant. And what woman, if she could afford this extra fur ensemble, would mind a little discomfort to look so ultra-elegant? Leo Ritter of New York has designed ultimate elegance in a Russian broadtail suit, the jacket banded in black fox.

For this winter the most important fashion news is the return of the jacket. It has never quite gone out of style in Canada where it has a definite place for evening. Ritter believes firmly in the jacket as a big new fashion influence. He noted the smart effect of a nonchunky jacket above the new dirndl skirt.

Also new and practical is his collarless fur coat with a button-on elbow-length cape which can be a formal entity in itself. Contrast furs are interesting here, as seal on leopard.

The coat silhouette continues slim, although there is interest in slightly rippled skirts and

The Experts Say
EMO Booklet's Advice Helps in Power Failure

OTTAWA (CP)—Civil defence officials say the great power blackout that hit Ontario and the northeastern United States Nov. 9 should be a lesson to all, not only those within the circle of darkness.

Most of those in the blackout area probably had at least a few moments of fear. Some wondered if a nuclear attack was imminent. Others thought some natural disaster had occurred that would result in a prolonged power failure.

In many homes there was a scramble for matches, candles, food which could be prepared without using electric stoves, and other necessities not easily obtained in darkness.

A spokesman at the national office of the Emergency Measures Organization said in an interview that moments of panic and a sudden lack of the necessities of life are unnecessary in most emergencies if you take time to plan ahead.

Although EMO was set up primarily to co-ordinate civil defence in the event of a nuclear attack, officials say much of the advice given in the organization's survival booklets can also be useful in a natural disaster.

One of the first EMO rules in any emergency is for civilians to turn on their radios. This means every family should own at least one battery-powered radio, with spare batteries.

STORE LIGHTS

Some form of auxiliary lighting—candles and matches, kerosene lamps or flashlights—is a necessity and should be available at all times.

Within reach should be a well-stocked first-aid kit, containing such items as sterile dressing pads, bandages, absorbent cotton, adhesive dressing strips and tape and antiseptic solution.

A checklist of first-aid supplies is available from the emergency health services division of the national health and welfare department, the EMO spokesman said.

The checklist advises families to check their first-aid needs with a pharmacist and to store a good supply of any special medicines for members of the family who require continuous treatment.

In addition, EMO has a list of items to go in a recommended food pack—a necessity in a natural disaster such as a flood or a winter storm that cuts off power and communications.

The food list includes canned fruits and vegetables, canned meat and fish, and other items which keep well and can be eaten cold.

"The blackout certainly pointed out to anyone who was involved in it the necessity of having basic foodstuffs and candles on hand, as well as battery-powered radios," said the spokesman.

EMO pamphlets, including Eleven Steps to Survival, can be obtained free by writing to Box 10,000 in any provincial capital or from local civil defence authorities.

Susanna's Family Fare

CANDLES AND FLOWERS

Dear Susanna: Please try to understand if I sound frightfully out-of-touch with things, but I have heard the expression "pie holder" used several times lately, and I haven't any idea what it is. — Newly Wed.

Bless you sweetie, and don't ever think there aren't thousands of others who haven't a clue either, including (up until a short time ago) yours truly.

A pie holder is merely a device studded with myriads of straight pin-like pieces of metal that is used for holding flower arrangements in place. These bases can be purchased in many shapes and sizes to fit almost any container, and they are much more popular, versatile, and useful than flower frogs. All right?

In fact, if you wish to try your hand at flower arranging a pin holder is almost a basic must . . . a small round one is perfect to start. Now, just so you can bowl your relatives over with your sense of artistry, I love you to try this simple dreamy idea for combining a candle with your arrangement.

Take a plain, round metal hair curler (one with a large enough centre hole that a candle could be inserted) and, holding it upright, work it down into the pin holder, tuck your flowers in-to place around it, insert a candle into the curler, and place the whole thing on the table in your favorite container — and call everyone to dinner. — Susanna.

LIGHTER WITH LEMON

Dear Susanna: A good way to whiten bread or meat boards, when discolored, is to rub them with lemon rinds turned inside out, then wash the boards with warm water. They will lighten beautifully as they dry. — Sheila M. Wakely

(If you have any hints for running a successful household — or any problems — write to Susanna, 'to care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope when requesting pamphlets.)

Ann Landers
Forget Second Base, Errors Are Costly

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 13-year-old girl with a problem you have never heard of before. I have a boy friend who is also 13, very good-looking and nice. I get to see him in the evening about twice a week outside of seeing him every day at school.

Yesterday my girl friend (who is 14) asked me how I was getting along with Tom. When I told her "just fine" she asked if I had let him get to second base yet. I didn't want to seem dumb so I just smiled but I really don't know what second base means. She looked at me kind of funny and said, "I can tell by your answer that Tom is still at first base."

ANN LANDERS

I hope you won't think this problem is too dumb to answer. I know the facts of life but I don't know what this base stuff is all about. Please smarten me up. — STUMPED IN STAMFORD.

DEAR STUMPED: Maybe the bases are numbered differently in Stamford than they were in Iowa where I grew up. But no matter what the numbering system may be I strongly recommend that you get out of the line-up and stay on the bench for a couple of years. Errors em be mighty costly, Toots.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The season of "worthy causes" is upon us and I am sick to death of it. Please tell us what to do when boxes of unordered merchandise come to the house.

A few years ago I was soft-hearted (and soft in the head, too) because I sent a "donation" for a couple of items—not that I needed them but because the charity sounded like a worthy one.

Is it true that once you get on a sucker list you are stuck because one outfit sells the names to another? I think it must be true because I've been deluged with junk from all sides.

I'm sick of paying postage to return stuff I didn't order. My neighbors say I do not have to return anything. My husband says I do. — FISH.

DEAR FISH: You need not return the merchandise. Don't use it, however. Throw it out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My one and only precious daughter, Lila, has seven gorgeous children. She also has a devoted husband who is an excellent provider — something I never had.

I've always been self-supporting and still am. I had to go to work when Lila was a baby so I was denied the pleasure of staying at home and enjoying her formative years, but I feel very close to her now.

Now Lila wants to work as an aide in a nursing home, "to prove herself," she says. What in God's name she is trying to prove is beyond me. Don't you feel that a woman with seven marvelous children has proved enough?

Perhaps she got this crazy idea because her youngest started school this fall and for the first time in 18 years her nest is empty. I feel that nurse's aide work would be degrading to a woman of her social status. What do you say? — MASSACHUSETTS MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: There's an old Haitian proberb. "Shoes alone know if the stockings have holes." And what you don't know about your daughter, even though you think you are "very close," would fill a book.

It is how Lila feels that matters, and obviously she feels unfulfilled. There is nothing degrading about serving the sick — in any capacity.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Use Interest From Fund to Train Women

KINGSTON (CP) — Interest from a $12,000 international scholarship fund will be used temporarily to train women at the Mysore Institute, India, Women's Institute members were told here Tuesday.

Mrs. L. R. Trivers of Thessalon, Ont., national president of the Federated Women's Institutes, told the eastern area WI convention that interest from the fund will be used in 1966 until final terms of reference for the award are completed. The scholarship fund was sponsored by the Associated Country Women of the World, an international organization with which the federation is affiliated.

The Ontario president also announced that microfilms of the Tweedsmuir histories from all 11,000 Ontario WI branches will eventually be completed and stored in the provincial archives.

The histories are named for Lady Tweedsmuir, wife of a former governor-general, who suggested that branches of the WI compile and preserve their local areas' history.

The WI eastern area comprises the counties of Frontenac, Leeds East, Leeds North and Lennox and Addington.

Was Neighbor Right To Spank Her Child?

DEAR DORIS: My three-year-old son and next door neighbor's four-year-old boy went into another boy's yard to play with him. This boy is five years old. It seems my son was on the slide, and this boy's mother asked my son to get off the slide and he wouldn't. So she spanked him.

DORIS CLARE

I know that my son is stubborn at times and probably deserved a spanking. But does a neighbor have the right to do it? Do you think I should have phoned her and asked her what really happened? — NETTLED NETTIE

DEAR NETTIE: If we follow the rule that a mother is boss in her own back yard, then we say she has a right to get obedience. This may mean she sends the culprit home, or doles out punishment herself.

One way, her boy — and yours — lose a playmate, at least temporarily. The other way, if the cure is reasonable, she restores law and order and may, indeed, bring about some wholesome respect for authority.

In any individual case, I wouldn't presume to judge. It's hardly a question of "having the right." But if the mother in the case is known to be fond of all the little fellows, so that they gravitate to her yard and her slide, I'd agree with the idea that you should talk with her and find out what gives.

In the interest of your boy's fun, back her up if you can.

DEAR DORIS: Please settle an argument for us. I say arthritis is just a professional-sounding name for old-fashioned rheumatism. My friend says they are two different things. What do you say? — UNCERTAIN.

DEAR UNCERTAIN: It's not what I say, but what the medical experts say. I quote from a published statement of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society:

"Arthritis refers only to one kind of rheumatism, the kind which affects the joints. There are many forms of arthritis including rheumatoid arthritis (sometimes known as degenerative joint disease, which is the wearing out of the weight-bearing joints); and ankylosing spondylitis (mainly affecting the spine.)

"Some of the other forms of rheumatism are rheumatic fever, rheumatic heart disease, gout, bursitis and lumbago."

Confidential to NO FIGHT LEFT. It is a terrible thing when a marriage partner is subdued to the point where she submits to this kind of treatment, as a permanent way of life. When it happens, it endangers the victim. I am sure you are not the spontaneous, free, happy person you were when you were married; though you may have strengthened your defenses.

It is highly likely that your physical symptoms are connected with the lack of harmony in your home. You need professional help.

DEAR DORIS: I am 15 and my sister is 13. My mother makes us go everywhere together, but I seldom mind it. My sister both looks and acts a lot older than most girls her age, and gets along well with my friends.

But my mother is old-fashioned. She seldom lets us go out, and gets mad if we go near boys, except to dance. This is costing us — especially me — our popularity. I'm no worse looking than most girls around here, and I'm really not a "square" in my dress and hair styles.

My mother won't let me try to make her see things my way (about going out, etc.) She won't even try to meet me half way.

I'll have only one high school life, Doris, and I don't want it spoiled as far as social life is concerned. And all my mother thinks about is her own social life, and what kinds of impression I make on her "old fogy" friends. — SISTER CHARLIE.

DEAR CHARLIE: It's good news that you and your sister enjoy the same friends. Just the same, she is not ready for two-some dating; and your mother is probably gearing her thinking to your sister's level.

There are social do's when a girl needs to be with boys and girls in her own grade. High school social life deserves attention. Perhaps your mother forgets that practice in associating with others is all part of education for life!

Study ways in which you can show her you are ready for responsibility, both at home and with others your age. Help with cooking, shopping, entertaining; then point out that one of these times you'll be needing help with your own dance party!

(We now have some understanding of why people act as they do. Write to Doris about your particular human problem, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)—

Queen Bees of the Office Divided Into Eight Types

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The queen bees of the business world are its office secretaries.

Secretaries come in all shapes and sizes, all ranges between homeliness and beauty, and all degrees of real ability. But they all have one thing in common — they all know more than their employers suspect.

The Heiress — Working isn't for her. She is looking for a man to earn her a living. After trying her wiles on everybody from the board chairman to the head office boy, she announces, "This place is full of drips." Then she quits and moves on to another office where she hopes for better luck.

The Keeper of the Gate — Any salesman who wants to get in to see the boss learns early that he'd better bribe this greedy little lass. If he doesn't bring her flowers, take her to dinner, and send her half a dozen pairs of stockings on her birthday, he'll spend endless hours cooling his heels waiting for a chance to get through the magic door and deliver his sales message to the right ears.

FIRST JOB

Goldilocks — It is her first job since leaving secretarial school, and she thinks every executive in the office secretly wants to make love to her. Whenever she is asked to stay an hour late, she phones her mother and big brother and asks them to come and wait for her in the reception room.

The Actress — Nobody looks more efficient than she, but every other secretary hates her because they have to do her work. She puts a one-page letter in her typewriter in the morning, and at quitting time appears to be still busily pounding away at it. But she has her boss completely fooled. He thinks she is the hardest-working girl in the office.

The Plotter — In her imagination she is a real power behind the throne. She spends most of her days conspiring to win promotion for some slavish junior executive who has sought her favor, or conspiring to punish someone for a fancied insult.

WORSHIPS BOSS

The Idolator — No matter which executive she is assigned to, she immediately loses her heart to him. He becomes her office god. She quotes his every word, thinks his wife misunderstands him, and makes herself a general bore to all the other secretaries.

Old Faithful — She knows everything, can do anything. She has so much seniority that the other girls stand aside for her when she enters the washroom. In a tight spot, the boss relies more on her judgment than he does that of the senior vice-president.

The Helpless Neophyte — She can't take dictation or even get a message over the phone right. She spells sour apples "sauer appula." But what executive in his right mind is going to fire a girl who has the best-looking legs in the office?

STEAM-BAKED APPLES

Sometimes when you are in a hurry and the only fruit you have in the house for dessert is apples try this quick trick of steam-baking them. Steaming cooks the apples more quickly than baking and you can give them a baked finish by broiling them.

To give them a chef's professional touch try the petalled finish. My new secretary Shirley says it looks like a "clown collar."

The procedure for baking apples has been speeded up. Steam-baking is the modern idea and today Mary Moore gives the method with an added professional decorative finish.

WEDNESDAY
Dinner Menu
by Mary Moore

STEAM-BAKED APPLES
(serves 6)

6 medium-large red apples (see below),
⅓ cup light brown sugar,
½ teaspoon (or more) cinnamon (see note),
⅛ teaspoon (or more) cloves (see note),
⅛ teaspoon (or more) ginger (see note).

Select medium-large red apples. At this time of year red McIntosh and Wealthy are ideal. (Later on you can use Spys but they will require 5 minutes longer in the steamer.) Wash the apples and core them. As you dig out the core do not be afraid to make a biggish hole. The bigger the hole the more sugar it will hold eventually.

With a sharp pointed knife slit the skin at 6 even intervals from top to centre bulge. These slits split when steamed and make it easy to fold back the skin, before broiling, to shape "petals." Stand apples on rack or trivet in large kettle or steamer. Add ¼" hot water, cover and steam - Macs and Wealthys require about 12 minutes' steaming. Carefully remove apples to shallow baking dish. With a pointed knife fold back the skin petals to expose bare upper half of apples which will be pink-flushed - a surprisingly easy step. Fill centres and sprinkle bare surfaces with a mixture of sugar and spices. NOTE: The amounts of spices I have listed give a subtle spicing. If you are fond of spices you can double the quantities.

Add ¼" water to baking dish and place apples 6" from pre-heated broiler and broil to melt sugar and delicately brown surface. Be careful not to burn the skin petals. Serve warm or cold with whole milk or 10% cream.

Notes: 1) As you can see this steam-baking is especially suitable for McIntosh apples because of their soft texture and bright color. 2) Obviously white sugar may be substituted for brown.

Harry Hays Back in Town To Meet P.M.

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Harry Hays is back in town to talk over his political future with Prime Minister Pearson.

He's expected to see the prime minister today, possibly for lunch.

Although Mr. Hays was noncommittal about things, informants said he'll talk over his future role, the question of a successor, the Alberta political situation and other matters with Mr. Pearson.

It will be the first meeting between the two men since Mr. Hays lost his Calgary South seat in the Nov. 8 election.

Mr. Hays still is agriculture minister, although an electoral defeat generally spells the end for a cabinet minister.

However, informants said Mr. Hays conceivably could keep his cabinet post if he were appointed to the Senate.

This is the latest ripple in a pool of speculation about what Mr. Pearson plans to do about agriculture in his pending cabinet shakeup.

ARE MENTIONED

H. A. Olson, Social Credit MP for Medicine Hat, and Saskatchewan Liberal Senator A. H. McDonald have been mentioned as possible successors in the spate of speculation.

Mr. Hays arrived here Tuesday night, a day behind schedule because of bad weather that stalled his plane in Toronto. He eventually flew to Montreal and drove here by car.

He had been recuperating from an attack of pneumonia at his Pekisko ranch near Calgary.

"I feel good," he told a reporter after his arrival, but declined to comment on his future or on his portfolio, indicating that was up to Mr. Pearson.

"That's his job, not mine," he said. "There's not much I can comment about."

The early speculation had the Liberals going after Mr. Olson to switch parties and take the job. Now insiders seem to feel the Liberals are veering away from this idea.

With Mr. Olson as minister, the theory went, Mr. Hays could go to the Senate and become minister without portfolio to help shepherd along programs he started or expanded.

HAS SOME SAY

Mr. Hays is thought to be in a position to have some say where the agriculture portfolio goes because of a number of programs that bear his stamp even though he may not have started them.

Almost shut out on the Prairies, the Liberals lack a suitable western MP of their own to take the post. It traditionally goes to a westerner.

Although Mr. Hays did not go into detail about his health, informants said he is feeling fine, but not entirely recovered.

The pneumonia put him out of action during the election campaign and was probably a factor in the loss of his seat which he first won in 1963. A judicial recount is under way. He lost by a 138-vote margin to Conservative Ray Ballard.

Mr. Hays has been taking it easy on his ranch, going for early-morning horseback rides and reading hundreds of post-election letters offering consolation or regrets at his defeat.

CANADA'S AID HAS NO STRINGS — Two young Tanzanians, part of a student body of 170 East Africans in Canadian colleges, study mining at the Ontario Institute of Mining at Haileybury. Canada's external aid program in Africa is popular because of its "no strings" approach. Although Canada is providing military advisors in Ghana and Tanzania aid is slanted primarily to economic and social fields with emphasis on training people. (CP Photo)

New African Countries Like 'No Strings' Canada

Canada's no - strings assistance wins her a considerable amount of trust from the emerging African countries. Joseph MacSween of The Canadian Press tells how Canada looks to the Africans of several countries.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

DAR ES SALAAM (CP)—The story goes that when news broke of a big Tanzania-Zambia railway project, two Canadian experts were found examining the scheme at opposite ends of the line.

They were Prof. Cranford Pratt of the University of Toronto, then special adviser here to Tanzania President Julius Nyerere, and Prof. Gordon Goundry of the University of Alberta, then chief economic adviser to the Zambian government.

The story is cited here to illustrate the high degree of trust accorded Canadians by new African countries. Canada's "without strings" external aid appears to be winning numerous friends—though suggestions for improvement were heard on an African tour.

Canada has some 125 advisers in former British East Africa alone—Tanzania, Uganda and Kenya—compared with 45 in March, 1964. There are 80 advisers in Ghana. Nearly 170 East Africans are studying in Canadian colleges under the aid program.

DEVELOP GHANA

Canadians are looking into Ghana's diamond prospects and also helping with its Volta dam project, television network and road transport system.

They are engaged in aerial mapping of Tanzania and Nigeria, making forest inventories in Kenya and Nigeria, doing a natural gas survey in Nigeria and probing Uganda's terrain for minerals.

"Your country is a Western country, but it is one of the few which are not too doctrinaire," said Nyerere, explaining why Tanzania turned to Canada for army and air force training.

Tanzania, termed the "bad boy" of East Africa because it accepted aid from China, has seen how Canada has been providing military instructors for Ghana since 1961, although the Ghana regime is unpopular in Western circles.

Col. H. E. C. Price of Quebec, commander of the 30-man Canadian military contingent in Dar es Salaam, says that "everything is going extremely well." The 43-year-old Price served in Newfoundland before coming to the tropics.

MUTINY THREATENED

All now is spit-and-polish at the Colito barracks where a shortlived army mutiny last year threatened the Nyerere government and, coupled with concurrent mutinies in Kenya and Uganda, aroused fears of revolution in East Africa. The trouble was quelled by the British army.

Canada's role is assisting in the founding of a military academy. Price's part is purely advisory and instructional.

Joint before Ottawa began an aid program, Canadian missionaries were making a name for themselves in Africa, notably in the educational field. In remote Rwandi, Quebec's Rev. G. H. Levesque has been nominated first rector of a new national university with a nucleus of Canadian teachers.

Canadian University Service Overseas (CUSO), supported by industry and public subscription, has about 220 teachers in Africa. Dr. Douglas G. Anglin, professor of political science at Carleton University in Ottawa, has been named vice - chancellor of Zambia's new university.

In French-language Africa, aid includes teachers, film vans and projection equipment, and paper for a Cameroon textbook production centre serving the whole area once ruled from Paris.

EMPHASIZES PEOPLE

Canada's program is slanted primarily to the economic and social fields. The main emphasis in education is "people, not dollars." For instance, total aid to Tanzania, Kenya and Uganda last year amounted to $2,000,000.

"Canada probably gets more mileage out of its program, which really isn't all that big, than any country with the possible exception of Israel," said one Western diplomat.

Some sources say it is unfortunate that Ottawa aid is "100-per - cent tied" to Canadian goods and services. Canadian aid for one housing project here fell through because of the heavy cost of transporting materials from Canada.

Another complaint is that sometimes Canada takes long to say yes or no to requests for aid. Ottawa officials are considered to feel that the aiding countries should apply in good time, rather than expect prompt decisions.

"But this shows a lack of understanding of the problems of developing countries," said an official. "The fact is we haven't got the personnel to make these evaluations as early as we'd like."

Finance Minister Amir Jamal commented: "Perhaps we have not done enough to enable you to do more."

STANDS UP WELL

Diplomats say Canada stands up well by comparison with other Western countries, which generally are slow to react by comparison with the Communist countries. One welcome aspect is that Canadian help is given without ideological strings.

Canadian diplomats and aid officials favor the "project approach." Aid is not dissipated and, incidentally, the recipient country is more palatedly aware of it.

An example is the 600-student Dar es Salaam Technical College, where Canada provides manpower and $200,000 worth of equipment, as well as taking African teachers to Canadian institutions to upgrade their qualifications.

"The point is, if the Canadians are here for a certain number of years, they will not leave a vacuum on departure," said J. C. Quinn, 49, of Toronto, "project leader" at the school which has 22 Canadian teachers.

In both East and West Africa, Canada is providing an essential tool of development through mapping and aerial photography. In Kenya, aid is keyed to forestry, while in Uganda geology and fisheries are important. A $25,000 gill-netter fishing boat, now plying Lake Victoria, was transported from Vancouver, the last 800 miles by rail from Mombasa.

"Canada is doing its share," said Adoh Nekyon, Uganda's minister of planning. "We don't care so much about the amount of aid a country gives. What we're concerned with is the spirit in which it is given."

Northern Ireland Govt. Will Easily Win Election

By CAROL KENNEDY

Four "Madmen"

watching convicts eat dinner. Then a half-dozen convicts began scuffling, guards rushed to break it up, and the convicts brought out their home-made knives.

The four prisoners described by Randolph and Frye as ringleaders were Alonzo H. Jones, 29, serving three to seven years for theft, who escaped from Menard earlier this year and was free for 18 days;

John W. Stamps, 26, serving 25 years for murder;

Pristeen R. Griffin, 26, serving three to five years for armed robbery;

William E. Bassett, 26, serving three to 10 years for forgery.

STABBED IN HEART

Paul was stabbed in the heart and died almost immediately. Klipo said Gibson died later. Bohlfing, Bierman and Gross were dragged into the kitchen. Then the convicts piled bags of rice against the door.

About 25 convicts were in the kitchen rowdying. It was not known how many—if any—of them participated in the uprising. Randolph said none of the convicts in the kitchen tended to Gross' stab wounds.

Then the blood transfusion was permitted, and Gross was released. The convicts demanded two other guards in exchange for the injured Gross, but Fyre refused. They let him go anyway.

Randolph settled down to talk the prisoners out of killing the other two hostages, and into surrendering.

"I told them that they were being foolish, that their arguments were not worth much and that I would guarantee that they would not be punished bodily if they would surrender," Randolph said. "They wanted me to guarantee that they would not be punished at all, but I wouldn't do that."

ARE UNSTABLE

Randolph said the four men are mentally unstable.

The sisters demanded to see a newspaper man to air their grievances, but none was allowed.

The four ringleaders agreed to leave the kitchen after being assured they would get a meal and would not be harmed by guards in revenge. One convict told reporters that the four were afraid the guards outside the kitchen would try to avenge the killing of the three guards.

More than 1,000 prisoners were in the dining hall when the riot started. Most of them burried out, leaving their dinners half eaten, and went back to their cells. Fyre said they did not want to get involved.

State troopers and sheriff's deputies from a 50-mile area were summoned to the prison, as were doctors and ambulances.

Menard is an 89 - year - old brownstone prison. The 20 buildings stand on a 14-acre tract and hold 2,500 prisoners.

TINY MITE IS FIERCE

The tiny shrew will attack and eat an animal twice its size when hungry.

LONDON (CP) — Few countries in the world have more predictable politics than Northern Ireland, that 'fory enclave of the Emerald Isle bound by sentimental and constitutional ties to Britain.

It has been governed by the same political party for 44 years, ever since separate parliaments were set up for the six counties of pro-British, Protestant Ulster and the 26 counties of nationalist, Roman Catholic Eire, now the Republic of Ireland. Small wonder that its 11th general election, being held Nov. 25, is taken for granted almost to the point of being ignored this side of the Irish Sea.

The Northern Ireland Parliament is related to Westminster in much the same way as a Canadian provincial government is to Ottawa, legislating on domestic affairs while the British Parliament, to which Ulster elects 11 members, retains responsibility for such matters as external affairs, defence and taxation.

With only 29 of the 52 seats being contested, the outcome of the present election is hardly in doubt. The ruling Unionist, (Conservative) party of Capt. Terence Marne O'Neill, supported by most of the country's two-thirds Protestant majority, is expected to skate back to power in a House of Commons little changed from the old lineup: 34 Unionists, four Labor, nine Nationalist, one independent, one Liberal, one Republican Labor, one Eire Labor and one non-party member.

MAY LOSE SEATS

Some observers predict the Unionists may lose a couple of seats in Belfast and possibly Antrim to the Northern Ireland Labor party, which has close links with Britain's socialists and has shown signs of growth in recent years. Its membership is less dictated by religious lines than that of the other two major parties.

Labor hopefully boosts the British government's legislative record as an electoral asset, but a recent British proposal to close the naval dockyard at Derry, coupled with growing uncertainty over the future of Belfast's giant Harland and Wolff shipyard, may prove useful to the Unionists.

Labor's strength in the industrial areas may also be weakened by the movement of population away from the cities since the 1961 election. The party has only nominated 17 candidates, including its four Belfast members, against the government's 29 and a sense of defeatism is apparent in its election manifesto where the strongest attack it can mount against the Unionists is to call them "legislative laggards."

HEADS WEST POINT

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson announced Tuesday the appointment of Brig.-Gen. Donald V. Bennett, 50, as superintendent of the United States Military Academy at West Point.

ISRAELI GIRLS CAUGHT IN DRAFT — Israeli girl soldiers from border settlements march in a recent Jerusalem parade. While conscription is more the rule than the exception in the world, Israel has possibly the most sweeping military training program. Training is required for men and unmarried women 18-26. These youth corps Gadna is for boys and girls 14-18, and the Nahal combines army duty with agricultural work for the youth. (AP Wirephoto)

Conscription Is More Rule Than Exception in Deeply Divided World

LONDON (AP)—From Moscow to Jerusalem to Saigon, young men face the same problem that provokes discussion in the United States—the military draft.

Conscription is more the rule than the exception in a deeply divided world, a survey shows.

Canada, Britain, India and Pakistan are among the few big countries that rely solely on voluntary volistments. Quarreling India and Pakistan lack officers or equipment to handle the hundreds of thousands who would enlist if they could.

Israel, surrounded by hostile Arab countries, drafts both men and women. In Mexico, training is on a Sunday-only basis.

The United States draws from men in the 19-to-26 age group, with selective service to furnish 56,450 men this month to the army, navy and marines. That's the highest call since this end of the Korean War and some officials expect to start inducting childless married men to fill their December quotas. Washington plans to strengthen the military forces by 340,000 men for a total of about 3,000,000.

How does the U.S. conscription policy compare with those of other countries? Tougher than some, more lenient than others, the following survey of representative countries shows:

Soviet Union—Universal military training calls for induction of all youths 17 and 18 who have completed secondary school. When they reach 19, at 2,500,000 men and available they're drafted even if they have not finished secondary school, but college students are exempt. Draftees must serve two to five years, depending on the branch to which they are assigned.

Britain—With neither universal military training nor a conscription system, Britain took its last draftees in 1960. Since then the regular army has been below strength. It now is 15,000 under the goal of 181,600 men. Britain's Territorial Army is the reserve force, composed entirely of volunteers, mostly former servicemen.

Far East—South Vietnamese youths face three years of military service under a draft law that covers all men 18-to-35. The women's army corps is voluntary.

In India and Pakistan, food, uniforms and housing made military service such a privilege there is no need for conscription. India could raise an army of millions if it had the equipment and training cadres; Pakistan's applicants for service exceed the number that can be accepted.

Communist China—Has a bottomless pool of manpower to draw upon. Its selected standing military force is estimated at 3,000,000 men and available standby militia is estimated at 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 men and women. The militia usually is poorly armed and sometimes not given arms at all except for training purposes.

Down Under—Australia and New Zealand are gradually boosting their military training programs. Australia, with troops fighting guerrillas in Southeast Asia, will draft 4,200 men for two years of military service this year. The 1966 target will double that figure. Draftees are selected by lot on their 20th birthday, and those conscripted represent about 10 per cent of that age group.

Mideast—Tiny Israel has possibly the most sweeping military training programs. It requires military training for men and unmarried women 18-26. Men serve 26 months, women 20. Men 27-to-29 must serve 24 months after completing their terms, the men remain in the reserves until they are 49, childless women to the age of 34. As reservists, the men report for 21 days of training a year until they are 40 and then 14 days annually until they reach 49.

Western Europe — France, Germany and Italy all use military training to augment their regular services. The West German youth is liable for 18 months of duty when he reaches 18, and nearly all of those eligible are being taken now since the birth rate was down after Second World War.

France has universal military training with youths at 19 subject to 18 months' active duty, plus 3½ years of availability plus 12 years in the active reserves. In 1965, the pool of men reaching draft age was 400,000; about half were conscripted.

DEFIES ECONOMY CUT

THAME, England (CP) — Farmer John Howes rented a freight train from British Rail when he moved his farm stock 150 miles from Oxfordshire to Newton Abbot, Devon. Before he concluded the contract, railway officials had to authorize the reopening of a branch line closed four years ago as uneconomical.

Elderly Chinese Urged to Leave Big Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chinese Communist leaders are reported urging elderly people and others able to leave China's big cities, especially in the south near Viet Nam, to go back to their villages because of the possibility of American air attack.

Reports to this effect have been reaching U.S. government officials since spring. Information on the quiet campaign has come mainly from Hong Kong.

U.S. authorities familiar with the Hong Kong reports say that so far as they have been able to determine the Chinese Communist leaders have not ordered evacuation of any cities but rather have depended on a word-of-mouth campaign to the effect that people free to do so should get out of the large-population centres.

Information reaching Washington, it is said, indicates that the warnings have had some result in cities in south China but have been received skeptically in northern centres, particularly Shanghai.

The campaign to reduce the size of the cities is reported to have begun in May or early.

The Columbia Broadcasting System said Tuesday night the Johnson Administration is been informed that "at least six major Chinese cities" are being partially evacuated.

Avert Strike

statement came following late and lengthy talks at separate meetings with negotiators for both sides.

Premier Bennett had flown here from his Victoria office Tuesday saying he came "in case I can be of assistance." He had promised a statement today.

WARN WORKERS

Employers had warned workers that any general work stoppage would be illegal under terms of their contracts and that unions, their officers and members could be liable for damages.

The B.C. division of the Canadian Manufacturers Association said in a statement that members who did participate in a general walkout might face suspension or dismissal.

Meanwhile, the giant Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., with an estimated 6,500 employees at its mining and smelting plants in the Kootenays, obtained an injunction late Tuesday prohibiting announcement of the result of a strike vote taken among its workers.

Cominco employees had voted earlier on whether to join the general work stoppage. The results were to have been announced at 10 a.m. PST today (1 p.m. EST)

The injunction, issued by Judge Lee S. Ganner in Nelson, B.C., prohibits officers of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (Ind.) from taking a strike vote, compiling the results of such a vote, announcing the results or even recommending strike action to the members.

THREATEN DISMISSAL

Both Cominco and B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, with 8,000 employees, had earlier warned workers they would be subject to suspension or dismissal if they joined a work stoppage.

S. M. Rotham, Cominco's western operations manager, had said the general work stoppage was "a form of mass intimidation."

Automation and job security were considered key issues in the oil dispute.

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) had demanded long advance notice of layoffs due to automation. The oil companies had countered with statements that in recent years no senior employees had been laid off because of automation.

CALLS FOR SUPPORT

The B.C. Federation of Labor, with a listed membership of about 110,000, called for general union support for the oil workers in the form of the 48-hour work stoppage.

Many unions agreed to the call. But a number of large unions, involving about 35,000 machinists, hospital workers, postal employees and mail carriers, bartenders and others, refused to join in an "illegal walkout" although they pledged not to cross any picket lines that might be encountered.

The Teamsters' decision not to touch "hot" oil products gave the work-stoppage call a stamp of effectiveness.

Employers in a number of industries said they feared the Teamsters' action much more than a 48-hour stoppage. A Teamsters refusal to use or handle the basic ingredient of transportation—oil and gasoline —would have involved dozens of companies.

Three Former Que. Aldermen Are Charged

QUEBEC (CP) — Three former Quebec City aldermen were charged Tuesday with conspiracy to defraud and conspiracy to obstruct the law.

Marcel Laroche, 53, David Burns, 60, and Paul-Henri Lafond, 55, pleaded not guilty and had preliminary hearings set for Jan. 24. Bail was fixed at $1,000 each by presiding Judge Paul Roy.

The charge said the three conspired to fix violation tickets, traffic and parking violation notices and municipal court summonses with a view to obstructing justice and defrauding the City of Quebec and the public of $151,876.

Fourteen of 18 persons summoned to face charges resulting from a royal commission inquiry into Quebec City municipal court practices have so far appeared in court.

Floyd Patterson, gentleman, Christian and one of the rare alleys of decency in the bemuddled temple of heavyweight boxing, left the ring Monday night on his last walk to the dressing room.

He was a well-beaten fighter. His physical condition attested that. Cassius Clay the world champion—in parts—was never in danger of losing the crown. It was, as some of the experts said, a somewhat lopsided fight.

Clay, an insufferable egotist at the best, lived up to his predictions that he would win. But he failed to live up to his mouthings that he would "skin the rabbit" in five—or give him a "good whuppin'" for seven, then put him away.

While the Lip is wallowing in mounds of green-backs or what is left after his $8-50 split with his management syndicate, alimony payments to his estranged wife, support of the fawning coterie of sycophants and "donations" to the Black Muslims, people in other spheres of boxing are wondering just how much power Clay packs in a punch?

The guff that Clay buffs blatted after the fight that the young negro was "carrying Patterson" was given the bee-haw by the champion himself.

He showed newsmen skinned bruised knuckles in the dressing room. "Does that look like I carried him? He proved a good fighter."

Men in the supposed boxing "know" have said that Patterson carries a "glass jaw" that is second to none in the annals of heavyweight tournaments. They figured, as in the Liston defeats of Patterson, a solid punch to the jaw would fell the ex-champion like a poled ox.

Clay did not knock out Patterson, although it appeared that a KO was within his grasp after the fourth round. Post-fight reports state the former Louisville cotton-picker gloried not in letting the blood of a gallant former flow but rather in the mental humiliation coming from four rounds of vocal sound effects.

The uncouth barbs reached out from his mouth to the accompaniment of those of a brother Rudy Clay who sat near ringside and added his tinsel insults to those of big brother.

As one famous columnist puts it: "Clay certainly didn't gain any stature by his lopsided victory either inside or outside the ring. He was quick to praise Patterson right after the fight but he never once mentioned his own shabby behavior during the course of the bout."

Clay, it is stated, taunted Patterson with "Come on, America, come on White America." He kept up this tirade until the referee told him to cut out the chatter after the fourth round.

The "White America" taunts no doubt were Ali Muhammid's needles at Patterson's belief in racial segregation, something that doesn't coincide with that of the Black Muslims.

As the AP's Mil Richman wrote: "To those who heard Clay's tribute to Patterson, it sounded too little and too late. Also somewhat stomach-turning.

The Patterson prestige did not suffer in defeat as it did in those disastrous one-round knockouts at the hands of Liston. He was a game and dignified fighter who took nothing away from the ability of his conqueror. He refused to give an ailing back an excuse.

He ignored the slurring insults that spewed from the gullets of Clay and his hangers-on. He refused to let names like "The Rabbit" and "Uncle Tom" affect his mentality.

Clay has the potential of becoming another Joe Louis in the ring only. Joe had a devastating punch and was forced on several occasions to fall-round decisions before getting the nod. Clay's worst enemy is his ego. His colorful blasts that caused the news media to rush for their typewriters at one time now raise slightly better than a yawn.

Now the question rises, can Terrell defeat Clay?

Can the giant six-foot-six Chicagoan who leaped into heavyweight championship contention practically overnight, drape-shape himself over Clay as pro-Chevalo fans claim he did over the Canadian?

Or will they bring an innovation to heavyweight championship fandangos and make it a rock-'n-roll session with Terrell's combo sitting at ringside belting out the beats while Clay and Terrell go into their frug, watusi and monkey routines?

Fledgelings Help Hawks Edge Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When the old pros and the super-stars can't produce, some clubs can automatically write the game off.

That could have happened Tuesday night to Chicago Black Hawks. But it didn't.

With super-star Bobby Hull on the sidelines with an injury and high-scoring Stan Mikita unable to get on target, the Hawks turned the work over to the infantry and left Detroit Olympia Stadium with a 3-2 victory over the Red Wings.

The Chicago scorers were Fred Stanfield, 21 and in his sophomore National Hockey League year, Pat Stapleton, 22, who was with the Hawks last season and for 21 games of the previous season, and Red Hay, an eight-year veteran whose specialty is killing penalties.

The result put the fourth-place Hawks back into a first-place tie with Montreal Canadiens with 17 points each. Toronto remained in fifth spot, two points behind New York and four points behind the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

TWO GAMES ON TAP

The Canadiens got a chance to pull out of the tie tonight when they meet Toronto at Maple Leaf Gardens. Boston could pull even with Detroit by winning its game tonight at New York.

Rejoining the Canadiens for the game against his former Leaf teammates will be left winger Dick Duff, who missed the last five games with an infected toe.

At Detroit, Gordie Howe was kept scoreless for the fourth straight game in his quest for the one goal that will boost his career total to 600, but it wasn't for lack of trying. He had three good chances in the first period, but Chicago goaltender Glenn Hall stymied him.

Howe's teammate Andy Bathgate was more fortunate than Howe in aiming at a personal milestone. He assisted on Delvecchio's goal to boost his career points total to 800.

Stanfield opened the scoring with his second goal of the season on a pass from Doug Mohns at 5:40 of the second period. Twenty-nine seconds later Esposito caught Crozier out of position to make it 2-0 with his sixth goal.

McDonald was set up by Ullman for his second goal of the season on a screened shot at 7:19 of the second. At 11:06 Hay scored while Chicago defenseman Doug Jarrett was sitting out a penalty.

SCORES THIRD GOAL

Delvecchio scored his third season's goal after 31 seconds of the third period, but the Hawks weren't able to come up with the tying goal.

At Toronto tonight, the Leafs will again use rookie Mike Walton to fill in for Red Kelly who has a groin injury. Walton scored his first NHL goal Sunday night against Chicago. Larry Jeffrey and Brit Selby, who both picked up injuries against Chicago Sunday, are expected to be dressed.

On the eve of the Boston-New York game, Rangers president William Jennings issued a peace-making statement on the subject of a brawl in the stands Sunday night over a disputed goal.

The melee began when Emile Francis, Rangers' general manager, approached goal judge Arthur Reichert to dispute a Detroit goal and got into a fight with a fan. Some Rangers went into the stands and tangled with fans.

Jennings said Sunday night Reichert "would never get into this building again." He changed his mind on that subject Tuesday night and added:

"The Rangers have given up wall-climbing. Emile Francis has abandoned his ring aspirations, and we are all back to a 100-per-cent effort to make the playoffs."

Leafs Grab Western Loop Lead

VICTORIA (CP) — Victoria Maple Leafs regained the Western Hockey League lead Tuesday night with a 9-5 win over Los Angeles Blades before 2,135 fans.

The Leafs picked up their fifth straight win on the strength of three goals by Milan Marcetta and others by Andy Hebenton, John Shearer, Lou Jankowski, Gordie Redahl, Ed Litzenberger and Mike Labadie.

Buddy Boone and Brian Smith each scored twice for the losers and Cliff Pennington scored the other.

Colts Move Toward West. Title

DETROIT (AP) — League-leading Baltimore Colts, riding on the crest of an eight-game National Football League winning streak, can take a giant step toward another Western Conference title against the injury - riddled Detroit Lions Thursday.

The Colts can mathematically eliminate all teams but Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears with a win or a tie against the Lions.

Jackson Kidney Injured

OTTAWA (CP) — Russ Jackson, Ottawa Rough Rider quarterback, is undergoing tests for a kidney injury suffered in the Eastern Football Conference final against Hamilton Tiger-Cats last Saturday.

Dr. W. F. A. Davies, club physician, said Jackson suffered some kidney damage which is more than likely only bruises. He also came out of the game with a badly banged up nose and black eyes. The nose wasn't broken.

Dr. Davies said x-rays will be taken in hospital today to determine the extent of the kidney injury. Tests were made Tuesday but proved inconclusive.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An assist by Doug Mohns was the only scoring activity by the big guns of the National Hockey League Tuesday night as the second-stringers took over in Chicago Black Hawks' 3-2 victory over Detroit Red Wings.

With Bobby Hull sidelined by an ankle injury and Stan Mikita unable to hit the score sheet, the Chicago left winger set up the first of three second-period goals and moved into a fifth-place tie with Bob Nevin of New York Rangers with 15 points.

Bobby Rousseau of Montreal Canadiens continues to lead the scoring parade with 23 points, two more than Hull.

Bombers' Grant Seeks Fifth Cup Win

Hayman Holds Record

By JIM CREBAR

TORONTO (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers arrived Tuesday and coach Bud Grant began laying plans in hopes of winning his fifth Grey Cup football championship Saturday.

The Bombers play Hamilton Tiger-Cats, a club that Grant has defeated four times out of five in Grey Cup finals, all as coach of the Bombers.

Only Lew Hayman, now managing director-general, Argonauts, has coached five Grey Cup winners—the Argos in 1933-37-38, Toronto RCAF Hurricanes in 1942 and Montreal Alouettes in 1949.

Grant's only Grey Cup loss came in his rookie season as Winnipeg coach in 1957 when he brought an injury-racked team to Toronto and lost 32-7 to Hamilton. The game was best remembered for the fumbled in which an unidentified fan tripped Ray (Bibbles) Bawel of the Ticats as he was racing for a sure touchdown.

Grant never lost a Grey Cup to Hamilton after that, downing the Tiger-Cats 35-28 in 1958, 21-7 in 1959, 21-14 in overtime in 1961 and 29-27 in the last game that took two days to complete because of fog in Toronto.

BOMBERS RECOVER

Grant, whose club was recovered from a dismal season in 1964 in which the Bombers won only one game, has seven veterans who have been through all five of his Grey Cup contests.

They are tackles Frank Rigney and Cornel Piper, guard Herb Gray, halfbacks Leo Lewis, Ernie Pitts and Norm Rauhaus and quarterback Kenny Ploen.

Grant has a healthy club this time.

The only player who will be missing is linebacker Ken Maglicic, who sprained an ankle on a frozen field in the second game of the Western Conference final against Calgary Stampeders last Wednesday. Maglicic was put on the 30-day injury list and cannot be taken off.

The Bomber star twisted his left knee a couple of times this year and was out of action briefly mid - way through the season. But Grant said Tuesday that Ploen is in top shape and he's not worried about his bread-and-butter quarterback.

"This is the healthiest club we've taken into a Grey Cup final since 1959," Grant said.

START WORKOUTS

"We're expecting nothing but trouble from this Hamilton club," the 38-year-old coach said. "Those players they picked up in the trade with Montreal have made their defence tougher than ever."

He was referring to Ted Page, Billy Wayte, Billy Ray Locklin and Chuck Walton who went to the Ticats from Montreal Alouettes in exchange for quarterback Sonny Palacoy, Jackie Simpson and Ralph Goldston.

Bookies made Hamilton footpoint favorites Tuesday and one big gambling fraternity is not at all happy about the Bombers coming here.

"The Toronto bookmen people (bookies) prefer Calgary ahead of Winnipeg," he said, "because Winnipeg people are a bunch of deadheads. There's a helluva lot more action when Calgary comes down because they got richer people. Those guys own oilfields."

If you taken Hamilton to win by four points or more, you bet $11 to win $10. If you bet against a four-point Ticat victory you put up $10 to win $11.

Wally Hayter, manager of Canadian National Exhibition Stadium where the game will be played, said the tarpaulin has been down all week and will stay there until Saturday.

The game, starting at 1 p.m. EST, will be televised nationally by the CTV and CBC.

There is no public sale of tickets as usual, but all 32,655 seats are sold.

Marlies Defeat Nationals

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Toronto Marlboros defeated London Nationals 5-3 before 2,845 fans Tuesday night to move into a third - place tie with Peterborough Petes in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The Marlboros were never behind as they pushed on from a 3-2 second-period lead with two goals in the third to secure their sixth victory of the season.

Tom Martin gave Toronto a 1-0 lead with the only goal of the first period. London tied the game at three minutes of the second on John Mercer's goal before Mike Byers pumped two close-in shots past goalie Rocky Farr within 34 seconds to give the Marlboros a 3-1 margin.

London's Randy Murray scored in the second period.

Al Osborne put Toronto into a 4-2 lead at two minutes of the third with London shorthanded. Defenceman Jim Dorey scored three minutes later, but, Toronto's Barry Watson clinched the game a minute after that on a tip-in shot.

Rollins Jrs. At Trenton Tonight

Belleville Rollins Construction Juniors tangle with the Trenton Apple Kings in an Eastern Ontario Junior "B" game tonight in Trenton. The puck will be dropped at eight o'clock.

This is the first meeting of the current season of the teams and a tidy tussle is expected.

At the moment the clubs are tied for fourth place in the league standing.

Centre Pro League

DETROIT (CP) — Paul Andrea of Minnesota Rangers got a goal and an assist last week to edge into the scoring lead in the Central Professional Hockey League.

Andrea has eight goals and eight assists for 16 points, one more than last week's leader, Andre Champagne of first-place Tulsa Oilers.

The biggest jump in the top 10 was made by Skip Krake of Oklahoma City Blazers, who moved from fifth with 11 points to third with 14 points.

Fight Gate Nearly 4 Million

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Cassius Clay, still heavyweight boxing champion of the world, and ex-ruler Floyd Patterson sat side by side Tuesday and traded compliments instead of insults.

The occasion was a final news conference held at fight headquarters following Clay's 12th round knockout over Patterson Monday night.

Clay, unmarked and boastful as usual, said he hopes to make a third defence of his crown, possibly in four months, against World Boxing Association titleholder, Ernie Terrell.

In Chicago, Terrell, scheduled a press conference this afternoon, presumably to hurl an official challenge at Clay.

Patterson, his face a little puffy, apparently was still in pain from a muscle spasm at the base of the spine which he said he suffered about the third round.

He refused to use this as an alibi for his performance.

"Last night I was beaten by a great fighter," he said, and referring to the head trouble, added: "The result might have been the same, but the fight might have been more interesting."

The 23 - year - old champion said he hopes to visit Saudi Arabia, Pakistan, Turkey and Italy "so all the people can see me."

Financial returns, according to one promotion official, indicate that total revenues from the closed - circuit television here and abroad, the live gate of $361,111, radio and movies will be approximately $3,879,000.

Clay figures to collect about $700,000 and Patterson $350,000.

Harness Drivers' Race Close

TORONTO (CP) — Ron Feagan, Ontario's leading harness racing driver, and Gilles Lachance, driving at Montreal's Richelieu Raceway, are running neck and neck for the Maurice Michaud Trophy, awarded each year to the Canadian driver with most competition wins.

As the 1965 harness racing season draws to a close, Feagan had 204 victories in 882 races and Lachance had 203 in 1,006 trips to the post prior to Tuesday's action.

Feagan earned his 200th victory Nov. 19 at Mohawk Raceway, Campbellville, Ont. The 23-year-old from Goderich, Ont., has been driving for six years.

Lachance won his 200th race Nov. 20, the day after his 27th birthday.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Leader Lane, bet off the boards at 3-to-5, didn't disappoint his backers in the seventh race at Greenwood Race Track Tuesday, winning by one and a quarter lengths over Hempeter and Martin's Ark.

It was the fourth straight victory for Leader Lane, owned by Mrs. G. M. Graham of Toronto.

The daily double of Radiant Colours and Black Raven paid $21.80, while the quinella of Moon Babu and Alice It. paid $15.80.

Cloudy Skies Expected For Cup Final

TORONTO (CP) — Football fans can expect cloudy skies and temperatures in the 40s for the Grey Cup game here Saturday afternoon between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The weather office said Tuesday that there is little chance of heavy rain or snow during the game, basing its prediction on records for Nov. 27 during the last 25 years.

And He Could Play Methuselah

CALGARY (CP) — Don Luzzi, Calgary Stampeder tackle who said he wouldn't shave off his thick black beard until his team made it to the Grey Cup, now says he'll probably dye it white and play Santa Claus for his kids at Christmas.

Luzzi's beard became a gag while the Stampeders were playing Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the Western Football Conference championship.

But when Stamps lost the best-of-three - game WFC playoffs to the Bombers people began to wonder if Luzzi, 30, nicknamed the Bearded Lady by his teammates, would end up looking like Rip van Winkle by the time Calgary made it to the Grey Cup.

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Louie G., an eight-year-old pacer, won his eighth race of the season when he won the seventh race at Mohawk Raceway Tuesday night.

Owned by Greta and Hayward Sly of Collingwood, the gelding covered the mile pace in 2:09 and returned $4.80, $2.20 and $2.10.

ZENO KARCZ

Karcz was flabbergasted when he won the award as Canada's top native-born player this year. "I never thought a linebacker could win it," he said.

Despite his great personal performance in a job few fans can really appreciate, he was a member of Canada's top defensive unit and one loaded with other outstanding individuals.

"People just don't watch linebackers, at least I thought they didn't," he said. "In fact, after we beat Ottawa last Saturday a friend bumped into me later and asked me why I didn't play."

The husky five-foot-11 195-pounder has taken a good-natured ribbing from team-mates since being named Outstanding Lineman in the off-season he works as a salesman for a competitor of the firm which presents the annual award.

"This might be my eighth Grey Cup game, but I still get a charge of being part of it. Part of the reason is that this club never was expected to win the east because we made so many personal changes. That's why the whole team enjoys the accomplishment."

HAD GREAT YEAR

And Karcz adds:

"I had better year to finish the season than on a Grey Cup winner? I've already got a new house this year, a new car, a new addition to the family and the award. A Grey Cup win would look nice on top of that."

Things weren't always so rosy for Karcz, the father of five youngsters. In 1960 Hamilton tried a rotating defence and Karcz played behind the middle of the line. "I never was so battered up in my life. I just got killed. But other years and I forgot about the bruises and plans to retire."

Soccer Men Discuss Int. League

TORONTO (CP)—An international league of U.S. and Canadian soccer teams could be in operation by 1967, Sherwin Stayko, president of Toronto City of the Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League said Tuesday.

Stavro said in an interview many cities in the U.S. are interested and willing to pay the $30,000 franchise fee to get into the five-team setup.

Teams from New York, Detroit, Rochester, N.Y., and Chicago are being considered for membership, he said.

Stavro said there is room for only one professional soccer team in Toronto, and the problem of integrating the three existing teams in the city will be a major one.

The three Toronto teams are Roma, Italia and City. Italia was the only one to report a profit after the 1965 season. Other teams in the league are Hamilton and Montreal Italica.

ATTACHES NO BLAME

TORONTO (CP)—A coroner's jury said Tuesday that Stefanie Olinyk, 62, died Oct. 4 of natural causes in St. Michael's Hospital and exonerated all persons and institutions connected with the case. The two daughters of the Toronto woman felt their mother had not received the care she should have and want Metropolitan Toronto's chief coroner, Dr. Morton Shulman, asking for an investigation.

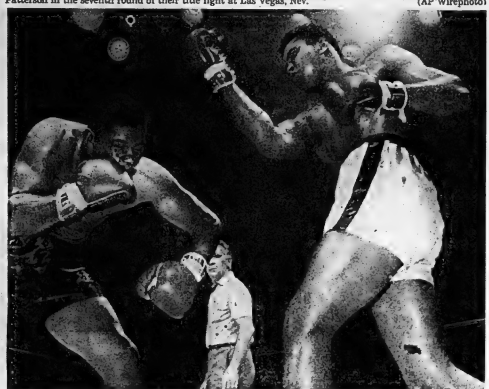
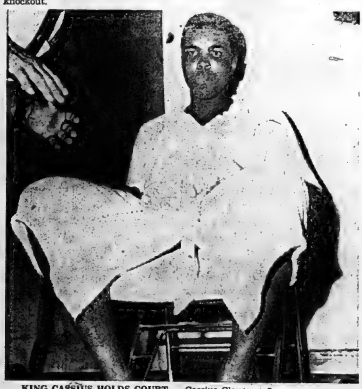
Chargers Favored Over Bills

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Buffalo Bills have qualified for the title of superior "underdog" but San Diego Chargers are favored by a touchdown in the annual Thanksgiving Day clash of the American Football League's powerhouses here.



The game will be played in 34,000 - seat Balboa Stadium, where the turf has been saturated in a recent series of rain storms plaguing the West Coast.

The Bills, even if they don't enjoy the goo, have a 4-0 record on the road this year — all played in the rain.



A year ago, the Bills triumphed in a 27-24 thriller when Pete Gogolak booted a last-minute field goal. The loss went on to win the league title by defeating San Diego 20-7.

KING CASSIUS HOLDS COURT — Cassius Clay manages to look like a potentate as he holds court for newsmen after overwhelming heavyweight challenger Floyd Patterson for a 12th round technical knockout at Las Vegas, Nev. He said Patterson "fought a good fight" and managed to "graze" him a few times. (AP Wirephoto)

Arabs Go Wild Over Ali Clay

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) Arab radio stations quickly applauded Cassius Clay's victory over Floyd Patterson and Baghdad broadcast the result of the fight so breathlessly that it sounded almost like a revolution.

Regarded as a hero in the Moslem Arab world, Clay's victory overshadowed major political events Tuesday as word of the fight reached here.

Breakfast - time listeners to Baghdad radio in Iraq thought another coup d'etat was in the making when a voice interrupted the political news broadcast saying, "We have an urgent bulletin:

CALGARY (CP)—The president of the Canadian John Howard Society said Tuesday the federal government realizes it must give more aid to prisoner reform when progress is difficult. Monsignor J. E. Le Fort of Calgary said in an interview progress is held up because prisoners are not a popular political issue.

Cup Take Lower Than Last Year

TORONTO (CP)—Grey Cup officials expect income from this year's game to be the lowest since 1962, when the $500,000 mark was first reached.

About $339,303.99 is the expected take for Saturday's game here, with gate receipts accounting for $306,322.99. Last year's gross income was $376,-639.

Partly accounting for the expected loss is the $45,000 not forthcoming this year from United States television rights.

About $175,000 will be received from Canadian television rights, $18,000 from radio, $32,000 from motion picture rights and 18,000 from program rights.

A record $385,372 was grossed in 1963, when the game was played in Vancouver.

Tigers Shake Room Jinx

TORONTO (CP) — Four times in the last six years Hamilton Tiger - Cats have emerged from their dressing room to contest a Grey Cup final at Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition Stadium and returned to it without a victory.

Grey Cup co - ordinator Harry McIlreith said Tuesday there is no particular reason for the change. His committee just held a meeting and decided to give the western club the home-team dressing room this time.

The normal tenants of the home quarters happen to be Toronto Argonauts, who have consoled themselves there after 10 defeats in 12 Eastern Football Conference starts in the last two years.

The Ticats were quartered there when they lost the 1939, 1961 and 1962 finals to Winnipeg and again last year when they lost to British Columbia Lions. They haven't won a Grey Cup game in Toronto since they defeated Winnipeg in 1957—when the game was played at Varsity Stadium.

'URGES FAST ACTION

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Fast and complete measures should be taken to assure there will be no separation of French- and English-Canada, Eugene Forsey, director of research for the Canadian Labor Congress, said Tuesday night. Dr. Forsey said at Trent University that outright separation would bring economic ruin to English- and French-speaking Canada.

Kate Smith Eager to Resume Career After Nine-year Break

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Kate Smith has a wardrobe and will travel. In fact, for the first time in more than nine years, the big woman with the big voice and the warm smile is willing—nay, eager—to pick up a career that for a long period was almost dormant under the burden of personal problems.

She has already plopped up the threads, hicking off Ed Sullivan's first program of the new season.

The U.S. TV audience will be seeing her at least once a month now. Kate also is thinking about a country-wide concert tour and has recorded her first album of Christmas songs, How Great Thou Art, an event of great significance to her. In July she was confirmed in the Roman Catholic Church. And everything that has happened to her since that date she relates to the event.

Kate Smith—Kate to her fans, Kathryn to her friends—made her radio debut in 1931 and that sweet, natural voice earned her and her partner-manager, Ted Collins, more than $2,000,000 over the years until 1956 when Collins suffered a massive heart attack.

"Ted was a Catholic," Kate said. "But although my father was a Catholic, my mother was a Presbyterian and I had been attending a Protestant church for about 25 years. So when Ted had his heart attack, I got in the habit of going up to the cathedral to see him and then going down to St. Patrick's Cathedral.

"Somehow I found some peace and solace there and I also liked the feeling of other people coming and going for the same reason."

Collins recovered, but a short time after that Kate's mother died. For 30 years Kate had maintained a New York apartment for herself and her mother. She also had an apartment in Palm Beach and a real home —a place at Lake Placid, in state New York. Upon her mother's death, she gave up the New York apartment.

In January last year Kate went to a smoke her love. The result was nine weeks in a cast. This was followed almost immediately by a heart-breaking attack that kept her in bed six weeks.

Shortly afterwards Collins suffered a second heart attack and died at Lake Placid.

"I had to move," she said, grief-stricken over the death of the man who had picked her as her singing star from a fee-line part in a Broadway show and offered her a recording contract. From radio, Collins steered her into radio, and to televisbn, He was both her manager and her 50-50 partner.

But Kate's troubles were not over. She slipped in the shower in her Palm Beach home, gashed her arm and sliced an artery. She almost bled to death. The wound required a skin graft and 152 stitches.

"I was trying to find out what I had done—or what I wanted to do," she said. "And one day it seemed perfectly clear. I wanted to become a Catholic. I got well, went back to Placid, studied all summer—and in June I was baptized." A month later she was taken into the church.

Kathryn Elizabeth Smith, now 56, started singing professionally at eight—for First World War soldiers in and around Washington where she grew up. At 16 she enrolled in a nursing course—but got to go to New York to appear on Broadway. With radio, she became an instigation. When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain still is completely identified with her.

Watch That Champagne, Audrey Getting Gassed

By EDDY GILMORE

PARIS (AP) — For the 22nd time in less than six hours, an alert French reaction slumbered a full champagne bottle into a bucket of ice standing beside Audrey Hepburn and Hugh Griffith, grabbing the bottle by the neck and filling a glass. And as the lovely Miss Hepburn sipped he added, "that's a good girl."

The cameras stopped.

The director asked that the scene again.

"You want me to drink more?" giggled Audrey, in an aside to the camera.

She was told yes.

"I love you dearly, Dad," said the actress, wrinkling her pretty nose, "but at the rate I'm going, I'm going to get terribly gassed and that's exactly what I mean—gassed."

REVEALS CONTENT

She smiled, shrugged her trim shoulders, walked over and sat down and answered a question about the contents of the champagne bottle.

"The label says Dom Perignon, 1953," she explained, "but don't let it fool you. It's just cider and lemonade. If we were drinking real champagne, well, I don't suppose we'd ever finish this scene."

Miss Hepburn and Griffith, as the Shakespearean actor — also an Academy Award winner— were doing a scene from William Wyler's 65th movie, a comedy called How To Steal a Million Dollars and Live Happily Ever After, which also stars Peter O'Toole.

One of the most meticulous directors in the business, Wyler had the same scene acted out 24 times before he got it the way he wanted it.

While he was re-lit for closeups of the same champagne-washed scene, Miss Hepburn—who is making her first picture since My Fair Lady—walked over again and sat down.

BEAUTIFULLY BLOATED

Despite a long, long day, she looked radiantly beautiful.

"But I feel completely waterlogged," she said. "It's all that mixture of lemonade and cider—ugh, ugh. But you know, they say that it flies better than real champagne. I mean, they say it looks more like champagne than champagne does."

"I like filming in Paris because I like Paris and because I'm close to our home in Switzerland," she said. "I'm often in communication from here to spend as much of my time as I can with my husband and our son."

Miss Hepburn married actor Mel Ferrer in a surprise ceremony at Burgenstock, Switzerland, Sept. 25, 1954. They have a five-year-old son, Sean.

He's in Love With His Wife Though They Are Not Wed

Cold Winter Is Predicted By Forecaster

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)— Levi Drodge, an amateur forecaster who has been predicting weather in Newfoundland with uncanny accuracy for more than 40 years, has decided to branch out.

Mr. Drodge issued his first long-range forecast for all Canada Tuesday.

In a statement to The Telegram, Mr. Drodge, 83, a retired fisherman from the Trinity Bay community of Hillview, announced:

"There's a hard winter coming up. Don't say I didn't warn you."

His first forecast for the entire country:

"It's going to be a very hard winter for Canada. It is going to be very cold and plenty of snow and frost."

In 1963, Mr. Drodge forecast a heavy snowfall for Newfoundland and the St. John's area received a total of almost 20 feet from November to May. Last winter, he forecast a cold winter with little snow and he was right again.

He said he predicts the weather by watching the tides and "sceating" the winds. The best place to predict weather, according to his calculations, would be Sable Island, off the Nova Scotia coast.

"If I was there for about 10 days, I could give the weather for the whole of North America," he said.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I'm in love with my wife but we're not really married," says blonde young giant Denny Miller.

The statement is true but not quite that provocative.

Denny is Juliet Prowse's husband on the Mona McCluskey television show. He had never met Juliet before he was signed to the show.

Now they are in love with each other both on and off the screen.

Denny, a rugged and eligible bachelor, has never been married before. Neither has South African-born Juliet.

They haven't set a wedding date yet," says Denny. "I think Juliet would like to get a Broadway show under her belt before settling down to married life. We can wait."

Denny, once a movie Tarzan, is an ex-basketball star at University of California at Los Angeles. He got into the movies literally by moving van.

"I took a job moving furniture during summer vacation from UCLA. Most of the furniture I moved my first day went into agency offices in Hollywood and Beverly Hills."

In one afternoon no less than five agents handed him their cards and told him he should be in the movies.

He kept the cards, finished school and took one—Robert Ralson—up on the offer. Ralson is still his agent.

Universal put him under contract and later he appeared with Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin and Shirley MacLaine in Some Came Running.

His rugged frame soon got him spotted as the 13th Tarzan.

'Odd Couple' With Carney Made Matthau Popular

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "They say that all you need in show biz is one good break," growled Walter Matthau. "I've had 35."

The first break that made one of the most serviceable character actors in plays, films and television. The 35th seems to have made him a star.

The one big break of Matthau's career was The Odd Couple, the Neil Simon comedy which opened on Broadway late last season. The play in which Matthau and Art Carney co-starred as wildly incompatible apartment mates whose wives had left them, sparkled what appeared to be a Walter Matthau appreciation drive.

"Don't ask me to explain it," said the actor. "I've starred in 20 plays, and nothing like this happened before. Everything seemed to fall in place. And, even without having a personal press agent, the publicity poured in."

SENT THEM BACK

"I sent them all back," he said. "Then Billy Wilder said he wanted me for a picture, but he hadn't written it yet. I said I'd wait."

The Wilder film turned out to be The Fortune Cookie, for which Matthau took a leave of absence from The Odd Couple. He plays Jack Lehmon's brother-in-law, an opportunist lawyer.

Matthau the pressoucers it matka-two was his offered television series in the wake of The Odd Couple.

"I could no doubt make about five billion dollars if I took one," he observed, "but that would mean doing piece work. That's why I left the factory. To get away from piece work."

It was an electroplating factory on Long Island, and he was employed to dip handbag frames, wearing sneakers so he wouldn't get electrocuted. Matthau felt there were greater challenges for him, especially after appearing in every settlement-house play he could find.

He talked himself into roles in summer stock, television, and Broadway plays, starring as early as 1951 in Twilight Walk. But he had to wait until 1965 to score in The Odd Couple.

ASKS LABOR IMPORTS

VICTORIA (CP)—The British Columbia Federation of Agriculture has asked for federal consideration of import labor, possibly from China or Mexico, to ease a manpower shortage in the agricultural industry. Ernest Winfield, federation manager, said the organization wants to be able to bring workers from foreign countries if a shortage of Canadian help continues.

Canada's rail industry is clearly destined—if we all do our part—to become not just a profitable money-earner for Canada, but the earner of two or more billions of dollars a year," said Mr. Sharp.

Minister Says Judge On Witchhunt

QUEBEC (CP) — Education Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie said Tuesday Chief Justice Frederic Dorion is engaged in a "witchhunt" following statements by the chief justice that some Quebec school readers have been deformed to please a small group of agnostics.
"I knew that some people were engaged in a witchhunt, but didn't expect one of them to be a judge," said Mr. Gerin-Lajoie.
His statement came just hours after the chief justice of Quebec Superior Court attacked "the handful of agnostics who are trying to make children forget everything connected with religion and the existence of God."
"First- and second - grade readers used in Quebec schools have been totally deformed, apparently to please a small group of agnostics," he said at the opening of the Quebec City fall assizes.
Mr. Justice Dorion said most criminals are victims of the education they received, and called on parents "to make sure that those representing them teach children respect for the principles they are trying to impress on the children at home." SOME LEFT OUT
His main complaint about the readers was that some religious material had been left out of them.
However, Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said the books were modified this year to conform with the "opinions and wishes" of the catechism committee "created by the Roman Catholic bishops themselves."
He said the changes were suggested by persons specially equipped to do so and who were familiar with the question.
"I have always believed in separation of the judiciary and politics, but this apparently doesn't correspond with the chief justice's point of view."
The education minister said he respects judges and their judgments but does not approve of "the intervention of judges in politics."
The judge said he considered the reader used in the second grade published under "false representations." Inside the reader's cover it says the book is approved by the Quebec department de l'instruction publique, he noted.
"It is known that this body, which included bishops, has been defunct for three years. . . .
"The statement is thus a falsehood which shouldn't be printed in a book designed for the education of children.
"Is it possible for Quebec to despise the feelings of 85 per cent of the population which is Catholic and 10 per cent which is Protestant and to seek to give children non-religious teaching?
"Is it in this way that we wish to educate the next generation and give it the means to live a sound and honest life?" is this the way to right juvenile delinquency that everyone deplores?"
The Gerin-Lajoie said the major request for modification of the two manuals came from the Catholic school commission of Montreal, and bore the same seal as the original because the change three years ago had merely been an administrative change in his department.

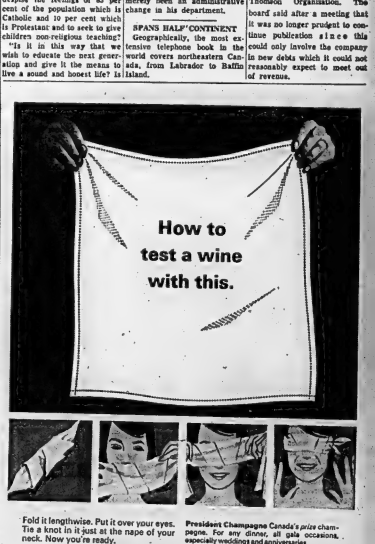
Tourist Officials Will Learn Today How Drive for More Visitors Made Out



By STUART LAKE
OTTAWA (CP)—Tourist officials learn today just how successful they've been in bringing visitors to Canada in 1965.
Preliminary figures prepared by the bureau of statistics are to be read to delegates attending the closing session of the federal-provincial tourist conference.
There seems little doubt that the 1965 tourist income will exceed the $661,000,000 of last year. Trade Minister Sharp made that prediction Monday and also expressed confidence that the goal of $1,000,000,000 tourist income will be reached by 1967.
Looking beyond 1967, Mr. Sharp said at a dinner for delegates Tuesday night that the industry can earn more than $2,000,000,000 annually in the next generation.
The United States was the major source of Canadian visitors.
"And we must, in all honesty, acknowledge that we are not within reach of our full potential in the U.S. travel business," said Mr. Sharp.

STUDY DOMESTIC TRAVEL
Mr. Sharp also said that the federal government has authorized the Canadian Travel Bureau to hire a research company to make a study of interprovincial travel in Canada.
More must be known about much travel if Canada was to build its travel industry on a sound basis. He hoped it would be possible to have a comprehensive domestic travel survey.
Competition for the American tourist was stiff and Canada was being "understandably outspent, out-advertised, out-promoted" by its many competitors.
But Canada has what it takes to become a vacation paradise. "Over the next generation, Canada's travel industry is clearly destined—if we all do our part—to become not just a profitable money-earner for Canada, but the earner of two or more billions of dollars a year," said Mr. Sharp.

CEASE PUBLICATION
LAGOS (Reuters)—Two Nigerian national newspapers—The Daily Express and Sunday Express—have ceased publication. It was announced Tuesday by the Amalgamated Press of Nigeria, partly owned by the Thomson Organization. The board said after a meeting that it was no longer prudent to continue publication since this could only involve the company in new debts which it could not reasonably expect to meet out of revenue.

Fishy Prince Rupert Moving to Industry

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) Smelly fishing village or ultra-modern city on the move?

Neither label really applies to Prince Rupert.

This city of 12,000 on the north coast of British Columbia is somewhere in between; more than a boomtown-in-the-bud and less than an economic and social leader among B.C. cities.

But there can be little doubt is which direction Prince Rupert is moving.

New industry valued at $100,000,000 is under construction or on the drawing board in the Prince Rupert area. The biggest single project is an $80,000,000 kraft paper mill.

The tell-tale signs of prosperity are everywhere.

A shopping centre and new department stores are being built. High-rise apartments and motels and hundreds of new homes are going up to accommodate the population which is expected to reach 17,000 by 1967. Allied subdivisions are being blueprinted.

The cost of living—one of the highest in the province—shows signs of dropping as national merchandisers become established and the population grows.

The tourist industry, already strong, will receive a boost when the government ferry connecting Prince Rupert with the north end of Vancouver Island goes into operation.

Enlarged dock facilities are planned by the CNR. Grain storage space is expected to be doubled and port volumes are expected to soar from the influence of northern pulp mill expansion.

And the old advantages remain.

Prince Rupert still has its fine deep sea harbor, its vast natural resources, its location as a supply centre for mining developments in the far north.

And its fish.

BUILD FLOATING WHARF

DORCHESTER CAPE, N.B. (CP) — The 7,000-ton concrete wharf being built here 20 miles southeast of Moncton will float, in order to compensate for the 46' tides of Shepody Bay. The floating section, needed for the construction of a chemical industrial park, can be towed away if threatened by ice.

AIM AT ANIMALS

CALCUTTA (AP) — The Indian food ministry has declared war on rats and monkeys as part of the country's struggle for enough food. Chidambaram Subramaniam, the minister, told a rally that there are 10 rats for each of India's 480,000,000 people, all eating food desperately needed by humans.

Income Tax Explained

A column designed for the working taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER

Retired Supervising Assessor, Income Tax Department

MEDICAL EXPENSES, AWARDED BY COURTS

A number of taxpayers who have incurred and paid large medical bills, afterwards received a lump sum settlement of these expenses from an Insurance Company.

They are in a quandary as to whether the lump sum received should be shown as income on their income tax returns. Such a settlement is not income and does not have to be reported. This still applies even when the taxpayer has claimed the medical expenses in the usual manner. Medical expenses can always be claimed by the person who incurred them, no matter who has paid them.

If the taxpayer was in a car accident and the other party's insurance paid all his expenses plus an amount for personal inconvenience, suffering, etc., no part of such payments received is income for taxation purposes. Should the payments have been made direct to the doctor, the taxpayer can still claim them as medical expenses on his return. Of course he must obtain receipts to verify the claim.

Many taxpayers carry some form of insurance to cover their medical expenses and when their insurance pays the medical bills, these medical expenses are still deductible by the taxpayer, subject to their reduction by 3 percent of the net income. The confusion in these cases, no doubt arises by the hospital bills paid by the Hospital Services plan. Hospital bills paid by a provincial plan are never deductible, but medical expenses are, no matter how they were paid.

If you have a problem or any doubt as to the eligibility of a claim a letter addressed to this newspaper in which you read this column, will bring correct information if the instructions below are followed.

For a personal reply, enclose a self - addressed, five cent stamped envelope, plus 25 cents for each question.

QUESTION 1: I was in a car accident and lost a leg. Three years later I received a settlement from an insurance company to cover all my expenses, lost time, etc. I had already claimed the medical expenses. Do I have to now report that part of the settlement as income?

QUESTION 2: I was in a car accident and the other person's insurance paid all my expenses. Can I claim the doctors bills which I did not pay?

ANSWER: Yes, providing you can get receipts.

Period of Drift Within Atlantic Alliance Ending

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—The announcement of Prime Minister Wilson's visit to President Johnson Dec. 17 is another sign that the period of drift within the Atlantic alliance is ending.

German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard will see the president starting Dec. 3 and two days later President de Gaulle of France is expected to win another seven - year term hands down.

Thus, with Wilson's visit completed, talks between France and the United States are anticipated early next year on where NATO is bound—with or without France.

That will end a year's calculated pause by the American president.

Johnson and Wilson will discuss matters peculiar to the alliance. They centre on the kind and shape of nuclear role for West Germany within NATO. They also include whether the U.S. shares Britain's desire to try to use NATO as a bargaining point for an agreement with Russia on stopping the spread of nuclear weapons.

The talks, however, will go well beyond Europe and touch indirectly at least on what some observers here feel is the gradual and inevitable change in the nature of the relationship that has long existed between the two countries.

While Britain retained its far-flung empire, it was a flourishing relationship in many ways. But with the Commonwealth seeming an increasingly-rickety contrivance, more U.S. attention tends to focus on evidence that Britain keeps eyeing closer ties with Europe.

Increasingly, as well, German ties with Britain for special status, a process abetted by the chill between Paris and Washington.

The British Conservative party's leanings toward Europe are on record, persisting since the rebuff in 1962 given by de Gaulle to British aspirations for Commonwealth membership.

So far, Wilson has managed to muffle the Labor party's criticism from the left, of American policy in Viet Nam. He has continued to provide costly military help for Malaysia against Indonesian harassment.

The pound in turn has been generously bolstered by U.S. backing and firm if limited support given so far in the showdown with Rhodesia.

Congo General Declares Self New President

From AP-Reuters

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — Lt.-Gen. Joseph-Mobutu seized President Joseph Kasavubu today and declared himself president of the Congo for the next five years.

Mobutu, the army commander-in-chief, said he expected Parliamentary approval by acclamation of his presidency later today. He also cancelled the presidential and parliamentary elections which had been scheduled for next January and February.

"Since this morning I am the president," he told a press conference. It was his second seizure of power in The Congo since the former Belgian territory became independent in 1960.

Mobutu named Col. Leonard Mulamba, a career officer, to replace Premier-designate Evariste Kimba and said he would form a "government of national unity from all sections" in which he and Mulamba would be the only military figures.

He said Mulamba would present his government to Parliament for approval by Saturday.

NAMES COMMANDER

Mobutu also named Maj.-Gen. Louis Bobozo, 34, the army's only other general, to Mobutu's place as commander-in-chief. Bobozo has been military commander in Katanga's province, while Mulamba has been commander and political director in the northeast Congo since Stanleyville, its capital, was retaken from the Communist-supported rebels a year ago.

The coup apparently was peaceful and bloodless, and no opposition was evident in Leopoldville.

Street dancing in celebration was reported in the native quarter of Leopoldville. A report from Elisabethville, capital of Katanga and The Congo's second largest city, said Mobutu's action was generally approved there.

Only 12 days ago President Kasavubu asked Kimba to form a government after Premier Moise Tshombe was removed from office following bitter conflict with the president.

TSHOMBE HAPPY

A reliable source who saw Tshombe today said he wouldn't be happier with the latest turn of Congolese events.

The prevailing opinion was that Tshombe, who had the accession of Katanga after independence from Belgium in 1960, would be recalled to the government.

Congolese politics have been in crisis since Oct. 12 when Kasavubu, fearing Tshombe as a rival in the presidential election a next year, ousted the premier and named Kimba to replace him.

Education Changes In Five Years

GUELPH (CP) — A major change in Ontario's educational process during the next five years will be closer co-operation of teachers, colleges and universities, Education Minister William Davis predicted Wednesday.

Mr. Davis, speaking at a lecture series at Guelph University, said "it would be unrealistic" to demand by 1970 that all future elementary teachers be university graduates.

"However, I believe that the foundations for such an objective will be well laid five years from now and I expect to see several teachers' colleges at that time working co-operation with universities."

He also predicted an increasingly important role in the province's educational needs for colleges of applied art and technology.

"They will enable us to offer the most complete range of opportunities at this level of education ever known to the citizens of our province," he said.

REVEALS HOPE

He hoped very soon is be able "to announce the appointment of a board of regents" to screen more than 100 applications from municipalities asking for such a college to be established in their particular locale.

Teaching and administrative methods will also undergo a marked change before the end of this decade, Mr. Davis said.

Television and computers will become fundamental to the educational process, he said, and "for the first time it will be possible for educators to have available to them the entire range of educational data from administrative and planning facts on the one hand to data

Manning Refuses Draft Bid

By RON MacDONALD

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta set the stage for the national Social Credit convention Wednesday with a straightforward rejection of any bid to draft him as leader of a national free enterprise movement.

"My position is very simple," Mr. Manning told 750 persons at a banquet marking the Social of Social Credit government in Alberta.

"As long as I am responsible for the leadership of the government of the Province of Alberta, my responsibility is to the people who elected me and I will never betray that trust.

"I have no desires or ambitions even if I was free to enter into federal politics."

Mr. Manning said he will work in any way that does not conflict with his position in Alberta to help bring together people from all political parties and all walks of life in an ideological movement based on free enterprise and individual rights.

EXPECT CHALLENGES

The two-day convention of the Social Credit Association of Canada opens today with challenges to Robert Thompson's national leadership the top item on the agenda.

Bert Leboe, 56, Social Credit member of Parliament for Carleton and H. A. (Bud) Olson, 40, MP for Medicine Hat, announced Wednesday they will challenge Mr. Thompson's leadership in order to "clear the air."

Party strength in the Commons dropped to five seats from nine in the Nov. 8 general election and there is support for a leadership change among some delegates. Mr. Thompson has been leader since 1961.

He said he welcomes the leadership challenges because he wants any question surrounding the leadership to be cleared up at the convention. Voting on the leadership will take place Friday.

Mr. Leboe was defeated only in the 1958 election since first entering a Commons seat in 1953.

Mr. Olson was first elected to the Commons in 1957. He was defeated in 1958 but has won re-election since. As his party's agriculture critic, he has been touted as a possible choice for agriculture minister in the federal Liberal cabinet.

Iowa Armory Gas Blast Kills 7, Burns 60 More

KEOKUK, Iowa (AP)—A shattering explosion and fire destroyed a National Guard armory Wednesday night, sending seven persons to a fiery death and tragically ending a U.S. Thanksgiving eve square dance.

"Four or five more are not expected to live," Sheriff H. R. Delahoyde said today.

Most of the other 60 to 70 persons in the building were burned and injured. "All our hospitals are filled," the sheriff said.

Dr. R. E. Cooper, on duty at St. Joseph Hospital here, said eight persons were in critical condition, and three were transferred to university hospitals at Iowa City, the nearest burn centre.

Fire Chief John Breheny and Delahoyde said the explosion was caused by gas. "There is a gas furnace out there," the sheriff said.

"The explosion blew the walls out and the top up," he said. "There was a terrific fire for a few seconds. It had to be gas."

Capt. James Baugher, 34, commander of the 49 National Guard company based at the armory, said the blast apparently originated in the basement.

Dr. Cooper said the dead included four women, one man and two children. Some of the dead were burned beyond recognition.

Dr. Cooper said "most of those people can't tell us anything. The dawn thing just blew up."

Searchers frantically clawed through the smoldering rubble for victims. Doctors and nurses from neighboring towns in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri carried to this Mississippi River city to help.

Administrator John Ungiadh of Graham Hospital said it had admitted 27 persons as patients. He had no count of those treated and released.

St. Joseph Hospital said it admitted 17 persons for treatment.

Dr. R. E. Cooper, on duty at St. Joseph Hospital, said eight persons were in critical condition and not expected to live. They were transferred to university hospitals at Iowa City, the nearest burn centre.

While the gaily dancing members of the Swing Ezy Club, which meets every Wednesday night, performed upstairs in the armory, some of their children played in the basement.

Huge cranes dug into the debris that collapsed into the basement as the search continued today for any possible children there.

Breheny said it was not immediately known what touched off the gas. The armory was heated by natural gas, he said.

BERLIN (Reuters) — East Germans and West Berlin officials here today formally signed a new agreement allowing West Berliners two visits in relatives in East Berlin during Christmas and New Year's.

Two Chiefs Declare Indians Not Ready to Leave Reserves

OTTAWA (CP)—An Ojibway and a Mohawk Thursday Wednesday night treaty Indians shouldn't give up reserves for any reason.

"The Indian is not yet, and will not be for some time, equipped to take his place alongside the white man," said Chief Wilmer Nadmiwan, 44, of the Ojibways at Cape Croker, Ont.

Both referred to an opinion of Elliot Moses, 77-year-old Delaware from Ontario's Six Nations reserve at Brantford, that reserves should be done away with.

The comments came during an Indian week panel discussion at Carleton University.

Mr. Delaie also disagreed with Mr. Moses' support of efforts by Manitoba and Ontario to take responsibility for their Indians from Ottawa.

He was asked in an interview about comments that many of Canada's 2,200 reserves are islands of poverty, cut off from the economy, the land no good, and the hunting and fishing gone.

The greying chief from the wealthy Montreal reserve replied that nobody knew what the land might be worth tomorrow.

Mr. Nadjiwan said the only generality that can be made about reserves is the lack of employment and the fatalism on most of them.

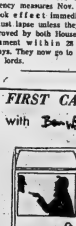
Indians had developed a subsistence attitude in "two centuries of regression."

"Now they expect the Indian to change overnight."

In 200 years, Indians had lost most of their own values and gained too few of the white man's. Some Indians still lived from day to day, and accepted starvation as a way of life."

British MP's Okay Curbs; Rhodesia Feeling Squeeze

LONDON (Reuters) — The House of Commons early today gave its approval to economic sanctions and other emergency measures taken by Prime Minister Wilson to deal with the Rhodesian crisis.



Members of Parliament approved without a vote eight orders in a debate which ran into the early hours.

One of the orders gives the British government power to amend Rhodesia's 1961 constitution and invalidate any acts by break-away Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Others suspend Rhodesia's membership of the Commonwealth sugar agreement, withdraw Commonwealth trade preferences and give the government discretion not to send back "fugitives" to Rhodesia.

Wilson announced the emergency measures Nov. 16. They took effect immediately but must lapse unless they are approved by both Houses of Parliament within 28 "sitting" days. They now go to the house of lords.

Contests Sure For All Posts At Dec. 6 Vote

A two-way fight for the mayoralty, between Mayor J. R. Ellis and Ald. Donald Whalen, and also a contest for all other elected civic positions was assured last night as nominations were held at Belleville's city hall.

Three names were submitted for the mayoralty contest, sixteen for the new ten seat council, three for public utilities, and thirteen each for the Public School Board and the Separate School Board.

All the nominees have until nine o'clock this evening to qualify, but by the time nominations closed last night, at least sufficient numbers had qualified to assure elections for all posts. Election day is Monday, Dec. 6th.

In contrast to comparatively quiet nominations which have been held in mainly past years, there was a marked interest in last night's meeting with the city hall council chambers being well filled when City Clerk Cam Stalker called proceedings to order.

There was a flurry of nominations as the meeting opened at 7.30 and by half time at eight o'clock most of the positions were already in.

For the mayoralty contest Mayor Ellis was nominated by J. B. Leslie and A. R. Cameron; Donald Whalen by John R. Bush and George Wilmot, and H. Jack Allin by Glencoe Thompson and J. J. Rayerft. Mr. Allin, also nominated for alderman, chose to contest that position.

ALDERMANIC CONTEST

Nine of this year's city council were nominated to run for re-election and it is expected that all will stand.

The nomination slate saw only two changes as compared to last year, each for the public and separate school boards.

As had been indicated prior to the nomination meeting, Mayor Jack Ellis, and Aldermen Donald J. Whalen will battle it out in a two-way fight for the mayor's chair. Incumbent Mayor Ellis and Alderman Whalen are both veterans with seven years' municipal experience.

Both sitting Public Utilities Commissioners, Harry Rollins and Gerald B. Hynes, were nominated to run for re-election with Lyle A. Langabeer, former Separate School Trustee, and John D. O'Flynn, also being nominated. All but Mr. O'Flynn had qualified last night.

FOUR RETIRE

Of the present city council, at least five names will be missing when the election is decided not to run again and two others will fight it out for the mayoralty.

Veteran Alderman Ben Corke will not run again, while the names of Aldermen Joseph Rayerft, Frank Murray and Thomas Lally were also missing from the nominators sheet.

Of this year's council John

Satellite Launching Postponed

By BOB MacKENZIE

VANDENBERG AIR BASE, Calif. (CP)—Launching of Canada's Alouette II satellite ran into its second postponement Wednesday, but officials are hopeful it will be blasted into orbit Saturday night.

"It all depends on the weather," said Dr. John Chapman of the Defence Research Board, co-ordinator of the Canadian space team. "The decision will have to wait until Saturday morning."

Main obstacle is a wind velocity of more than 200 knots (about 230 miles an hour) in the jet stream about 30,000 feet above the earth.

Besides creating technical complications, the wind presents a safety problem in case of a failure in the Thor-Agena B rocket carrying the Alouette and a United States Explorer satellite into orbit, the westerly winds could carry the rocket down over the country in the inhabited California coast.

The satellites are scheduled to go into similar elliptical orbits ranging in altitude from 300 to 1,250 miles.

RADIO GAVE TROUBLE

The launching originally was scheduled Tuesday night, but a radio transmitter failure aboard the U.S. satellite last Friday forced a one-day postponement.

Alouette II is the backup satellite used in the construction of Alouette I from the same base in September 1962, although it has been modified in the light of information obtained by its still-orbiting predecessor.

The telemetry antenna has been lengthened to 240 feet from 150 feet and the power supply employs new parts more resistant to radiation damage.

Like Alouette I, Alouette II has an expected useful life span of one year, but, as in the case of Alouette I, Canadian officials expect it to provide useful information for as long as three years.

Oil Firms and Workers in B.C. Accept Govt.-Proposed Terms

VANCOUVER (CP) — Oil companies and the striking oil workers union agreed Wednesday to accept a series of government settlement terms, ending the threat of a potentially widespread general strike in British Columbia.

Within hours after a provincial government settlement proposal was put to them, labor officials and the oil companies had forwarded their acceptance of the terms to Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

The oil workers, many of whom had been on strike against the British American Oil Co. for the last 10 weeks, up gave unanimous approval to the settlement at a meeting Wednesday night.

Settlement came less than 12 hours before the oil union had said it would extend its strike from 24 to all oil companies in B.C. The extension, scheduled for midnight Wednesday, would have sparked a 48-hour general work stoppage called by the B.C. Federation of Labor in support of oil workers.

A spokesman for the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) said today the unions would now sit down with oil company officials to draw up contracts based on the government terms.

He said it was only a matter of settling minor differences at individual refineries before contracts are completed. Picket lines around BA refineries and outlets and at one Imperial Oil Co. refinery would remain until

Lottery Run by Firemen In Deseronto Cancelled

DESERONTO, Ont. (CP)—An anonymous complaint to the provincial attorney-general's department has resulted in the cancellation of a firemen's lottery which was to have provided funds for a Christmas party for about 700 children.

Chief Al Fraser of the community's volunteer fire department said Wednesday the complaint caused a police order to stop the raffle which was intended to provide $450 for candy and favors at the annual party.

"Why we as a group get singled out in Deseronto for these investigations, I don't know," he said. "All they are doing is hurting the children, not the fire department."

The department advertised that it was willing to refund the $208 collected by the time it was told to stop the raffle, but no one sought a refund, he said.

He said that Santa Claus will ride to the parade on a fire truck as usual, and would distribute whatever favors the firemen could afford.

Y's Activities

The West Hill extension program at Prince Charles School continues this year. To serve the residents of the West Hill even more, the "Y" has expanded its program to include Sir Mackenzie Bovell School.

Many more boys and girls could be served than those now attending the classes.

Here is an opportunity for the West Hill residents to have some of the same privileges as those offered the East Hill residents, at a much lower fee.

The program for a child to partake in the West Hill program is about 50% that of the cost to partake in the regular "Y" activities. The program offered the West Hill residents is almost the same is that of the "Y" building.

Anyone interested in joining need only come to Prince Charles School or Sir Mackenzie Bovell School on the appropriate day and time to sign up. Registrations will be accepted at any time during the year.

The total fee is $8.00 This may be payed in two installments, three dollars to registration and the remaining five before January 31, 1968.

The program is as follows:

Saturdays — 1.15 to 2.15 p.m. at Y.M.C.A. Boys and girls instructional and free swim. All ages, 8 to 14 years.

Tuesdays — 4.15 to 5.00 p.m. at Prince Charles. Girls, ages 8 to 10 years.

5.00 to 5.45 p.m. at Prince Charles. Boys, ages 8 to 10 years.

Thursdays — 4.15 to 5.00 p.m. at Sir Mackenzie Bovell. Girls, ages 11 to 14 years.

5.00 to 5.45 p.m. at Sir Mackenzie Bovell. Boys, ages 11 to 14 years.

Both instructors in this program have been at the "Y" for several years. Richard Cherry is now beginning his third year with the West Hill program and Miss Sue Clarke is beginning her second.

This is another program made possible by your support of the Belleville United Appeal.

EMO Course Held Here For Municipal Officials

Municipal officials in the Belleville area, both elected and appointed, went back to school here yesterday as they attended one of the familiarization courses currently being conducted by the Quinte Area Emergency Measures Organization.

Yesterday's course, attended by approximately 25 local municipal officials, was held at the Dundas Street East firehall. In charge of the course were Col. Angus Duffy, EMO co-ordinator, and Instructor Captain A. G. Ford of South Bay, Prince Edward County, formerly with the Canadian Emergency Measures College at Arnprior.

Col. Duffy said that yesterday's class was one of six being held for municipal officials. The classes are being held at Belleville, Picton, Trenton, Madoc and Bancroft.

"The intention is to give municipal officials orientation in emergency planning and operations at the municipal level," stated Col. Duffy.

Also included in the course is the necessary background and other information on the provincial and federal level.

LAST SEVEN HOURS

The courses are seven hours in length and are taken either during an all - day session such as at Belleville, yesterday, or in two evening sessions. Attending yesterday's course were municipal clerks, road superintendents, reeves, school representatives, public utilities and hospital representatives.

The orientation course for municipal officials is one phase of EMO instruction currently being carried out.

Four field aid courses have been held in the area at Belleville, Trenton and Springbrook, while radiation monitoring courses and home nursing courses are also being given in the Hastings and Prince Edward district.

Plan to Train Homemakers

Classes will be held here, starting in January, to train homemakers, people who will be capable of entering a home in an emergency and rendering whatever aid is required. Mature women over 35 can apply to the National Employment Service office here for information. A training pay allowance will be available for those who qualify. Classroom lectures will be combined with practical application of the lessons taught in field work.

During the four month training period instruction will be given on such subjects as guides in healthful living, accident prevention in the home; community resources for the family in health and illness; family life in relation to food; care of the home; understanding children; understanding the elderly; the sick patient; the baby; and understanding mental health.

Local Majorettes In Grey Cup Parade

Once again this year the Belleville Gayettes Majorettes and Drum Corps have been invited to perform in the Grey Cup parade in Toronto this Saturday. Under the direction of Gail Chapman this group has received recognition throughout Ontario. Entrants for this parade are invited, then the Grey Cup committee select the qualified groups according to awards won, size of group and appearance. There were over 500 entrants this year. To be selected two years in a row is quite an honor as regulations are very strict. Only the senior group will be participating on Saturday. The parade will be televised over Kingston at approximately 10 a.m.

Belleville should be proud of this group as they will be representing this city.

Canada Denied Right to Query Witnesses

MONTREAL (CP) — The French government has refused to allow a Canadian rogatory commission to question witnesses in Paris in connection with a $40,000,000 load of heroin smuggled into Canada last March.

Philippe Landry, special federal prosecutor told Judge Jean Tellier in court Wednesday that the French ministry of foreign affairs has turned down the request by Canadian authorities.

"Porky" Treed Near the Plaza

The Belleville Plaza area on East Bridge street had its own special attraction this morning as a treed porcupine attracted the attention of passersby.

The quilled "porky" rested at ease for much of the morning among the branches of a tree near the Western Tire Store and at noon was still attracting his share of attention.

Public Mischief Charge Against Denbigh Youth

Provincial Police today confirmed they have charged public mischief against a 17-year-old youth who instigated a manhunt after reporting he had been hi-jacked near Belleville.

Boyd Bruce of Denbigh — now a Preston factory worker — will appear in magistrate's court in Belleville early in December.

Police throughout the Belleville area were alerted November 15 after Bruce turned up at city police headquarters and reported he had been slugged after a soldier hitch-hiker had threatened him at pistol point. He said he had picked up the soldier near Tweed, been held up on Highway 37 near Corbyville and robbed of $67.

Royal Canadian Legion Marks 50th Birthday, Great Aid to Veterans

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Legion hasn't forgotten the past and isn't likely to. Neither does it give the impression of living in it.

A legion turned outward towards the community celebrates its 40th anniversary today, its growing membership reflecting the success of its new interests.

It is still the best friend the veteran ever had. Members in difficulty can usually count on the local branch, and there are 2,000, to step in fast with help.

At headquarters, legal and medical experts prepare 1,200 arguments a year for pensions or adjustments in cases that might never reach Ottawa otherwise.

The legion has been known to bring new evidence to government commissions for three or four years—often on behalf of a veteran who wasn't a member —to win a case.

There are 1,065,000 war veterans in Canada. About 100,000 were legion members after the Korean War membership now is 275,000, up 5,000 in the last year.

WHAT'S ANSWER?

What accounts for the near tripling of membership in 38 years?

Spokesmen here say it isn't the preoccupation of aging men with past battles, nor the allure of a social club. Only about 40 per cent of legion branches have liquor licences.

The legion's involvement in the community, growing now for a decade, is given most of the credit.

Branch 577, made up of Onkalo Hydro employees in Toronto, exemplifies the new look. It doesn't even have a hall, and its biggest annual event is raising $40,000 for scholarships.

On the national level, the legion sponsors a top indoor track meet in Winnipeg and a track and field clinic at Guelph rated as one of the world's best.

Branches sponsor sports teams, scout groups and other youth movements and are promoting an increasing interest in education.

"This isn't the type of work that catches the public imagination," said a spokesman. But it has caught the interest of veterans.

The public normally sees legionnaires on Remembrance Day, when they parade to cenotaphs, and hears of them during their bellicose conventions.

PEARSON BOOED

Prime Minister Pearson was booed in Winnipeg two years ago as he spoke of a new flag for Canada. The legion was a lusty supporter of the red ensign.

But its color guard this year proudly bore the new maple leaf flag up front, the red ensign close behind, in Remembrance Day ceremonies at the National War Memorial.

Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, both veterans, have accepted invitations to attend tonight's anniversary dinner. The speaker will be Governor-General Vanier.

It got its start Nov. 25, 1925, when 62 delegates of 11 major veterans groups met in Winnipeg to unite.

Membership grew to about 50,000 by the Second World War as the legion fought for pensions and medical help for veterans of the 1914-18 war.

Alouette Club Enjoys Annual French Dinner

Last Saturday, the Alouette Club welcomed about 125 friends and members at its annual French dinner in St. Joseph's Parish Hall, Belleville.

Guests were just arriving when a partial black-out in that section of the city took place. The organizers happily circumvented it with candle-lights for the time it lasted which gave the reception room a cosy aspect.

The walls were decorated with bouquets of flowers and along colorful oak and maple leaves.

Mr. James Hullquist, president of the club and Mrs. Hullquist presided the event. He welcomed all present and Mgr. J. A. Carley, parish priest of St. Joseph's said Grace.

Everyone enjoyed the substantial meal prepared by the women of the club, which included meat pies, mashed potatoes, pork beans, ham and dessert pies.

Music for dinner, provided by Gerard Bluteau and his musicians was well received. It was all a success except for the absence of the president of the Ontario French Club Federation, Mr. G. Lanthier who was to come on this occasion but was held in Oshawa by a snow storm.

During the dances and concert that took place, prizes were won by Mrs. Gisele Bastien, Mr. Germain Pilon, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Hebert. A French sing-song was led by Mr. Michel Thiffaut.

Mr. Hullquist announced that Mr. and Mrs. Paul Paquin, members of the club and residents in Belleville for many years will move to Montreal soon owing to Mr. Paquin's work.

The president expressed regrets at their leaving but on behalf of members wished them success in their new home.

Door prizes were drawn and offered to the lucky winners: Mrs. Emile Labelle, Mrs. Gisele Bastien and Messrs. Keith Bennett, Michel Thiffault, Paul Dubois, Dave Bradley, Germain Pilon, Maurice Desjardins, Marcel Pare, A. Germain, Yvon Aubut and Gilles Morin.

Three Held For Car Theft

Three Montreal area men today were arrested in Simcoe for theft of an automobile Sunday in Belleville.

City detectives today took them into custody and returned them to Belleville to appear in magistrate's court—probably tomorrow.

Charged are Gilles Boily, Roger Lauzon and Leonard Comelin, ages and fixed addresses as yet unknown.

They are charged with theft of an automobile from the rear of Stan Kwarciak's home on Bay Street West. The car was recovered by Simcoe police.

Sewer Problem Considered by Health Board

TRENTON — The Trenton Board of Health, meeting yesterday, considered ways and means of speeding up the installation of sewers on Dundas Street East, (including a trailer campsite, owned by Jack Bond) and on Bay Street. Septic tanks in these areas have outlived their usefulness.

However, the board was told by town engineer Eric Aldersey that the Ontario Water Resources Commission may demand that an extension be built to the existing sewage disposal plant before any more sewers are installed.

As council does not have an extensive sewer installation program in its five-year capital budget estimates, the only way such a program could be carried out without raising the taxes is to raise the sewer rates, which all waters users in the town pay on their utility bills, Mr. Aldersey said.

Board member E. D. Topping suggested that Mr. Bonn be required to build a sewage disposal plant of his own for the trailer camp.

Mr. Bonn, meanwhile, came before council this week, along with another Dundas Street East businessman, Gordon Shoniker, to complain of the lack of sewers. The men said they had been assured that they would have sewers in their areas within a year when they supported annexation of their areas by the town two years ago.

DATE EXTENDED

An Ontario Highways official, T. C. Muir, said yesterday in a telephone interview from Toronto that the date for tenders to be in for the supply of structural steel for Trenton's new bridge had been extended from Nov. 24 to Wednesday, Dec. 22, at 12.30 p.m. Tenders will be opened at 1 p.m. on that date.

The steel contract has now been grouped under the general contract for footings, piers, abutments and the bridge deck.

The general contract will be for a sum in the neighborhood of $750,000.

MUST CUT PRODUCTS

LISTOWEL, Ont. (CP) — Twenty - one missionary projects planned by the United Church of Canada for 1966 will have to be cancelled because of a sharp decrease in congregational donations across Canada, the Perth presbytery was told Wednesday. Rev. Terrance Storey of Alvinston, missionary and maintenance convener of the London conference, said Canadian contributions are about $250,000 below last year's figure.

Six Families With Total Of 30 Children Affected By Apt. Building Blaze

TRENTON — Four families are homeless today as the result of an early morning fire in a one and a half storey frame terrace on Bay Street in East Trenton, owned by a Belleville man, Clarwin Cherry.

Six families, with a total of 30 children, were affected by the fire which started in an apartment in the centre of the building.

The families involved were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Rightmeyer and their nine children; Mrs. Gertrude Minnilee and her 18-year-old daughter; Mrs. Jean Bertram, a widow, and her seven children; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hamilton and their six children; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wellman their two children and Mr. Wellman's brother, Joseph and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wildsman and their five children.

The Rightmeyers, Mrs. Minnilee, Mrs. Bertram and the Hamiltons lost practically everything, furniture, clothing and in the case of the Hamiltons, Christmas presents, bought two days ago. They escaped the burning building with the clothing they wore and a few personal articles in baskets or boxes.

The welfare department will open the used clothing depot on Quinte Street from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. today and will provide clothing, mattresses, furniture and other items to the families.

The crying need is for homes and an appeal has gone out for owners to contact the welfare administrator, Gordon Davis.

Cause of the fire, which resulted in an estimated loss of $14,000 to the tower, is unknown, but Fire Chief Cecil Ellis said it started in the apartment occupied by Mrs. Bertram and her family.

As the area is zones "open space," and is earmarked for reconstruction under the waterfront park development plan, it is doubtful if the owner will be permitted to repair the building, a town office spokesman said today.

69 Appeals On Assessment Being Heard

TRENTON — The Trenton Court of Revision has been meeting this week to consider 69 appeals against assessment. These include requests for assessment rebates because of non-rental of buildings or parts of building, (four commercial); residential assessment appeals and from those who want taxes changed as regards school support.

Chairman of the court is Councillor Edward Todd and the 1965 members are Wm. G. Weston, F. J. Aziz, Frank Fillon and James Coad.

Also sitting in on the meetings are assessment commissioner J. Allan Smith, clerk comptroller H. W. Larry and tax collector G. Alan Weaver.

Each individual is given a separate hearing before the court.

B.C. Strike Threat Delays Pay Boost Announcement For 75,000 Civil Servants

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — Informed sources say the government had delayed the announcement of salary increases for some 75,000 civil servants so it wouldn't add complications to the two-day general strike that threatened British Columbia.

The sources said the announcement could have been made this week, but in the face of the threat of a general strike in B.C. it was delayed. Revenue Minister Benson told reporters Tuesday that the announcement could be expected well before Christmas. He said recommendations of the staff associations were still being analysed.

The sources, in a position to know, say that treasury board, which approves civil service increases, would normally have reached a final decision on the increases for the civil servants in groups A and B.

But it was decided not to bring down increases, which might not satisfy all demands, but to extend that money would be put to good use.

The Civil Service Association of Canada and the Civil Service Federation of Canada, representing a majority of the employees involved, have asked for a four-per-cent increase retroactive to July 1, 1964, and another four-per-cent retroactive to last July 1, for employees in group A.

For employees in group B, they seek a 5.5-per-cent increase retroactive to Oct. 1, 1964, and another four-per-cent retroactive to last Oct. 1.

The Professional Institute of the Public Service, which represents some 9,000 employees, has also asked for a four-per-cent increase going back to last year, and another four-per-cent retroactive to last July 1.

Most employees in group A are professional. Most in group B are clerical.

The sources said treasury board is unlikely to fulfil all the recommendations given to it, some cases the increases will be less than requested.

One reason it has decided to delay action until the B.C. situation settled is that some post office employees are covered by the group B increases, and these are not likely to be as large as the increases given to group D postal workers following last summer's strike.

Postal workers had earlier decided not to join any general strike in B.C.

The group D increases were higher than usual because of a conciliation report that was sought in the wake of the postal strike. Until the Pay Research Bureau completes its studies—and say it's unlikely that all other groups will be in line with group D.

The annual dinner held by the Kinsmen Club for welfare work, especially the eye-clinic, was staged last night at the Columbus Hall on Front Street. The $25 a plate dinner attracted 100 residents of the district and in the draw that was held five ticket holders split the "pot".

The delicious steak dinner was prepared by Louis Tsichlis of the Cozy Grill and thoroughly enjoyed by the diners. Paul Russell, president of the Club presided and Harry Rollins was Master of Ceremonies. Mr. Russell thanked those who had contributed to the affair and noted that the money would be put to good use.

The evening was closed with a social hour.

Indians Protest

The generally deplorable situation in which Canada's Indian population finds itself is no more evident than it is in the Kenora area of northwestern Ontario.

Here the Indians, many of them of mixed Indian and Negro blood, live in utter squalor. They are outcasts in a world where the white man calls the tune but cares little for the Indian in his midst. The Indian, for his part, has been content to remain in his underprivileged state. Without leadership he has been unable to climb out of his slough of despond. His lack of education and the indifference of the white man have combined to render him unfit for anything other than trapping and guide work. Apart from these occupations and the high-steel work in which they excel, there is little for Indians outside the bleak and unproductive confines of the reserves.

Be that as it may, there are stirrings among the Indians that indicate they see the need for a better future. In Kenora last Monday 450 Indians marched on the Legion Hall where town council was meeting. They presented a brief which pointed out in part that out of 3,000 Indians living near Kenora scarcely more than a dozen held jobs in the town. Indian high school students, the brief said, never seem to be able to get the type of employment obtained by non-Indian students, such as in supermarkets.

Canadians are usually first in line when it comes to criticism of discriminatory policies against Negroes in the United States and in Africa. Yet, how much do we care about the welfare of the Indians in our midst?

At the same time it may be asked, what does the Indian himself want? To what extent is he prepared to co-operate with the white man for the betterment of his lot? Many Indians, at the behest of their chiefs, did not vote in the federal election, yet they seek the white man's help for the advancement of their race. They cannot have it both ways.

Clearly, goodwill and understanding are needed on both sides. And rather than trying to further their cause piecemeal fashion, as in the case of Kenora, and in the fashion of the recent Iroquois meeting in Toronto and one scheduled this weekend in Ottawa, would it not be better if a Royal Commission were set up to go into the whole question of Indian affairs. Both Indians and whites should sit on such a commission.

The government itself has been notably silent on its attitude toward Indian needs. At the moment Indian Affairs is merely a branch of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration. However, there is a body of opinion which feels it should be the responsibility of a single Ministry. Certainly, there is much to be done in the interests of Canada's original inhabitants, to hasten their progress, preserve their customs and maintain their dignity in a materialist and industrialist society in which the odds are against them.

Diet on Top

Time heals most wounds. This is the case in politics as in anything else, so that Conservative leader John Diefenbaker's retention as top man in his party comes as no surprise.

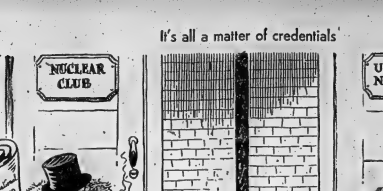
Of course it may not always be thus, but it is a far cry from the leadership crisis in 1963 when George Hees and others were pushing out on Mr. Diefenbaker because of differences over defence policy.

Now we have the curious spectacle of Mr. Hees, who vanquished the gallant Pauline Jewett in Northumberland-Miramichi to the Press that the caucus vote of support for the Tory leader was "enthusiastically carried" by all.

Mr. Diefenbaker was even photographed shaking hands once again with Mr. Hees. There had been some doubt as to the warmth of a previous handshake given Mr. Hees by his leader during the campaign. This renewed salutation following the gathering of the clan in caucus would seem to indicate that their relationship is returning to some degree of normalcy.

For the time being at least, it appears Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Hees are willing to bury the hatchet.

Behind-the Lines



The notorious Hells Angles motorcycle club of Oakland, California, has announced its members are ready to go to Viet Nam to act as guerrilla fighters behind enemy lines.

The president of the club, Ralph Barger, told a press conference he had sent a telegram to President Johnson offering the group's services.

The night must be a long one, too. We have felt for some time that the Americans might do better in Viet Nam if they adopted the waiting, ambush game, rather than plunging into the jungle and getting ambushed themselves.

However, we doubt if the U.S. Defence department is prepared to allow the Hells Angels into Viet Nam as an independent group. Unless, of course, they are prepared to join the army in the normal way. That would mean hair cuts all round and no sideburns and goatees such as these young men now sport.

It's all a matter of credentials

Dear Dr. Molner: Enclosed please find 20 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope for your booklet on "hiatal hernia."

Is there any danger of cancer from this? Will non acid foods prevent this awful acid I have in my stomach? — Mrs. D. W.

Few if any ailments have as many names as this one — hiatal hernia; hiatus hernia; upside-down stomach; esophageal hernia. They all mean the same thing. After you read the booklet, you'll have a better idea of exactly what it is.

I can't put it into a few words. Briefly, though, a slightly larger - than - average aperture allows a portion of the stomach to slide slightly, deranging the normal "valve action" so that, among other things, a small amount of the normal contents of the stomach can escape upward. Regurgitation is the term for it.

Actually, as we have been finding out in recent years, some considerable number of people who thought they had ulcers or heartburn really have this rather common ailment: Hiatal hernia.

No, it doesn't cause cancer, but it can become ulcerated and then a sufferer has real problems: The hiatal hernia and an ulcer besides.

Please remember the foregoing remarks in view of what you will learn from the booklet, but here is the answer to your question about acid.

The content of the stomach is normally acid. A certain amount of it is necessary for digestion.

If you regurgitate (something that you have swallowed rises up again into your gullet) you notice the acid taste.

This doesn't mean that it shouldn't be acid. This just means that some of the acid material of the stomach has made a brief excursion to the wrong place.

So - called nonacid foods won't prevent this. No matter what you eat, your system creates acid in the stomach because it is a necessary digestive juice.

If you are having considerable trouble with some of the stomach contents rising, you will find that eating milk, or taking one of the common antacid preparations (your doctor can suggest one for you) will ease this. Changing your diet to non acid foods won't help.

Sleeping with the head of your bed raised two or three inches is suggested if you notice this trouble while lying down. Gravity will help prevent traces of the contents of the stomach from slurping upward.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would there be any ill effects from eating carrots, beets, potatoes and other vegetables grown in a garden where septic tank laterals are laid underground? — Mrs. E. H.

I would say this is on the threshold of danger. In some countries human waste is used as fertilizer — and dysentery and typhoid are rampant. The septic tank laterals, being buried, present less hazard, depending on the type of soil, general terrain and (especially) conditions that exist in times of flooding, germs could be carried upward and contaminate the soil around the vegetables.

Dear Dr. Molner: I've been told that some medicines it kept too long get too strong or too weak. I have some vita min pills I bought last year. Now my doctor says I need to take some again, also calcium. Could I still use them? — P. C.

Vitamins deteriorate slowly, but yours ought to be useful still. Calcium tablets keep indefinitely. But many medicat i on s change considerably. In the long run it is best to discard medications when you stop needing them. If in doubt whether to keep something, ask your doctor or throw it out.

Regional Names To Be Changed

Editor,
The Intelligencer

In the Bay of Quinte, between Belleville and Trenton, there are three geographical features named Nizzer Island, Nizzer Narrows and Nizzer Channel Shoal. In October, the Canadian Permanent Committee on Geographical Names reconsidered these names and unanimously agreed that they should be replaced by less objectionable ones. Although these names were originally applied over 100 years ago and likely did not then have any derogatory implications, the Committee considered that the term "Nigger" now has no other connotation than offensive hostility or contempt, and has no place in the geographic nomenclature of Canada.

The Committee agreed that the substitution of the name "Nigger" to "Negro" would not be the best solution and recommended that alternate suitable means be solicited from local community groups or interested individuals. The publication of this letter, which is a request for suggestions, would be appreciated.

There are certain guiding principles which the Committee attempts to follow in the decision of naming and changing names. A summary of these principles is attached and I would appreciate its publication with or near this letter. A book outlining these principles in detail and describing the functions of the Committee may be obtained without charge from the writer. The principles should be kept in mind when proposing new names or name changes.

Any reasonable proposal will be welcomed and given careful consideration by the Committee. In any submission, it would be helpful to indicate the degree of local agreement arrived at in discussions.

The principles of nomenclature which guide the decisions of the Canadian Permanent Committee on Geographical Names are summarized as follows:

1. Names created by British sources are accepted by the Committee.

2. Railway companies and resources development companies are encouraged to seek the advice of the Committee concerning names connected with their operations.

3. First consideration is given to names with well-established public use.

4. Names applying to features in a given locality should be in conformity.

5. Duplication of names to the extent that it may cause confusion should be avoided.

6. The application of a personal name is not made unless it is in the public interest and is made only in exceptional circumstances during the lifetime of the person concerned.

7. Features should be given names in either English or French except where both forms have well-established usage.

8. Indian and Eskimo names shall be recorded according to the best available local or national orthography.

9. Names should be concise, euphonious and in good taste.

10. The generic should indicate the nature of the feature.

11. Foreign names shall conform to international equivalents.

12. Adequate information on the origin or usage of new names must be provided to the Committee.

"Live Theatre" Is Boon to City

Editor,
The Intelligencer

I am amazed at the number of people here who have never seen a live play and at the once, but didn't like it" To people who say "I saw one my mind theatre-going becomes a diverse like watching football, hockey or television. Occasionally you see a bad game, but you don't say you'll never watch another one because you like the game itself.

Lately there has been a great deal of publicity about the need to encourage a more active interest in live theatre in Canada. The Dominion Drama Festival was greatly contributed to this, through grants and by giving awards to further the efforts of promising young actors and actresses. They are also helping to develop the talents in Brockville and Belleville, in all these efforts are in vain if people do not support their local theatre groups.

If we are to keep Canadian talent at home, we must provide outlets for their exuberance. And of course Canadians reap the benefits of this by being able to see live shows at reasonable prices in their home towns. England, with the success enjoyed by their local drama clubs, and the talent produced there, is an excellent example of what can be accomplished when people in small cities actively support their local theatre groups. The live theatres in Cobourg and Kingston have been immensely successful too in my opinion, and are now able to provide their theatre-goers with a play a month. I would like to see the people of Belleville support their Theatre Guild here with the same degree of enthusiasm.

The Belleville Theatre Guild not only presents its own plays but also works very hard to bring professional companies, such as the Crest Theatre and Canadian Players to Belleville. Without the sponsorship of the Guild, these companies would not only as a way of economic life, but almost as a hobby.

Not only bankruptcy of mepey, but of government, of evs service, of national resources, of general technological knowhow.

And with it all, there is what the diplomatist calls this uneasy arrogance.

BECAUSE I'M BLACK"

The arrogance has reached the stage where none to be consulted — white is to be support.

He recalled a woman who accosted him one night on a Sheik's white minority administration, he felt irked enough to lament how the myriad African nationalists insisted on demanding the best of both worlds.

He saw them desperately striving for some strange kind of super-equality to the white world they renounce then attempt to expropriate.

BOTH WAYS

They want no slur cast upon their chosen role as proud independents, but equally they are not so proud as to want to pay any of the price that most other nations have paid for independence.

Instead, they want it all handed to them on a golden gilt platter and it doesn't matter who pays, just as long as they don't.

They want to wear tribal robes and flourish flywhisks, sport leopard skins and monkey hides and beaded baby, alike at home in their jungle dictatorships and at the UN, all as some sort of badge of superiority which reflects so the self-imposed inferiority from which they have so gladly fled.

But they like their big black limousines and their own national airlines.

So they insist on having it both ways, the flywhisk of the past and the jet of the new.

They want all the candy, but none of its cooking.

They merely demand.

They can't create.

But they demand exceedingly well and with a sense of their self-proclaimed super-quality.

And when they don't get it their very minute, if not sooner, then they talk of petitioning Moscow or Peking.

With the exception of a very few of these newly emergent nations bankruptcy is practically not ordinarily make Belleville a stop on their cross-country tours. I believe this would be Belleville's loss.

Since fire this year destroyed the "Loft" downtown, where the Guild's plays were held, the members have made a determined effort to succeed in spite of their losses. This determination is taking the form of a major production in rehearsal now, for presentation in early December. —

I hope the citizens of our city will support this group by going to see what fine and determination can accomplish Hence they, too, may learn to enjoy the stimulation and immense satisfaction, that can only come from watching a live play.

New African Nations Want The Best of All Worlds

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The phone rang.

It was one of the senior hands of Diplomatic Row. Who precisely? Speaking for what country?

Well, you'll have to guess.

It could be any one of some score or more nations. But since he wanted to talk about Rhodesia, and Ghana, and Kenya, Uganda, Tanganyika, the Congo, Upper Volta or any one of the so-called emerging nations of Africa, he must, of necessity, remain anonymous.

Anonymous because he was touching on the public posture — which does not always square with the private opinion — of the Canadian Government in something always coming to the aid and comfort of Black against White in the continuing racial power struggle.

And being the representative of a foreign country, and so a guest in Canada, he could scarcely criticize his host publicly.

But in the context of Rhodesia and the Canadian Government's declaration of economic war against Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority administration, he felt irked enough to lament how the myriad African nationalists insisted on demanding the best of both worlds.

He saw them desperately striving for some strange kind of super-equality to the white world they renounce then attempt to expropriate.

The Scottish forces were routed at the battle of Solway Moss 423 years ago today—in 1542—the second of Henry VIII's repeated punitive expeditions. The defeat broke the spirit of King James V of Scotland, then 30 years old, and he died three weeks later, after the birth of his only legitimate child, Mary, Queen of Scots. James was a sagacious and popular king but when the English invaded he could not count on the support of his noblemen.

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 25, 1945

The world's first exhibition of another revolutionary United Kingdom development — radio heating — was opened in London recently. The new development enables radio energy to heat materials ranging from wood, glue and rubber to the hardest steel, or from powders and chemicals to wools and fabrics. It is based on the principle that radio energy can be passed through non-conductive substances which are poor conductors of heat, and that if the radio currents are large enough the materials will heat up internally at rates sufficiently high to meet the most rigorous demands. The system was evolved by scientists of leading radio companies during the war for the use of the aircraft industry. In order that the present production schedules set up in 1940 should be met it was essential that there should be no breakdowns. Thus, means had to be found of speeding the production of glued aircraft components and other parts by heating at much higher rates than those possible by ordinary means. Radio heating, which neither burns nor otherwise spoils surfaces, provided the perfect solution.

Signs on Highway Entrances Tell of Street Parking Ban

Strangers driving into the city along main highway routes will have no doubt this winter as to Belleville's snow removal program.

New signs erected by the city public works department this week spell out plainly that cars must be off city streets between the hours of 2:00 a.m. and 6:00 a.m.

Although specifically aimed at getting cars off the streets to facilitate snow removal, the 2:00 to 6:00 street parking ban actually applies throughout the year and under the covering city by-law cars could be towed away at the owner's expense.

In the downtown area, mainly on Front Street, the night parking ban is from 1:00 a.m. to 6:00 a.m.

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said the 1:00 a.m. to 6:00 a.m. parking edict was to allow for a slightly longer period for street sweeping and snowplowing.

The new highway entrance signs were made at the city works department maintenance shop and have been erected under the direction of city police traffic inspector Ralph Blatchford.

Civic Candidates Put on 'Hot Seat' When Wharf Street Debating Club Meets

With city election nominations posted, that hot-bed of democratic unrest — the Wharf Street Debating Club — today announced its annual meeting for December 1.

The club, probably the only institution of its kind in Canada, yearly tests the mettle of municipal candidates by inviting them before an all-male audience gathered together in common cause — to safeguard the dignity of democracy by vilifying its public representatives.

In such an environment the candidates for civic office either speak their pieces — or go to pieces. Either way, few of them have been known to ignore the club's invitation to attend its wharf side assembly hall on South Front Street.

This year the collective hot seat may be hotter than ever. From now on, city elections will be held every two years — so club members have to pack double the enthusiasm into one meeting.

This is also the club's 55th anniversary and the occasion is expected to call for extraordinary enthusiasm among the members to point up the fierce traditions they represent.

DUES ARE DOUBLED

To mark the event, the executive first toyed with the idea of issuing gold-printed invitations on sheepskin. However, the Wharf Street Debating Club Foundation, which underwrites organizational expenses, vetoed the idea.

The Foundation pointed out such a move locally would place an over-abundance of sheep carcasses on the local market with a consequent depression of meat prices.

Incidentally, membership — open to all male citizens — has been doubled this year from the traditional $1 to $2.

This, reports the club executive, is made necessary because the municipal debate now can only be held every two years, while the club must meet expenses annually.

Consequently, members now are receiving one meeting for the price of two which, after all, said an executive salesman, is only following current economic trends.

Traffic Signals Recommended By Jury

A coroner's jury last night recommended flashing traffic signals should be installed at both Foxboro intersections at Highway 14.

The crossroads, at the north and south ends of the village, were created when a new high way bypass was constructed two years ago.

The recommendation was made following an inquest into the death of Miss May Ellen Dickey, 63, of R.R. 1, Halloway.

Mrs. Dickey was being taken to Belleville General Hospital with a hip injury received at home, when a car collided with the ambulance at the intersection northwest of Foxboro.

The jury ruled that Mrs. Dickey died in hospital Nov. 24 from natural causes and the accident was not a contributing factor.

A City ambulance driver, Len Goodyer, said the impact threw Mrs. Dickey against the windshield while the stretcher she was lying on remained stationary.

The jury also recommended that some type of safety belt be used in all ambulances to secure patients.

It called for 12-inch flasher lights at opposite sides of the intersection involved, mounted on existing light poles and overhanging the traffic lanes.

It suggested red stop lights for east-west traffic and amber signals for south-south lanes.

Similar consideration should be given the highway intersection with the fifth concession line—a county road link with Frankford.

Ann Landers

Computer Says This Marriage Too Costly

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you have any advice for a girl, 20, who is planning to marry a man, 45? I am not going to dot the facts. I will give them to you straight and I want a straight answer.

Joe will have to pay alimony and child support for nine more years. He has a fairly good job, no money saved and he owes a few small bills. Do you have any statistics on the earning capacity of a man his age? Will it go up or down? If Joe should start another family, would he be able to earn enough money to see his second set of children through college?

ANN LANDERS

What if his health fails? If he should be forced into a lower-paying job could he meet his obligations? Joe seems to be in good health now, but I want to look ahead a few years. P.S. He's a very likeable person. — MISS WORRIED.

DEAR MISS: The point raise with which you have damned poor Joe in the P.S. takes your letter out of the human relations category and makes it a math problem.

My computer says, "Forget it, Kidd."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you believe a married man can be a "best pal" to a divorced woman he used to go with before he married? My husband says "Yes," I say "Horsefeathers." Here are the facts:

Bonita has been married three times. Chuck says she's really a good person who has had some rough breaks. I say a woman who can't make a go of marriage after three tries is a little flakey.

Our phone rings all hours. One night Bonita couldn't find her keys so she phoned Chuck at 2:00 a.m. and asked him to come over and break the basement window (I think she was stiff.)

When her father died she asked Chuck to drive her to Mankato in the middle of a blizzard, and he did. He stayed up there for three days — said the roads were "impassable."

I've got four kids who need a father so don't tell me to kick him out. Chuck says there is nothing between them and that all she wants is a shoulder to cry one. What do you think? — ONLY HIS WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: I think a father of four kids should keep both shoulders at home. Tell your husband to cut out the counselling. He should send her to the Family Service Association or the Y.M.C.A. They offer excellent service.

DEAR ANN: A friend and I drove into a well-known drive-in for lunch. The boy took our orders and was back with the trays within a few minutes. My friend got what she ordered but I got frankfurter and a malt instead of a cheese burger and iced tea.

As I was explaining the error to the boy, a waitress came over and said, "That tray belongs to the other car." She took my tray off the window and brought me another tray from a car across the way.

When I saw that my sandwich had been unwrapped I simply could not eat it. I was too embarrassed to complain to the man after so I didn't have any lunch. Don't you think they should have brought me a fresh sandwich instead of one that had already been unwrapped?

My friend says I am crazy. What do you say? — ARKANSAS BEEF.

DEAR BEEF: Some folks are more squeamish than others. This does not mean they are crazy.

If you didn't want the sandwich after it had been unwrapped you should have — told the manager. I'm sure he would have seen to it that you received a fresh one.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking And Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

COLD SALMON WITH ASPIC

Our program of columns has been discussed and set right up to December 31 and much testing has been done. But right in the midst of all this well-oiled organizing I am going to upset the apple cart.

We had such a glamorous dinner last night I have to almost shout it.

In your mind's eye picture, on my silver platter, half a 7-lb. fresh Red Spring B.C. salmon. It had been simmered wrapped in parchment paper, cooled, skinned and coated with mayonnaise aspic, so it was a glistening sunny yellow all over. I garnished it gaily with strips of pimiento and thin crescents of lemon and gherkins and curly endive. This would be a sensational addition to anyone's Christmas or New Year's buffet table. You could use a whole salmon like the hotel chefs do for their buffets and smorgasbords but you would have to double my amounts to have sufficient mayonnaise aspic to coat a whole salmon.

Dinner Menus by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Fried Chicken; Apple Jelly; Baked Squash; Shredded Green Beans; Cole Slaw; Steam-Baked Apples (see Wed.); 10% Cream; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Baked Cottage Roll with Orange Juice and Sugar Glaze; Mustard Pickles; Sliced Eggplant and Spanish Onion Casserole; Glazed Sweet Potatoes; Lettuce and Sliced Tomato Salad with Garlic Dressing; Golden Cottage Pudding with Golden Sauce (see Sat.); Tea.

FRESH COLD B.C. SALMON WITH MAYONNAISE ASPIC:

Buy fresh salmon or if not available buy fresh frozen. My piece weighed 3½ lbs. Wrap it in cookery parchment (or cotton tea towel) lower into simmering heavily salted water, bring to simmering point, cover and simmer 15 minutes. Turn off heat and allow to cool to room temperature. Remove from cooking liquid, drain well and chill on plate, still wrapped, in refrigerator. Ahead of serving time, unwrap and carefully remove all skin and shy bones which protrude. Transfer to serving platter. Cover all exposed surfaces with Mayonnaise Aspic: soak 1 teaspoon plain gelatin in 3 tablespoons cold water 2 minutes. Stand it in a little boiling water and stir until dissolved. Remove from heat and stir into 1 cup genuine mayonnaise. Spread over cold skinned salmon to mask it completely. Decorate according to your own artistic aptitude. I arranged thin strips of pimiento like crevarons down the centre, flanked those with crescents of thinly sliced lemon and gherkins. Border with crisp curly endive or parsley or watercress. Chill until serving time.

I served this with two hot vegetables. — potatoes au gratin (recipe given November 9th) and combined fresh frozen peach-pack white kernel corn and green lima beans in white sauce, which, of course is succotash.

Ladies' Guild Sponsors Tea And Bazaar

DESERONTO — Despite hazardous walking and driving conditions, a successful tea and bazaar was held in St. Mark's Parish Hall on November 17th.

The hall was decorated in an autumn theme, and the guests were received at the door by the Rector's wife Mrs. Dowdell and Mrs. Bert Coles president of the Ladies Guild.

Mrs. R. Oliver and Mrs. Rogers were in charge of the home produce table. Mrs. H. Topping and Mrs. Mallory were in charge of the attractive fancywork table, Mrs. C. Robinson, Miss Allen Jackson, Mrs. J. Layfield, Mrs. Wessman and Mrs. Field looked after the homebaking table, Mrs. Jack Spence and Mrs. W. Jackson were at the candy and white elephant table and Mrs. A. Brim sold church calendars.

The tea was convened by Mrs. C. Gray and the tea tables were centred with tiny vases of yellow and white 'mums. Various ladies were carried out by other members of the Ladies Guild.

Looks After Homeless Belgiums

By ANNE MASON

EDMONTON (CP) — Greeting Belgian dignitaries or helping homeless families is all in a day's work for Mrs. Andrew Cairns.

The wife of a doctor and the mother of four, Mrs. Cairns is the Belgian consul for Northern Alberta and the Northwest Territories.

"It's a fascinating job and I just love it," says the tall, vivacious woman who was born in the French - speaking area of southeast Belgium and occasionally breaks into French when the exact English word escapes her.

Much of her work is routine — she likes dealing with old Belgian pensioners living in this part of Canada — but she has to be prepared for anything.

Late one Saturday night she found a young Belgian couple on her doorstep, the wife pregnant and all the couple's possessions stacked on the front lawn. The husband was unemployed and they had no money.

Mrs. Cairns took them in, found the husband a job, made hospital arrangements for the wife and found them a place to live.

The consular post, an unpaid job although Mrs. Cairns receives some expense money, includes much paperwork such as obtaining birth certificates, passports and veterans' pensions. She helps in the settlement of estates by finding relatives and heirs of Belgians who have died.

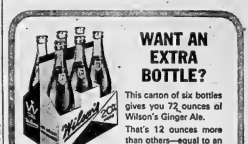
AIDS RETURNS

Often she makes arrangements for persons wishing to return to Belgium to live "but they usually come back after a short while."

One reward of her job is a chance to meet prominent Belgian visitors. Prominently featured by the fireplace of her gracious, comfortable living room is a photograph of Prince Albert of Liege and Princess Paolo, a gift after the prince's last visit.

When the previous consul retired in 1956, he encouraged Mrs. Cairns to write to the ambassador in Ottawa stating her qualifications. To her surprise she was named acting vice-consul.

"Both my husband and family encouraged me to take the job," she says. "He said it would give me something to do when the children are older." The eldest is 17, the youngest eight.



Mrs. Cairns has handled all the consular duties since 1956 but it was only last spring that her appointment was made official, during a visit from Ambassador Guy Daufresne de la Chevalerie.

Mrs. Cairns arrived in Edmonton in 1947 with her husband, a native of Kitscoty, Alta. They had met in 1946 when both worked for the UN Relief and Rehabilitation Association in Vienna. She was helping distribute food and he was in charge of medical supplies.

Their four children, all of whom are fluent in French and English, were born in Canada. The eldest, Anita, 17, is studying Spanish at her mother's alma mater, the Sacred Heart Convent in Brussels. Michael, 16, Patrick, 14, and Jean Marie, 13, attend school in Edmonton.

WOMAN HOLDS CONSULAR POST — Mrs. Andrew Cairns, wife of an Edmonton doctor, is one of the world's few women consuls. Here she chats with Belgian ambassador to Canada, Guy Daufresne de la Chevalerie. In other words, Foamtreads are made to last for a very long time. For example, we have a guarantee against sole separation.

Other reasons for giving Foamtreads this Christmas include: sensible prices; quiet leather cut-soles; non-ceiling heels; and handsome styling.

What Women Are Doing

St. Thomas W. C. Y.

Mrs. H. Crowe, President

The Women's Church Year of St. Thomas' Anglican Church is open to all women of the parish and meetings are held on the second Wednesday of the month from September till June. The president of the group this year is Mrs. H. Crowe.

Each meeting is in charge of the month, days and weeks for that particular month and the motto for members is "Faith, Fellowship and Stewardship." Through its programs it is hoped to strengthen the faith of the members. Speakers, parade and films are all used to the advantage of helping all to become better Christians in everyday life.

Fellowship is provided in many ways, there are the monthly visits or phone calls made to the days by their weeks and at the end of every meeting there is a social hour. A special committee visits those sick at home and in the hospital and cards are sent to all ill persons and bereaved families in the parish.

Stewardship is not only giving by monthly contributions to the group, but also the giving of time and effort for a worthwhile cause. There are no teas or bake sales for the raising of money and all fund raising is voluntary. A sizeable donation is given the wardens each year for the work of the parish in general.

There is a conscientious work group under the leadership of Mrs. A. S. Lewis who meet at each others homes every second Thursday of the month to knit and sew. This group makes a fine contribution to the W.A. bales each year; also supply mitts for needy school children and raise a large portion of money they spend for materials by filling special orders. The members look after any social events in the parish when requested by the rector or executive council.

Scholarships are provided for choir boys to Camp Hyanto each year and Christmas hampers are supplied for needy parish families.

There are also representatives from the group to the Victorian Order of Nurses and the Ladies' Auxiliary of Hastings Manor.

This is the 33th in a series about women's organizations in Belleville and their activities.

While the ladies were preparing lunch, Donald Ward rendered some accordion music.

Thousands of British Women Afraid to Leave Own Home, Join Club

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Terrified of the outside world, thousands of women in Britain are afraid to leave their own houses and apartments.

They suffer from agoraphobia —a morbid fear of open spaces.

Mrs. X is 45, handsome, has a splendid house, a loving husband and three children.

Yet, for the last 15 years she has never once stepped outside her front door.

At last, someone is doing something about the people who suffer from agoraphobia.

The someone is Alice Neville, 34, who started suffering from agoraphobia when she was seven. She taught herself how to beat it.

Her cliniory has been so complete that she started the Open Door Club six months ago. It now has 1,500 members. Only 40 are men.

"The most important thing is for our members to realize they are not alone," said Mrs. Neville, who lives in nearby Chislehurst, Kent.

"Hundreds of people, mostly women, go through life frightened to tell anyone about their terrors because they think they are abnormal. Agoraphobia is not a mental disorder. It's an emotional upset."

CURED HERSELF

How did Mrs. Neville cure herself?

"I decided to tackle all the things I was afraid of," she said, "and as I did so, the fears just shrivelled away.

"I was petrified of water—so I made myself swim.

"I was afraid of travelling—any sort of travel—so I made myself learn to ride a bicycle. I got out into the traffic.

"As I overcame the big fears, many of the little ones disappeared."

There is no such thing as the typical agoraphobe. Most of them, however, are oversensitive, above average in intelligence, and they come from all professions and income groups.

Those who join the Open Door Club get a list of contacts. Then, when their fears become too much for them, they can ring up one another and talk.

In a news letter to members, Mrs. Neville gives tips on over, coming agoraphobia:

Practise going out after dark —you will feel less publicity.

Try wearing dark glasses.

Take out a shopping basket on wheels—and push it. It gives you a sense of security.

If you have a dog, take the dog with you.

50 Qualified Nurses Needed for Teachers

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian nurse who heads the nursing section of the World Health Organization in Geneva said Wednesday the organization urgently needs more than 50 qualified nurses to fill positions as nurse educationists.

Dr. Lyle Creelman, a Nova Scotia native who grew up in Vancouver, told a reporter that W.H.O. particularly needs French-speaking nurses to serve in several African countries and in Laos and Cambodia.

"Our nurses now work in over 70 countries in a variety of jobs —helping countries to prepare their own nursing personnel and improve schools of nursing."

The organization sets high qualifications. Its nurses must be university trained and have experience in administrative or education fields at home.

Dr. Creelman, who joined W.H.O. in Geneva in 1949 and became its chief nursing officer in 1954, says few nurses leave the world service once they have served their first two years of duty.

WORK'S SATISFYING

"There are great frustrations, but most of the nurses get a great deal of satisfaction from the work they do. And, if they do decide to come home later on, they find they are better prepared to make a contribution in their own country by their international experience."

Salaries compare well with those in Canada. The salary range for the organization's nurses is $6,130 to $11,420 annually in U.S. funds, plus living allowances. Other benefits include six weeks annual leave and paid home leave every two years.

Dr. Creelman is combining business and holidays on her own home leave this year.

She has already met with federal health department officials here to discuss her recruitment needs and called on Dr. Ilelen Mussallem, executive director of the Canadian Nurses Association.

Ladies' Guild Holds Yule Tea

WELLINGTON — St. Andrew's Ladies Guild held its annual Christmas tea and bazaar in the Parish Hall on Thursday afternoon when a large crowd attended.

Mrs. Soutter greeted the ladies and the door was Mrs. Don Morden sold the tickets. The Hall looked most attractive with the various Christmas decorations. The individual tables were covered with white cloths and each centred with a Christmas centrepiece. Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Lavender, Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Boyle were the convenors for the tea tables.

At the far end of the hall a long table was filled with all kinds of good things to eat, along with Christmas novelties. Mrs. Dewfera and Mrs. Tripp were in charge of this table. Mrs. Upton and Mrs. Restria were in charge of the "Touch and take" table which was filled with many parcels for young and old. The fancy work and novelty table which had many useful and lovely articles was in charge of Mrs. Tom Boyle and Mrs. N. Russell.

Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Ainsworth, Mrs. Bailey were convenors of the kitchen assisted by other ladies. Mrs. Cook sold tickets on a hamper of apples and Mrs. Dayton Murphy held the lucky ticket. Two good prizes were drawn and a basket of groceries was won by Mrs. Bruce. A pot of 'mums went to Mrs. A. Ogilvy.

U.C.W Meetings

MOUNT PLEASANT-RAWDON U.C.W.

RAWDON — Last Tuesday evening the postponed meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church Women was held in the hall with 27 ladies in attendance.

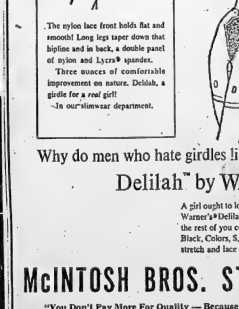
Mrs. Harry McAdam the president was in charge and opened with a poem and prayer. Mrs. Ross Jeffs was secretary and Mrs. William McAdam gave the full financial report with a detailed account of the recent catering activities. Mrs. Raymond McConnell read letters of invitations and announced the Christmas meeting of the "Messengers". A letter from Mrs. Harry Pierson was read re supply work. Plans were made for remembering folks at Christmas and for artificial flowers for the church pedestals.

Mrs. Will Jeffs and Mrs. Ira David arranged the program and presided. The devotional was based on the "Advent" with appropriate hymns. Others assisting were Mrs. Burton Sharpe, Mrs. Thomas Cousins, Mrs. Garth Joslin, Mrs. Donald Knight and Mrs. W. 39-Adam. A musical selection was rendered by Mrs. Mac Sharp and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver gave the missionary study based on Trinidad which is 16 miles off the coast of Venezuela. The capital is the Port of Spain. The exports are asphalt, sugar, coffee, citrus fruits. The imports are fish, flour, lumber, manufactured goods, and farm products.

The first church was in 1808 when Rev. John Morton of the Presbyterian Church began his missionary work. From then until his death in 1812 there was a big increase in membership. In 1925 the United Church came into being and in 1967 they will celebrate their centennial.

Table knowledge quiz followed in which all participated and a remembrance service followed with appropriate hymns and a reading by Mrs. Grant Hubble.

The program closed with two selections read by Mrs. Percy MacMullen and Mrs. Will Jeffs.



The lunch committee of Mrs Clarence Scott and Mrs. John Morgan served light refreshments and all enjoyed a social time.

100 Attend C.E.F. Fall Conference

Approximately one hundred persons representing the cities of Peterborough, Napanee, Lindsay, Kingston and Belleville attended the Child Evangelism Fall Conference for East Central Ontario at St. Luke's Anglican Church, Kingston, recently.

The special speaker for the day was the Rev. De Loe Scott of Whitby. Taking at his opening theme the command of Christ to His disciples, "Go Send I You," Mr. Scott listed a number of tools which were necessary in carrying out this work. These included: the Bible, the Holy Spirit, Faith, Patience and Love.

An interesting feature of the afternoon program was a panel discussion on the specific work of C.E.F. Members of the panel were: Mrs. E. Muscow, city director for Belleville; Mrs. N. Hoare, city director for Lindsay; Rev. W. Bettecker, United Church minister of Verona; Mr. Ken Grace, Kingston committee, and Mr. Floyd Cummings of the Belleville committee.

The evening program began with a banquet served by the ladies of the church. One of the head table guests, the mayor of Kingston, brought greetings from the city as well as his own personal Christian greetings to all assembled. Other head table guests were introduced by Mr. Charlie Leach, area chairman.

VALUE IS HIGH

The most valuable tree in North America is the black walnut, of which single specimens may be worth $1,000.

Orchids Are Grown By Local Resident

Anybody for orchids?

Mrs. William A. Watson, 214 Victoria Ave. has a liking for them, so much so in fact that she grows her own.

It's all on a strictly personal basis, however, and she grows her several varieties of orchids purely for her own enjoyment. She thinks she is possibly the only person in the Belleville area who grows them.

Mrs. Watson got the orchid bug a couple of years ago when she commenced taking a correspondence course on growing them. Originally the intention was to grow them as window plants but with mounting enthusiasm a small conservatory at the side of the house was soon found necessary.

Orchids actually are what are known as air plants, meaning that they grow with their roots exposed to the air and are fed periodically with liquid fertilizer. They thrive best in a daytime temperature ranging from 70 to 75 degrees with the thermometer dropping down to 60 degrees at night.

SEVERAL VARIETIES

Mrs. Watson has several varieties of orchids but a plant of the cattleyas variety is currently in bloom. The once-a-year bloom is expected to last another two weeks.

In the past the Watsons have also been interested in growing cactus — but with considerably less success insofar as blooming is concerned.

Mrs. Watson recalls one cactus plant whose one night once-in-a-lifetime bloom had been looked forward to with great expectation.

But they were disappointed.

One summer weekend they stayed over at their summer cottage and when they returned home they found their beloved cactus had bloomed in the night .. and the flower was already gone.

PROFESSIONAL ADVICE

Dear Sports, and mothers of Sports: Flood the rink, sharpen the blades and polish up the boots. That season's here again — and so all skate-door-uppers, here is a lesson from a professional figure skater on the art of lacing skates properly!

His first bit of advice is to lace them from the outside in, instead of from the inside of the eyelets out. This ensures more leverage and allows one increased pulling power.

The second step is to tie a single knot in the lace just above the spot where the ankle bends, and where it should fit snuggly. Not only does the knot allow one to manipulate a tighter fit, but it also keeps the lace securely in place so that it does not slip back down again and become loose below this point.

In the case of figure skates with two rows of metal clips or hooks extending down from the top, the knot is applied at the spot where the hooks commence — then continue as usual.

Not very earth - shattering, maybe, but I'll bet most of us never thought of it before. Just try it mom, the next time you are attempting to tighten the skates of your little figure or your future figure skating queen and see what a relief it is to pop that knot into place and know that at least from there down everything is going to stay put! — SUSANNA

PICKLED BEETS

Dear Susanna: I have another excellent use for the vinegar from sweet mixed pickles besides using it in salad dressings.

Cook and cut up a batch of beets, add the juice from the pickles, cover, and allow them to stand in the refrigerator for a couple of weeks. You'll have the tastiest beets you ever tried. — Mrs. D. E. S.

CLUB 4-H NOTES

IVANHOE I-V-ETTES

IVANHOE — The fifth meeting of the Ivanhoe I-v-ettes was held at the home of Mrs. Ted Pollock. Irene Pollock took charge of the meeting and everyone repeated the 4-H pledge. Patsy Benson read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Mrs. Benson demonstrated the packing of a weekend bag. Mrs. Pollock discussed "planning a party". She told how to choose the time, theme, decorations, food, and other particulars.

Fancy sandwiches and apple cider were served. The meeting was adjourned.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Would you like some help in selecting a suitable present for your wife, sir?"

Al-Anon Members Mark Anniversary

The Belleville Al - Anon Family Group held an open meeting on Sunday afternoon to mark its fifth anniversary of useful service.

This group consists of relatives and friends of problem drinkers who realize that by banding to gether they can better solve their common problems. Without spiritual help, living with an alcoholic becomes too much for most partners who become nervous, irritable, unreasonable and with prespec. tives somewhat distorted. A change in the attitude of those involved is of boundless help and is often the force for good that finally inspires the alcoholic to join A.A.

There is no need for discouragement even though the alcoholic is still drinking. The program is based on the suggested "Twelve Steps" of A.A. for the improvement of the individual and the twelve traditions which members of Al Anon try to follow, helps keep unity in the group.

A husband and wife related their personal story. The A. A. members gave a brief talk on how drinking caused him to lose the respect of his wife, children, neighbors and even employers. He also mentioned about trying to stop drinking in every way possible and how his intentions always failed, so he decided to give A. A. a try.

The wife explained how she felt and said that she did not think Al - Anon was for her because there was not anything wrong with her, that the problem was her husband's drinking. She soon came to realize, though, that there were several defects mentioned at a meeting that more or less fitted her character. She also stressed that the purpose of Al - Anon was not to sober up the drinking partner but a self improvement program.

There was also a speaker from the Stag Al - Anon group. He explained that it was not only the ladies who need this program, man's thinking will get twisted while living with an alcoholic wife. The Stag meetings are most successful in the larger cities.

No membership fee is required for Al - Anon and there is no guarantee that a loved one will go to A. A. but one will find peace of mind and contentment if the program is followed.

Successful Living

Watch Drive-ins, They're Dynamite

BORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: I have a young lady 19 living at my home, daughter of a good friend who died. As yet her Dad has no home for them. She is attending high school with my daughter.

Now a neighbor girl 18 is making double dates for her, mostly to drive-ins and the odd dance, and getting home pretty late.

Do you think it advisable to let her continue to go to drive-in's and dances? What time should I expect her home? Should she go with young men we haven't keen or don't know?

This young neighbor is kind of boy crazy anyway and I also know she has lied to her mother several times. My daughter, 17, still likes us if she can go out, and brings her boy friends in for us to meet.

I walk very much for my guest to feel at home. I also believe her education comes first and that she has lots of time for dates later. I feel she is my responsibility at this time. — OLD-FASHIONED.

DEAR OLD-FASHIONED: Your guest needs (and wants) reasonable limits. For one thing, a girl 15 should not be making a close chum of a senior teen of 18 and dating her boy friends.

For another, drive-ins are dynamite and may tend to create situations she is far from ready to handle.

Put your foot down. Talk with her, outlining your reasons and what you expect of her. While she may at first resent it, you may be sure she will come to be grateful for being rescued from having to make all her own decisions. And by all means meet anyone she goes out with, as you do with your own daughter.

Has it occurred to you that your permissiveness may mean she thinks you don't care what happens to her?

DEAR DORIS: My parents are a great couple but when my dad's mother comes over, the arguments commence. My grandmother is the type to shed tears about anything that doesn't go right for her. She is nearly 70. Grandma always talks about each of her children sarcastically.

When she leaves our place after a visit, my parents start to argue. I get so nervous I just wish I were dead sometimes. My mother keeps saying she will pack up one of these fine days, and then I'll bet I will be a nervous wreck.

During exams, I have to take nerve pills to stimulate my nervous system. I will go nuts if I don't get some advice on how to handle this situation. — HEADING FOR HOSPITAL.

DEAR HEADING: It's my bet that this "great couple" of yours won't be packing up at all. But they forget to let you in on this fact. And when are they going to start taking Grandma with a grain of salt? Life is too short to be wasted in so many angry words!

Make an issue and ask for a truce. They may be open-mouthed to hear how much their supposedly private friction disturbs you.

Confidential is NO SIGNATURE, VANCOUVER: A longer, fuller reply, dealing with the damage being done to the little nieee by meting out unnecessary punishment, went to the 14-year-old who wrote in. I appreciate your going to the trouble of putting your thoughts, on paper, but would have respected them far more if you had signed your name.

DEAR DORIS: If a doctor, counsellor or any other person comes to the house, is it not right to offer him, say, a cup of coffee or lunch? — SISTER SUE.

DEAR SUE: Hospitality to a friend calls for an offer of coffee or food. The business caller may not expect this, but would surely not take the offer amiss. If your visitor has come a long way, or through a storm, to give you service, a hot drink is the least you can do in appreciation; yet even then you must understand if he hasn't time or inclination to accept.

DEAR DORIS: I am 15 and I am embarrassed to wear shorts because my legs are so skinny. Everybody stops on the street and stares at them.

Is there any way I can get my legs fattened? Is it true that walking up steep hills and stairs will help?—SKINNY

DEAR SKINNY: A good-nourishing diet will help you round out all over. Marching up hill and down (like the Duke of York's men) will develop calf muscles, just as any other good leg exercise.

Can't you train your friends to stop staring? It's such bad manners. Surely you imagine some of this.

DEAR DORIS: You may think this is a fake but I'd swear on a stack of Bibles that this is the truth.

My girl friend says that every once in a while she hears a deep, soft voice saying "A girl in your room is dead" or "Your teacher is dead." Then sometimes she sees a dark figure in the distance that seems to be floating in the air.

She says that she sees this image almost anywhere she happens to be: on the street, in school, at home. These things started happening about two years ago.

She asked if I would write for her. What is a hallucination? Do you think it could be imaginary or real? She swears it's the truth and she's not the type to lie. We are both 15. — L.S. — A FRIEND.

DEAR FRIEND: Hallucinations are not in my line, but my psychiatric consultant urges a medical check-up. There could be a physical problem; or it could be a type of hysteria. In either case your friend needs treatment.

Teen-age Canada

Calypso Singer's Voice Changed But Still Good

By JACK HUTTON

NASSAU, BAHAMAS — The 18-year-old sailor looked up from the group at his table, squinted across the club at the grizzled piano player and asked:

"Who's that?"

If 81-year-old George Symonette heard the query he gave no sign. His gravel voice kept ranging a calypso song for the handful of tourists in the club while he pounded out a piano accompaniment.

But I couldn't help thinking as I sat watching George that an entire generation in North America is almost completely ignorant of a small number of jazz musicians in the Caribbean Islands.

They're legends in their own lifetimes. If small companies record them, the technical results are often so poor that the musicians sound bad. But they are still legends to the fans who hear them in person.

And George Symonette is one of those legends.

It's been said that George is larger than life. You see what's meant when you see George at the piano — six feet, five and one-half inches of him making the piano look like a toy.

NO COMPARISONS

His large hands remind you of Errol Garner although their music isn't similar. His voice and some of the phrasings remind you of Louis Armstrong. Right there any comparisons stop.

How many jazz musicians have we — in Canada or the U.S. — who have conscientiously forced themselves to keep playing like themselves? Even if it means hanging onto styles that sound primitive?

You're right. There are darn few. But them behind a curtain and most sound like carbon copies of one of a dozen veteran musicians.

Not George. His hands seem to use a piano as much as a percussion instrument as anything else. His chords are stark, basic ones that refuse to be shaped into anything else. He sounds like nobody but George Symonette.

I'd heard records made by George but had never seen him in person until last week. The experience made me wonder what I — and possibly you — had been missing all these years.

The voice I heard on the records was a young one, whimsical, humorous and full of throbbing life. You hear a drastically changed voice today, but think it's still a beautiful one.

George sounds like the greatest walking case of laryngitis you'll find outside an emergency ward. Years of singing matinees between 3 and 6 p.m. and evening performances six nights a week have taken their toll.

HAS GREAT DEPTH

And yet, somehow, the gravel voice has more depth, more maturity, than the recorded voice of the young man. Put them together and you'll take George as he is now.

He still reflects passing trends and news in his songs. Two nights after the loss of the Yarmouth Castle liner between Nassau and Miami, George had converted an old song, Where Were You When the Lights Went Out? to Where Were You When the Boat Blew Up?

When Princess Margaret visited here, George was chosen to compose a song in her honor. Years earlier he wrote a song about her uncle — It Was Love, Love Alone, That Caused King Edward to Leave The Throne.

I wish someone would record George the way he sounds now. But the sad thing is that even some local fans here have desired him for new singers. "Poor George, his voice," they say.

Who knows how much longer George will keep singing? I'm sure it will be as long as he can make his hoarse voice heard through a microphone — but who knows how long that will be.

When George stops singing, the music world will lose a musician who deserves to rank with (eg: "s like Louis Armstrong, Lionel Hampton, John Bubbles or Thomas (Fats) Waller.

But, because he was born in the Caribbean, and stayed because he loved it, George will probably never be well known by a jazz-loving generation in North America.

What a loss.

BEATLE NOTES

You'll be intrigued, I know, to hear that the social hit of the last few weeks in Nassau was the first showing of the Beatle movie, Help. The governor of the Bahama Islands and a blue-ribbon group of well - dressed guests turned out.

The Beatles asked to have all the proceeds from the performance turned over to a fund for Hurricane Betsy which ripped through the Caribbean weeks ago.

If anything, the four Beatles are even more popular down here than they are in North America and the United Kingdom. And who's the local favorite? Ringo, of course.

JUST NOTES

Watch for the first stories next summer of college students invading the beaches here — mobs of holidaying students have created problems at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the last few summers and the 400-man Nassau police force expects its turn is coming soon.

You can't really blame people for falling for Pontiac's new styling. After all, we've made Pontiac an exceptionally beautiful car. But it hurts us to think that all the other things we've built into Pontiac might go unnoticed. Take our new interiors, for example. This year we've introduced Strato bucket and Strato bench seats in the Grande Parisienne series. They're fully contoured, luxurious, long wearing and comfortable. Then there's Pontiac's new brand of performance. Seven new engines make their debut this year and four new transmissions. We added extra sound insulation and refined the ride. So you see, when people buy Pontiac just for its good looks, they're forgetting all these bonuses. But you won't, will you?

Judge Anderson To Hear Talks In Dispute

TORONTO (CP)—Three Toronto Teamster representatives and the Hamilton delegation Wednesday walked out of conciliation board hearing in the dispute between their union and Ontario's trucking industry.

Charles Thibault, business agent for Local 938, International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.), and Raymond Rupert, president of Hamilton Local 879, said they walked out because employers refused to withdraw reprisals against the union and scores of its members following wildcat strikes by truckers.

The two locals represent 5,000 of 9,000 truckers in the area across the province. The London, Kingston and Windsor locals are backing the Toronto-Hamilton position that the reprisal policy must be cancelled out have indicated they will continue with the conciliation talks.

Judge J. C. Anderson, chairman of the conciliation board, has scheduled talks between the three remaining locals and the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, representing the employers, today, Friday and next week.

Diefenbaker "Twists Truth" Says Minister

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Harry Hays said Wednesday the Liberals made some mistakes in the conduct of their Nov. 8 election campaign.

He told an airport press conference the Liberals should have let people know "what kind of a man we were dealing with."

Mr. Hays apparently was referring to Conservative Leader Diefenbaker.

He said the man "twists the truth."

Mr. Hays also said the Liberals should have fought back against Opposition charges of immorality in government. "If we had done this the story would have been different."

Mr. Hays met reporters just before leaving by plane for his ranch near Calgary. He flew here Tuesday to talk over his political future with Prime Minister Pearson.

He had lunch with Mr. Pearson Wednesday but declined to comment on his own future or that of the agriculture portfolio which he held in the last Parliament.

WON'T SAY

Mr. Hays still is nominally agriculture minister but declined to say whether he had submitted his resignation. Electoral defeat usually means the end of the road for a cabinet member.

Mr. Hays also declined to comment on a report that he might be named to the Senate and retain his cabinet post.

The agriculture portfolio has traditionally gone to a Prairie MP. But Mr. Hays said he doesn't feel it is necessary to have a westerner in the job. The Liberal party had a lot of good people elsewhere.

Mr. Hays said the Prairies apparently prefer the Opposition but the Liberals will do a good job whether they have representation from the West or not.

Mr. Hays said he plans a Hawaiian vacation.

The meeting between Mr. Hays and Mr. Pearson was the first for the two men since the election. Mr. Hays was confined to his bed throughout much of the campaign because of pneumonia attack.

There has been some speculation that Mr. Hays might be appointed to the Senate and maintain his portfolio.

CUTS COAL COST

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro has reduced its "coal cost per million British Thermal Units by 10 per cent in the last three years," a Hydro official said Wednesday. H. J. Sissons, assistant general manager-services of the public utility, said Ontario Hydro saves money on its major purchase—coal—by using an "integrated supply line" — coal producers and coal carriers."

Oil Firms

the contracts are signed.

J. R. Duncan, national director of the union, said the settlement formula was a "tremendous breakthrough" in the area of automation, a key issue in the dispute.

He said the formula would likely provide the basis for settlement of oil industry strikes across the country. Oil company sources admitted privately that it probably would.

The oil workers are currently on strike against BA plants in Saskatchewan and in Clarkson, Ont., and against a Shell Canada Ltd. plant in Manitoba.

An oil workers strike and refining pipeline strike in British Columbia appeared imminent as late as Tuesday night when Premier W. A. C. Bennett arrived in Vancouver "in case I can be of assistance."

However, shortly after 1 a.m. Wednesday, Mr. Peterson informed reporters that an announcement would be made at a morning meeting between the premier, himself, the oil workers and company officials. Reporters were invited to attend.

PRESENTS PROPOSAL

The premier used the meeting to present a government proposal for ending the dispute. He did not indicate what action the government might take if the terms were not accepted.

The settlement called for:

—A 35-cent-an-hour wage increase in a two-year agreement retroactive to April 16, 1965. (Oil workers had demanded 50 cents an hour on top of their basic wage of $2.75 an hour).

—A joint union-management committee for continuing consideration of technological changes

—Management - government co-operation on retraining programs;

—One week's severance pay for every year of service, up to a maximum of 26 weeks

—Six months' notice by the companies to the union of automation changes resulting in layoffs.

LABOR APPROVES

Labor officials were quick to voice their approval of the day progressed, Mr. Peterson received statements of acceptance from Imperial Oil, British American, Home Oil Co., Shell Canada Ltd., Standard Oil Co. and others.

Mr. Peterson said later that he hoped "the parties have seen the folly of their ways, will speak, and certainly I do not anticipate that kind of (general strike) threat to be part of the labor relations scene in B.C."

Truck Drivers Tell How Scrap Was Handled

WELLAND (CP) — An auto dealer and an appliance dealer, both from Welland, testified Wednesday that one defendant involved in a $1,264,000 fraud trial purchased an automobile, a color television set, a portable television and a stereo phonograph between 1961 and 1964.

Sergeant of Detectives Martin Walsh of Welland told the court that an examination of the bank account of Emmett Sullivan, 54, of Welland showed no large withdrawals.

Sullivan is charged with Sydney Troester, 46, and Hyman Jack, 49, both of London, with conspiring to defraud Atlas Steel Co. Ltd. of Welland of $1,264,069. Troester and Jack are operators of Trojan Alloys, a major supplier of scrap to Atlas. Sullivan is a former foreman in the scrap receiving department of Atlas.

Carl Sedlov, a clothing and furniture dealer from the Ottawa area, told the court that a number of pieces of lawn furniture were ordered and sent to Sullivan's home. Mrs. Sedlov said his firm billed Troester who forwarded payment.

Sgt. Walsh also testified there were 256 phone calls between Trojan Alloys and a Welland number listed to Sullivan between 1961 and 1964.

Several truck drivers who hauled scrap from Trojan Alloys yards to Atlas testified earlier in the day about methods of handling.

Norman Smith of Hamilton said trucks owned by John Kemmerer of Hamilton were loaded in London each afternoon and driven to Hamilton where they waited overnight before delivery to Atlas the following morning.

A ton and a half of snow and ice can accumulate on the substructures during the winter, he said, and this could be weighed with the steel.

He testified it was possible for the snow to be shaken off while the steel was being dumped and it would be included as tare—unloaded weight — when the trucks weighed out of Atlas.

Mr. Smith agreed with Troester, who is conducting his own defence, that no inferior materials were ever included in the scrap shipped from Trojan.

The trial continues.

Records Show Hotel Bills Paid by Firm

OTTAWA (CP) — A Toronto hotel executive testified Wednesday that Levy Auto Parts Co. Ltd. of Toronto paid for hotel accommodation of Brig. John Baxter Allan.

Thomas Harris, credit manager of the Westbury Hotel, read from a batch of account cards that he said showed certain suites and rooms were registered in Brig. Allan's name on a dozen occasions between 1957 and 1961.

The retired brigadier, former vice-quartermaster - general of the Canadian Army, is charged with accepting advantage or benefit to a value in excess of $8,000 while he was a government official.

The charge alleges the benefit arose from payment of hotel bills, merchandise and transfer of shares of Levy Industries Ltd. from Morris, Mark, Edward and Benjamin Levy, Toronto brothers, who in their capacity as directors or agents of Levy Auto Parts Co. Ltd., Levy Industries Ltd., Levy - Russell Ltd., or one or more of them, had dealings with the Canadian government.

Earlier Wednesday, Maj. Kenneth Smallwood, a Canadian Army officer now on exchange with the British Army in England, said it was "absolutely impossible" for anyone in the army single-handedly to have military equipment designated as surplus.

There has been evidence that the Levy firms did business with the government "with a value in excess of $8,000," much of it through purchase of army surplus from Crown Assets Disposal Corp.

Col. E. C. Mayhew, chief superintendent, Canadian Army equipment engineering establishment, testified he received a letter from the accused in November, 1957, asking him to help the Levys in requests they would be making for working drawings on surplus army equipment.

Education

relating to student achievement and environment factors on the other."

Mr. Davis said there would be many changes at the Grade 13 level between now and 1970.

"Of all the changes at the Grade 13 level the one I would anticipate with great keenness would be the development of somewhat more effective ways of appraising the ability of students more effective ways of making decisions about who should go on to further education.

"Our current practice of relying almost entirely on Grade 13 examination results is an approach on which, I am sure, we can improve," the minister said.

WILL RISE

He said university enrolment in the province is expected to exceed 100,000 by 1970, and at the elementary and secondary school level, the enrolment will be so great it will require a minimum of 8,000 new classrooms and new teachers to handle the increase alone.

He added that great sums of money will be required to extend the programs and facilities for other forms of further education as well.

"For it is anticipated that the time will be reached, if not by 1970 then not far beyond, when the number of students attending colleges of applied arts and technology will exceed those attending university."

The Mikumi Game Reserve in Tanzania is one of the few places in Africa specially set up to provide tourists with a close-up look at wild animals in their natural habitat. Canadian Press reporter Joseph MacSween tells of his visit to the tourist camp in the reserve:—

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

MIKUMI, Tanzania (CP)—A preposterous air of domestic serenity prevails at this camp on the broad savanna amid roaring lions and irritable elephants.

The early - morning arrival finds Anne Irwin, the 28-year-old matron of the place, strolling between safari tents, baby-bottle in hand, about to give breakfast to her daughter, 17-month-old Elizabeth.

Husband Terry Irwin is a mile away rousing 13 lions from sleep for edification of a group of tourists from Dar es Salaam.

Two or three African trackermechanics are working with hammers, wrenches and a blow torch at a Land Rover which went kaput at dawn.

The scene, drowsy in the tropical sun, seems as peaceful as Cape Breton farm—but then you remember that this is the heart of Mikumi Game Reserve and all those lions, elephants warthogs and whatnots are prowling the area.

Terry Irwin, also 28, who is licensed as a professional hunter and was previously a game warden, arrives back in camp, picks up Elizabeth, examines the repaired Land Rover and chats with his wife about the chores of the day.

"This job enables me to spend more time with my family," said Irwin, who is in charge of the reserve. "On hunting safaris, I would be away from home for six weeks or more at a time."

FLED IN FEAR

There are eight sleeping-tents for guests and several other box-shaped toilet - tents, much smaller and strategically placed. An elephant, ambling into view, lifted his trunk and shook some fruit from a tree onto one toilet-tent at the far edge of camp. A startled female face appeared—then the rest of the woman emerged and she ran for dear life, a picture of outraged modesty and fright.

Irwin drove away to the town of Morogoro on business while his African helpers prepared to take the guests out on the Africa-like savanna to view the wild animals.

"We get people from all over the world, but mostly from Dar es Salaam, which is only 180 miles away," said Anne. "We charge 32 shillings ($4.80) for bed and breakfast. There are only three places like this in East Africa.

"Sometimes my friends in Dar es Salaam ask me how I can live away out here. I ask them how I could possibly live anywhere else.

"The Land Rover is ready now. You'd better look around."

M. T. Hamishi, 24-year-old African driver-tracker who has been with Irwin for six years, drove the big vehicle over the rough ground, startling impala, giraffe, springbok, wildebeeste and other game. The eyes of two Indian children in the group became liquid mirrors of pure delight.

CHASED BY ELEPHANT

An elephant, obviously angered at the intrusion, kept turning his rump to the vehicle. Hamishi edged closer. Suddenly the elephant spun about with incredible speed for such bulk and came tearing down on the Land Rover, ears flapping and trunk lifted high.

"Don't stall the engine, for heaven's sake!" someone yelled as the elephant rushed with alarming bellows, tearing up dust from the arid earth.

"Jambo!" shouted Hamishi, laughing, giving a mock Swahili "hello" to the enraged beast.

Hamishi did not flee in a straight line but veered and cornered until the elephant, badly off balance, lumbered away in disgust after a second half-hearted rush.

After that, the rest of the outing seemed tame stuff. Hamishi, chagrined because he had found no simbas (lions), turned back toward camp where the charms of a well-stocked bar and a meal awaited.

The day ended with guests sitting around a campfire, listening to lions roar at the flames from a distance, and occasionally the insane laughter of hyenas.

WATCH GAME

The opportunity of viewing the great and exotic animals in their natural habitat is surely one of the charms of life in Africa, particularly for children. Nairobi, the capital of neighboring Kenya, has a vast game reserve — Nairobi National Park — literally on its doorstep. City and park are separated only by a fence.

At that reserve a fearsome-visaged Masai taxi driver, his pierced and stretched ear lobes looped over the tops of his ears, demonstrated a favorite Sunday-evening sport. This is a sort of cat-and-mouse game with lions.

Wise in the ways of the big cats, he drove to a part of the reserve where lions sleep in six-foot grass during the sunny part of the day. Other cars formed a creeping semi-circle and eventually two lions emerged from the grass and looked sleepily about.

Dozens of baboons then appeared at the rear, scolding the lions from a safe distance. The humans and the baboons warily watched the lions who gazed back in disdain as the sun went down.

A more deadly game was observed next morning when a pair of lionesses grent after breakfast. One of them crept upwind to give a giraffe her scent.

The tall animal ran in terror straight into the leap of the other, waiting lioness. Goodbye, giraffe.

Tomorrow: Zanzibar remains aloof from Tanzania.

SLIGHTED PRESIDENT

LA ROCHELLE, France (AP) Guy Delattre, skipper of the fishing boat The Outsider, was fined 500 francs ($20) for not flying the tricolor when President de Gaulle visited Les Sables d'Olonne last May. The fine was suspended because M. Delattre forgot the rule and found he had left his flag at home when reminded.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Come Friday, mostly Saturday, they'll be pouring out of their lairs in the jungles of Hamilton, verbal talons sharpened and ready for the jousts with the chappies and chaplets from Portage Avenue and surrounding Winnipeg crayons.

For a large number of veteran Tiger Cat fans Friday and Saturday should be old-home week. It won't be the first time they've crossed tonsilar shafts with the Wild Bill's and Billies from the Prairies.

In fact most of the oldtimers have met so many times in Grey Cup fanfare they belong to the same lodge.

The Hamilton Tiger-Cats and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers are running practically neck-and-neck as far as going to the post in the Grey Cup Stakes is concerned.

Twenty-one times since 1892 when the first "Canadian Football Championship" was won by Osgoode Hall over Montreal 45-5, the Hamilton Tigers have heard the "they're off" bugle blow.

Eleven times they have taken the title and/or the Grey Cup or both to the jungle home of the Tiger-Cats.

Ten times they have returned empty-handed to the mountain home growling in their whiskers, "Wait 'til next year."

The Bombers have less appearances in Grey Cup finals but a more impressive record. The western champions did not enter the all-Canada fixture until 1921 when the Argonauts defeated Edmonton 23-0.

During that time the Peggers have answered the starting gun eighteen times and toted the Grey Cup westerwards to their home hangout seven times.

Eight times the proud Bengals have safari'd out of their mountainside jungles to do battle with the hombres from the gateway to the prairies.

And five times they have paddled silently back to the native hillsides, tails curled in defeat while the western spurs jingled and jangled in paeans of victory.

The most bizarre climax to the intermittent cup jousings of the two clubs came in 1949 when a Lake Ontario spewed a miasma that blanketed the playing field like a shroud forcing the postponement of the last nine minutes of the game until Sunday.

It was the first—and it is hoped the last—two-part serialization of the classic which was won by the Bombers 28-27.

'Twas back in 1935, kiddies, when the pigskin caballeros, after the west was won, were invited to a punting corral of the effete east for their initial brush with the Bengals.

They twisted the collective tails of the Tigertowns lenderfoot 18-15 in the first segment of the linzflar nine-episode Tiger-Bombers annual spectacular.

The shadow of war still hung over the land back in 1943 when the cubbing Tigers—then called the Wildcats —crounded a Winnipeg grizzly squadron that between games were on the blue of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

That game, won by the Tigers 23-14, was the first of a trio of defeats that saw the Bombers grounded 12-6 in 1953; and 32-7 in 1957.

But in 1958 a determined gaggle of Bombers roared out of the wild western blue to inaugurate a four-ply series of Cup disasters for the striped denizens of the Hamilton football jungles.

They won that one 25-22. Still drooling for Tiger gore came back in 1959 to de-stripe the Cats 21-7. They took a year's respite then again tamed the Tabbies 21-14 in 1961. Then came the 1962 fog feats to give the Bombers their fourth in a row over the mountain enemy.

Statistics, in my book, are just rocking-chair topics and solace for tough losers.

"It's plain to be seen in many realms of sport," purr the Tiger aficionados "that statistics do not mean a thing."

"Be that as it may," quipped a Bomber waverlek who draws from the hip and the gals help him drink it," but there's something in store for youse guys. That's Ploen to be seen." (Ouch).

Grant Names Them

How Bombers Line Up

TORONTO (CP) — Grey Cup coaches usually hold off in announcing their lineups until the final hour. But Bud Grant of Winnipeg Blue Bombers has departed from the script this year.

Grant said Wednesday, as Bombers turned out for their first Toronto practice at Varsity Stadium, that he had no ani. hesitation naming his starting lineup that will meet the eastern champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the cup final at the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium here Saturday.

Defence—Ends: Mario Marinelli, Bob Taylor; tackles: Norm Winton, Roger Hamelin; linebackers: Al Miller, Phil Minnick, Paul Rohoman; backs: Dick Thornton, Henry Jansen, Ed Ulmer, Ernie Pitts, Barrie Hansen.

Habs Dump Leafs; Blues Bump Bruins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Whenever Montreal Canadiens ride over Toronto Maple Leafs, it seems Henri Richard is in the saddle.

The elubs have met four times this season. In the first game, Richard scored two goals and assisted on another in a 5-1 Montreal victory.

The next two games Richard was out of action with an injury and Toronto gained a 3-3 tie and a 3-1 victory.

Richard was back again Wednesday night, and scored a goal early in the third period to break a tie and give Montreal a 3-1 victory.

The win put the Canadiens back into sole possession of first place, two points ahead of Chicago Black Hawks. The Leafs remained in third place, but they now are sharing it with New York after the Rangers' 4-4 victory over last-place

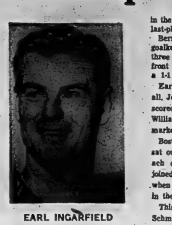
Boston Bruins Wednesday night.

"It was one of my easy winning goals," Richard said with a grin. Gilles Tremblay stole the puck from Leafs' George Armstrong and blasted a 25-footer that bounced off goalkeeper Terry Sawchuk. Richard was unattended near the goal crease at 1:13.

It was the centre's fourth goal of the season and his third against Toronto.

TVAN GAL SCORES



Right winger Yvan Cournoyer scored Montreal's other goal, his fourth this season, and centre Ken Reed scored his sixth for Toronto. Both goals came on power plays in the second period.

Montreal coach Toe Blake said after the game the Leafs' style of play pounded him, but he wasn't complaining.

"I can't understand it," he said. "They seemed to just want to shoot the puck in our zone and let us do the playing. Well, that's okay with me."

The Leafs bogged down in the last two periods.

"We stopped skating for some reason and then the Canadiens took the play away from us," said King Clancy, Toronto assistant general manager.

New York scored three times in the third period to defeat the last-place Bruins.

Bernie Parent, rookie Boston goalkeeper, playing with only three regular defencemen in front of him, held New York to a 1-1 tie through two periods.

Earl Ingarfield, Don Marshall, Jean Ratelle and Bob Nevin scored for New York. Tommy Williams scored Boston's lone marker.

Boston defenceman Ted Green sat out the game with a stomach disorder and Al Langlois joined him on the casualty list when he pulled a groin muscle in the first period.

Score Was 5-3

Trenton Turns Back Rollins

TRENTON—The Apple Kings regained their winning form here last night and extended Belleville Rollins Construction's losing streak by turning back the city squad 5-3 in an OHA Junior "B" affair.

Elsewhere, Kingston Frontenacs continued to climb in the loop standing with 4 free-scoring 11-7 decision over Cobourg Cougars.

Rollins, winless since November 2, play host to Peterborough Don Bys in a nine o'clock game as Belleville Friday night.

Last night's game was a good one, played before a mid-week crowd of 300. Clearly played, Trenton led 2-1 after one heat, 3-2 after two and outscored the visitors by a single goal in the final chapter.

Belleville tied the score 2-2 midway through the game and cut the King's lead to 4-3 early in the third but could not pull ahead.

Terry Hutchinson was a two-goal performer for Trenton with single markers going to Larry Beechman, Chuck Howard and Andy Teeple.

Jim "Boo" Pringle, Pete Fleming and Grant Hagerman triggered Rollins' goals. Bob Boyle earned two assists, Carl Boomhower and Doug Potts one apiece.

There were only five minor penalties assessed, a rather strange but happy situation for a Belleville, Trenton game. The losers drew three of the total.

Poechman opened the game scoring, arriving out of the penalty box to skate in for a 1-0 Trenton lead at 5.51, with Hampson assisting.

Howard hooked up with Art Hampson and Glover to make it 2-0 at 13.03.

A minute later Rollins cut the margin in half as Pringle completed a play with Boomhower.

Fleming notched the equalizer aided by Boyle, at 9.05 of the middle period but the lads failed to hold up for long. Hutchin, son notched his first tally with Al Ferguson and Teeple assisting at 12.29.

In the third, Hutchinson made it 4-2, aided by Teeple again, after just a minute and 15 seconds of play.

Belleville ripped right back, however, and at 1.54, Hagerman 'reat Trenton's Bonter, with Boyle and Potts helping out, for a 4-3 contest.

The, goalies came up with some key saves from then until Teeple took Ferguson's pass to clinch the win for Trenton at 14.22.

P. Smith played goal for Rollins and both he and Trenton's Wayne Bonter registered fine saves. Trenton outshot Belleville 33-23.

Belleville — P. Smith, Townsend, Marks, Ethier, Potts, Hagerman, Fleming, Blyjie, Boomhower, Duval, Summers, Muir, Pringle, White, Post.

West. Castoffs Boost Tiger Offence

Plugged Injury Holes

By BOB TRIMBEE

HAMILTON (CP)—Dick Coboss and Mel Anthony, a pair of Western Football Conference castoffs, have provided the power that gave Hamilton Tiger-Cats' offence a late-season rejuvenation.

And for Hamilton, which meets Winnipeg Blue Bombers Saturday in the Grey Cup, it couldn't have happened at a better time.

It will be the sixth Hamilton-Winnipeg meeting in the last nine East-West football finals and the Bombers hold a wide 4-1 edge.

Coach Ralph Sazio of Hamilton looks to both his new offensive stalwarts to maintain their momentum and help stabilize what, through most of the year, has been a model of attack. The Ticats' granite defence carried them most of the season.

But it took a rash of mid-season injuries to give Anthony and Cobee a shot at the job. Anthony, a Rose Bowl star with Michigan a year ago when he scored a record-tying three touchdowns against Oregon, is happy just to be playing this season.

CAME FOR TRYOUT

After a fruitless try to crack the high-calibre backfield of the National League champion Cleveland Browns, he came to Canada on a tryout basis with the WFC Edmonton Eskimos.

He hardly had time for a cup of coffee before the Eskimos' coach, Neill Armstrong, found him wanting as a blocker and receiver.

So 'o, in need of a big halfback, decided to give the Cincinnati kid a chance at that job. "It didn't take much to see he was the fullback type (Anthony had never played as a half) so we let him go."

Five days later fullback Art Baker was sidelined for the year with a fractured bone in his foot and the call went out for Anthony to return.

"Actually," said Anthony, "I knew I was coming back to Hamilton next season because I had signed a 1966 contract with them. But I was satisfied to see through with pro ball for this season and had started to look for a job to help me continue with university courses (at Michigan) in social science for counselling."

GOT CHANCE

It was this concern to find a new fullback that prompted Sazio to give Cobee, a mid-1964 acquisition from Saskatchewan Roughriders, a shot at the job in the Eastern Conference final against Ottawa Rough Riders.

Dick, a speedy 190-pounder, responded with key touchdowns in each game in the two-game total-point series won 35-20 by Hamilton. In the opener he scored on a 30-yard pass and in the finals on a 90-yard pass play.

"I like the offence a lot better," said the 26-year-old import, who also saw five years service with Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa in the IFC.

The trade that sent him to Hamilton was a surprise to Cobee, but an agreeable one. "I always wanted to play here because of the strength of this team. It's nice to be on a winner."

"Quiet" Tigers, Boisterous Bombers

Wing-Ding Stage Set For Twain Meet

By JIM CRERAR

TORONTO (CP)—Hotel managers showed little concern about damage as the first wave of Grey Cup football fans arrived here Wednesday in balmy, 60-degree weather under sunny skies.

"We've had more damage done on college football weekends than at Grey Cup time," one manager said.

Major hotels have had the sold-out sign up for weeks.

Among the early arrivals were Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who moved in Wednesday to prepare for Saturday's East-West final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers starting at 1 p.m. EST at the lakefront Canadian National Exhibition Stadium.

The game will be televised nationally by both the CBC and CTV networks.

WILL BE QUIET

Joseph Downey, resident manager of the 900-room King Edward Sheraton Hotel, said he expected a quiet Grey Cup this year because Hamilton is in it.

"Hamilton fans go home after the game," he said. "They don't stay overnight."

Downey said his hotel has been booked up for two or three months for Grey Cup weekend starting tonight and running through to Sunday.

C. G. Burton, manager of the 1,000-room Royal York Hotel, said no trouble is expected.

"I think there'll be about the same enthusiasm as in past years," he said. "Most of the celebrating will be done Friday and Saturday nights."

HOTEL'S BOOKED

The Royal York was booked up for Grey Cup weekend two months ago and the furniture will be moved out of the main lobby and mezzanine Friday afternoon.

"We've been doing this since 1948," Mr. Burton said. "It gives people more room to move around. Protecting the furniture is only a secondary consideration."

He said about 40 per cent of the hotel's guests will be from Western Canada.

Fred Shambrook, general manager of the Lord Simcoe Hotel, said all 700 rooms were taken six weeks ago. He expected no more trouble than usual, but as a precaution he is bringing in 12 more security policemen, making the total 15.

He expects damage to amount to $3,000 to $4,000, most of it from water damage, where people unwind fire hoses in the corridors, and from stains left by spilled beverages.

HOLD PARADE

The Toronto Junior Board of Trade kicked off formal Grey Cup festivities Wednesday with a parade of the nine Miss Grey Cup candidates to city hall, where they were welcomed by Mayor Philip Givens.

The candidates will be on hand for a party tonight at city hall at which figure skating stars Petra Burka of Toronto and Donald Knight of Dundas, Ont., are to appear.

The Grey Cup dinner will take place and Miss Grey Cup will be crowned Friday night.

The Grey Cup parade, 90 minutes long and featuring a record entry of 30 floats, will start at 9:15 a.m. EST Saturday.

Wednesday's perfect weather allowed the ground crew at CNE Stadium to remove the tarpaulin and touch up the field. And Stadium Manager Wally Hayter promised the field will be in the best condition since the first Grey Cup game was played on it in 1950.

There was one foreboding note, however. The weatherman said a disturbance moving into Northern Ontario could bring rain for Saturday's big game. The 1964 final was played in a drizzle and British Columbia Lions defeated the Ticats 34-24.

Addition For Hall Of Fame

TORONTO (CP)—City council has approved construction of a $40,000 addition to the Sports Hall of Fame building at the Canadian National Exhibition.

The addition, to be devoted to sports other than hockey, is scheduled for completion in 1967.

The present building was built by the National Hockey League, which wants to use it for hockey shots.

The Continental League, ending its first season, is expected to drop teams in Providence, Hartford, Conn.; Fort Wayne, Ind.; Wheeling, W.Va., and probably Charleston.

In addition to Washington, other new league cities would be Cincinnati, Memphis, New York and Tulsa. Toronto, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Va., and Richmond, Va., would be the league's holdovers.

Celtics Hold Loop Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Celtics, with K. C. Jones at the throttle, and Cincinnati Royals, paced by young Bill Bridges, continued their duel for first place in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division Wednesday night but the pace began to tell on Philadelphia 76ers.

The Celtics maintained their half-game lead over Cincinnati as Jones poured in 23 points in the first 11 minutes to lead them to a 21-point edge over New York Knicks at Boston Garden. They coasted the rest of the way to win 125-110, their eighth victory in a row on their home court.

The Royals, with Bridges scoring a career high of 31 points, survived a second - half comeback by St. Louis Hawks to win 112-108 with the 76ers, despite a 43-point effort by Wilt Chamberlain, lost 127-124 to Los Angeles Lakers and dropped 1½ games off the pace.

Baltimore Bullets had their margin over last-place Detroit shaved to a single game when the Pistons scored eight points in the last 72 seconds to nip them 130-124.

Kitchener Trainer Is Tops

TORONTO (CP) — Although only three victories separated them at the beginning of racing Wednesday, Lou Cavalaris Jr. has conceded Canada's leading trainer title to Jerry Meyer of Kitchener.

Meyer has saddled 107 winners this season and Cavalaris 104.

Meyer assumes a crown which had been the exclusive property of Frank Merrill Jr. who was Canada's leading trainer from 1956 through 1964.

Meyer was runner-up to Merrill in 1961, third in 1962, and second again in 1963 and '64. He's now third in the North American ratings with 136 winners.

Cavalaris is fourth in North American ratings with 127 winners, but he has the best percentage of any trainer anywhere. One horse in every four he has sent to the post has come home a winner.

LA Blades Eye Cellar

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Los Angeles Blades appear destined once more for the Western Hockey League cellar. They lost No. 13 in 18 games this season with a 5-2 defeat at the hands of Seattle Totems Wednesday night.

The win pulled the Totems, recently the cellar club after a long stay there by the Blades, into a tie for last place.

In other games, Vancouver downed San Francisco 3-1 and grasped third place firmly, while Buffalo Bisons of the American League scored an easy 5-1 win over second-place Portland of the western circuit in an interlocking game.

Bomber Star Recalls Old Glory

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

TORONTO (CP)—Norm Rauhaus, who spurred Winnipeg Blue Bombers to a Grey Cup victory in 1958 with a blocked-kick touchdown and a key interception, won't be in the starting lineup when the team appears in its sixth post-season classic in nine years Saturday.

The 10-year Canadian veteran doesn't like it.

"It isn't the same," he said Wednesday during the Bombers' first Toronto workout for the clash with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

"It hurts," he said, recalling five previous Grey Cup games as a regular.

The 28-year-old, 190-pound defensive halfback, Western Football Conference Rookie of the Year in 1956 after graduation from Winnipeg junior ranks and a WFC all-star in 1961, vividly remembers his 1958 day of glory in Vancouver.

"It was quite a game. The fans were roaring right from the opening gun . . . and they were obviously pro-western."

TRIED TO PUNT

The roar reached a crescendo in the final seconds of the first half when the Tiger-Cats, scrimmaging on their one-yard line, sent in Cam Fraser to punt on third down.

Rauhaus broke through to block the kick and fall on the ball for a touchdown on the last play of the half. The convert tied the score 14-14.

Late in the fourth quarter, with the Bombers being pushed back by a strong drive by the trailing Ticats, Rauhaus intercepted a pass on the Bombers' 35-yard line and ran back 42 yards to preserve a 28-25 triumph.

Winnipeg teams coached by Grant went on to win four straight Grey Cup games from Hamilton.

In 1959, the Blue Bombers scored 18 points in the final quarter to win 21-7. In 1961 quarterback Kenny Ploen scored the game-winning touchdown for a 21-14 decision in the first overtime game in Cup history. And in 1962, when fog forced the game into a two-day session, Winnipeg won 28-27.

Rauhaus became a part-time worker this season when coach Bud Grant acquired Ed Ulmer from Ottawa Rough Riders and Barrie Hansen from Montreal Alouettes and switched veteran offensive end Ernie Pitts to defence.

EAGER TO PLAY

He admits he was disappointed by the demotion but Rauhaus didn't allow this to interfere with his performance anytime he was asked to step in when Grant needed an experienced pass defender.

He played four games at offensive end before an impressive rookie named Ken Nielsen was picked up in a trade with Hamilton, and caught seven passes for 119 yards.

AVID FANS — No, they're not waiting to see the Beatles, but they are fans — football fans. Hamilton Tiger Cat fans spent the night in front of the ticket office waiting for the 9 a.m. opening to buy Grey Cup tickets. The weather was far from ideal — cold and wet. But a game of cards and good hot coffee helped pass the time. The Tiger Cats meet the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Grey Cup game at Toronto Saturday. (CP Photo)

Holiday Notes, Comments On the Hollywood Scene

By BO STHOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Holiday notes and comment on the Hollywood scene—

William Holden has beaten the bug and is back at work. The actor picked up an ailment while in Louisiana on location for Alvarez Kelly with Richard Widmark. At first it seemed like nothing worse than flu, but his condition worsened and he was taken to hospital.

Doctors decided he had been infected with salmonella, a form of paratyphoid he may have picked up in Louisiana on location for Alvarez Kelly with Richard Widmark. At first it seemed like nothing worse than flu, but his condition worsened and he was taken to hospital.

Doctors decided he had been infected with salmonella, a form of paratyphoid he may have picked up in Louisiana on location for Alvarez Kelly with Richard Widmark. At first it seemed like nothing worse than flu, but his condition worsened and he was taken to hospital.

Alvarez Kelly was suspended for a month while Holden recuperated. He returned to the film this week and reports he's feeling no after effects . . .

IT'S BIG DAY

It's a big U.S. Thanksgiving dinner at Debbie Reynolds' house today. With the death of Marie McDonald, Debbie and husband Harry Karl took custody of the three children of his marriage to Marie.

Tina Marie Karl, 9, goes to school with Debbie's children, Carrie and Todd. Teen - agers Harrison and Dede Karl, who were adopted, continue at boarding schools and come home for the weekends.

"Now we're really an interfaith family," says Debbie. She and her two children are Protestants, Harry is Jewish, and the three newcomers are Roman Catholics . . .

Jack Lemmon is still thawing out from his experience in Cleveland. He was there for Fortune Cookie locations, mostly in Municipal Stadium, home of the pro football Cleveland Browns.

"The hospitality was wonderful, but the weather was murder," Lemmon reports. "It was 10 degrees, and the temperature in the stadium was 10 degrees lower than outside. I guess California has made me thin blooded, I was never so cold in my life."

Jack expects to finish the movie in mid-January, about the same time he is scheduled to become a papa. His wife, Felicia Farr, is expecting their first child.

Color Television Sets Should Be Synchronized

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Owners ture reception. Now that the of color television sets these other two networks have got days can hardly be called sedentary spectators. Sometimes, it seems, we spend more time in deep knee bends adjusting the set than sitting back watching the shows.

It is obvious that the three networks have not got together to synchronize their palettes. On a Sunday night if one adjusts his set—as directed—to flesh tones of the sun-tanned face of Eileen Zimbalist Jr. on ABC's THE FBI, and switches over to CBS' Ed Sullivan, the latter often looks as if he were suffering from an advanced case of yellow jaundice. That requires some more emergency knob turning.

Some of the difference in color is due, it has been explained, to the fact that when NBC was practically alone in presenting color cast, owners of color sets had their antennae adjusted for the best NBC pic-into the act, some readjustment would help things.

Just when all three networks were becoming extremely interested in adding aerial dramas to next season's evening schedules, the Nielsen ratings indicate that ABC's Peyton Place, a hit last year, has taken a slide in audience popularity. The three - a - week series, of course, is still in a healthy ratings position, but is not the ball of fire it once was.

Both NBC and CBS have pulled up short in their plans to go ahead with shows built with the same format.

And now that the James Bondish shows, from The Man from U.N.C.L.E. to Get Smart, are just good—but not flashy—ratings performers, our watchers if that programming fad will also run out of steam soon.

Nine Prince Edward County Municipalities to Nominate

Picton

By LLOYD THOMPSON

476-6222

The Rural Scene

Hon. Wm. A. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, has announced that owing to the fact that some farmers in Eastern Ontario suffered extremely heavy crop losses, to ensure these farmers will be able to maintain their livestock, additional special assistance under the Federal-Provincial Adverse Weather Assistance Program may be obtained.

The original assessment on a county basis did not provide for pockets of real hardship within areas where the crop conditions were only slightly below average.

It has been decided therefore that the farmers in the Counties of Carleton, Dundas, Frontenac, Grenville, Hastings, Leeds, Lennox and Addington and Prince Edward, who received an assistance rating of .25 and .30 and who feel that they are in need of further consideration, will now have an opportunity of applying for special assistance. Applications will be made through the offices of the Agricultural Representative.

The special assistance will be on the basis of a .75 assessment.

BOARS APPROVED

A total of 192 boars were approved for premium under the Ontario Boar Premium Policy during October. This number included 127 Yorkshires; 33 Landrace and 32 Lacombe. Farmers interested in purchasing an approved boar can obtain the names of breeders who have boars for sale at the Ontario Department of Agriculture Office in Picton. Wilhoma Farms No. 1. Picton, is among those listed in the area.

MULCHING TIME

It is now time to mulch strawberry plants. Mulching prevents low temperature injury in the crowns and roots. Drying out of plants due to cold winds is prevented as well. Temperature fluctuations—due to freezing and thawing are also reduced, thus preventing heaving of the plants and root breakage.

Strawberry plants should be covered before they are exposed to temperatures below 20 degrees, but not before the plants are well hardened by several frosty nights. The mulch, of 2 to 3 inches in thickness, should be applied in the next few weeks if it hasn't been applied already.

There are several materials that make good mulch but whatever the material it should be free of weed seeds. Wheat straw is one of the best but rye straw, marsh hay and wood shavings are quite suitable. Oat straw may pack down and smother the plants.

This protecting mulch should not be removed in the spring until after the danger of severe frosts has passed.

FIX BLAME

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A staff physician of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital apparently was responsible for a mixup in drugs that caused the post-operative deaths last week of three patients, the hospital administrator said Wednesday. Administrator Harry Whitley made the announcement as investigations of the deaths continued. He declined to identify the doctor.

PICTON — Nominations will be held in eight of Prince Edward County's 10 municipalities on Friday. Another Ameliasburgh Township, will hold nominations in the township hall at 7 p.m. on Thursday. Positions to be filled are those of reeve, deputy reeve, three councillors and two public school trustees.

Picton and North Marysburgh the only two municipalities in the county which hold elections every two years, will have no nominations for council this year. However the terms of Jack Carter and William Smith on the North Marysburgh Township School Area Board expire this year, and nominations will be held to fill these positions. The deadline for qualifying as a candidate is 24 hours after the close of nominations.

In Wellington, nominations will be held for the positions of reeve, four councillors, one public utilities commission member and one school trustee.

Hillier residents will be asked to nominate a reeve, four councillors and two public school trustees, including one to sit on the Wellington School Area Board, since Lewis Wight's term expires this year.

Hallowell Township also has a member, C. A. Springgings, on the Wellington School Board, but his term does not expire until next year. So township residents will be asked to nominate persons for reeve, deputy-reeve, three councillors and one trustee for the township school area board.

Nominations will be for reeve, four councillors and three school board members in Sophiasburg Township, the same as in South Marysburgh Township.

In Athol Township, nominations will be for a reeve, four councillors and two school trustees, while Bloomfield needs a reeve, four councillors and one school trustee.

Ferry Service Curtailed

PICTON — Glenora ferry service has been changed for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday this week. During this period the motor of the larger ferry, The Quinte Loyalist, is being overhauled.

Since only one ferry will be operating, the schedule is on the half hour instead of on the usual quarter hour, while the maintenance is under way. The ferry runs from Glenora quarter after and quarter to the hour, and on the Adolphustown side on the hour and on the half hour. Load limit is reduced from 20 to 10 tons.

British General Visits Guards At Camp Picton

PICTON — Maj. Gen. P. G. F. Young, director of infantry for the British Army, visited the first battalion of the Canadian Guards at Camp Picton Wednesday. He arrived in Toronto on Sunday and will visit Camp Borden, Kingston, Ottawa and Montreal during his Canadian tour of defence establishments.

The visit to Camp Picton, where he met Lt. Col. J. G. W. Haynes, Commanding Officer of the 1st Battalion Canadian Guards enabled the British officer to see how a United Nations standby unit remains in readiness for peace-keeping duty anywhere in the world if necessary.

Oil Burner Floods

PICTON — Picton firemen were called to 248 Main Street on Monday night when James Bailey reported that an oil burner was flooded in his apartment above Abramsky's store.

Fire Chief Duane Foshay said the flames were shooting up through the pipe when firefighters arrived and they had to use a chemical extinguisher to subdue them. There was no damage.

Mr. Bailey said he lit the space heater and shortly afterwards heard the rumble of flames which caused him to put in the alarm.

APPROVE BARS

TORONTO (CP)—The suburban Mimico Vote X for Yes Association celebrated what they call drinks Wednesday night, despite the fact voters had just approved cocktail bars and licenced dining rooms. Only 15 per cent of Mimico's 11,600 voters approved the liquor outlets by majorities of 62 and 63 per cent. The town had been dry since 1945.

Hunters Cause Heavy Damage

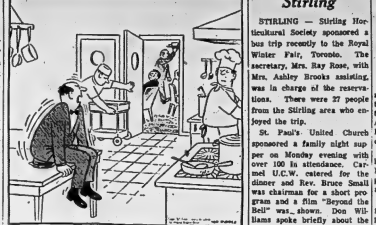
PICTON — Once again a situation exists with out-of-county hunters causing damage on farm property. An apparent situation that has existed in Ameliasburg and Hillier townships is now building up in Sophiasburg. There have been numerous complaints from the farmers in this township in the last few days regarding the influx from non-local hunters.

Most of the complaints that have been received are from the Big Island area. Reeve Don Kotchapaw states that he has received reports that hunters have been shooting at anything that moves, mostly cattle, fences being broken and bottles smashed. The reeve said that these nuisances present a major problem as farmers moved their equipment over the land. He says that reports have been received stating that farmers are afraid to go into their fields because of wild and careless shooting.

Last year some 22 arrests were made in Ameliasburg and Hillier townships and nearly all were Toronto hunters. More arrests were made this year in the same township and meetings were held to decide on what action should be taken against these careless hunters. No trespassing signs were supplied to farmers involved and were heavily posted in the two townships.

Reeve Kotchapaw advises that an open meeting is proposed for Sophiasburg to be held in the immediate future to discuss further action which may be necessary to correct this situation.

Liberal Member Is Expecting Appointment



KILLALOE, Ont. (CP)—J. J. Greene, Liberal MP for Renfrew South, indicated Wednesday he's expecting a federal appointment.

Mr. Greene volunteered in magistrate's court here to act as unpaid legal aid for a man accused of dangerous driving.

He told the court he'd be happy to act for the accused, who had told him he was denied legal aid. But he was uncertain whether he would be able to attend future court sittings if a certain appointment from Ottawa came through.

He did not say what appointment he meant and Magistrate S. C. Platus said that if Mr. Greene was unable to act later a lawyer would be named to take over the case.

Hays Beaten By 115 Votes In Recount

CALGARY (CP)—A judicial recount Wednesday confirmed the Nov. 8 election of Conservative Ray Ballard over Liberal Agriculture Minister Harry Hays in Calgary South constituency.

Judge E. B. Fair of Lethbridge said the recount gave Mr. Ballard 20,640 votes compared with 20,525 for Mr. Hays, a margin of 115 votes.

The official election count had given Mr. Ballard 20,661 compared with 20,520 for Mr. Hays, a difference of 158 votes.

Britain's 'Free Drug' System Fails to Curb Narcotic Use

By LAWRENCE MALKIN

LONDON (AP) — Britain's lenient system of prescribing heroin and cocaine for addicts through local doctors has failed to curb "a disturbing rise" in drug addiction, especially among the young.

Reporting this today, a government committee recommended that prescription loopholes be tightened to keep excess supplies from new addicts.

It urged that confirmed addicts be treated only at special centres and be forced to continue through the difficult withdrawal period. Doctors who treated addicts without notifying the authorities would be guilty of a crime.

This represents a reversal of policy by the committee on drug addiction, which made its report to the minister of health. The group is headed by Lord Brain, former head of the Royal College of Physicians and a distinguished neurologist.

The British Medical Association, representing most of Britain's general practitioners, agreed the report depicted "a most disturbing picture" and said it is giving careful study to committee's proposals. It described them as drastic.

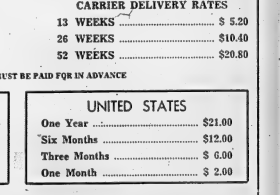
FEW REGISTERED

Registered drug addicts in Britain still number only in the hundreds — miniscule compared with the problem in the United States. The British system has been studied by American authorities, and a team of investigators from New York recently recommended strongly against adopting it there.

Under British law, doctors are allowed to prescribe regular doses of drugs to addicts registered with the government committee which is responsible for them. Unregistered addicts can be imprisoned.

There are no official figures for the number of unregistered addicts. The home office admits they are a problem.

During 1964, there were only 115 prosecutions for drug trafficking and illegal addiction to heroin, cocaine and opium—a rise of 32 over the year before. This does not include convictions for marijuana, a drug not covered in the report.



DRUGS FREE

The system of prescriptions for addicts was endorsed by the Brain committee when it first reported in 1961. At that time it found the addiction problem was small. Addicts being treated under Britain's socialized medicine system got their drugs free at a nominal charge then. With the removal of prescription charges, the drugs for national - health patients now are free.

The report did not discuss the possibility raised by some critics that registered addicts sell drugs to non-registered addicts.

Summary Is Given on Safety Petition

On Friday at the Glen Miller hall, Mr. J. Bigney, president of the Home and School, presented a summary of the safety petition taken up last fall. This petition was made in an effort to get a speed limit along the Glen Miller Road, and crossroads on Highway 33.

The completed petition was presented to the Sidney township council February 1, 1965. Mr. E. Kelly, reeve, said then that the two roads under question, Highway 33 and the Glen Miller Road, did not come under Sidney township jurisdiction but that they would take it up with Hastings county council.

As of September nothing was further heard so copies of the petition were sent in October to Hastings county council and the Department of Highways, Toronto.

A letter was received Oct. 22nd from the Traffic Planning Division Dept. of Highways, expressing concern over Highway 33 but noted that the Miller Road was not under their jurisdiction. Correspondence was forwarded to the regional traffic engineer in Kingston for investigation.

Early in November, Mr. Donald E. Edwards, Accident Prevention Organizer, Toronto, and an OPP Safety corporal from Belleville visited the Glen Miller school, principal E. Rofasse and Mrs. M. Bowman, past president. After discussing the roads and bridge, Mr. D. Edward and the OPP corporal suggested the use of school patrols organized in the school with the help of the police.

The executive and the principal do not think that this is a satisfactory solution for the protection of the children on a highway or road that has no speed limit. The summer holidays are a time when there is even more traffic and now with the Glen Miller road being widened it is likely there will be an increase in traffic throughout the community.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. J. Bigney introduced the guest of the evening, Mr. Robert Temple, who explained the meaning of incorporation, a more complicated process than most of those present realized. It would take for one the majority approval, application to the Ontario Municipal Planning Board, besides many additional expenses, which would raise taxes and would not prove practical for a small community. A post office could be installed apart from incorporation and those with rural mail boxes could keep them if they so wished.

Mr. Temple said that the petition should be left as it stands and again presented to the Sidney township council and Hastings county council. He offered to act as spokesman for the delegation of parents and those interested in having a 30-mile speed limit along the Glen Miller road. It is urgent that as many as possible attended and a notice will be sent out as to the time and place.

Mr. J. Bigney thanked Mr. Temple for his offer to act as spokesman at the council meeting.

Coffee and do-nuts were served by the lunch convener, Mrs. L. Johnston.

Accept Quebec Hydro Offer

MONTREAL (CP)—Andre Asselin, president of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CLC) said this morning that his union's negotiators have decided to accept the latest offers made by management in contract talks with Hydro-Quebec.

Mr. Asselin made the announcement after the union met behind closed doors until four this morning. He said he preferred not to say what the latest company offers are but that they include "a model clause on employee job security."

Canada's Birth Control Ban Called Farcial, Dictatorial

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's birth control laws came under attack again Wednesday at a symposium on responsible parenthood here.

Professor Charles Hendry of the University of Toronto's school of social work said it is "abundantly clear" that the Criminal Code forbids all kinds of birth control, including the rhythm method.

"Under present circumstances, it is a monstrous farce. . . . Those with economic and educational advantages manage to circumvent the law; but the poor and uniformed do not."

Arnold Edinborough, editor of Saturday Night magazine, said it is time the Planned Parenthood Association tried to force a test court case.

"I know that it is difficult for anyone to get arrested on the charge—druggists sell pills and devices by the hundreds of thousands every year; hospitals are beginning to set up birth control clinics; churches with community centres have them."

ARE AFRAID

He said that few people use the available facilities because they are afraid of being charged under the Criminal Code.

"By this fantastic section, thought control of the most dictatorial type is being exerted."

He said it is dictatorial because the only defence against charge under the section is that it is in the public good.

"The offender, contrary to all the tenets of British justice, has to prove his innocence."

Another speaker, Dr. Robert Greenblatt, professor and chairman of the endocrinology department of the Medical College of Georgia in Augusta, said the final, perfect technique of contraception is yet to be developed.

"Nothing is 100 per cent safe," he said. "But the pill is almost 100 per cent."

Dr. Greenblatt, who developed the sequential therapy known as oral contraception, said statistics show that of 100 women taking the pill, one may become pregnant in one year.

ABENT JUSTIFIED

In an interview, he said there is no justification for fears that birth control pills may be dangerous if taken for more than four years.

The United States Food and Drug Administration recently stated the contraceptive pills shouldn't be taken for more than four years because there hasn't been sufficient time to determine how safe they are.

Mrs. Barbara Cadbury, another speaker, sharply attacked the position of the Roman Catholic Church on birth control.

Rail Tracks Ripped Up By Derailment

ACTON VALE, Que. (CP)— The Canadian National Railway's tracks between Montreal and Sherbrooke, Que., were ripped up and strewn with freight cars Wednesday in a freight train derailment near this community 50 miles east of Montreal.

CNR engineers hoped to have the line repaired and trains running over the affected stretch again today. No one was injured in the incident.

A CNR spokesman in Montreal said damage to the 19 freight cars on the train was considerable.

Some of the cars were strewn crasily across the tracks. Others were flung into nearby ditches or across fences into snow-covered fields.

Fast Freeze Would Trap 100 Vessels

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Joseph Kates, president of a firm that acts as traffic consultant to the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, warned Thursday that a sudden freeze could trap between 50 and 100 foreign ships in the Great Lakes.

His warning came as Dr. Pierre Camu, president of the Seaway Authority, said the Seaway will have to handle 19 foreign ships a day as well as domestic traffic to clear all ocean vessels by the Dec. 3 deadline.

Each year the authority sets a closing date but it is adjusted to suit the weather.

At midnight Wednesday, there were 161 foreign vessels above St. Lambert Lock at Montreal.

Federal weather forecasters are watching a storm centre forming in Kansas that is expected to bring between six and 12 hours of snow and rain into the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence area starting Saturday.

High winds which could halt operations in the Welland Canal are also expected. Dr. Camu said water temperature at Montreal Thursday was 35 degrees with air temperatures at 30 and three days of cold weather could halt operations.

STOP TRAFFIC

At St. Catharines the Seaway Authority stopped upbound traffic late Thursday in an attempt to move more ships seaward and expected to maintain the emergency traffic pattern today if upbound movement remained light.

By Nov. 30 last year, 100 ships were above the Welland Canal. On the same day this year there were 130. On Nov. 24 the comparative totals were 90 and 120 and Nov. 25, 84 and 110.

Last year the worst fall since the Seaway opened in 1959, four ships were trapped above the welland in the lakes. The major freeze came Dec. 1 and although authority workers cleared several ships they failed with the last four.

This year the problem has been somewhat worse by movement of grain for export from the Lakehead to Montreal and Trois Rivieres, in the lake ships.

The Seaway has established a cargo record in 1965, 1,847,000 the total movement was about 39,000,000 tons, Dr. Camu said. The 40,000,000 mark was passed last week and, he said, he expects the total to reach 43,000,000 before the season ends.

Unionists Win Vote In Ulster

BELFAST (Reuters) — The pro-British Unionist government has been returned to power with its most convincing general election victory since 1949.

With only four results outstanding in Thursday's election, the government led by 51-year-old Prime Minister Capt. Terence O'Neill held 34 of the 52 seats.

The Nationalists, the main opposition party, won only seven seats, and Labor took two, Republicans two, and Liberal, National Democrats and Independents one each.

At dissolution, the Unionists held 34 seats, Labor four, Nationalists nine, Liberals one, Independents one, Republicans two, Labor one, Eire Labor one. One non - party speaker also was elected.

Only 29 seats were contested. The other 23 candidates, 14 of them Unionists, were returned unopposed.

Hopes of a Northern Ireland Labor party breakthrough in 17 areas were crushed in the first batch of results. The Unionists landed two surprise wins in Belfast by recapturing seats lost to Labor seven years ago.

O'Neill's triumph was partly marred by the poor 64 per cent turnout of voters in snow and sleet.

No incidents involving the outlawed Irish Republican Army—who launched a campaign of murder and bombings against Northern Ireland government ministers — were reported.

Settlement Of Clarkson Strike Unlikely

CLARKSON, Ont. (CP) — An early settlement of the 10-week-old strike at the British American Oil Co. refinery here appears unlikely despite a settlement in British Columbia, an oil workers' union spokesman said Thursday night.

"While the B.C. settlement has been reported to be the basis for a nation-wide settlement in the oil industry, BA's attempt to use the union's demand for training and a share of the benefits of automation to reduce, rather than to increase, job security in the Clarkson refinery makes an early settlement . . . unlikely," said R. F. Kay of Local 9-593, Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (CLC).

Indians Ask Fair Treatment In Teaching Canadian History

OTTAWA (CP) — An appeal was made this week for fair teaching of the history of the Canadian Indian by most of the dozen speakers invited to Indian Week sessions at Carleton University, which conclude today.

Several said text books are so derogatory their children come home ashamed to be Indians.

Indians were often depicted as savages.

"We had formed the Six Nations Confederacy 400 years before the League of Nations," said Howard Staats, 26, a Mohawk about to be admitted to the Ontario Bar.

Rev. David Bauer of the University of Saskatchewan said the school system won't be doing the Indian much good until it takes his heritage and nature into account. Text books have to present a fair picture of Indian history.

"It isn't what is taught that creates prejudice but what isn't taught," Father Bauer said.

Another theme of the five days of discussion was how relations between Indians and whites can be improved.

Indian speakers consistently referred to the suspicion and distrust treaty Indians have for intruders.

Duke Redbird, 26, Chipewyan now living in Toronto, said forces like the one at Carleton were probably the best means to increase understanding.

Other Indians said student demonstrations and uninvited intrusions into reserves were probably the worst.

Allen Jacob, 22, of Alberta's Cold Lake Reserve, said pointedly that "do-gooders" only create more division and confusion on reserves.

Tom Fleicher, 38, publisher of The Thunderbird, an Indian monthly, added that student field workers who forced themselves on the Indian were paternalistic.

"What do you think you can teach us?" he asked.

The comments were a reaction to remarks by Pat Uhl, 22, of Cincinnati, who said students have an obligation to help Indians whether or not they are welcomed. Miss Uhl and eight other University of Saskatchewan students worked on Saskatchewan reserves this summer.

Her viewpoint also was countered by a student, Jock Turcot of the University of Ottawa. He believed emergent Indian leaders like those who spoke at Carleton were the ones who would bring about the needed changes on reserves.

Legion Requests 61.6 Per Cent Pension Hike

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Legion Thursday asked the government for a 61.6 per-cent increase in pensions for Canada's 142,822 war disability pensioners.

In a brief to the cabinet, the legion urged that the maximum disability pension of $2,400 a year for a single pensioner be raised to $3,880. It sought comparable increases for married pensioners.

The legion brief said a 10-per-cent pension increase granted in 1964 was "too late in coming and it was far from enough."

A-Powered Ships Join 7th Fleet

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP)—Two nuclear-powered warships, including the biggest one in the world, today joined the U.S. 7th Fleet for use around Viet Nam as a "pill in ground fighting stretched to its third straight day.

The aircraft carrier U.S.S. Enterprise and the guided missile frigate U.S.S. Brainbridge crossed the 180th degree of east longitude to bring them into the 7th Fleet area which covers a sixth of the globe, from the Arctic to the Antarctic and as far west as the Indian Ocean.

The lull in ground action in South Viet Nam followed the most costly 10 days of the war as major forces of both sides clashed with casualties at a record level.

In the air, American attacks continued over both North and South Vietnam. A reconnaissance plane Thursday night flushed seven large 40-foot motorized sampans out of hiding in the Mekong Delta 130 miles southwest of Saigon, and jet

Wilson Is Pushing For World Accord On Nuclear Arms

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP)— Prime Minister Wilson pushed ahead today with a concerted diplomatic drive for a world nuclear pact and for a way to end the war in Viet Nam.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart flies to Moscow Monday to probe the Soviet Union's terms for a world pact to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

Wilson's aims in the field of nuclear weapons were disclosed Thursday night by high British sources. His preparations for Viet Nam peace soundings were announced by the prime minister in the House of Commons.

The Associated Press reported in a story by Jack Bell from Johnston City, Tex., where Johnson is recuperating from a gall-bladder operation:

"The attitude here (in the administration) about Wilson's statement that he intends to conduct Viet Nam peace soundings on his trip to the United Nations and in discussions with Johnson was that the prime minister meant the remarks for domestic consumption" to placate British anti - war elements.

WHAT'S AT STAND

("The administration attitude is that Wilson knows very well where Johnson stands—that the president is determined to do everything necessary to halt aggression in South Viet Nam but with the same time holds himself in readiness to enter unconditional discussions aimed at seeking a peaceful settlement.")

Wilson left as his luncheon guest today U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara who stopped here on the way to Paris and Viet Nam.

McNamara was prepared to discuss in London some of the current issues in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization especially how to strengthen the alliance's co-operation in the field of nuclear policy.

There is a meeting of the Alliance's defence ministers in Paris Saturday.

Wilson made it clear to the House of Commons that he believes North Viet Nam remains the major stumbling block to the holding of any peace conference.

He said the peace soundings to be made in Moscow and Washington have the aim of enlisting "a major war in Asia, or worse."

Roberts Conflicts With Dief

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP)—Premier Roberts of Ontario told Britons Thursday that Canada needs a firm federal government to counter divisive empire-building by the provinces.

In a speech, the Conservative premier proposed that Canada should "put aside partisan political disputes" to make minority government work in Ottawa for at least two years.

He agreed at a press conference later that his political peace proposal conflicts with national Conservative leader Diefenbaker's view of the Opposition's role.

Roberts, 48, denied at the press conference that he now is a candidate for the national Conservative leadership, but suggested that his mind might be changed.

At a luncheon speech in the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Britain, Roberts cited regional conflicts of interest in Canada as dsaid: "There are potential dangers if there is no strong unified central government which will be directly responsible for progress and for new national economic policies."

"Once we permit provinces to develop empires we are going to be in trouble nationally," he added in a departure from his prepared speech.

However, Roberts predicted Canada would solve problems of national unity and development by compromise. For a start, he proposed less political partisanship.

"The parties will have to cooperate to make parliament work for at least two years," he said.

He said at another point:

"It seems to me that in spite of the fact that there is a minority government in Ottawa, the people themselves are going to rule of Ontario, will want to put aside partisan political disputes and political ambitions in the public interest."

At his press conference, a reporter asked whether the premier's emphasis on political peace means that he disagreed with Diefenbaker's idea on more active opposition to the Liberal government.

"Why, you could say that," Roberts replied.

Asked earlier whether he intended to contest the national Conservative leadership when Diefenbaker steps down, he said:

"No, I don't."

Roberts will speak up any platform for myself by coming here," he said in reference to his 12-day visit to Britain.

Roberts replied he has "lots to do" as Ontario premier when asked whether he would accept the national party leadership should it be pressed on him. But he added:

"To be completely honest, it would be difficult to take an absolutely categorical position over something that is not going to happen for some time."

Art Exhibit Said Obscene By Magistrate

TORONTO (CP)—Former art gallery proprietor Dorothy Cameron was found guilty Thursday by Magistrate Fred Hayes on seven charges of displaying obscene pictures.

The magistrate fined Miss Cameron $50 on each charge. At defence request she was given two weeks to pay, with an alternative of five days in jail on each count to run consecutively.

In a 40-minute judgment, the magistrate said he considered that all the paintings, which had hung in Miss Cameron's gallery, unduly exploited sex.

Consider Nuclear Controls

By MORSIN ALI

LONDON (Reuters)—U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara arrived here today for talks with British officials on some of the basic problems facing the Atlantic Alliance.

The talks are in effect a curtain-raiser to a NATO conference that begins Saturday in Paris. The chief purpose of McNamara's visit, sources said, is to sound out the NATO countries on their current attitude toward the problem of nuclear controls within the Atlantic Alliance.

McNamara was accompanied by Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, and John T. McNaughton, assistant secretary of defence for international Security Affairs.

While in London McNamara and Ball will see Prime Minister Wilson, Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart and Defence Minister Denis Healey.

The independent right wing Daily Express says McNamara will tell them that Britain must expand its contribution toward the "Western presence" in the East, in order to help contain communism.

The Express adds that Britain will do so deeply in debt to the U.S. for support of the pound that Wilson would find it difficult to reject the American request.

SUGGESTS COMMITTEE

Last May McNamara suggested that a select committee of four or five alliance members should be created to discuss nuclear matters.

The original concept has given way to what now is called a special committee with a larger membership. It will study ways of improving consultation and encouraging wider participation in nuclear planning. It will make an interim report to the ministers of the North Atlantic council administrative level in Paris in December.

The British defence minister conferred Thursday with West Germany's defence minister, Kai-uwe Von Hassel. Their talks dealt mainly with the question of how to solve the nuclear problem without endangering the chances of reaching a non-proliferation pact with Russia.

Meanwhile, it was reported that Britain has decided to buy $504,000,000 worth of American aircraft—60 F-111 swing-wing bombers. Sources here said the order would be confirmed after McNamara's arrival today.

Death Struggle In Making In South Viet Nam's Central Highlands

SAIGON (AP)—A death struggle seems to be in the making in South Viet Nam's central highlands where reinforcements are arriving daily for an estimated 22,000 Viet Cong guerrillas and North Vietnamese regulars roaming the area.

Despite the infusion of an American division into that section of the Annamese cordillera, the Western position seems deteriorating because of more rapid North Vietnamese reinforcement and a heavy toll among South Vietnamese government troops in intermittent clashes.

The Ia Drang Valley, where the bloodiest battle of the Viet Nam War was fought last week, is in the highlands, an area of jungled hills, mountains and plateaus blanketing 18,000 square miles.

The Annamese chain extends all the way from the upper section of the Mekong Delta to China. But military interest centres in a half-dozen central provinces of South Viet Nam ranging about 175 miles northward from Ban Me Thuot, itself 160 miles northeast of Saigon, the capital.

In places the mountains extend all the way across the country from the Cambodian and Laotian frontiers to the South China Sea coast. Peaks generally vary from 600 to 1,600 feet. A few are much higher.

The highlands were the scene of many of the French Army's defeats in the Indochina war before its final surrender at Dien Bien Fou.

Hoping to cut the country in two, Communist - ruled North Viet Nam apparently believes the highlands are the key to South Viet Nam. Not all U.S. strategists accept this military theory.

Up to 11 enemy regiments, perhaps 22,000 North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong, roam the area. Thousands more in battalion and company units also are in the highlands and the coastal lowlands to the east.

U.S. President Johnson sent the 16,000-man U.S. 1st Cavalry Division to the Khe Sanh area 250 miles northeast of Saigon.

The South Vietnamese - side also has thrown in a South Korean marine brigade and U.S. 101st Airborne units near Qui Nhon on the coast, but it seems clear Hanoi is reinforcing faster than the South Vietnamese allies and that the balance of military power is worsening for the Saigon side.

Battle casualties and sickness such as malaria have seriously undermined some of the U.S. 1st Cavalry's units since they arrived in South Viet Nam in September.

Two of its battalions were cut up in the Ia Drang Valley fighting. North Vietnamese losses also were high, with a 2,207 body count reported by the U.S. command.

Replacements already are in the works for the 1st Cavalry, but some military circles believe more major American units must be rushed to this area where several crack French units met their death.

Zoning Change Requested To Permit 6-store Centre To Be Built on North Front

A sub-committee of Belleville and Suburban Planning Board will investigate a request for re-zoning of a lot on the south west corner of North Front and Donald Street to permit construction of a six-store shopping centre. At the same time the committee will attempt to clear up confusion in present highway commercial zoning bylaws by setting up standards for this type of development.

The decision was prompted by the appearance of Mr. Spiegel and his representative, Mr. A. Storey, before the Planning Board's regular meeting on Thursday night. Mr. Spiegel sought the board's recommendation for re-zoning to allow him to build a $100,000 service centre on North Front St. opposite a Fountain Park Drive-in. The present RM-3 zoning in the area permits highway commercial facilities such as a service station, warehouse, or single retail store on a two-acre site. The existing by-law also requires street and lot-line set-backs of 18 and 25 feet and a parking allowance of 300 square feet.

Mr. Spiegel asked the board to recommend to Belleville Council a "site planned" rezoning by-law which would permit him to erect a 8,500 square foot building containing six stores on a lot one-third of an acre in size. To fit the building of this size on the lot the set-back allowances would have to be reduced to eight and ten feet.

Mr. Storey, speaking on behalf of Mr. Spiegel, said the neighborhood needed a service centre of the type proposed. No merchandise would be on display in the shops; they would be used for service facilities such as hairdressing parlors, laundries and dry cleaning plants. He said he had prefitioned the residents of the district and none had objected to the centre.

DIRECTOR COMMENTS

P. J. Beavis, planning director, said board members should consider whether this type of multi-store development was reasonable for the lot. Proposed entrances to the shopping centre would be located on North Front St., a main access road. Donald St. is now a dead end, but is designed for eventual use as a through street. The traffic situation at the intersection is poor. The adjacent area to the north and west of the lot is residential and while allowances should be left between the commercial building and adjacent house.

Mr. Beavis recommendations of the architectural Land Surveyors' institute were followed a 4,000 square foot building is the largest that should be put up on a lot of this size," Mr. Beavis said. The present by-law covering highway commercial zoning is confusing. We should establish ground with similar non-conforming developments in other parts of the city.

COMMITTEE NAMED

Alderman D. G. Joss said that if Mr. Spiegel were not prepared to re-zone application, someone else might wish a conforming but poorer use for the property. All the recommendation of a sub-committee consisting of Mr. Joss, Mr. M. P. Wiegand and Mr. S. Green was set up to study the application. They will recommend, in conjunction with Mr. Spiegel minor changes in the plans which might be acceptable to council, and suggest general standards for highway commercial development.

At the next meeting of City Council on Monday night the Board will make recommendations concerning a walkway between Palmer Road and Avondale Road. The walkway is designed to provide a shorter access route to St. Mackenzie Bulwell school for children living in the north west part of the school district. At present the children have to travel over a mile, part of it along No. 2 Highway, to reach the school. The new walkway will cut the distance in half. Instead of the path originally suggested, the board will recommend to Sidney Township and to Belleville Council that the township acquire a road-reservation through the area, the cost of legal fees, surveys an dimprovements to be borne by the city.

The first movie role of television comedian Soupy Sales is in Birds Do It, now being filmed at Miami Beach.

All But Three Nominees Here Qualify for Dec. 6 Election

Last night's qualification deadline for city municipal candidates brought no surprises for Belleville voters.

It only went to confirm what had already been considered a foregone conclusion — that there would be an election for all city elective offices on Dec. 6.

In fact both of the 20 persons nominated for the various civic offices failed to qualify.

At a meeting Monday at the conclusion of Wednesday night's nomination meeting, it will be a two-way fight for the mayoralty between incumbent Jack Ellis and Alderman Don Mallard, both seven year veterans of municipal office.

THREE FOR PUC

There are four candidates in the race for the two seats on the public utilities commission, the candidates being present members Gerald B. Hyde, W. Harry Rollins, and newcomer to the field, Eric Langdeer.

A fourth nominee for the utilities commission, John D. O'Flynn, did not qualify.

Nominations for 18 members for city council qualified to run, the two nominees not qualifying being Ernest K. Hunter and Wilbur Fox.

There were 13 nominated for the Belleville Public Schools Board and 13 for the Separate School Board and in each case all 13 qualified.

Ten members of city council are to be elected and eight each for the public and separate school boards, one for mayor and two for the public utilities commission.

The only other question before the electors on December 6th is the matter of Sunday movies.

Following are the qualifications for municipal offices:

Mayor — Jack Ellis, Donald J. Whalen.

Public Utilities — Gerald B Hyde, Eric Langdeer, W. Harry Rollins.

Woman Seeks Council Seat

Ameliasburg Has First Reeve Contest in Years

For the first time in many years there will be an election for Reeve in neighboring Ameliasburg township.

Candidates for the office are incumbent Harold Bostar, Allison Bell Township Clerk, Evans, president of the Ameliasburg Homeowners' Association, Frank Bonisteel of Consecon ville, and has owned property in the township some 20 years. He is municipal governmeut in this category.

The township housewife seeking a seat in council is Mrs. Edward (Reita) Barrick, a mother of two children, who resides on the Bedeerville-Consecon road two and a half miles east of Carrying Place.

REASONS

In her acceptance speech Mrs. Barrick outlined her reasons for running for office. She mentioned that she followed municipal government for 15 years while she was a resident of North York township (Toronto) and continued her interest in politics at the local level on moving to Ameliasburg to live.

"I feel that I have the time and enthusiasm to render harmonious service to the people of the township now that my children are grown and fending for themselves," she pointed out.

Mrs. Barrick was nominated to contest three council vacancies along with eight men. They are: Earle Cridenbore, Laird Adams, Russell Thompson, Austin Gaines, J. E. Crukshank, Roger Flemish, Arnold Weatherall and Fred Evans.

For the two vacancies on the school board there were nominated. They are: Mrs. T. Langman (incumbent), Angus Hannah (incumbent); Jack Jones and Morris Pulver.

Those nominated for the various municipal offices have until 5:30 p.m. tonight to qualify with township clerk William Nightingale.

KEEN INTEREST

In attendance was Norris Agnew, MPP, who commented on the healthy enthusiasm he found in the people of the township demonstrated by showing a keen interest in their municipal affairs at all levels.

He said he was impressed by the reports of council and school board members and the large number of the electorate who turned out to encourage those interested in local government.

He complimented the county welfare officer, W. G. Harvey, in particular, on the report of his year's activities.

Two Youths Sent to Jail For 14 Days

Magistrate T. V. Wills today sent two youths to jail for 14 days for driving under suspension.

Sentenced were Gerald Wolvers, Belleville, and Ronald Cooney, R. R. 3 Belleville.

Both pleaded guilty and lost their licences earlier this year on dangerous driving charges.

"You had better think seriously about cars because I think they are your downfall," he warned Wolvers.

He told Cooney: "This is a complete defiance of the orders of the court and normally you would get one month. You've got to understand when you are ordered to do, or not to do something by court it means business."

Kingston Rinks In Top Spots In Bonspiel

The first major bonspiel of the season at the Bay of Quinte Curling Club was held on Thursday by the Women's Section of the Club and sixteen rinks, gathered from Kingston, Cataraqui, Napanee, Hastings, Trenton, RCAF, Picton and Scarborough along with the local rinks competed. The spiel was a two-game ten-end affair on a points system and Mrs. Jessie Barber and her energetic committee put on a wonderful time, full of hospitality and good fellowship. Mrs. Helen McCorquodale and her committee in charge of the kitchen had everything under control and after the last game, the participants enjoyed delicious refreshments capped off by a social hour.

Action by the Board of Directors in having a new cement floor placed on the playing surface is receiving complimentary remarks from players from outside the club. The ice appears to be faster than in former years and certainly more true and the curlers are enjoying a most pleasant year.

A rink composed of Mrs. Laurie Guest, Mrs. Dot Vince, Mrs. Cary Cole with Mrs. Fran Miller of the Kingston Club was winner of the two games, while another Kingston rink of Mrs. Noreen Sugarman, Mrs. Jean Soetsinger, Mrs. May Lowe with Mrs. Mary Edney as skip was high in the other draw. Incidently Mrs. Edney, Mrs. Lowe and Mrs. Vivian Matthews from another rink as excellent lawn bowlers in the summer time. The runners-up in the two-game bracket were rinks skipped by Mrs. Phil Fisher of Cataraqui Club in Kingston and Mrs. Jean Murray's rink from Scarborough and Mrs. Murray was a former member of the Quinte Club.

The one-game high was Mrs. Sally Lambert's rink from Napanee and a rink of Mrs. Sally Louden, Mrs. Jean Anglin, Mrs. Vi Duff with Mrs. Vivian Matthews of the Kingston Club.

Santa's Trip Downtown Shortened by Paving Job

Santa is going to be greeted by a packed crowd in downtown Belleville this year.

Because of paving work on Pinnacle Street, Santa will not be able to double back through the business area.

It would be possible to go down Front Street to Dundas, proceed from there to Pinnacle and thus back to Bridge Street, but if the parade turned west on Bridge its lead would run into its tail at the Four Corners.

The parade will be that long. Therefore the committee has decided that the parade will swing west at the Four Corners.

The rout will be from No. 2 Fire Hall on West Moira to the Upper Bridge, thence south on Front Street to the Four Corners, west on Bridge Street to Cedar Street and then north on Cedar Street to No. 3 Fire Hall. The leading units of the parade will probably arrive back at the hall before the last ones have left.

The Santa Claus Parade Committee tag day raised $1,467.02. Gerry Brennen, secretary of the committee, has expressed the warm thanks of the committee to all who donated, to the taggers and to those individuals and organizations which have assisted in other ways.

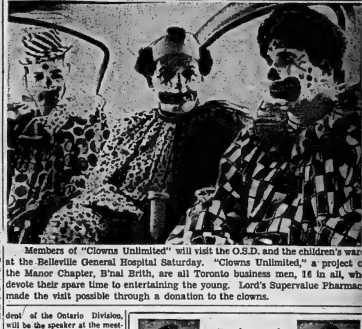
Will Organize MS Group Here

A chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada is to be organized in Belleville on Nov. 30, according to Mrs. D. Kourdis, Toronto, Executive Secretary of the Ontario Division of the Society.

An organizational meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 30, at 8.00 p.m. in the Quinte Hotel.



Multiple Sclerosis is a chronic, crippling disorder of the central nervous system which affects approximately 25,000 Canadians. The cause remains unknown. The Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada and its chapters work to stimulate interest and support of medical research into the cause and control of MS.

R. D. Fraser, Hamilton, president of the Ontario Division, will be the speaker at the meeting here. The public is invited.

Citizens of Belleville:

On behalf of the Santa Claus parade committee I have been given the honor of thanking the Citizens of Belleville for their achievement in making this years Santa Claus Parade a success by the participation in our tag day held by their generous donation of funds to subsidize the parade. Without your support the parade could not be established. It would not be right at this time to make specific groups, but we thank all taxpers and contributors to the parade. The parade route is changed this year and the parade will go across the upper bridge, south on Front Street to Bridge Street, west on Bridge Street to Cedar Street, north on Cedar Street to No. 3 Fire Hall. See you December 4th.

Yours very truly,
Belleville Santa Claus Parade Committee.
Gerry Brennan, Secretary.

Red China and the UN

The recent General Assembly vote on the issue of admitting Communist China to the United Nations was an indication that it may not be long before the Peking government gains a seat in the world organization.

The tie vote of 47 in favor and 47 against, with 20 abstensions, in the 117-member assembly compared with 57 against, 41 in favor, with 12 abstentions, in the 1963 vote when the assembly had 111 members.

A two-thirds majority is necessary before Red China can gain the seat now occupied by the Chinese Nationalist government.

The continued ostracism of Communist China reflects on the one hand the distrust many nations, led by the United States feel for the Peking government. China's long-term view is that war with the capitalist world is inevitable. Its annexation of Tibet and invasions of Indian frontier regions in recent years, not to mention its support of the North Vietnamese, are a clear indication of its belligerent ways.

On the other hand, the substantial number favoring Red China's admission reflects the view that the most populous—and now one of the most powerful—nations on earth should not be boycotted from the deliberations of the world organization.

It also reflects the view that a measure of accord—now completely lacking—between Peking and the west, particularly the United States, might be obtained, if the Communist government were admitted, thus heading off the possibility of open conflict at some future date.

New Coup in Congo

Lt. Gen. Joseph Mobutu, who has declared himself president of the Congo, has been a force in that restless country ever since it attained independence in 1960. A former sergeant-major in the Congolese forces, his rise to military prominence following the Belgian withdrawal was swift.

One of the few men of standing in Congolese affairs to display any sense of responsibility and concern for law and order, Mobuto nevertheless appears to have a certain lust for power. This is the second time he has seized power in the Congo since 1960. Are we about to witness the establishment of yet another dictatorial regime on the African continent?

Yet Mobutu commands more respect than most in the rickety Congolese firmament. Moise Tshombe, who was president until ousted by Joseph Kasavubu, is said to be pleased with the turn of events. He is another whose influence in the Congolese scene has been reasonably positive, and he expects to be recalled to the government.

Mobutu and Tshombe together might bring new stability to the Congo. It remains to be seen, however, whether Mobutu can subdue the various rebellious political elements and restore order in what hitherto has been a disorderly land.

Welfare of Fighting Men

While university campus protests against the war in Vietnam continue, other varsity representatives are thinking more of the welfare of the fighting men there than concerning themselves with the rights or wrongs of western involvement in the conflict.

Individuals and groups across the United States are reported to have sent food, blood and beerful messages to American troops in Vietnam. Students of Los Angeles, Pepperdine college sent 1,500 packages of Thanksgiving foodstuffs to marines and enclosed a 45-foot longetter signed by about 1,000 students.

The University of California campus at Berkeley, which has seen demonstrations against U.S. involvement in Vietnam, Stanford and Ohio State are among the universities whose students have donated blood.

Whether it is blood, food, candy or letters that are sent to Vietnam, the thought and encouragement behind them probably mean more to the fighting man than the gifts themselves.

There is nothing unusual in such largesse. In both world wars the fighting man was sustained in large measure by such practical assistance from people at home. The only difference was that there were no public demonstrations against those conflicts.

In Vietnam the Americans—and the South Vietnamese, Korean, Australian and New Zealand troops fighting alongside them—are performing an unenviable task. They deserve well of their countrymen. That many, fortunately, feel this way is demonstrated by the practical aid mentioned above.

Elderly Need Baths But Not Too Many

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have an aged parent living with me who scratches her back until it bleeds. She will not see a doctor. I have tried to stress cleanliness and urge her to take a bathe oftener, but she won't do so even once a week. She only washes her hair on the average of every four months. Her bedroom has an odor what can be done? — Mrs. M. F. T.

In the elderly, skin oils decrease. This can provoke itching. The dry skin flakes loose, and if it is not removed by occasional bathing, the itching may be severe.

Obviously your mother needs baths to be more comfortable. Old folks, of course, shouldn't overdo bathing. Too many tubbings can remove a great deal of what little skin oil is available. A bath or two per week will help her. Use a bath oil or skin cream to lessen the itching.

Soap and water will start to relieve the odor in her room, too. Another thing to watch out for is the importance of clean underclothes. When an older person refuses to bathe, it is quite typical to find underwear refuse to change, either.

There is no royal road to success in overcoming this aversion to bathing, and I don't know exactly why it happens. With some old people it just does. With others it doesn't. Possibly the main reason is that it is just too much effort to bathe There may also be a fear of slipping in the tub. Joints get stiff and creaky as to clothes, it appears that some old folks, intent on "not being a bother," wear them too long between washings.

Finally after a certain amount of pressure from the younger folks, the old person just turns stubborn.

The simplest solution I know — I should be delighted to hear of strategy that readers may have discovered — is to realize that many old people have to be treated like children. to a degree.

They are weary and weak, and unsure of themselves, and they need someone to treat them with the same kind firmness that one uses with a child.

You don't harangue a small boy. You don't bleat. You tell him matter-of-factly that it's time for his bath: that he must put his dirty clothes in the hamper, and wear fresh ones tomorrow.

The same psychological approach may be sensible with a blubby oldster.

Dear Dr. Molner: My grandmother, who is concerned about her weight, claims that honey (which she uses a lot) is very good in a diet because it is low in calories and hence nonfattening. She says it is also super as a digest because it is predigested by the bees. Is this true? — L. B.

Grandmother is just plain deluding herself. Honey is principally sugar, hence is fattening. It has the same caloric value of an equivalent amount of sugar or syrup. The predigested notion is in error, too.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a person have infectious mononucleosis and not have it show up in a blood test? Our daughter had all the other symptoms of this disease, and missed seven weeks of school. — Mrs. R. C.

Yes, about one-third of cases may not have what is called a positive heterophil test, but other symptoms, along with a characteristic blood count, make enough.

I realize that this is another technical answer, but it happens to be a rainier technical question, although I know you didn't intend it to be.

I might add that there are a good many diseases which can not be identified by any single test, but require evaluation of a number of symptoms before you know the right answer for sure.

Mononucleosis is primarily a disease of young people. 'Beauty' Takes A Back Seat

Martha's Vineyard Gazette (Mass.)

The efforts of those who would preserve the beauty of beaches, countryside, and landscape in all its phases have had hard going.

That word "beauty" is uncomfortable in the discussion of practical men, and its greatest currency is recent years has been in application to newly-styled automobiles, refrigerators, cosmetics, rugs, lingerie and so on and on.

It's a selling word for the glossy products of this age of expensive living standards, but it's on the defensive when used in behalf of natural resources.

A cat's hair will betray when a dog comes too close, and in the same way the resistance of many, and perhaps most, human minds is stirred by the invocation of so idle and flimsy a word into realistic conversation.

The outspoken policy of the U. S. administration has helped a great deal, and there are other supporting influences so vigorous and masculine as is give beauty a more important standing than it has before attained.

Yet the difficulty remains, and does not reflect that there surely must be a broader consideration to be urged which will get around well enough in its way, had best not get in the way of other things.

There is such a broader consideration, of course; the fundamental issue is the degradation of the environment, no more and no less.

How much headway this statement of the case can make remains to be seen, but at least it is well documented and is being documented day by day in the experience of the modern world, and to the separation, no divorce, from it.

Wm. Buckley Was a Colorful Loser

Even though I disagree with the political position of William F. Buckley, I can think mostly as the Conservative Party candidate for mayor of New York, I enjoyed his campaign immensely and think we should encourage more like it.

What was refreshing about the Buckley campaign was that it knew he couldn't win and therefore felt free to dump overboard all the dull routine political cliches of electioneering

A good deal of what he said was simply irresponsible; but it's what he didn't have to say that provided his campaign with zest and buoyancy. And I wonder how many of the 300,000 who voted for him did so because they favored his political position, and how many because his oratory was free of the usual political rot.

Every campaign needs a gadfly like Buckley, to puncture the pretensions of the more traditional candidates, to laugh at their platitudes, to deflate their pomos and empty oratory, to point out the intellectual sterility of their positions. Because, as we know, 90 percent of what the conventional candidates say during a campaign is hot air and little more.

Both Seagram and Lindsay, the other candidates, tried to please almost everybody — all ethnic groups, all ocean-front property owners, all taxpayers. They may not have kissed babies, but they kissed everybody's else. They were thoroughly nice guys as widely as possible.

Buckley, on the other hand, was more interested in pointing his enemies than in cultivating friends. Some of his criticism was sharp and relevant; some was merely smartalecky. But all of it was wittily stated, with style and verve that have all but disappeared from

Ombudsman Is Appointed in Britain

London Free Press

Decision of the British Labor Government to appoint an "ombudsman," a protector of individuals' rights against unfair action by government departments, may prompt the Canadian Government and Parliament to consider similar action with a more marked degree of enthusiasm.

The task of the British "protector" will be to study complaints of citizens submitted to him by Members of Parliament and to call for parliamentary action if callous government rejects his recommendations.

The first ombudsman dates from 1809, the year of the Swedish constitution. His function was to review, on behalf of Parliament, all public services, both administrative and judicial. With various changes, the ombudsman has been adopted in a number of other countries. All countries, however, have impressed on the offices three essential characteristics: independence, informality and impartiality.

The office is informal by reason of the simplicity and dispatch with which the ombudsman receives and acts upon complaints. It is impartial in that its attempts to defend neither government nor complainant, but serves for elimination of injustice and reason.

With government intrusion upon the lives of Canadians growing apace, the appeal and worth of the ombudsman idea are understandable and are real. The idea that the little man has a person to whom he can turn, if he deems himself wronged by the state, is attractive indeed.

However, the ombudsman is no cure-all for administrative injustice. There could be difficulty reconciling and applying the office to Canada's federal system unless the provinces concurred, or appointed watchdogs of their own bodies." There would have to be a definition of the ombudsman's powers and responsibilities, of his relationship to the judiciary.

Montreal's Bid for Olympics

Montreal Gazette

No one can say that Mayor Drapeau is a man of little faith, as far as his city is concerned. With Expo '67 still about a year and a half from its opening, he is looking forward to making Montreal the centre of the summer Olympic Games in 1972. Whatever the critics may say, this kind of energetic imagination is striking contrast to former leaders of Montreal, when this city never seemed to be able to do anything, and when pessimism prevailed that most things would never get done.

The mayor's plan has much to commend it. It will prevent those fears of anti-climax, of let - down, that some seem to think might follow the end of Expo '67, if Montreal is selected for the summer Olympics of 1972 there will be something new and big to look forward to, instead of something that is closed and over to look back upon.

The site of Expo might become the site of the Olympics. Many of its installations would have a further use. And the stadium that would have to be built is something that has, in any case, been under consideration for Montreal's own needs. Still further, an Olympics, coming after Expo, would continue to project Montreal on the world consciousness. This would be a good thing for the city in many ways. It would attract tourists, as well as keeping Montreal known and attractive as a centre for international business. And, most important of all, it would keep Montreal from any narrow, inward-looking provincialism

Pauline Jewett Sees 'Bribery'

OTTAWA (CP) — A former Liberal MP, defeated in the Nov. 8 election, said Wednesday that "until we find some way of taking care of people's needs . . . the pension issue will always be used as political football during election."

Pauline Jewett, who was defeated by former Conservative trade minister George Hees in the Ontario riding of Northumberland, said she was offended by such "blatant bribery" of the older population.

But she told the Ottawa Women's Liberal Club that "once a major party stepped into the bribery field . . . the Liberals might just as well have joined in and abandoned any kind of rational, unemotional approach to the pension issue."

Partridge Creek Control Dam Proposed by Water Board

Construction of a 220-foot earth fill water control dam on the Partridge Creek branch of the Skootamatta River, 20 miles northeast of Tweed, will be recommended to the Moira River Conservation Authority.

The recommendation for construction of the dam to provide additional dry season flow in the lower reaches of the Moira River, will be made to the Authority by its water advisory committee which met last night at Canifton.

The dam, costing an estimated $179,000, exclusive of land acquisition, would increase the size of Deer Rock Lake to approximately 1,000 acres and would store more than 3,000-acre feet of water.

This engineers estimate, would be sufficient to increase the dry season flow in the Moira to about 30 cubic feet per second over a three-month period.

THREE SITES CONSIDERED

Three possible sites for a water control dam on the Skootamatta River were considered by the Authority, but the site below Deer Rock Lake was recommended by Kilborn Engineering Ltd. as being the most economically feasible.

The ten foot high dam would about triple the present size of Deer Rock Lake. Most of the land required is owned by the Crown and could be acquired by long-term lease although timber would have to be removed and the area cleared.

The proposed Partridge Creek dam would be ten feet in height with concrete spillway and gate valve for control. ling the lake water level over an eight feet vertical height range.

The water storage capacity of the reservoir would be increased to about 40 per cent of that at Lingham Lake north of Madoc.

NEED ACCESS ROAD

District Forester Lloyd Dowson with the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed said that public access to Deer Rock Lake would be a requirement in any long term lease for Crown property at the site.

Normally a 25 per cent government grant subsidy could be expected by the Authority toward the cost of the dam.

However Authority members feel there is a possibility that enough ARDA the available grant might be increased to more than 75 per cent.

The recommendation for construction of the dam will be made by the Water Advisory Committee to the Moira Authority Executive.

Santa Claus Will Phone Local Kiddies

This year with the co-operation of the Bell Telephone Company, local kiddies will have the opportunity to have Santa Claus phone them on any of the following dates, Monday, December 9th; Tuesday, December 7th; Wednesday, December 8th; or, Thursday, December 9th — between the hours of 6 and 8 p.m. Request cards, for this purpose will be distributed through public and separate schools. For the cost of a 4c stamp to send the cards back, all children doing so will be telephoned.

For pre-school age children, cards are available from the Recreation Office and various stores throughout the city

It is estimated that upwards of 4,000 requests will be made to be phoned, and it is in this regard that Santa Claus is desperately in need of adult male assistance on the previously mentioned dates and times. Any man who would like to assist on any these dates should call the Recreation Office at 962-1403. Even one hour of time would be appreciated.

Recent Tests Show Water To Be Good

TRENTON — Trenton's board of health chairman, H. S. Pane, said at a meeting on Wednesday that recent tests done on water from Flindall St. wells were good, and that this was the result of the owners adding more chlorine to the water. Tests last month indicated that water from the Flindall Street wells was contaminated.

At the same time, Mr. Pane reported an extraordinary situation at one Trenton public school where water was pure in the washrooms but contained a percentage of organisms in the nurse's room and the drinking fountain. The three outlets are from the same town main and are 50 feet of each other. Tests will be repeated.

The health board, whose members are: Miss Marjorie Gothard, K. D. Topping and Dr. E. W. Dow, MOH, will not hold a December meeting but will meet again in January or February, after the municipal election and the re-appointment of members or appointment of new members.

Storage Pond Is Discussed By Engineers

TRENTON — The members of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission met yesterday with George Tolten, Northumberland county engineer and Peter Smith, the engineer who will be in charge of the commission's project to build a water storage pond in Murray Township and a retaining dam along the new development road.

Proposed specifications for the 14-acre pond were discussed, as well as projected costs to the commission.

Work on clearing and "grubbing" the land for the pond should start next month. Top soil will be stripped down to the clay base. The 14 acres will cover the first phase of the pond, which may be enlarged later.

$29,000 LOSS

Forty persons, including 26 smaller children are homeless as a result of the fire.

Santa Claus Will Arrive By Helicopter

TRENTON — Boys and girls! Santa Claus will arrive in Trenton from the North Pole by helicopter, shortly before 10 a.m. tomorrow morning. He will fly through the downtown area to the community gardens, where he will line up for the annual parade.

Police Chief R. J. Rutherford has asked that there be no parking on Dundas Street, between Gilmour Hill and Queen Street, and on Queen Street, between Dundas Street and King Street, until after the parade, and that spectators stand well back on the curb because there will be horses in the parade, and the chief wants to avoid accidents.

Santa or his helpers will give out 2,500 bags of candy to boys and girls at St. Peter's school yard and at the community gardens, immediately following the parade, and then Santa will visit sick boys and girls in the hospital.

The parade promises to be the best ever. Cpt. Stan Downs will lead off with Trenton Air Cadet Marshal, and priors will be given for the best entries. An award this year . . . the Chamber of Commerce will give three prizes for the best pictures taken of the parade.

Study Moira Facilities

A special committee from the Moira River Conservation Authority water advisory board, will study proposals for the provision of recreation facilities along the Moira within the city of Belleville.

At a meeting of the water advisory board last night at Canifton, committee chairman Graham Bell named city planning Director P. J. Beavis, city engineer Wilbur Purcell, Authority field officer Jack King, and Authority chairman George Wishart to the special committee.

SHOULD PROVIDE

Mr. Wishart said he had felt for some time that the Authority should try to do something to provide some facilities within the city.

It is expected that any proposals by the committee would be considered in conjunction with any river bank development planned by the city planning department.

Successful Living

Mother-in-law Is Ignored on Visit

DEAR DORIS: Your column is one of the highlights in our newspaper; and I always find myself in agreement of your advice.

I had been visiting my young daughter-in-law for three hours when a newly acquainted friend dropped in. Immediately she brewed coffee, asked her if she would like sand wiches, which she did. Coffee was poured into two cups; they sat, sipped and visited with mother-in-law only three feet away.

I tried not to show my hurt, and kept an interest in their conversation. However, she knew I do not drink coffee, but I thought she'd at least ask if there was anything else I would like to drink or eat.

DORIS CLARE

Maybe it's because my own daughter has always treated me like a queen, and this was unusual treatment for me. — SENSITIVE.

DEAR SENSITIVE: Can't say I blame you. Could it be she wanted a private conversation with the drop-in? Or are you getting to be just part of the furniture?

On the face of it, offering refreshment to one guest and ignoring another is unheard of. But she is young. Try asking, gently, whether you could make yourself a hot drink. Give her the benefit of many doubts.

If it is possible you are visiting too much, or too long, start reducing your calls in number and length. It may take this daughter-in-law time to prize you like your daughter does.

DEAR DORIS: Today while shopping with my boy friend we met an old girl friend of his. In introducing us he presented me to her.

Later I remarked that since he was escorting me he should have presented her to me. His argument was that he was presenting a new friend to an old friend.

Would length of acquaintance be a deciding factor? He has known her casually for three years and has been going steadily with me for five months. He maintains that he has always among his many friends, introduced his newer friend to his older friend.

My boy friend has agreed to abide by your decision. — A BIT MIFFED.

DEAR MIFFED: Question should be: To whom is the greater courtesy owed? In this case the person is you. However, if the friend were a much older person, then you would be presented to her.

Length of acquaintanceship doesn't enter into it. When introducing two friends of about the same age, it is more courteous to present the friend you run into to the person you are with at the time.

DEAR DORIS: About two weeks ago I got my hair cut very short. I now realize my great mistake and find that I look dreadful in short hair.

Doris, is there anything I can do to make my hair grow quickly? If so, please inform me of it. — HAIRLESS.

DEAR HAIRLESS: Who says you look dreadful? There are some new crown-fitting styles, all wavy and shining, which frames the face and draw admiring glances. Don't settle for a straight, boyish look. Find out what waves and styling can do by investing in one good, professional hairdo by an expert. Perhaps you'll discover something!

P.S.: Good care, general good health, frequent brushing — these are the things which encourage hair growth. It won't be short soon — unless you surprise yourself by keeping it that way.

DEAR DORIS: A friend of mine gave four weeks' notice at the place where she is working. But the boss wants her to work another two weeks. Otherwise he doesn't believe he can fairly recommend her for another job. Is he right or wrong? — INTERESTED.

* * *

DEAR INTERESTED: In Canadian law the notice period is generally determined by the pay period. If she is paid every two weeks she is entitled to leave after working out two weeks' notice. She has given him twice this.

If her work has been satisfactory, she is entitled to a good recommendation right now. Holding out in order to get another fortnight's service out of her is a downright blackmail.

DEAR DORIS: Recently I saw the results of an almost artificial, operation performed. The widow was in a stranger place, and after being sick for a year her husband died leaving her with two young kids.

The bosses have paid for, there was no insurance, and the medical bills were over $2,000. Yet she was sold a funeral for over $2,000, including extra lot and stone.

A few days later, penniless and in debt, she had to leave home and kids to work for food for the kids. Such is the way many sorrowful and inexperienced widows awake to a frightening ordeal. — JUST JACK.

DEAR JACK: Reputable undertaking services would show better judgment — let alone conscience. Yet this does still happen, in spite of protests from the professional association.

Perhaps your warning will persuade other couples to plan properly, and well ahead of illness. At the time of a death the bereaved one is in a poor state to negotiate a reasonable deal in funerals.

Confidential to IN LOVE, I THINK: Well, I don't think. You used the word "crush", and that's closer. Some boys show off by using bad language; they want people to think they are men of the world.

What it really shows is their uncertainty about themselves; it may even be a sign they are off the track entirely. It's a sure thing that if he delights in embarrassing you he doesn't care much about your feelings.

YEAST DOUGHNUTS WITH JELLY DOUGHNUT VARIATION

One-half cup each luke warm water and lukewarm milk, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 package granular yeast, 1 egg, ¼ cup soft shortening, 3½ to 3¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour. To the ½ cup warm water add 1 teaspoon sugar (from the ¼ cup amount), sprinkle package of granular yeast over top and let stand 10 minutes, then stir. Meanwhile mix together the ¼ cup lukewarm milk, remainder of sugar and salt. When yeast liquid is ready, stir it in, then beat in the egg and shortening. Add flour in 2 lots, stirring first half with spoon, then add last half and mix by hand — having added just enough to make it mix easily. Scrape down bowl, cover dough and let rise in warm place until just doubled. Now punch down and knead on floured board until it squeaks — about 5 minutes. Let rise again, covered, until doubled. Now punch down and roll for regular doughnuts roll out to 1-3" thickness and cut out with floured 3" doughnut cutter. Let rise uncovered on board until very light — at least an hour. Cut with 1" form on outside. Drop carefully into hot fat at 372 deg. F. — carrying board to stove. Hitting doughnuts with spatula and carefully sliding them into fat. Add only as many as can be turned easily. As they rise to surface and show a little color turn them over. Fry about 2 minutes to brown both sides, with temperature maintained at 375 deg. Lift out with fork without pricking. Drain for a moment then transfer to absorbent paper in warm place. To sugar doughnuts just before serving shake one at a time in paper bag containing a little icing or granulated sugar, cinnamon flavored, if desired.

JELLYY DOUGHNUTS:

Roll doughnut dough out to ⅛" thickness, let rest 5 minutes. Cut out with 2½" round cutter. Let stand 5 minutes. Place 1 teaspoon tart stiff jelly or jam in centre of half the rounds, top with remaining. Let rise uncovered 25 to 30 minutes. Deep fry and drain as above. Sugar as above if desired.

Nursing Legislation Topic at R.N.A.O. Meet

Quinte Chapter of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario held its regular meeting in Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital, last Monday evening. The officers for the coming year will be:

President, Miss M. LeGrand, Trenton; 1st vice-president, Mrs. H. LeLachlan; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. A. Hall; secretary, Mrs. J. Skinkle; treasurer, Mrs. J. Arnott; chairman of membership committee, Mrs. M. Moores; chairman of finance committee, Miss C. Roberts and chairman of program and public relations committee, Miss L. Hogg.

The guest speaker was Mr. Albert Wedgery, B.S.N., M.A., Reg. N., assistant director of the College of Nurses of Ontario. Mr. Wedgery outlined the history of organized nursing in Ontario and noted that it was in 1906 that nurses first presented legislation to the government asking for power to set their own standards of education and registration. This was opposed by the government and it was not until 1922 that a Nurses' Registration Act was passed. Ontario nurses were the first to request registration and the province in Canada to get it.

NEW REGISTRATION ACT

After many more years of effort, in 1951, a second Nurses' Registration Act was passed which gave nurses the responsibility for standards in schools of nursing, courses of study, setting examinations and issuing registration. The profession was now responsible for its own discipline but the government still retained the right to approve and inspect schools of nursing.

In January 1963 a new body was established — called the College of Nurses of Ontario." This college is a statutory body established by the government and authorized to have full legal control over nursing. Every registered nurse and graduate nursing assistant is a member of this College.

The affairs of the college are administered by a council of 21 nurses and the Minister of Health. Six of these members are appointed and 15 are elected. Every registered nurse has the right to nominate and vote for members of the council of the college. The next election will be in 1966.

The College aims to maintain the highest possible quality of nursing service for the people of Ontario. It sets admission standards to schools of nursing. It lays down the minimum curriculum and has the power to approve and inspect schools of nursing. It provides examinations for registrations and grants registration. It has the power to discipline nurses and cancel or suspend registration if a nurse is guilty of malpractice.

Mr. Wedgery answered many questions, about the future of nursing in Canada. He mentioned that many nurses were being raised and more and more student nurses have grade 13 as part of their basic. He feels there is a place for more men in nursing and all too often they run into discrimination. Male qualities of personality are of tremendous value in such fields as psychiatry, psychiatry, as well as supervision and administration.

At the close of the meeting an election was held for representatives to the Provincial Committee on Collective Bargaining for management and for non-management nurses. Miss M. Greene and Mrs. M. Barry presented the nominees and acted as scrutineers.

Tweeds Stand Out in Spring Fashion Show

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP) — Marble, apricot, pink, blue and green plaid heather tweeds stood out in a preview of spring fashions here Thursday.

But the traditional spring combinations of navy, red and white held their own in Joshar's 40th anniversary spring collection.

And carried over from winter, but given new seat by off-white was the poplar camel combination, which opened the show.

The square-necked, off-white suit, banded with camel wool braid, was followed by a coat of the same combination—immediately suggesting the continuing importance of the total look. That look could be worn together as a complete costume.

The square-necked, off-white suit was repeated throughout the collection, along with the two-color poked dress. Also noted was the semi - fitted dropped waistline, sometimes with a gathered skirt.

NAVY AND RED

Navy was used by itself for a single-breasted, semi-fitted coat with gold buttons and a low swinging back belt. Another navy ensemble had side gores in front, and came with a beige collar and cuffs.

Combined with light blue, navy came in a double-breasted, fitted coat with wide seams lying. Underneath was a light blue dress. Another mixed color ensemble had navy for a fine coat and white for buttons and poke.

Navy braid outlined a princess line coat of heather blue. Navy, red and white were used for a checked tweed suit with a low neck that showed a navy and blue blouse. A similar checked tweed was used for a coat that was worn over a two-piece suit of navy.

Of the pastels, a belted apricot suit with pleated back and a low-cut jacket was most striking. The almost straight skirt was topped by a knitted apricot blouse.

WAIST DROPPED

The pink heather wool came in a suit dress with a square-cut neckline. The dress had a dropped waistline that picked up a gathered skirt. A coat of the same fabric and color was also gathered below the hip.

Marble heather wool was used by soft pastel shadows. It came in an A-line skirted suit with a paisley blouse. A walking coat of the same material had a high back belt with a deep pleat. This shade also came in a jumper coat that could be worn over summer dresses.

Outside the dominant color trend was a pink, yellow, grey and vanilla checked tweed suit with a cape jacket. The cape, in back, had a double breasted and belted front that came only to the waist. Underneath was a cropped waistline dress that was white on top and tweed below the hips.

Knitwear fashions came in beige nylon ripple, wet-looking red vinyl and burgundy velvet cord that was geometrically styled.

TRAFFIC KILLS MOST

Compared with 10 deaths from diphtheria and polio in 1964, 527 Canadian children died from pedestrian road accidents alone.

Mrs. Jean McKay of Kingston, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Norma Hoard of Belleville and Miss Bonna Dracup of Kingston, were dressed alike in street length dresses of turquoise nylon over taffeta highlighted with lace jackets. They wore matching headpieces and shoes and carried nosegays of bronze and yellow mums. The little flower girl was Miss Margie Matthews, niece of the bridegroom, who wore a short white nylon dress with full skirt and puffed sleeves. Her headpiece was similar to the other attendants and she carried a tiny nosegay of yellow and bronze mums. Master Gordon Matthews, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring-bearer, dressed in white pants and black jacket.

Brains, Poise to Count Picking Miss Grey Cup

TORONTO (CP) — Beauty alone won't win the Miss Grey Cup contest.

The judges say brains and poise count more.

They give the nine entrants in the contest, part of the celebrations for the Grey Cup football weekend, an intelligence test. Last year, one question was: "Who is the prime minister of Canada?"

Three of the girls didn't know.

"You want a girl who can represent your country and speak for you intelligently," says Midge Arthur, head judge last year.

The five judges, who will announce their choice today from among girls selected by each city in the Canadian Football League, accompany the girls almost everywhere for the three days of preliminaries.

Mrs. Arthur says some mothers are not overjoyed at having the girls, usually aged between 17 and 22 years and away from home for the first time, in the contest. But the girls have constant chaperone and security guards watch their hotel rooms.

"It's conspiracy," Mrs. Arthur said. "You always get the stage-door Johnnies."

Sister Tweeds, Twin Prints In Fashion

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP) — Two-color "op" combinations, sister tweeds and twin prints, were some of the interpretations of a "two-faced look" at a preview of spring fashions here Thursday.

Linen slacks and top, comprised of geometric sections of pink and blue, opened the show at London's first press showing. The young designer, originally from England and now head of Montreal-based Hepburn Industries, followed the sportswear with a double-faced linen dress in the same tones.

New was a forward-sweeping circular dress silhouette which created a front and back apron effect. The skirt was gathered on the apron.

This style was shown in a navy draw-stitch linen over pink and in a coarse yellow linen with pale brown and yellow striped apron. Both dresses had slit cap sleeves.

Interesting fabrics included Italian silk jute, which looked and felt like woven rope, but which was fully-lined and wrinkle-proof. This fabric was used for a semi-fitted shift that came in beige, pink, blue and gold shades and had a "mad-money" purse suspended from one side.

FAVORS MINT

Mint, the designer's favorite color for spring '66, was teamed with white for a flowered suit and coat ensemble of chevanis cloque. The coat had white worsted silk sleeves. Both pieces had high white yokes of the same material.

A silk dress in pink and blue print was high-waisted and used tiers of print for the bodice, pockets and cuffs and matching but darker-tone print for the slit collar and long sleeves.

One version of the "skinny shift" came in white lace with a white chiffon collar over a ballet neckline. Also for party wear was a demure full-length dress in pink and white embroidered Swiss cotton.

A long brown silk dress with a pink front panel was shown for evening.

A navy blue lace Tripoli two-piece costume for daytime wear had a long bag, wide fabric belt. Also in navy was a silk twill dress with printed cotton bodice and long sleeves.

Ann Landers

Romeo Gets Caught Playing Dual Role

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a blue-eyed brunet raised on a farm near Alpena, Michigan. I came to Detroit, got a job as a secretary and fell in love with a prominent executive in the automobile industry. Greg was evasive about where he lived but I never pushed it. Yesterday he telephoned me to say he had the flu and couldn't keep our date. I decided to surprise him with a honey and lemon syrup my grandfather used to make. I got his address from the office manager.

Greg was sick all right and when he opened the door and saw me he got a whole lot sicker. The first thing I noticed was a satin housecoat and some ostrich feather bedroom slippers. He said, "I know what you're thinking and you're wrong. That stuff belongs to a sweet kid from Sheboygan who is out of work and needed a place to stay. She'll be out of here tomorrow."

I called him a liar and left.

When I got home the phone was ringing. He begged me to believe him. Would you? — EGG ON MY FACE.

DEAR EGG: Would I believe your big-hearted Romeo is playing housemother to a busted kid from Sheboygan? No, I would not. And neither should you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a dentist who is 56 years old and have been practising since 1903. Your column on how some dentists handled emergencies was fascinating.

I have had many emergency calls and I've never turned away a patient in pain, even though another patient had to wait.

My most memorable experience occurred many years ago. It was 1:00 a.m. on a bitter cold night. A patient called, and he was in agony and asked me to meet him at my office and give him some relief.

I got out of bed, dressed in the warmest clothing I could find and headed for the office. He was waiting at the door. After I gave him an injection of local anesthetic he smiled broadly and said, "Thanks a million, Doc, I've had this darned toothache for three weeks and it feels better now than it has in all that time."

I didn't say what I was thinking, but it wasn't easy to keep quiet.

I have read your column regularly and I think you give some really level-headed advice. — Dr. H.C.F.

DEAR DOCTOR: Thank you for a delightful letter. And how blessed is your community to have had you as a practising dentist for 62 years!

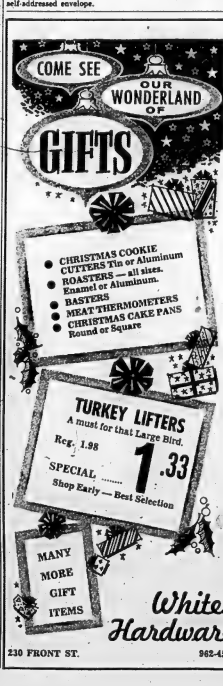
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am surprised at you — telling that woman to consider court action just because her husband hit her over the head with a suitcase. After all, he was showing her that he cared.

This man probably was a little upset over something and he didn't really want to leave. He was only pretending that he wanted to leave — to test his wife's love.



I know how it is with my husband. Every once in a while he loses his temper and socks me. But I accept it as a compliment. If he didn't love me he wouldn't get so mad. Even though he has his little faults I would follow him to the end of the earth because I love him. Well? — B'S WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: No. Sick.

LATTER DAY SAINTS W.D.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Department of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints met as guests at the home of Mrs. Jack McCurdy in Trenton on Tuesday evening.

The worship period using the theme, "Women Gain Strength From The Scriptures", was conducted by Mrs. S. C. Else. The lesson, "The Modern Woman Face The Modern World", was taught by Mrs. McCurdy.

The business meeting covered with Mrs. Else in the chair, Mrs. W. L. Casniff read a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mitchell who are teaching Indian children at Moose Factory. They asked for donations of toys, games and clothing for the pupils. The women decided to send boxes of these in time for Christmas. Plans were made for the Christmas party to be held at the home of Mrs. Casniff in December.

A social time was enjoyed and a prize for the Bible Quiz game was won by Mrs. Casniff.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

Susanna's Family Fare

TREE-A-GLO-GLO

Dear Susanna: Our favorite Saturday lunch is fruit salad beverage, and individual meat or chicken pies (supermarket variety). Since everyone looks forward to this same simple fare each week, why should I fight it?

In the meantime, we have collected a quantity of shiny foil meat pie containers, and wondered for a while what to do with them — but now we've found a great answer.

Punch out a hole in the middle, and place one in behind each bulb on your string of Christmas tree lights. Remove the bulb first, fit the pie plate over the socket and replace the bulb. These silvery dishes make fabulous reflectors. If they are not fancy enough for your taste just as they are, then go ahead and crimp the edges with a nut cracker or pair of pliers — or even make a fringe by cutting the edges with a pair of scissors. — Maggie MacDonald

Glow little pie plates, glimmer, glimmer. And make the whole Christmas tree shimmer, shimmer — Susanna

THE FROST IS ON THE TURNIP

Dear Susanna: Since turnips are supposed to taste better after a touch of frost, I thought I'd try something this year, when I was thinning them out. I placed the larger ones in the freezing compartment of my refrigerator for a while to give them the bit of frost they needed. When they were cooked up as usual, they were particularly delicious.

Thanking you for your help in so many ways, — Christie Moir

Princess Gives Discreet Boost to Export Drive

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Princess Margaret has given a discreet boost to Britain's export drive in the United States during her 30-day visit just ended.

Her tour was one long exhibit of British fashions—often several new costumes a day—with local British officials standing by with the details:

"It wasn't her idea," confided one of them. "But under considerable pressure from some advisers, eventually, reluctantly and against her better judgment she agreed."

While the tour which began Nov. 4 at San Francisco was a private one, it tied in with publicity—for British haute couture and less-expensive products.

The princess couldn't please all critics. Women's Wear Daily, New York garment - industry publication, described her wardrobe as "too old and too matronly," said her skirts were "a bit too long," accessories "too bulky" and high heels too high.

It also criticized her hats, but royalty generally is confined to off-the-face models that give the public an uncluttered view.

Despite the criticism, it is conceded that the petite princess wears clothes well and many were impressed with her apparel.

Not that British officials regard fashions as the single answer to the task of earning more dollars abroad. But it helps.

PHILIP NEXT

Prince Philip, who is due in Big U.S. in March, is expected to add promotion material in other fields. In the past, he has been an outspoken adviser—welcome or not—to British industry as a whole. British aircraft are a likely beneficiary from that visit.

Britain has other plans well in hand for driving for more dollars in the U.S. and there are encouraging signs of progress.

There will be tours by one of those perambulating London double-decker buses, a troop of London hobbies and copies of the Crown jewels.

A constant feature of Princess Margaret's goings and comings here was a big black Rolls-Royce limousine, visible to millions via the extensive television coverage that the princess, her clothes and her car received.

For the first nine months of this year, British exports to the U.S. are up by 16 per cent over the comparable period of 1964 and total about $955,000,000. British stands third — behind Canada and Japan—with West Germany a close fourth.

For September alone, British exports were up 21 per cent. British officials say they are cheered by the fact that much of the increase is in machinery and equipment which takes more labor and thus provides more benefit to the British economy.

Convent Seeks Replacement For "Sister Schweitzer"

By MARGARET PARKER

SALISBURY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Dominican Order is scouring the world for a replacement for a doctor now known in Rhodesia as "Sister Schweitzer," for her work among 50,000 Negroes in the drought-stricken Chilimanzi Reserve.

She is Sister Cecilia, a German nun who worked so hard for three years at St. Theresa's tiny bush hospital she had to be flown to Munich for a rest. Her story started, as far as Rhodesia is concerned, in 1957, when Mother Auxilia, the Dominican vicaress-general in Salisbury, met her in Cologne.

"She had just escaped from East Germany, though she never gave us the details," said Mother Auxilia.

Sister Cecilia came to Rhodesia, first to work at the Harari Negro hospital in Salisbury. She impressed everyone with her surgical and medical skill and devotion in her patients. Then she took over St. Theresa's Hospital as the first and only doctor in the Chilimanzi Reserve.

She worked from 7 a.m. until long after nightfall, 365 days a year. The hospital grew from its original 50 beds to 125 beds, but regularly has 175 patients at a time.

"Even the local witch doctor came for treatment, and then announced he had to hurry back to see his own patients," said Mother Auxilia. "Later on, he came back again."

Last year the hospital had 4,016 admissions and 435 operations were performed by Sister Cecilia, who graduated from Martin Luther University in Halle as Dr. Cecilia Schmitzler and entered the religious life in West Germany. Only 62 deaths from general causes were recorded at the hospital, and there were 8,370 outpatients.

"She never stopped work," said Mother Auxilia. "When she visited us briefly in Salisbury last month, she was thin and pale and had lost 30 pounds. A doctor said she must have a long rest or break down completely, so we thought it necessary to fly her home to Munich for a rest."

Appeals have gone out from the Dominican Order to West Germany, Ireland, Britain, Canada and the United States for a replacement. For St. Theresa's still has as many patients, but is staffed only by white nursing sisters and Negro women orderlies.

Royal Commission Meets Here to Obtain Viewpoint Of Commercial Fishermen

A Royal Commission met in Belleville today with local fishing interests to discuss problems in the fishing industry and investigate the advisability of a Central Fish Marketing Board for the Canadian fishing industry.

George H. McIvor is chairman for the inquiry. Mr. McIvor was chief commissioner of the Canadian Wheat Board for 21 years. Other members of the four-man commission are Dr. W. A. Kennedy, Biological Advisor, Director of the London Biological Station of the Fisheries Research Board; W. L. Featherstone, Advisor Economist with the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa; and Roger W. Bedard, Secretary of the Commission, Fisheries Division of the Department of Trade and Commerce.

Stan Rankin, President of the Eastern Ontario Commercial Fisherman's Association, expressed opposition to the formation of a Fish Marketing Board.

"I cannot speak for our association," Mr. Rankin said, "because we have not discussed the problem yet, but as far as I am concerned personally, as president of the Association, I am not convinced at all a marketing board would benefit us."

Mr. Rankin outlined some of the problems facing local fishermen. "There's a great fluctuation of prices on the U.S. market and it would occur under any scheme. I am not against the scheme, I am just trying to point out that fluctuations still exist even under a board." Mr. Rankin used the Egg Marketing Board and Hog Marketing Board as examples of boards, which have not controlled price fluctuation.

LEVEL OUT PRICES

Mr. Posthumus said, "A fish marketing board would not level out fluctuations in selling prices, say between the Board as the seller and a U.S. importer as buyer. Fluctuations would still occur. What a board would try to do would be to level out prices paid to the fishermen."

"This brings up another problem," Mr. Rankin said. "The same species of fish from various lakes are different qualities and sell for different prices. How could a marketing board solve the problem of levelling out the prices paid to fishermen when there is a difference of quality and selling prices in every area?

"Also, if we were given so much per pound for our fish, by the board, by the time you took off the cost of shipping, boxing and board handling charges, how much money would be left for the fisherman? We have no facilities at this end of the lake to freeze fish for storage and they would have to be shipped up to where the facilities are.

"Another problem we would face would be it has been suggested the Board would freeze the fish, then fillet them. There is a deterioration of quality when you do that rather than have the fresh fish filleted and then frozen".

Mr. McIvor asked Mr. Rankin to take the problems up with his Association and send a brief to the Commission. Mr. McIvor said, "The Commission job is not to agree or disagree with any proposal, but to study all sides of the issue and make a report based on the evidence presented to us".

When asked how a Fish Marketing Board would operate, Mr. McIver said, "The fishermen would get an advance payment for their fish as soon as the fish were given to the board. When the fish were sold, the board would pool its' resources every 12 months and any extra money would be divided among all the contributors."

Mr. Bruce Cooper made a proposal at the meeting on the advisability of construction of storage plants. Mr. Cooper said, "Why couldn't the government set up plant freezing storage plants for our fish? The government could give the fishermen at floor price, say 10 cents a pound, and then store the fish and sell it later, for say, 15 cents a pound. The difference in buying and selling prices would pay for the cost of the service and the government would not lose anything, and the fishermen would be guaranteed a price."

Mr. McIvor said, "That is an interesting proposal and the commission would be glad to have a brief on it and study its feasability."

The four-man Commission will end its hearings December 2. It has been travelling throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Northwest Territories and Ontario, studying the problems of the freshwater fishing industry.

Mr. Bedard told the press there is a great disparity between western fishermen and Ont. fishermen. "Some fishermen get 15c per pound in the west," he said, "while fishermen in Ontario may get 6c cents for the same thing. The reason is that Ontario is closer to the markets and so does not have the same transportation problems, and Ontario fish are of a better quality."

The Commission was asked if there is any deterioration of quality when fresh water fish are frozen first and then filleted, as central storage plants would do, rather than have the fresh fish filleted and then frozen.

Dr. Kennedy said, "There is a definite deterioration of quality under this process but not enough to really affect the market."

Jim Trimble Injures Reporter in Fight

MONTREAL (CP)—The Star says in a sports page story that its football writer Ian MacDonald is recovering from injuries suffered in a beating in Toronto where football personalities and fans are gathering for Saturday's Grey Cup game.

The Star says MacDonald identified his assailant as Jim Trimble, deposed coach of Montreal Alouettes, and quoted Trimble in a telephone call today to Star sports editor Harold Atkins as saying:

"I am sorry for all this. I wanted to call you. I am also sorely sorry for what happened the other day. I wanted to tell you and I would like to talk to Ian."

The Star story adds:

BLACKENED EYES

"MacDonald with both eyes blackened, multiple bruises, rib damage and suspected kidney injuries is resting in his hotel room.

"The incident started in the Royal York Hotel, moved to the waterfront, then back to the hotel, and took place early Thursday morning between 1 and 2 a.m.

"It almost overshadowed the Grey Cup game for news value among media men.

"MacDonald explained that he exchanged his first words with Trimble in a hospitality suite of the Royal York Hotel.

"'Then he grabbed me by the lapels of my jacket and pushed me against the wall a couple of times. I still don't know why.'

"This incident was witnessed by Hal Walker, a Toronto public relations man.

"'A few moments later the two left the hotel on a short taxi ride to the waterfront.

"'Montreal Star photographer Adrian Lumsy saw the men leave in a taxi.

BEAT SEVERELY

"It was at the waterfront, according to MacDonald, where Trimble struck him several times.

"'I really didn't now what was happening to me,'" MacDonald said. "'I couldn't understand it. I asked him (Trimble) why he was doing this. He didn't answer. He hit me again.'"

"According to MacDonald Trimble forced him back into the waiting taxi and the two returned to the hotel. Trimble made it clear to MacDonald that he was taking him to the suite occupied by the former Alouette coach.

"MacDonald said: 'There were a few people with us on the elevator, but I didn't appeal to anyone for help. Maybe I should've. What I did though was to run off the elevator when it stopped a couple of floors below Trimble's suite. I was scared. I ran down a few flights of stairs, went through the exit door—and ran right into Trimble who had followed me by another route.'"

It was in Trimble's suite that a major part of the beating took place.

KEPT HITTING ME'

"'He hit me and kept hitting me,'" said MacDonald. "'When I fell he kicked me and I covered my head with my arms as best I could, but a lot of the punches landed on my face, my arms and my body.'"

"At one point, according to MacDonald Trimble promised to knock out all of the writer's teeth. Once MacDonald tried to crawl from the room. Trimble hauled him back.

"'I kept asking him why he was doing this to me,'" said MacDonald. "'But he would not answer, all he did was hit me. I guess he finally got tired of it after about 15 minutes of the beating. He threw me into the bathroom and pulled me up to wash the blood from my face. He warned me not to tell anyone about what had happened.'"

The Star says that in his telephone conversation with Atkins, Trimble was asked if he had any animosity against MacDonald. Atkins quoted Trimble as replying:

"'No (referring to animosity), I really don't know. I have been with some friends. I decided to go back to the hotel and that's where it happened. I want to apologize. I would like to talk to Ian and let him know.'"

Two Thirds Of Aircrew Are Flying

OTTAWA (CP) — Of 4,308 qualified aircrew in the armed services, 2,861, or 66 per cent, are engaged in flying duties, the defence department said today.

The department issued a statement saying that it gave the Canadian Press erroneous figures earlier in the week on the number of flyers holding down ground jobs.

A Nov. 22 CP story from Ottawa, based on information from the department, gave the figure 4,308 for the number of qualified aircrew occupying ground jobs in the armed forces. The breakdown was RCAF 2,794, navy 308 and army 206.

"The figure of 4,308 in fact represents the total number of qualified aircrew in the three services," the department said in today's statement.

PLAN NOW — Local Junior Chamber of Commerce members Roger Gibeon; R. W. "Ted" Tedesco and club winter works committee chairman E. Amyotte urge Belleville residents to "plan now" for those odd jobs to provide winter employment. Local Jaycees this week are distributing winter works posters for display at downtown businesses, at the East End Shopping Plaza and at Riteways.

A-Powered

bombers promptly destroyed them. Two of them were loaded with fuel and burst into flames.

U.S. bombers also hit a North Vietnamese communications centre and a nearby military storage area, northwest of Hanoi. Pilots reported a 500-foot-high fireball after hitting the storage area.

FIRST NUCLEAR USE

The arrival of the Enterprise and Bainbridge marked the first time nuclear-powered surface ships have been deployed in the Western Pacific, a U.S. Navy announcement said.

The Enterprise soon will pull into position in the South China Sea near the land frontier between North and South Viet Nam, a reliable military source said.

The Enterprise will replace one of the conventional-powered carriers on "Yankee Station," the military term applied to 7th Fleet ships responsible for the daily hammering by navy aircraft of North Viet Nam.

The U.S. Navy's other two nuclear-powered vessels are scheduled to join the U.S. Pacific fleet next year, the statement said.

Reinforcement of the fleet comes at a time when the tempo of the ground fighting in South Viet Nam is steadily rising.

ABANDON TACTICS

U.S. troops have suffered their heaviest losses of the war in the past two weeks. The Communists frequently have abandoned their hit-and-run guerrilla tactics in favor of stand-up battles, which have also cost them heavy losses.

The U.S. Pacific fleet has a major role in this new phase of the war. Its carrier planes are constantly hammering bases in North Viet Nam, which has sent troops to aid the Viet Cong guerrillas in the south, as well as blasting coastal targets in support of hard-pressed government forces.

Amos Roared Like a Lion

BY CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

In a book of penetrating cartoons on the ills of our day, "On Edge" (John Knox Press, Richmond, Va.) Jim Crane humorously depicts a wealthy 8th Century B.C. businessman, with cigar in mouth, and brief case in hand, saying to Amos, the prophet, "I enjoyed your talk, Mr. Amos, but I would like to hear more of what's right with Israel." But there was too much wrong with Israel for Amos to flatter his hearers. Dishonesty was too wide-spread. The poor were too oppressed. Religion for many was divorced from life. Let others speak of Israel's heritage. Amos 'must speak of its sins. Ninety-nine percent of the cancer patient's body may be healthy, but the doctor must concern himself with the cancer that is slowly bringing death to the rest of the body. Amos felt called upon to warn the people of the social cancer in their midst. Vast inequities between rich and poor, with most people in the middle "at ease in Zion" spelled a weakening nation ripe for conquest by its enemies. Others might whisper, Amos must roar like a lion. Others might speak of the goodness of God, Amos must speak of His justice. When Amos speaks, "the Lord roars from Zion." (Amos 1:2 RSV)

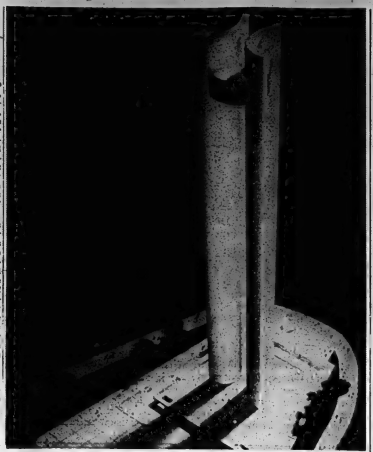
Amos did not think of himself as a prophet, he was a shepherd from Tekoa who augmented his income by being a dresser of sycamore trees. But when he went to Bethel to sell his sheep, he was so appalled by the exploitation of the poor, the greed and dishonesty of the merchants, the drinking and immorality in the name of religion he could not keep silent. "The Lord took me from following the flock," he declared, "and the Lord said to me, "Go prophesy to my people Israel." (Amos 7:15 RSV)

A CLEVER APPROACH

Amos attracted his hearers by predicting God's judgments on their enemies. Then, when he had their attention, he struck at their own sins. He did not major on the sins of carousing. He knew that many who never carouse are guilty of greed and injustice. His attacks on those who oppress the poor; who could hardly wait for the Sabbath or the feast days to be over so they could go back to making money; who worshipped on the Sabbath, but gave short measure during the week.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 28: "Amos", Amos 1 through 9.

Going to church would not save them. To those who brought tithes and offerings, but who "multiplied transgressions" in the market place, Amos thundered the word of the Lord, "I hate, I despise your feasts . . . Even though you offer me your burnt offerings and cereal offerings, I will not accept them." (Amos 5:21-22 RSV) On thing only will satisfy the Lord. "Let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream." (Amos 5:24 RSV)



Amos reserved special scorn for soft, indulgent living: for those who "stretch themselves upon their couches," but "are not grieved over the ruin of Joseph." (Amos 6:4-6) Amos did not spare people's feelings. He likened the wealthy women of Samaria who prodded their husbands to earn more so they could live more lavishly to the fat cows that fed in the fertile valley of Bashan. No wonder Amaziah complained that the land was not able to bear his words.

A DIVINE PLUMB LINE

For such greediness and injustice, Amos predicted dire punishment from the Lord. Repeatedly he spoke of the awesome nature of God, and called on the people to repent by changing their ways. God, he declared, is like a plumb line (Amos 7:7-8 RSV) Whatever does not square with that plumb line will fall over. The people, on the other hand, were like a basket of summer fruit (Amos 8:1) Cut off from the vine of the Lord, they were about to be devoured or rot.

True, they considered themselves to be the chosen people of God. But Amos does not say, "Therefore I will overlook your sins." He says, "Therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities." (Amos 3:2 RSV) To be chosen of God did not mean He would overlook their sins. It meant He would hold them more responsible, and would punish them to remind them of their special responsibility to serve Him by showing justice to their fellow men.

But there is a note of hope. (Amos 9:8b) Some think it was added by a later hand. But it is consistent with the nature of God. God does not punish to revenge, but to heal. Though punishment will come, God offers another chance to all who will repent.

Union Stifled Zanzibar Revolutionary Flame

Is Zanzibar a communism-tinged Cuba in the Indian Ocean? Will its union with Tanganyika hold up? Canadian Press reporter Joseph MacSween examines the fascinating enigma of the spice island.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

ZANZIBAR (CP) — Like a fickle bride, exotic Zanzibar has caused much gossip since her union with Tanganyika created the United Republic of Tanzania in April, 964.

It was only too obvious that the spice island had granted favors and hospitality to Communist countries and still had a soft spot for them in her heart. Their gifts were everywhere to be seen. Did she really plan to be a faithful partner in the new non-aligned union?

Today coral - ringed Zanzibar, the "Land of the Black People," still wears an alien, aloof look although Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere and other ministers maintain that the union is going well.

"When the people here refer to Tanzania, they mean the mainland," glumly remarked one observer. "To them Zanzibar is still Zanzibar period."

Nevertheless the union is credited with dampening down the revolutionary flame that leaped in Zanzibar in January last year and threatened the cloves-and-coconuts island in the Indian Ocean with anarchy and communism.

ACCEPTED RISK

Nyerere, it is generally thought, accepted a calculated risk in taking Zanzibar into the embrace when his own fledgling regime was something less than a model of stability. One cautious judgment is that the gamble has paid off in the short run at least.

"You hear less talk now about the chances of the flame jumping from Zanzibar to here," said a United States informant in Dar es Salaam, the Tanzanian capital.

It takes less than 30 minutes to fly from Dar es Salaam across the emerald sea, dotted with dhows and outrigger fishing vessels, to Zanzibar.

Rich, eastern odors assail the nostrils in the one-time tourist heaven of Zanzibar town where massive carved wooden doors, heavily studded with metal, contrast with the white walls of houses. Moslem women, in their all-black "buibui" robes add a sombre touch.

Dhows have come across the Indian ocean on the monsoon winds "since time immemorial. Phoenicians, Persians and Greeks knew well the strange island which became a paradise for Arab slave traders.

This reporter made the Zanzibar trip in the press entourage covering a state visit by Premier Ahmed Mazgoub of the Sudan, who was escorted on the square where the former Sultan's resplendent band once played Rule Britannia for tourists.

BLOOD BATH STRUCK

Britain granted independence to Zanzibar with its sister-island, Pemba, only one month before revolution struck and the African majority turned on the dominant Arab minority in a blood bath whose full story has yet to be told.

The sultan, last of a long line of Arab rulers, was exiled in Britain and 11 members of his government are still in jail.

Zanzibar, a midget as nations go, was the smallest country in the Commonwealth during its brief period of independence, with a population of 300,000—328,000 Negroes and 46,000 Arabs, plus Indians and Europeans—in its 640 square miles.

Yet it is not only the timid or superstitious who recall, with a warning lift of the finger, an old Arab saying to the effect that, "when Zanzibar plays the flute, all East Africa must dance."

As if on cue following the revolution, army mutinies broke out in Tanganyika Kenya and Uganda. Put down by hastily - summoned Royal Marines, the troubles gave a nasty jolt to the newly independent countries.

ARABS HELD POWER

The Zanzibar revolt probably caused little surprise to Nyerere and other East African leaders. They had pondered the fate of the island whose defective electoral system put an Arab coalition in power although the Afro-Shirazi party had 54 per cent of the popular vote in an election.

Racial memories of centuries of slavery, in which millions of Negroes were sold into bondage by Arab traders, erupted into vengeance under the hand of "Field Marshal" John Okello, a Cuban - trained revolutionary and eccentric extraordinary. Okello was in turn banished—after he had ordered 10,000 photos of himself.

Nyerere forged the union with Sheik Abeid Karume, president of the Zanzibar Revolutionary Council, at a time when the emerging strongman of the revolution, Peking - oriented Abdul Rahman Babu, was on a Far East visit. Karume, despite a tough mien—he resembles prizefighter Sonny Liston—is a "traditional" African Socialist.

Nyerere paid a high price for the union, bringing six members of the council into the Tanzania government. Karume now is vice-president and Babu is co-operatives minister. Some critics asked—and still ask—"Who is swallowing whom?"

"The Zanzibari have far more influence than they should have," said one Western diplomat, noting that Tanzania has a population of nearly 10,000,000. "And their firm friends are still the East European countries. It is a delicate and long-term project."

VIEW AS STRUGGLE

Balanced observers say the Zanzibar developments should be viewed not as a struggle between militants and moderates but between two groups of militants. One group sought nonalignment while the other used non-alignment as a facade for communism.

In this view, the union should not be regarded as a victory for the West except insofar as it was a setback for communism.

Zanzibar was not included in Tanzania's recent general election but one salutary development was that Kaqume's Afro-Shirazi party,—the Shirazi are the island's indigenous people —gained ascendency over the revolutionary council.

To some, Zanzibar is simply an African Cuba, an offshore seminary for converting the mainland to communism. It is easy to get visual evidence of this. A soldier with rifle—new knees guarded the cable office where a censor scrutinized newspaper stories. The face of China's Chou En-lai adorns countless walls.

But Abdullah Hanga, Moscow-educated premier of Zanzibar under the revolutionary regime and now Nyerere's minister for union affairs, said all its energies are devoted to making the union a success.

"This is something the people on both sides have thought about and wanted for a very long time," said Hanga, born in Zanzibar.

Beaumont Custom Sport Coupe

It's pretty tough to think of practicality when you're face-to-face with a car as impressive as Beaumont. There's excitement in every line. Luxury is there too. Beaumont interiors have rich, color-keyed upholsteries and wall-to-wall, deep-pile carpeting in most models. Performance? Beaumont's standard 120-horsepower thrifty six is smooth and quiet with plenty of "go". For high-performance excitement, available engines range up to a 360-horsepower V8! Then you can get a four-speed floor shift or an automatic, in addition to the standard three speed transmission—now fully synchronized! So Beaumont's beautiful . . . luxurious . . . and a performer. So what's so practical? The price. And the roominess. And the trim overall size. And the economical operation. And like that. So don't be dazzled just by Beaumont's beauty. Check its practical side. Then buy one.

"She's a Gawja peach that would make a fruit salad look like a bowl of borsch. This gal from the state where they pass up Thanksgivin' turkey for chitlin's, grits and black-eyed peas, has more than facial and architectural beauty."

"No wonder the Seun Cousnery's of the Tigers and Bombers are ridin' herd on her. She has the uncanny faculty of calling future events results so accurately that the International Congress of Swamis, Yogis, Soothsayers, Savants and Prophets have resigned en masse."

"On the strength of her phenomenal success in this field a Toronto evening newspaper imported her to pick the winner of tomorrow's Grey Cup Classic. She'll do that this evening but the Jim Bond snoopers from the that this evening but the Jim Bond snoopers from the

"Her name is Jane and she's a beauteous offshoot of the Gawja Skeppes. She has a weekly sports program of her own and she calls the football results so accurately the Salem, Mass., Anti-Witch Society has ordered a personal bureau."

"So yuh don't think she's good, huh?

"Well, boss, on immediate past performances, you couldn't pick the winner correctly in a saehorse race. Here's one example of Jane's peeps into the future and what she foretold:

"Remember last Grey Cup hassleetime when the Tiger-Cats were picked by the eastern and a lot of jealous western pundits to whomp the hell out of the underdog B.C. Lions?

"She chose the Leos from the west coast jungles to tail-curl the eastern tabbies—and she also named the score—while the alleged experts gorged themselves with crow steaks."

"Ye flash in the pick-'em-right pan is this gal, boss. The Toronto newspaper raked her in name the Stanley Cup winner before the Red Wings and Canadiens went to the post. Jane didn't hesitate. You guessed it. She picked the Habs.

"But gotta load of this, boss. Remember the 1965 Queen's Plate when the Windfield Stable's Native Victor was the prime favorite and E. P. Taylor was all set to receive the kudos and the guineas from the Queen Mother? A nag named Flyalong from Oakville was also in the favored ranks."

"Native Victor can't miss, said the horsemen, the experts and the pundits of the press. Not a selector gave a western nag from Calgary, 'Whistling Sea' as much as a salutory wave.

"So the newspaper called upon Gawja Jane to come up with the winner. She did. She picked Whistling Sea while the experts buried their rose-colored schnozzles in frosty mint juleps."

"But, boss, as Nostradamus said after Eve had snaked him out of the garden, 'None of 'em's perfect.' Jane doesn't call 'em all right. But her record is good. From 75 per cent up correct in ten calls a week ain't exactly hay in any cornfield."

"I'd bet every red and clam between Zwick's Island and Point Petre on what Janey calls in this cup caper. And didja notice boss, that in her big calls she leaned a little toward the west? So go to it, you big chick. Bet Winnipeg. On the strength of that I'll wager the fish factory mortgage on Hamilton."

Cats' Peeks On "Pearly"

Bombers' Sights On Patterson, Grant

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

TORONTO (CP) —Winnipeg Blue Bombers will watch out for Tommy Grant and Hal Patterson in the Grey Cup game Saturday.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, if they remember a Sunday in October, will keep an eye on a fullback nicknamed Pearly.

On Oct. 3 the Tiger-Cats held a 20-0 lead over the Blue Bombers in a Canadian Football League interlocking clash. Then Art (Pearly) Perkins started to catch short passes and run—27 and 24 yards for touchdowns in the fourth quarter, one with one minute and 34 seconds left to play—to give Winnipeg a 26-20 victory.

Hamilton likely will see a lot of Perkins in the 38th East-West final if it rains or snows. The 24-year-old, 225-pound import is the man the Bombers depend on to lead their offence on wet, slippery fields.

The wet-weather office, studying a winter storm developing in the central United States, said Saturday there is a threat of precipitation.

FEARS WET FIELD

Winnipeg coach Bud Grant says a slippery field will take away the Bombers' halfback moves, a potent weapon in 1965 as executed by Dave Raimey and Leo Lewis.

"We'd have to go with straight-ahead handoffs."

That's where Perkins, who completed a modest 4.3 yards rushing average during the season, excelled on weather-beaten fields during the Western Conference playoffs against Saskatchewan Roughriders and Calgary Stampeders.

Bombers held their first Toronto practice Wednesday, held a 72-minute workout Thursday and plan a loosening up session today.

Grant said the Tiger-Cats made it to eight Grey Cup finals in nine years with hard-hitting clubs that eventually wore down opponents to gain control on the line, "where most football games are usually won."

"But they haven't been able to achieve the same effect on us," he said, referring to Winnipeg triumphs over Hamilton in Grey Cup encounters in 1958, 1959, 1961 and 1962.

"We'll be facing pretty well the same thing," Grant said, mentioning John Barrow, the Ticats' 253-pound middle guard, and Angelo Mosca, 272-pound tackle.

Grant made major adjustments this season to resurrect a game that was not just one of 14 games in 1964 and direct it in search of the West's 13th Grey Cup victory. Winnipeg's eighth and Grant's fifth.

One task was to add extra pounds on the line. He came up with centre Paul Desjardins, 256; tackle Norm Winton, 245; defensive end Bob Taylor, 245; linebacker Phil Minnick, 225; and linebacker Al Miller, 235.

Grant said the extra weight should give the Bombers a better chance to avoid Hamilton domination on the line in the contest to be televised on the CBC and CTV national networks.

Football Writer Beaten Up

TORONTO (CP) — Ian MacDonald, Montreal Star football writer here to cover Saturday's Grey Cup game, told reporters Thursday night he had been beaten up after a hotel-room argument early Thursday.

The sports writer exhibited his injuries to colleagues who gathered in the hotel room where a doctor had ordered him to bed after the beating. MacDonald had both eyes blackened, his ribs bruised and his lip swollen.

He said the beating followed a hotel room session where he had been drinking with his assailant. The beating came after a taxi ride to the Toronto waterfront where, MacDonald said, his assailant told him to jump in the harbor. The beating was resumed when the man hauled him back to the hotel.

MacDonald indicated he is leaving the matter of possible charges against his assailant up to his employers.

There was no immediate comment from the Montreal Star.

Coaches Party To Blame

TORONTO (CP) — Red O'Quinn, general manager of Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference, said Thursday he doesn't expect to be consulted about the future of head coach Frank Clair.

He said in an interview he held the coaching staff partly responsible for Ottawa's unsuccessful season.

Clair was deluged with criticism after the Riders were eliminated in the EFC final by Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

"I would say our failure to do better was partly the coaching," O'Quinn said. "Perhaps it wasn't necessarily Clair but the head coach and therefore responsible."

Red Wings Nip Flyers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers lost their second game of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Thursday night.

The 6-5 defeat at the hands of sixth - place Hamilton Red Wings was an echo of Toronto Marlboros' 3-1 victory over the Bayers Sunday night.

In the only other Junior A game Thursday night, London Nationals lost to Peterborough where the Petes defeated them 4-3.

Sandy Snow's two goals in the third period at Hamilton and Don Glesebrecht's and Bart Crashley's singles boosted the Wings to victory. Earlier goals were both scored for the Wings by Pete Mahovlich in the first period.

Niagara Falls marksmen were Don Marcotte with two, Jim Lorentz, John Arbour and Derek Sanderson with one each.

Danny Grant scored two goals for the Petes while Andre Lacroix who had a four-point night to move to within one point of the series scoring leadership, and Mickey Redmond scored one apiece.

Lacroix now has 12 goals and 23 assists in 15 games. Ottawa's Bobby Orr has 11 goals and 23 assist for 36.

Grant joined the Petes the Na-tional with two goals, while Darryl Edestrand scored the other.

Petes Tangle With Rollins Here Tonight

Badly in need of a victory, Belleville Rollins Construction will play host to Peterborough Don Byes in a regulate OHA Eastern Junior "B" league game here tonight, at nine o'clock.

Belleville has slid from near the top of the six-team group-ing to fifth place, just one point ahead of the tail-end Cobourg Cougars. The locals can, however, pull up into a fourth-place tie with a win tonight.

The visitors will be in no mood to pass out any easy points since Peterborough is just one point back of Oshawa in their battle for first. Belle-ville's last win was 9-3 decision over the same Don Byes here on November 5 and the Bell-ems will be going all out to repeat tonight.

It should be a tidy battle. Elsewhere tonight Kingston plays at Oshawa.

Following is the unofficial league standing, including all games played to date.

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Oshawa	6	2	2	14
*Peterborough	6	3	1	13
Trenton	4	3	2	10
Kingston	4	3	2	10
*Belleville	2	6	2	6
*Cobourg	2	5	1	7

*Peterborough and Belleville have each won two 4-point games; Cobourg has won one 4-point game.

Campbell Shoots—Scores On Wallets

Fines Rangers $1,800

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — Emile Francis, peppery New York Rangers general manager, and 12 of his players are $1,800 lighter in their pockets today.

Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, Thursday fined Francis $250 and a dozen of his athletes a total of $1,500 for their part in the fracas that erupted during the third period of the Detroit Red Wings-New York game in Madison Square Garden Sunday night.

Campbell's assessment was the biggest mass fining in the NHL since Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks were clipped a total of $4,775 for a brawl they staged in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens two years ago.

At that time the NHL president imposed $1,000 fines each on the two coaches whose players were involved —Toronto's George (Punch) Imlach and Billy Reay of Chicago.

The New York fireworks exploded after the Rangers and Detroit Red Sullivan contested to goal judge Arthur Reichert that a Detroit shot had not crossed the goal line.

After play resumed, Francis left his seat in the stands and approached the goal judge to dispute the call. The pair ex changed angry words and then an unidentified fan joined the basis.

Suddenly the fan and Francis began throwing punches and the crowd closed in around the Several Ranger players then entered the stands by scaling a 10-foot glass-and-wood barrier separating the spectators from the playing surface. Others entered the seats through an end zone gate.

It took a force of arena police five minutes to separate the players from the milling fans, and Francis received a two-stitch cut over his left eye during the melee.

The goal judge was not attacked by anyone and he took up his regular duties as soon as the game was resumed. The Detroit players were not involved.

He fined five of the six players on the ice at the time $100 each. Only Ed Giacomin, Rangers' netminder, did not participate.

IMPOSES FINES

An additional seven players were fined $150 each by the league president—$100 of which is for invading the spectators' seating area—and the additional $50 for leaving the players' bench to engage in a fight.

Fined $100 were defencemen Harry Howell and Arnie Brown, and forwards Vic Hadfield, Earl Ingarfield, and John McKenzie, who were on the ice when the flare-up occurred.

Players nicked for $150 are alternate netminder Don Simmons, defencemen Rod Alb-Mahon and Wayne Hillman, and forwards Larry Mickey, Rod Selling, Gary Peters and Lou Angotti.

Campbell placed the onus for the incident squarely on Francis, "who improperly proceeded through the crowd for the purpose of molesting the goal judge."

The NHL president said this incident shows the necessity of establishing more specific rule and regulations regarding the "molesting, intimidating and criticizing" of game officials.

LYLE (GOMAR) THOMPSON—"Mah heart's with the Bombers—but mah dough is on the Cats."

Space won't permit more private opinions. However a consensus of four construction workers, two bartenders, one boss, three executive types and five Hamilton expatriates revealed the Cats favored 9-4.

Rochester Americans, Western Division leaders, defeated the eastern leaders, Quebec Aces, 5-2; Cleveland Barons' 6-4 win was Baltimore Clippers' fifth consecutive loss, and Buffalo Bisons defeated Providence Reds 6-3 to give goalie Ed Chadwick his first shutout of the season.

Vancouver, Ottawa Want Cup

TORONTO (CP) — Vancouver made a bid Thursday to stage the 1966 Grey Cup game and Ottawa applied for the 1967 final.

Herb Capozi, general manager of British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference, said Vancouver can expressed interest in the 1967 game.

Canadian Football League executives suggested that Ottawa Mayor Donald Reid submit a formal bid for the 1967 game at meeting in Calgary in February.

Mayor Reid made three points in his preliminary bid: The game should be played in the capital in the country's centennial year; Ottawa plans a new stadium with 28,000 fixed seats and 4,000 temporary seats; and the city's hotels are expanding.

CFL officials asked him to include in his brief a rundown on weather conditions in Ottawa on Grey Cup day during the last 10 years.

This is the last reminder to all ladies and gentlemen bowlers about the O'Keefe's Tournament singles, both classified and open. All entries must be in and bowled by November 30 which is next Tuesday. Up to now the response had been almost non existant. Lets all make an effort to bowl in at least one event. You can arrange times to bowl by calling the Bowl at 962-3429. Tigers Bank On Henley Punt Returns

By BOB TRIMBEE

HAMILTON (CP) — Garney Henley might not look like a football player off the field, but the brilliant Hamilton Tiger-Cats backfielder has given many opponents much more than an optical illusion to hit at on numerous dazzling punt returns the last three years.

In fact, the six-foot, 175-pound import has won acclaim at just about every aspect of the game he's attempted since going to Hamilton five years ago from Green Bay Packers of the National Football League.

He was named to the Eastern Conference All-Star team for the third consecutive year this season and was runner-up to fullback Tony Gabriel of Saskatchewan Roughriders as Canada's outstanding football player.

There's little doubt Hamilton Blue Bombers, who meet Hamilton in the Grey Cup final Saturday, have done extra homework on how to handle Henley.

Ralph Sazio, Hamilton coach, said Thursday that Henley has become so valuable on defence and punt returns, he can't afford to use him on offence.

LOOK 47 RECORD

However, a peek into Grey Cup files might change his mind as the Texas Ex-jock grabs a four-game losing streak at the hands of the Bombers in the East-West football final at CNE Stadium.

The Western Conference Bombers know first hand the wide swath Henley has cut in four previous Grey Cup games —two touchdowns, eight pass receptions for 170 yards, four carries for another 100, 14 punt returns for 92, one pass interception and one kickoff return for 29 yards.

In 1962 he equalled an EFC single-game record of four touchdown pass receptions and in the Grey Cup game that season against Winnipeg he was the outstanding ball - carrier with a total offence of 219 yards on five receptions and four carries. But they lost this one 28-27.

Former coach Jim Trimble thought Henley was looking for a clerical job when he reported in 1960. Later he found plenty of work for him on the football field, both on offence and defence.

However, Sazio, who took over from Trimble three years ago, has all but restricted Henley to defence, but occasionally about 10 times a season—Sazio throws Henley into the offence either as a decoy or to get key yardage.

Still it's on the suicide or punt return squad that Henley has gained his greatest attention in recent years. His 8.5-yard average on 69 punt returns was by far the best in the Canadian Football League in 1965.

Cutlets Lucky To Tie Lions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore Colts' Johnny Unitas and Buffalo Bills' Jackie Kemp were faces with the clock Thursday giving their teams ties in U.S. professional football's two traditional Thanksgiving Day games.

Unitas rallied the Colts—leading in the Western Leagues's western conference—to a 24-24 tie with an aroused Detroit Lions that until Kemp pushed the defending American League champion Bills to within one victory of another eastern division crown, tying San Diego Chargers 20-20.

John Mackey caught two touchdown passes from Unitas in the final period, the second with just 1:15 left to play as the Colts rallied to tie the Lions. Detroit had led 21-10 at half-time.

Kemp drove the Bills downfield in the final minutes against the Chargers and set up Pete Gogolak's 22-yard field goal that caused the tie as the Chargers failed to play. The veteran quarterback hit end Paul Costa with a 35-yard pass and then scrambled to the Charger 15 before Gogolak's second field goal of the game tied it.

CLINCH TIE

The deadlock enabled Buffalo to clinch a tie for its second straight AFL division title. The San City Chiefs.

McGill In Hall Of Fame Six

TORONTO (CP) — Air Vice-Marshal Frank S. McGill, one of Montreal's greatest all-around athletes, was one of six men named Thursday to the football Hall of Fame.

McGill, Dean Gerding of Regina, Bob Isbister of Hamilton and Ab Box of Toronto were named to the hall as players while Harold Bailey of Toronto and Clair Warner of Regina were enrolled under the builders' category.

The Hall of Fame now has 31 players and 15 builders on its rolls.

McGill, side-dteamop to Viscount Alexander during the latter's term as Canada's Governor-General, was voted Montreal's outstanding high school athlete in 1913.

He later played football and hockey at McGill University and after graduation was quarterback of the 1919 Montreal Big Four champions.

Grifling, a Western Football Conference all-star three years while a playing-coach with Saskatchewan Roughriders, helped organize football in Calgary in the mid-40s.

Box, one of Canada's top all-time kickers was the Jeff Russel Trophy winner as the Big Four's most valuable player in 1934.

Isbister played with Hamilton Tigers in 1906-7 when the club was in the old Ontario Rugby Football Union and continued with the team in the Interprovincial Union (Big Four) until 1916, coming back for an additional year in 1919.

Bailey was associated with the ORFU for 30 years as a league executive. In 1940 he helped bring harmony between East and West in the Canadian Rugby Union and headed off a breach which threatened to disrupt East-West playoffs.

Warner, who played eight of nine football seasons with Regina Roughriders from 1925 to 1933, participated in four Grey Cup finals.

Plan New $250,000 Tournament

NEW YORK (AP)—Plans are in the making for a new $250,000 pro golf tournament — the world's richest—in the Eastern U.S.

They have the sponsors and we undoubtedly could get the dates from the (U.S.) PGA," said Bill Jennings, president of New York Rangers and general chairman of the Thunderbird tournament.

The move depends on the disposition of the $100,000 Thunderbird tournament, held the last three years at the Westchester Country Club in Rye, N.Y.

The richest tournament at present is the Carling World, offering $200,000 in prize money.

Progressive Prison Chieftain Locks Horns With Reformers Over Maximum Security Jails

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—Five years of running the Canadian Penitentiaries Service have left their mark, but at 46 Allen J. MacLeod still has the collegiate charm of a successful salesman.

The tall, silver-haired, affable lawyer is a radical departure from the militaristic cut of past commissioners. Photographs of him in a snowy prison yard, arm about the shoulder of a teen-age inmate, reinforce the impression of him as a progressive penal administrator.

Nevertheless, he is engaged in a tooth-and-nail battle with critics of a maximum - security prison design which they say would drive inmates crazy.

Mr. MacLeod, a strong supporter of the special detention unit for incorrigible prisoners, comes in for little personal criticism. But reformers say the $17,000 - a - year commissioner, despite his progressive veneer, has allowed the old militaristic attitude of the service to carry on and that this is reflected in an emphasis on security rather than rehabilitation.

Some of the wardens and top men on Mr. MacLeod's Ottawa staff do have military backgrounds. Veterans of a service in which four guards have been slain since 1960 do put emphasis on security.

But Allen MacLeod argues that the number of specialists—trade-training experts, psychologists and the like—is growing and sweeping reforms are initiated.

BUILD NEW PENS

Partly as a result of changes in the Penitentiaries Act, unprecedented parliamentary interest and a surprising infusion of money, a broad reform program is under way.

Penitentiaries such as Kingston, which pre-dates Confederation, and St. Vincent de Paul, notorious for trouble since it was built in 1873, will be ripped down by 1970.

A $120,000,000 construction program is replacing them and others with five clusters of modern prisons placed regionally across the country.

While administering this program, Mr. MacLeod has initiated changes within the system that are of major importance to prisoners. Meals have been improved and evening entertainment introduced.

More than 1,200 of the 7,500 prisoners have been transferred to minimum - security institutions where they can have pic-nics with families, enjoy an unenforced feeling and learn something.

Even in the big, grey-walled prisons, inmates may write more letters, use more facilities and pursue lives far less arid than in past. In the old days, for instance, music blared from corridor loudspeakers at prescribed intervals. Now prisoners may tune in a choice of radio stations, adjust the volume, or turn the radio off.

GUARDS PAID MORE

The guards themselves are getting more money and a training program, admittedly limited, is being developed.

The commissioner, a sought-after luncheon speaker, told the John Howard Society last year it is hoped the new institutions and programs will close many gaps in the system.

"We hope to change many of these offenders into law-abiding citizens by providing a program of training that will make up for many of the deficiencies in their early upbringing."

In a recent address to the National Association of Municipal Judges, Mr. MacLeod listed some major criticisms of the judicial system.

It's ridiculous for a judge to send a man to prison to learn a trade, he said, because most prisons aren't equipped "to teach trades to any substantial number of inmates." Nor were most inmates, who had an average Grade 6 education equipped to learn.

Judges sometimes sentence men for treatment "even though prisons are notoriously lacking in the professional staff required to provide psychiatric treatment." Sentences "for the protection of the public" didn't achieve much where there was "no dynamic program" to change the prisoner's attitude.

In summing up, Mr. MacLeod said judges seem to know little about the men they sentence and less about the prisons they are sending them to. The should, he added, have assistance in sentencing from psychiatrists, psychologists, sociologists and penologists.

CRISES ARE COMMON

Between critics and prisoners, Mr. MacLeod goes to his Ottawa office each day ready for anything.

When several guards were held hostage at Kingston in 1962, he was on the telephone almost continuously for 26 hours.

A riot that year among St. Vincent de Paul's 1,200 prisoners left the Montreal penitentiary a wreck. Damage was $1,000,000.

Eight riots during his tenure have left more than four guards have been slain, several prisoners killed, and searing criticism of the system has been levelled in the Commons.

Mr. MacLeod's current battle for construction of the four special detention units, with their "windowless cells," is the big issue now.

He argues that skylights in the corridors and lighting systems three times better than those of the past won't deprive inmates of anything.

One of the units, built to hold 140 men, is going up near St. Vincent de Paul but Justice Minister Cardin has delayed decision on the others.

CRITICIZES CRITICS

Basic criticism is that the lack of cell windows would drive prisoners crazy through a process known as sensory deprivation.

Opponents who range from a Roman Catholic priest at the University of Montreal to the United Church Observer magazine, say withdrawal of the variety of sights, sounds and smells that normally feed the senses leaves victims talking to themselves and seeing things.

But Mr. MacLeod says the units are essential to separate incorrigible prisoners from those who show promise of rehabilitation.

He reacts sharply to some

PROGRESSIVE ADMINISTRATOR BUFFETED BY CONTROVERSY — Allen J. MacLeod, commissioner of the Canadian Penitentiaries Service, impresses observers as a progressive penal administrator. criticism, including that from Rev. Noel Mailloux, the Montreal priest who is past-president of the Canadian Corrections Association.

"Father Mailloux has been one of our severest critics and he has never been in a penitentiary. His experience is Boscoville, a home for 30 juveniles."

Mr. MacLeod's experience includes two tours annually of prisons and almost 20 years with the justice department. He was superintendent of bankruptcies, drafted the Criminal Code revision of 1955, and was chief of the remissions service, predecessor to the present National Parole Board.

Born in Revelstoke, B.C., he was raised in Sydney, N.S., and graduated in law from Dalhousie University, Halifax. He served with the West Nova Scotia Regiment in Italy during the Second World War.

His wife is the former Eileen Shaw, daughter of Premier Walter Shaw of Prince Edward Island, and they have a daughter and two sons.

TRACES FAULT

INWOOD, Ont. (CP)—A three-hour break in natural gas service Thursday to this Lambton County village, 20 miles southeast of Sarnia, was caused by connected with a Union Gas Co. Ltd., employees' strike, a company official said. Wellington Foote said a piece of steel fell, breaking the exposed main three-inch supply line to the village.

"A Visit to Washington" With Mrs. LBJ Fine Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—ABC's A Visit to Washington with Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson was a handsome and informative hour-long show Thursday night. The color photography was exceptionally handsome and showed off the city at its gleaming best.

Mrs. Johnshn, who has lived in Washington for many years, obviously loves the city. Afterward was in her voice as she spoke of its natural beauties, such as Rock Creek Park, pointed proudly to the brooding majesty of the Lincoln Memorial and stood in front of a white clapboard house recalling the years there with her husband when their two daughters were growing up.

She also called attention to some of the scars that spoiled some of the city's beauty—the polluted waters of the Potomac, unsightly junk piles, clusters of billboards and signs and decaying, rat-infested slums.

Words and music by Cole Porter, NBC's special, turned out to be a pedestrian 60 minutes under the circumstances—talents of Maurice Chevalier, Robert Goulet and Nancy Ames and the music of Porter. The unfortunate thing seemed to be that the composer's great tunes were not brought out for people singing them—particularly not right for Chevalier.

Long Hair on Older Boys Deplored by Film Stars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Beatle-inspired hair styles have been catching on with some teen-age boys, to the despair of their parents and teachers.

Those lads would be shorn, if a group of film stars had their way.

The stars, interviewed on sets of movies and television series, gave these opinions:

Elke sommer (Boy, Did I Get a Wrong Number): "Long hair on a man is to effiminate. I think men should be allowed to do more than part their hair and comb it to one side; think of the things we women do with our hair! But men's hair should not get too long. I see to that by cutting my own husband's hair."

Patty Duke (The Patty Duke Show): "I think the length of boys' hair has been carried too far. I like a long cut on small boys like John Kennedy. But on bigger boys it just looks dirty."

Green Acres' Eva Gabor (Lisa Nuns): "I find long hair rather attractive on certain men—in the profession, that is. Next door to our set were Herman and his hermits, and they certainly were charming. like the Loretto angels. But long hair must be cared for: Washed, combed brushed. I'd hate to see the beauticians gain control of men, as they have of us women."

DOESN'T UNDERSTAND

Anne Francis (Honey West): "I don't understand it. I suppose girls find long hair on men a safe image; it removes the element of sex. But it's unhealthy for girls to admire men who are female-looking. I like thick, crean hair on a man, not a prewcut. I enjoy running my hands through a man's hair—but not down to his shoulders."

Jane Russell (Johnny Reno): "I like boy's hair long over his ears or is long enough for bangs, it's time for a cut. If my sons don't get it done, I'll cut it for them."

Julie Andrews (Torn Curtain): "I don't mind long hair on men, as long as they have a good comb."

Debbie Reynolds (The Singing Nun): "With a shortage of men still prevailing it's unfair for them to wear long hair. That makes it tougher for girls to find them."

Janet Leigh (Three On A Couch): "If I were dating, I certainly wouldn't want to go out with anyone who had longer hair than I have."

Martha Hyer (guesting on Beverly Hillbillies): "Long hair looks too feminine on men. It's getting so bad that on the Sunset Strip these nights you can't tell which are the girls and which are the boys. It's not only confusing; it can be dangerous."

Lefebvre National '65 Rookie

BOSTON (AP) — Second-baseman Jim Lefebvre of Los Angeles, who once served baseball's Dodgers as a bat boy, today was named the National League's 1965 Rookie of the Year.

Lefebvre, fourth Dodger to win the award since it was inaugurated in 1949, polled 13 votes from a 20-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Joe Morgan, Houston Astros' second baseman, received four votes and San Francisco relief pitcher Frank Linzy three votes from the same committee that selected Willie Mays as the league's most valuable player.

The 22-year-old Lefebvre appeared in 157 games during his first season in the majors, scoring 37 runs and blocking in another 63. He had 13 homers, four triples and 21 doubles in his 136 hits.

Although batting only .250, he earned a reputation as a clutch hitter, a reputation he enhanced with his World Series play.

Dave's Hideaway

By

— Dave Charles —

Well here it is, the first in a series of "Dave's Hideaways." In the weeks to follow I will attempt to keep you informed on teen trends, local teen activities, comments on the wild world of mod music and events in and around Belleville. It would be appreciated to hear your comments on this weekly entry into your youth page, and I promise to give each letter its deserved attention.

Working with the teens is a great experience, and it's from them, that most of today's progressive and intelligent ideas originate. I feel that being in the entertainment business is my thesis to achieving organized unity and all around team effort for pooling these young ideas and turning them into workable projects. One example of such an effort was this past Hallowe'en successful "Ghosts A-Go-Go." Many thanks ! ! !

I hope that you all passed the exams with flying colors. If not, don't be a drop out like "Fester Karbuncle." Fester dropped out in grade two. Being a stay inner is more fun than ever and besides it makes good dollars and cents.

I am pleased to see the guys and gals have not gone out of their way to look hideous with the weird mod fashions. Now don't get me wrong, I think some of the designs are great (for next Hallowe'en. Seriously I have noticed that a more conservative approach has been taken to look sharp and Joe College . . . This is good. Buying new clothes to keep up with Zeke and Zelda have also gone out of style (thank goodness.) To have everybody with the same style is like being a grape in a grapevine.

The A-Go-Go fad is fading fast according to the latest info from the underworld of smersh . . . The latest craze has yet to be thought up, so who knows, it could be Belleville next with some fab fad . . . . Imagine ?

Thus far, since school has opened, "Sounds Incorp," consisting of Dave Charles and Wally West of the North Pole, (Santa's secret elf,) has done about 40 teen hops in and around the Quinte district. Our dances have been taken us from Stirling to Picton, Deseronto and even Toronto. We have enjoyed meeting the movers and groovers and hope to meet more. W have added to our travelling caravan the "008 Yo Yan Girls" who really dance up a storm and sometimes a hurricane. By the way if your group or school is planning a gig (dance) we would be overjoyed to bring along the whole "Sounds Incorp" Show. This is your one chance to mock us and have a good time.

The high school radio clubs are greatly improved this year, and it will be a fight to the finish to see who wins the CJBQ Radio Club trophy. I am pleased with their air work and you should be too. After all, your radio club is the voice of your school spirit on the air, and when it is lacking, it is because it gives those interested a chance to go behind the scenes in today's radio. Upon graduation from high school it might open the doors to a fascinating career for you.

I was interested in the election results from the high schools. It gave me a chance to see how the future electorate of this country will vote. This may illustrate future political trends; worth noting adults! I think I may form my own political party . . . . . the Hippo Party, the Birthday Party. Elections every year on my birthday! Oh, well, it's a free country.

On the music scene, or in Dave's Cave watch for the "008 Twin Twenty Five" coming December 6th.

My favorite three records are :

(1) Turn, Turn, Turn ..... The Byrds
(2) Rescue Me ..... Fontella Bass
(3) Over and Over ..... The Dave Clark Five

. . . The Kangaroo Song of the Week (the song that makes the biggest jump) this week : Fever . . . The McCoys.

By the way, I have a pet project and I need your help. The Yule season is fast approaching, so how about sending me a Christmas card or cards, which I in turn can take down to the children at Belleville General Hospital this Christmas to decorate their rooms. Remember give the "United Way." Send your Christmas cards now to "Cards for Kids."

Deplores Lack Of Teaching About Canada

By TERRY STOLIKER
(Quinte)

Tuesday, the Columbia Broadcasting System aired "The National Citizenship Test." In this electronic examination, citizens of the United States were asked to reply to varied questions — 42 in number, concerning the American constitution rights and obligations of the American citizens. The average score arrived at was 63 per cent, considered fair.

I have stressed the word American because as a Canadian, I tried the test and achieved a score of 78 per cent which, according to the announcer, makes me a 'good' citizen of the United States. I have talked with other Quinte students who achieved an even higher standing.

This is all very well. Our knowledge may be of use in the history class or political science, but as Canadians, it serves not other purpose than that of having some insight into the workings of another government.

Had this test been labelled "The Canadian Citizenship Test," this writer for one is ashamed to admit he would probably have had a lower score. To illustrate: as I write this article I cannot recall the names of any provincial premiers other than Mr. Smallwood and Mr. Roberts, the only provincial minister that comes to mind is Mr. Davies, Minister of Education. The only members of Federal politics I am aware of, excluding the obvious Prime Minister, leaders of the position and certain cabinet members, are those who were recently involved in some scandal. I know that Mr. Grills is our representative in Ottawa, but do not know who our provincial representative is.

This is shocking when you consider I was elected Junior Minister at Quinte a few weeks ago in a mock election held in conjunction with the federal election.

It would seem this writer is rather ignorant concerning aspects of Canadian politics and history. But unfortunately I am not alone. Though I do not suggest other students have the complete knack of knowledge I have, students as a whole are lacking in facts they should know about our country.

Who is to blame? Surely we are interested enough in Canada to learn more about it. Why then do we find ourselves so much in the dark? While a large portion of the blame must rest with us, it would seem obvious that another equally large portion must lie with the Canadian educational system. Should not Canadian history be taught more thoroughly in our schools and on a higher level?

I hope one day it will be possible for all high school students to say they are good Canadian citizens, if we are not all Americans when that day arrives.

On Nature's Stage

By Jim Wright (M.S.S.)

The falling of the autumn multi-colored curtain marks
The arduous annual task as mother
Sweeps clean the dirt and hardships
Encountered during the season past;
All is polished, cleaned and made ready
For the debut of the Newborn, to be presented.

As the curtain rises
A velvet soft carpet is laid for the actors
Who, dressed in their new winter clothes
Play a fresh and exciting part,
Capturing the willingness of audience participation
In a joyous and lively role.
On Nature's Stage.

TEARS ARE REAL

Mr. O. Bonin, architectural drafting instructor at Moira, admires the work of Robert Paajanen, 11D, one of his students. Robert built the Greek temple — the study of the history of architecture. The model, done to scale, took about one month to complete. It is made of Plaster of Paris. Wooden models were used for all but the pillars. Molds for the pillars were made from the plastic handle of a mop. The stone-like grooves along the sides were cut by a hack saw after the long section had been molded.

Definitely for Spectators

By N. D. MORRISON (B.C.I.)

Today's young athletes, who can't seem to content himself with something easy, like the 36-mile marathon, is constantly endeavouring to find a more energetic Consuming sport (er) as swimming the English Channel with 50-pound weights on each foot. In this frantic search for a truly dangerous and challenging sport (all the boring there is a good chance of losing oneself killed), I find the most surprising that these athletes have overlooked the most excitingly dangerous sport in the world" — namely "spectating."

Surely, what is more exciting than sitting on a hard wooden bench, huddled in a blanket, slipping furtively at the crack you managed to hoard from last night (when you vowed — never again), and peering through the misty rain into a boozy, smoshy sort of swampish affair (that is radio broadcasters refer to as a football field), while waiting for the biting wind to blow a snowdrift over the stadium.

That's nothing. On one such occasion the really exciting part was standing in the rain for 36 hours at the ticket gate, waiting to walk — or rather wade — proudly through the gate (the very first one), my ticket clenched tightly in my teeth (I needed both hands free to fight off the little green men that I started seeing in the last five or six hours), and then collapsing into four inches of very soft water (it was hiding four inches of hard concrete), simply because my right foot was behind me just as I thought it was in front of me. My injuries weren't too serious though. That was a year ago, and I expect to be taking the bandages off any day now.

By the time I returned to the bandstand, I figured the game to be no more than half over; and on struggling to the top few rows of seats the bottom rows had people in them—I know, because I climbed over them, the blithering idiots); it seemed so far and was so tiring that I regretted not having packed a lunch. Twice, I was stopped by talent scouts representing two famous movie studios, who wanted me to play a leading role in their producer's new original "The Mummy". It must have been because of the bandages around my head and face. It was ghastly dark at the top (at the bottom too, for that matter); I couldn't even see past my brad-bandage. Then I vaguely remembered something about the doctor asking one of those infuriatingly useless student nurses why she had covered my eyes with the bandages.

Of course! Hastily I tore the bandages from my eyes. (my eyebrows never did grow in again). It was still dark. I was blind! Panic hit deeply into my stomach. (I doubt if it got much — I hadn't eaten for the last two days.

Sensing I had lost something, and with a frightful sense of inadequacy, I swung around. (The seat became infinitely more comfortable). Who, there was Miss Taylor with Mr. Burton! I FIX! After all, it does take a certain amount of time for a fact to reach the brain, and that would give her ample time to be in love with someone else. Anyway, she was kissing him ... and everything.

Stumbling out of the theatre, I was nearly blinded by the bright sunlight. That internal head-bandage kept slipping down over my eyes, too. But actually I was quite fortunate; I got a free ride home — in a police car.

On Love

By J. C. (Moira)

I have stood upon a hill a man,
And seen the beauty of my land,
I have felt my anger and desire,
For adventure and the fire,
I have loved this green beneath the blue,
Yet —
If upon a dream untrue,
Like spring compared against the fall,
I miss a sweeter love or all;
Born upon the haze of skies,
God sent and placed upon your eyes,
Dulling all the love of you.

Says Canuck Students Not Drab

Dennis Kerr replies to the allegations made by a former Canadian student, Carol Gold of UCLA. Miss Gold's article appeared recently in the Canadian High News. She accused Canadian students of being drab.

* * *

By DENNIS KERR (M.S.S.)

Canadian students, unlike many American counterparts, are not, for the most part prone to the wild fads of their world; but instead are in a sense individuals in this lack — comparative degrees — of concern to be constantly "hip" in the eyes of the conquered fad-pusher.

American students as described by a "former Canadian student", lack this individuality and, rather like sheep, in the path established by an influential few. Their breed of individuality, it seems, comes in flocks too, for the rebellious young American, whether he be revolting in his mode, his dress or in his thought, is all to often found bleating loudly in the midst of a group of his fuzzy-topped cohorts.Unique is a word to describe American individuality as portrayed by our former student," for a person writing spasmodically with a bred of identically dressed other "individuals" to the indistinguishable — save, perhaps, for the odd recognizable "freak" — what not ; "music" of a current group (music we mention the similarities of the various groups?) does not somehow fit into the Oxford definition of the individual: "One having distinctive character."

Then, this "former student", is "conservative conformity" worthy of the statement "Canadian students are drab", why is the "way - out conformity" not too?

Students for Students Committee at Quinte

By NANCY DE CLERQ (QSS)

The "Students for Students Committee" is a new and beneficial organization which originated with last year's student parliament. The aim of this project is the rendering of aid by Ontario schools to schools of developing countries within the Commonwealth. Schools in Ontario will provide equipment requirements and financial aid where necessary in return, we will be enlightened with information and data concerning other countries of the world.

We are proud of the fact that Quinte was chosen to be the focal point of this organization throughout the Commonwealth. Our task will be to link untario schools with schools overseas.

The organizational committee, chairmanship of David Perreault, is separated into three committees of interested people each headed by Leslie Gardner; Ontario schools, led by Herb Huffman; and advertising under the direction of Jim Storie.

Once we were organized our first project was the creation of a booklet to inform other Ontario schools of our committee's intentions and to request a reply at once. When we learn a school is interested, we will send a questionnaire to that school they will be capable of aiding. This is to insure that a school receiving aid is capable to assist a destitute developing school which may need a large sum of money.

We then contact the foreign school and let them know they have been paired with a capable school and will be hearing from their Ontario counterpart. The materials will be sent by boards for the time being and the Ontario school is left to carry out its task. They will provide depending upon the requirements of the foreign school. In some cases simply a record, and other times text books of varied types, or paper, pens and pencils are required.

We hope to promote international understanding and to aid in the education of people in other countries. We also are concerned.

Our committee is just getting underway and hopes to forge ahead. We involved have an enthusiastic, fresh outlook on the project. We are in need of Ontario schools at the moment as we have more than enough willing foreign schools ready to share in the program.

We need your help! So think of the Students for Students Committees aims and what its possibilities are and give it your full support.

Why Not Recognize Red China?

By TRUMAN MASON (Q.S.S.)

Red China has not remained the peaceful land of love as it but has awakened to become a terrifying tiger, ready to pounce on any unsuspecting victim that might block its path including its most powerful ally Russia. Not many know the atrocities on within its boundaries and not many have the courage to find out.

Many nations believe China has a right to be seated in the General Assembly of the United Nations, but the United States, one of is main adversaries, has repeatedly blocked the way. Personally, I believe this is absurd. China must be reckoned with but we must also negotiate with a country that in the eyes of some, simply does not exist.

Had China been a member of the United Nations the war in Korea might not have taken place; this would have been the thorn in the side of the U.S. it is now; and we might not be faced with the fear of further aggression on China's part.

Peter the Great said, "Let China sleep, she'll be awakened enough when she awakens." This was the reply to the counsel of Peter the Great when asked why he had left China from his list of countries to be taken as he was to conquer the world.

Peter the Great's statement should not be disregarded and should serve as a warning to the nations of the world to keep an eye on China — an open eye.

THE SUBWAY

By GEOFF UTTLEY (BCI)

The subway train streaked into the damp but well-lit station, amidst the odor of nauseating fumes and sparks of silvery electricity. Without delay the mouth of people, which moments before had been wandering aimlessly through various kiosks and slipping impatiently at coffee or steaming hot chocolate, converged on the underpaid electric train as piranhas would on an animal carcass. Business men wearing black overcoats and carrying thin leather briefcases surged towards the open doors. Burly teenagers and well-dressed, aging women pushed with the same momentum, each attempting to reach their goal, namely a seat on the subway car. "After all," said Joyce, we had to pay fifteen cents each for these useless tokens."

At the same time frantic women, burdened with parcels, were pummelling around the underground, picking up their lots with a sigh of joy and hysterically stationed themselves at the bubble gum machines which proudly announced that the silver ball won a genuine rabbit's foot, obtainable in the colors of Mediterranean blue, sunburned red, and lightbulb yellow. Other children crowded around the tutti-frutti gum machine, and a very old lady circulated around the toy counter, "But Mom, it only costs a dime." Hands clutched at each other, arms pulled and shoved and feet stumbled in order to gain entrance to the train, which this case was the threshold of the subway compartment.

A gap appeared in the conglomeration of people as a group of perhaps six or eight beatniks bearded and dressed in chrome studded black leather jackets, trained their way through the crowd. A jab from the pointed boots, a puff of stale cigar smoke in the face, or a simple threat were the methods used by the delinquents in order to enter their passage to the train. People muttered and moaned and fell in utter disgust, while hostile looks followed the band of troublemakers into the compartment.

Some men glanced nonchalantly at wristwatches, while women peered into the crowded train and just shook their heads. "Ah, it's no use, I'll kin eaten the next one." It was no use at all, for precisely at that moment, the doors of the train slid rapidly toward each other, banged each other in the procession of cars departed quickly for another scene of chaos at the next station.

"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Why would a person want to split a mortgage in two parts? Nobody can give me an answer. Maybe you can!

I agreed to buy a property for $20,000. The owner has agreed to give me a $15,000 mortgage. However, he has told me that he will make it a $10,000 first mortgage and a second mortgage of $5,000. It did seem to make sense to me, so I agreed. Did I say "yes" too fast? —"Getting Second Thoughts"

ANSWER: The best advice I can give you is to master the art of holding your tongue. The second best advice I can give you is to say "no" to this deal. By agreeing to take the $5,000 in the form of a second mortgage, you will pay the market rate in terms applicable to second mortgages — namely, about 10 percent to 12 percent interest and for a 2 to 5 year term. With a ¼ down payment, you don't need a mortgage from this "sharp" owner. Currently, any reputable mortgage institution will be glad to accommodate you.

Board, Railways Meet To Discuss Ottawa Service

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of transport commissioners has summoned CNR and CPR officials to a conference Monday to discuss complaints about the lack of passenger train service in and out of Ottawa.

Most of the complaints by civic officials and organizations have centred on the reduction of service to Toronto.

On Oct. 1 the two railways broke their pool arrangement under which they operated passenger services to Toronto, including an overnight run. The pool trains used CPR lines.

The CPR has continued one morning and one evening train in each direction but cancelled the overnight service. The CNR does not now operate an Ottawa-Toronto service.

An informant said the conference will also deal with complaints about poor connections made with Montreal-Toronto trains by a daytimer the CPR runs between Ottawa and Brockville.

In mid-October Hon. E. J. Benson, of Kingston, minister of revenue in the Pearson government, and Robert Temple, Liberal member for Hastings South in the last House, combined to protest the original action of the CPR in cancelling a former Brockville - Ottawa train. This service was restored—but it was then discovered that the CNR train reached Brockville just too late to make connections with Montreal-Toronto trains. Trains left Brockville just too early to permit eastbound CNR passengers to board it. The CPR explanation was that the daylinner was being operated primarily to make connections with CPR trains at Smiths Falls.

Ontario Whipped By Gale

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario took a whipping most of Friday and more of the same is expected today as high winds created in from the south bringing with them rain, cloud, snow, sleet and cold.

The violent disturbance that moved into the province late Thursday and early Friday from Wisconsin has made itself felt along the shipping lanes in the Great Lakes.

About 30 miles southeast of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., the 8,000-ton freighter Ramon de Larrinaga was being battered by heavy seas as she lay fast aground at Hay Point on St. Joseph Island.

Five other ships trying to beat the Dec. 3 closing of the St. Lawrence Seaway were finding it slow going in Lake Superior as below-freezing temperatures, snow and winds with gusts up to 50 miles an hour hit them hard.

On the Welland Canal, high winds swept the area threatening another closing to ocean-going vessels heading for the open water of the Atlantic.

Deep-sea ships are usually ordered stopped when winds are 25 miles an hour, and prevailing conditions Friday night indicated velocities of up to 55 miles an hour locally.

Falling trees in two parts of Toronto caused vast pocket blackouts.

Forecasters predicted a dismal outlook for the Grey Cup parade in the city and the game following.

High winds and drizzle are expected, both a continuation of the bone-chilling conditions that started early afternoon.

Weather officials said the storm should be at its worst in the Northern and central portions of Ontario.

The outlook in the north: freezing rain and cold; snow, wind and cold in the west; snow, cloud, wind and cold in the east and central parts.

Radioactive Contamination High in Bancroft District

GREY CUP BOUND — About 400 fans, including Theresa Stepien, left, and Bonnie Orr, left, Winnipeg Thursday night aboard a 17-car Grey Cup "Special" train for Toronto to cheer Winnipeg Blue Bombers to victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday. About 600 other fans left on earlier trains this week and nearly all of the Winnipeg allotment of 3,040 tickets have been sold. (CP Wirephoto).

TORONTO (CP)—Excessive levels of radioactive contamination in the waterways of the Elliot Lake and Bancroft uranium mining areas were reported Friday by a government investigative body that has been studying the situation for a year.

A committee of four provincial department ministers, in a report to Premier Robarts, said the danger exists to persons drinking the contaminated waters over a short term.

No further amplification was given as to exactly what the committee meant by "short-term exposure."

But its report showed that on a lifetime basis residents in the two areas are being exposed to radiological pollution in excess of levels considered acceptable.

Over the long term, the maximum permissible level of radioactive contamination was given as from three to 10 picocuries of radium-226 per litre of water.

TESTS HIGHER EXCESS

Tests showed a level of 87 picocuries in Pecors Lake, 36 picocuries in Quirke Lake and 28 picocuries in Nordic Lake, all in the Elliot Lake area 80 miles west of Sudbury.

The contamination level was 45 picocuries at Bow Lake in the Bancroft area, 60 miles northeast of Peterborough. The figures given are based on water analyses made in 1964.

The report said improved control measures over wastes produced by uranium mills are needed to reduce levels of radioactivity to concentrations of less than 30 in the pieocuries.

But even lesser concentrations of from three to 10 picocuries "should be kept as the initial objectives to be attained in public drinking waters in the Elliot Lake and Bancroft areas," the report states.

Premier Robarts was unavailable for comment. The report was released in his absence on a trip to Britain.

MAKE TESTS

Contamination also may exist in forms other than radium-226, according to the provincial department of health, which said

No Rise In Crime Level

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Names like Lucien Rivard and Georges Lemay, and gangland slayings in Quebec linked to bankruptcy rackets leave the impression that crime has reached a new peak in Canada.

But over-all, the picture isn't quite that bleak.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press indicates that the crime rate will remain stable in most provinces this year. No figures are available.

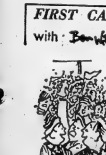
Ontario, the largest province, is likely to show a decrease.

Quebec gets the reputation as a crime hot seat because most of the recent headline-catching crimes have occurred in that province.

But Quebec has made big gains in its war against the underworld since the appointment of Claude Wagner, its crime-busting justice minister.

In recent months, the concern of law enforcement bodies has been for a growing trend toward more violence in crimes.

Brutal beatings are administered during minor thefts. A cannon is used to blast open a safe.



These catch more headlines than when a spectacular methods are used.

USE GUNS, VIOLENCE

"The use of guns and violence in carrying out criminal acts is becoming the rule rather than the exception," said RCMP Commissioner George B. McClellan in a speech last March 29, in Toronto.

Another concern is for what appears to be a growth in crimes of corruption in which the underworld influences minor officials, who exercise some authority, to help them commit a criminal act.

Crime, and the desire to take national measures to combat it, was a side issue during the recent federal election campaign. The Liberal government was under pressure for action because of the Dorion report that which investigated charges of coercion among certain federal ministerial aides.

"Who's (hic!) winning? I don't know. (Hic!) Who's playing?"

It's So Cosy By the TV

Ticketless Belleville district football fans today drew comfort from the fact they are among the most comfortable on this grey-est of Grey Cup weekends.

While they partied to watch the football classic on television, the weather outside continued rainswept and blustery this morning.

A real turkey, the weather turned foul last night and up to noon 1.2 inches of rain had fallen on the city area.

And the weatherman was predicting more of the same for Saturday, ternately announcing a cloudy, snow-flurried atmosphere.

Tommies May Go To Zambia

LONDON (AP)—Britain was reported ready today to send a "flag-showing" military force to Zambia, the Northern-ruled country north of breakaway Rhodesia.

Tension between Zambia and white-ruled Rhodesia mounted after saboteurs blew up an electrical power line tower Friday in an apparent effort to cripple Zambia's rich copper mining industry.

Almost all morning newspapers in London say some type of British unit, possibly from the RAF, will be sent soon to Zambia, formerly Northern Rhodesia.

Prime Minister Wilson's office declined to comment on the newspaper reports.

Saboteurs blew up a tower on the electrical power line 77 miles south of Elisabethville pipes the Kitwe copper mines.

The mines, source of, Zambia's chief revenue, have limited operation by hooking into power grids from the neighboring Congo. Full power was expected to be restored today.

Soon after the sabotage, Zambia's president Kenneth Kaunda, increased pressure on Britain for military intervention with occasional snowflurries in all regions.

Truckers Threaten Strike Across Whole of Province

TORONTO (CP)—A province-wide strike is promised by the International Teamsters Union here unless the Ontario trucking industry drops reprisals against union members who took part in the illegal work stoppage last month.

"As sure as I am sitting here there will be a strike," Ken McDougall, president of the union's Toronto local, said Friday night.

Mr. McDougall said the strike which would affect nearly 10,000 truckers and other employees of the industry might start Jan. 1.

A conciliation board under Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville ended hearings into the dispute Friday and adjourned to write its report.

Hamilton teamster representatives earlier withdrew from board proceedings because employers would not drop action against the local and its members.

The trucking companies are claiming about $2,000,000 damages in wagrate grievances launched against the local as the result of wildcat strikes in Hamilton. The conciliation board has no jurisdiction in the matter.

Key contract issues unresolved when the board ended its hearings included demands for a 40-hour week with compensating pay in a two-year agreement.

The companies had offered to reduce the industry's 48-hour week to 43 hours over a 42 month period and in increase rates by 53 cents an hour at that time. The terms were originally accepted by the union but repudiated after the wildcat strike.

"Our main purpose is to get into a legal position to strike," said Mr. McDougall of the conciliation proceedings.

He said the union would prefer to strike within two weeks but failing that would hold back until after Christmas.

Mr. McDougall said he has asked Judge Anderson to go to the employers "and see if he could have it embedded in their thick skulls that there would be no settlement unless the reprisals were withdrawn." The employer representatives, he said, reported they had the backing of their entire group to stand firm on the issue.

Today's Chuckle

A woman, watching a football game on a miserably cold day, through snow and sleet, said to her husband: "This is probably another one of my silly questions. Why don't we go home?"

Fight Viet Cong In Big Rubber Plantation

SAIGON (AP)—A regiment of Viet Cong guerrillas and a large South Vietnamese force were locked in battle today at the Michelin rubber plantation 45 miles northeast of Saigon, a U.S. spokesman reported.

The battle followed two days of comparative quiet in South Viet Nam.

The Michelin plantation is the largest rubber producer in South Viet Nam, but the French management abandoned it five weeks ago because of the huge taxes demanded by Viet Cong agents and because of guerrilla harassment.

Manuscripts Are Recovered

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Two priceless ancient manuscripts stolen Friday from the Vatican library have been recovered, the Italian news agency Ansa reported today.

The agency said Petrarch's autographed Il Canzoniere, and a manuscript partly in the handwriting of the 16th century Italian poet, Torquato Tasso, had been found in a package thrown into the garden of a villa on the Via Cassia, just north of Rome.

The manuscripts apparently were undamaged, Ansa added.

UN Calls For End Of A-Tests

By BORIS MISKEW

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Members of the United Nations appear to be bending backwards during the current session of the General Assembly to give overwhelming approval to resolutions they may find difficult to put into practice.

The latest resolution to receive overwhelming support was passed Friday in the General Assembly's main political committee. It called for the suspension of all nuclear weapons tests, including underground atomic explosions.

The 117-nation committee adopted by an 86-to-0 vote, with

Warns Against Depending On Good Faith

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canada warned the United Nations Friday that it would be disastrous if an agreement to prohibit underground nuclear testing is based on the "good faith of participants alone" until events then lead to a breakdown of the agreement.

Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canada's chief disarmament negotiator, told the UN General Assembly's main political committee that a proposed treaty banning underground tests might "seem what has been accomplished so far" if the treaty is not based on an effective detection system.

13 countries abstaining, the draft resolution although it reinforcing the Moscow nuclear test-ban treaty by banning underground tests. Tests in the atmosphere, space and under water already are banned.

The resolution, sponsored by 35 non-aligned countries, also is aimed at encouraging France and Communist China to become two nuclear powers that have refused to sign the Moscow treaty or agree to participate in the treaty.

On the test-ban resolution, United States said it could not stop underground testing until arrangements are worked out for on-site inspection, something the Soviet Union strongly opposes. Then the U.S. voted for the resolution.

Pearson to Announce Changes In Cabinet at End of Holiday

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Friday he plans to end the guessing game about his cabinet shake-up as soon as he returns from a Caribbean holiday Dec. 16.

The prime minister, who had already reported that an extensive shuffle of cabinet portfolios is in the works, told press conference that he has some "good reasons" for waiting until then to make the announcement. He declined to spell them out.

Three cabinet posts—finance, agriculture and mines — are opened up for future cabinet shuffles. Finance Minister Walter Gordon resigned two weeks ago and Agriculture Minister Harry Hays and Mines Minister J. Watson MacNaught were defeated in the Nov. 8 election.

In his shuffle, Mr. Pearson is expected to switch several other portfolios as well. There has been wide speculation about the changes that will be involved.

On other matters, Mr. Pearson reported:

—Canada has made new economic moves against Rhodesia, slapping an immediate ban on the import of Rhodesian sugar and tobacco.

—Cabinet has approved a $27,500,000 contribution to the United Nations' new three-year food distribution program, up from $25,000,000 donated to the current three-year program.

—No person in the Quebec government has approached Ottawa about Quebec taking control of family allowance payments in the province.

—There likely will be a discussion during his Jamaican visit of increased Canadian sugar purchases there.

Announce Car Insurance Rates to Rise 5 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — Increases in 1966 automobile insurance rates, predicted in recent weeks by company executives, were confirmed Friday night by the All Canada Insurance Federation.

The national average rate will rise 5.6 per cent, the federation said. Prince Edward Island, up from 5.2 per cent in Canada donated to the current three-year program.

—No person in the Quebec government has approached Ottawa about Quebec taking control of family allowance payments in the province.

—There likely will be a discussion during his Jamaican visit of increased Canadian sugar purchases there.

The largest rise in the country will be a 12.5 per cent average in P.E.I. Rates will increase by 12 per cent in Winnipeg, 11 per cent in Vancouver and 10 per cent in Calgary.

The increase across Ontario will average 3.8 per cent but it will be 12 per cent in Brantford and at the Lakehead, 12 per cent in Niagara Falls, and 8 per cent in Sault Ste. Marie. Rates will rise by five per cent at Hamilton and Oshawa while Toronto comes in for a seven per cent increase and Guelph and Montreal two per cent.

Quebec's average increase will be 1.5 per cent. The federation said that province experienced a larger increase because of a decline in accidents in the last year.

The federation, representing 200 insurance companies, said more frequent accidents and higher repair costs make rate boosts necessary.

Increases on existing policies will go into effect when they come up for renewal.

B.C. Oil Strike May Bring More General Strike Threats

VANCOUVER (CP)—The just-settled oil workers' strike in British Columbia this left labor aware of a seldom-used weapon—the general strike.

The weapon, lying unused in Canadian labor's arsenal since 1919, was dusted off in an effort to show union solidarity in the 10-week deadlock between the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (CLC) and the major oil companies.

Some labor sources say the threat was instrumental in bringing about the government intervention which ended the oil dispute.

Others say it is an illegal, ineffectual step and one from which labor will shy away in future.

The oil workers' basic fight, for protection against the effect of automation on their livelihood, was resolved when the seven oil companies agreed to settlement terms proposed by the B.C. government — and which could set a pattern for the entire industry across the country.

The settlement came as no surprise hours before the deadline set for the oil workers' strike to spread throughout the industry in B.C.—a dead-line ultimatum by the scheduled start of the 48-hour work stoppage across the province.

Such a stoppage, Attorney-General Robert Bonner estimated, would have cost the B.C. economy $10,000,000 a day.

But Premier Leslie Rex Peterson, who, with Premier W. A. C. Bennett, was author of the settlement formula, said after both sides accepted it that he did not expect the general strike threat to be used again.

J. R. Duncan, national director of the CLC OCAW, says:

"I think we have more of it. It will be used as sparingly as possible as we can, but we will use it if we must."

"There is no doubt in my mind that this strike would not have been settled anything like as soon without the threat of general work stoppage.

"It was a pretty drastic move, but the labor climate in B.C. is such that unions will be forced, once in awhile, to take drastic action."

The illegality of the general strike in B.C. was stressed by Mr. Justice Sheppard of the Teamsters Union joint council for B.C.

His powerful union refused to go along with the work stoppage called by the B.C. Federation of Labor. Instead, the Teamsters said that should the strike proceed, they would refuse to handle oil products they considered hot.

Union leaders said the Teamsters' action, which would have lasted for the duration of the oil workers' strike, would have had wider effect than the 48-hour work stoppage.

Said Duncan:

"You can't have half-a-century of enforcing contracts wiped out by breaking contracts. We wanted to clearly illustrate to labor the seriousness of such an action, if there was in fact an illegal general strike it could only be described as economic revolution and in some countries they shoot you for that."

Children's Aid Approves Expenditure Estimate

A new salary schedule for the employees of the Children's Aid Society was approved at the regular monthly meeting of the directors, held Thursday of this week. In introducing the new schedule, Lin ton Reed, chairman of the committee on personnel declared: "Salaries in social work have increased substantially, as have salaries in all other areas. We are in competition for qualified and experienced staff with the whole of Canada, and if we are to attract and retain the services of our share of the limited number of people available, we must offer salaries that at least match those being paid elsewhere."

Dr. S. C. Rose presided and in his opening remarks welcomed Mr. L. Wilson, Area Supervisor of Child Welfare. Mr. Wilson, a professional social worker, supervises six central eastern Ontario Children's Aid Societies on behalf of the Ontario Department of Public Welfare.

Mr. Thomas R. Colden, the treasurer, reported that the Society was operating well within its budget. Mention was made that on several occasions during the year the Society had been considerably undermanned and that only recently was it moving towards a full complement of staff.

President Rose speaking on behalf of the executive and finance committee, introduced the society's estimate of expenditure for the coming year. He said that a committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. Colden which included municipal representation from the county of Hastings and the city of Belleville, as well as lay members of both communities had reviewed the Society's financial needs item by item and that it was his belief that the proposed budget was minimal rather than extended.

"The greatest single increase in expenditure is in the area of professional salaries," he said "more staff being required to implement the program required of the Society by the recently introduced provincial legislation."

He said that too, as of the 1st of January the Society will again be responsible for welfare services to children and families in the town of Trenton. At the beginning of the new year the Province of Ontario will assume 100% of the cost of children born out of wedlock and 40% of the cost of maintaining all other children in the care of the Society.

In addition to this, the province will pay 40% of the approved cost of all services to children in their own homes, services to unmarried parents and the like, with the rest to local municipalities assuming the remainder. In former years these services were supported by voluntary municipal grants, the Belleville United Appeal and private donations.

It is estimated that the Province will pay between 55% and 60% of the Society's total budget.

Insofar as the cost of child welfare to the county of Hastings and the city of Belleville and the town of Trenton is concerned, it is estimated that it will be in excess of $65,000 below their present expenditure.

On a motion by Mr. Colden, seconded by Mr. Bernard Bigelow, the estimate was approved. It must now be given Department of Welfare approval and then passed on to the individual municipalities concerned for their consideration.

Failure to grant approval will result in study by a provincially appointed Welfare Review Board, whose decision is final and binding on both the municipality concerned and the Province.

Valedictory Address

TRENTON — Douglas Conley, Trenton High School's Ontario Scholarship winner last year, gave the valedictory address to the students at last night's annual commencement exercises.

Mr. Conley, who is now in his first year in medicine at Queen's University, told the students "life was not a means to an end, but rather a process of growth." He spoke of what you have and what you are to the advancement of humanity, in this day and age. He referred to those qualities which I hope you will within you; these are, tolerance, understanding and the devotion to one's convictions."

"Not only will these traits enable you to take an active part in your community, but they will become a reflection of the essence of your protection from the dangers, ignorance and hate that seem to pervade the societies of this world," he further said. "Principles will not afford you any protection, but it will be the combination of these principles that will be your main-stay."

"This era has brought with it a degeneration in morals, in spiritual values and in confusion . . . nevertheless, it remains necessary to stand firm in our beliefs and in so doing we will be able to drive back to nothingness the present darkness hovering over man. Canada and democracy are not solely bodies of governments, laws, constitutions, or amendments, but they are the expression of our ideals and beliefs and in justice and they will depend on you." the youthful speaker told his fellow graduates. "You must not draw their strength from a people who vacillate and forget that they are free as you are free. You must not sacrifice yourselves that these causes, more particularly the cause of freedom will advance; therefore, I would caution you to make Canada and our community a model personal concerns and commitments."

Mr. Conley spoke briefly of the memories of the past years and sorrows he had shared with his fellow students during the years of adolescence.

"The events will be forgotten, but the comradeship . . . that commonwealth, intangible quality . . . will live on because it proceeded from the heart."

He asked, on behalf of the graduating class, a vote of thanks to teachers for their understanding and assistance, and also extended thanks to parents "who have done their best to encourage wisdom. Wisdom shall give to thine head an ornament of grace, a crown of glory shall wisdom deliver to thee."

In conclusion, Mr. Conley quoted from the Book of Proverbs:

"Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore, get wisdom. And in getting; get understanding." Exalt wisdom, and wisdom shall promote thee. Wisdom shall bring thee to honor, when thou dost embrace wisdom. Wisdom shall give to thine head an ornament of grace, a crown of glory shall wisdom deliver to thee."

Valedictory Address by Douglas Conley

ADDRESSES CLASS

Professor R. D. Chambers of Trent University addressed the graduating class, on the subject of "The Nature of Public Life in Canada."

Professor Chambers advised the students to enter into public life upon graduation, by joining political organizations, service clubs and other organizations.

He said that the quality of political life was not deteriorating, but was "changing," and that all young people should make it their aim to keep abreast of the changing scene in national, international and municipal areas.

Employment News

By JAMES R. STAVELEY

Employer Relations Officer

The economic activity in the area served by the Belleville National Employment Service Office, continued to show a steady labor demand during the past week, with the following exceptions.

Several rural areas logging has been curtailed in the woods due to autumn rains. In the agricultural field, for the same reason, a number of local farmers are yet to harvest their remaining grain corn acreage and complete their fall plowing. The district's industrial plants are, in many cases, employing a near peak labor force in order to meet their production schedules. It is encouraging to note that several factories have so far this autumn, been kept to a minimum.

Elsewhere across Canada there are several employment areas where the demand is acute, not only for the trained and educated worker but also for the semi-skilled and unskilled worker.

An example of these opportunities is the fact that two world-wide organizations within the past week have used facilities of the local National Employment Service Office to interview and test prospective employees. In both cases, permanent employment with good wage rates and excellent fringe benefits were offered by the respective company representatives.

SLACK PERIOD COMING

Despite this current brisk economy later on in the winter there may be persons unemployed due to seasonal lay-offs and other causes, who will be seeking local employment. In view of this possibility, your local Winter Employment Campaign Committee in some areas is actively supporting the "Plan Now" phase of this campaign in recognition of the fact that maximum employment benefits everyone.

EMPLOYMENT NEWS

The following job opportunities represent only a few of those now available at your local NES. Office.

In the female division locally still required for permanent work is an experienced cosmetician. The salary would be commensurate with experience and qualifications, in addition to some commission items.

An experienced saleslady is required to supervise other staff selling ladies' and children's wear and accessories. This position calls for a mature person and offers a good starting salary.

An opportunity exists for a key punch operator to work in Northern Quebec. The position carries a good starting salary and the successful applicant must possess Grade 12 education together with two years experience. In this case there is an age range of 18 to 40 years.

Still in demand are reliable and capable women required for house maids, baby-sitters and companions.

In the male division locally several industrial plants are urgently seeking experienced machinists for permanent employment. A career opening is available for a young man interested in working as a machinist helper in an industrial plant. Several vacancies exist for reliable experienced auto "A" automobile repair mechanics. Permanent work is offered in a neighboring city for qualified pipe fitters. These positions carry excellent wage rates and attractive fringe benefits.

Several openings are available for young men possessing at least a Grade 10 education to be trained as telegraph operators. These positions require a six month training period during which time a monthly salary is paid to these trainees.

The demand is constant for young men possessing Grade 12 or better education for career openings in retail and financial organizations.

Required also are an experienced single farm hand, a carter and a young man to train as sales clerk in a retail merchandise store.

If you are interested in any of these positions, seeking employment or thinking of re-entering the labor market, please contact your local National Employment Service Office at 324 Church Street, Belleville, Ont. or telephone 962-8681.

Services Integration

Air Vice Marshal E. M. Reyno, deputy chief of personnel of Canada's integrated armed services has briefed airmen at Trenton on what he termed a "higher percentage than usual" of reposts.

He said that on an annual basis, 12 per cent of the air force work force (as opposed to a normal 9 to 10 per cent) was dropping out, 14 per cent in the army and 16 per cent in the navy.

Air Vice Marshal Reyno said the higher percentage of dropouts was due to a "fear of the unknown." Sailors expected to be sent up to the DEW line and airmen to sea.

The air vice marshal probably succeeded in dispelling some doubts on the implications of the services merger, while leaving his audience in the dark in other respects.

For instance, he said integration was the most economical way of assuring that the services would have enough money for defence equipment. The RCAF, he added, received a substantial second best in the tri-service arrangement. Salaries were comparable with industry. Promotions would come on the strength of brains and initiative. He warned they could not all be "chiefs." The officer said 10,000 men had been enlisted, 215 in the last six months, after trying civilian life. The services provided security and many "intangible" benefits.

Women personnel probably feel uncertain about their future, for although they will be retained in the integrated services, the speaker said he could not elaborate on which job categories would be kept.

Air Vice Marshal Reyno was speaking in Trenton, Ottawa sources were pointing out that of 5,000 fully-qualified flyers in the RCAF, 800 of them—three out of every four—hold own ground jobs.

The slender surplus was even greater until last year when Defence Minister Hellyer ordered 00 officer pilots and navigators compulsorily etired.

The Canadian Press report from Ottawa oted further that there is a total of 4,308 qualified aircrew in the armed forces who are holding round jobs—3,794 in the RCAF, 308 in the avy and 206 in the army.

This is one of the problems faced by the services and particularly the RCAF. It is the roblem of surplus, and integration of the forces as likely aggravated this situation. Hence the ense of insecurity among personnel since integration started.

The air force is in a better position than most, for Canadian pilots are much in demand by the world's airlines. Well-trained and highly killed, RCAF pilots who find themselves surplus o requirements can often find a place in commercial flying.

Planning Study

A greater degree of regional planning is likely to come about in Canada as this country moves into an era of more intensive development of industry and housing and associated municipal services.

The city of Oshawa has been made the subject of study on this interesting concept. Sigsworth, a young student from that city who gained honors at the University of Waterloo and is now doing post-graduate work at the University of Illinois.

Mr. Sigsworth deals at some length with regional planning in his 74-page study of Oshawa industry. "It is becoming more apparent," he noted, "that the interests of future urban development in general and industrial development in particular, can best be served by greater reliance on regional planning."

He says many large metropolitan areas today show the impact of haphazard development—internal congestion, deterioration of public services and strained relations with adjacent municipalities.

"The Oshawa area needs sound regional plans to avoid these adverse effects of excessive, unplanned exploitation of human and physical resources," he said. "But regional and municipal planning could only be translated into effective action "when there is some form of regional government or administration, instead of a confusing array of associations and authorities which too often overlap in their areas of jurisdiction."

He commends the proposed initial work-physical planning—of the newly-formed Central Ontario Joint Planning Board and says a further advantage of the board is the foundation it provides for orderly extension of regional authority into the spheres of economic and social planning.

Canada is entering the most explosive era of growth in its history. What is being done in connection with Expo 67 in Montreal alone is indicative of what is happening. However, to ensure orderly growth some controls are necessary, and these are bound up largely in the work of the planner. Not only do single municipalities need their planning director, but whole regions as well.

Meanwhile Mr. Sigsworth's study is a significant contribution to this important subject. It is to be made available shortly at the McLaughlin Public Library in Oshawa. Other communities would benefit from the study if copies were made available to local libraries.

Mother Worried Son A Homosexual at 8

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for an 8-year-old boy to be a homosexual? Is there any cure? — Mrs. E. J.

Yes, it is possible. Yes, there are things we can do about it, especially in the years when the tendency is beginning.

Just before and during puberty there is an awareness of sexual feelings, and curiosity about them. At such an impressionable age if a yonger boy fraternizes with a somewhat older one who has homosexual tendencies, he can innocently fall prey to the older boy's suggestions and behavior.

Hence, without being nosey or bossy about it, try to be aware of the boys he plays with. Steer a boy into wholesome physical activity. Beware of secretive 1-to-one arrangements. It's natural enough, of course, for a boy to have a special pal, and there's no reason he shouldn't. If they fit naturally into groups of other boys, that's fine. But if they persistently avoid being "part of the gang," then it may be a suspicious sign.

Overindulgence or overprotectiveness on the part of mothers may be a factor in homosexual tendencies. Psychologically, later on the boy is unable to emancipate himself from his maternal dominance, and for fear of being "disloyal" by becoming interested in a girl, he unconsciously shies away from male companionship.

Understanding these things can help you recognize danger signs and quietly direct a boy's interests into other channels. We certainly have nothing against nice, mannerly, quiet boys — but it is by nature to be noisy and have something of the roughneck in him, some of the spirit. I don't say good manners and courteous behavior are reason for suspicion, but be on guard when a youngster seems to be too much of a perfect gentleman, if, in addition he always hates a dare and disappearing too long, too consistently, too quietly, too perpetually as a companion, and does not ever hear anything about what he does with his time.

Use your most thoughtful judgment. Don't jump to conclusions because a couple of kids are close pals. It's the subtle signs beyond that which distinguish between normal and the dangerous.

Finally —this may be repulsive to us, but we can't avoid facts by shutting our eyes to them — there is an increase in venereal disease in teen-agers and one of the factors is homosexuality.

This column may be disquieting, but I write it because I have had too many letters from parents to ignore the facts of life as they are.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it O.K. to take calcium tablets every day with skim milk ?— Mrs. G. S.

I don't see how they can hurt you, but I write it because if calcium and the skimming process removes fat, not the calcium, so unless your doctor wants you to have extremely large amounts of calcium I don't see why you need both the milk and the tablets.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a man and was in late 50's when I learned that I was a diabetic. I lost 25 pounds.

Can I gain some weight back? My blood sugar is normal as I obey the rules. I am 5 feet 9 and weigh 145. Is it impossible to gain weight with this condition? —T. J.

You are fortunate to be able to control your blood sugar so readily after having (evidently) allowed the diabetes to progress to a considerable degree.

You are not seriously underweight, and if you start among you may have more trouble keeping the blood sugar level normal. With the majority of patients, the problem is to prevent them from gaining weight. If I were you, I'd consider myself lucky the way things are.

Alter Hiss was released from prison in the United States 11 years ago today — in 1954—after serving 44 months of a five-year sentence for perjury. Hiss had been denounced in 1949 before the Congressional Committee on Un-American Activities by Whittaker Chambers, a former associate, as a Communist agent in the 1930s, which he denied. Then 45 years old and at the peak of a diplomatic career, Hiss could not be charged with espionage because of the statute of limitations. His perjury trial was extremely controversial and had to be held twice, because the jury disagreed the first time.

Love Is Projection Of an Idea

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: The kind of men who join the Klan would, in the main join a similar organization even if there were no Negroes to be against; they would find some other object of hate and derision to make themselves feel superior and to bolster their shaky sense of identity, security and stability.

Once we judge a book, we have raised ourselves above the author; we can truly learn only from books we are unable to judge, from books that somehow judge us and make us feel intuitively that we have fallen short of what we could be and should be.

People who "fall out of love" have never really been in love with a real object; as Goethe observed, "Few people love others for what they are; rather do they love them for what they project into them — what they really love is themselves, their idea of the other."

The most important scientific-medico-social revolution of the next decade will be the demand for human "spare parts" in organ transplants; that will be the ultimate battleground of socialized medicine, and it is coming faster than we think.

We could stand people who are chronically late, if they were more regretful about it; and we could stand people who are compulsively punctual, if they were less smug about it.

Watching a disguised man frantically trying to kill himself, I was reminded of Josh Billings's remark, "The wisest work harder to reach hell than the righteous do to get to heaven."

It is admittedly difficult to distinguish between a genuine martyr and someone with a martyr complex; but we may be reasonably sure it is the latter if he is wearing a hairshirt with a button-down collar.

If men could bear babies, they would assert proudly that no mere woman could ever stand the pain.

"Progress" in locomotion consists in being able to travel a distance of 3,000 miles a hundred times faster than our forebears could, but in not being able to travel a distance of 30 miles at much more than the rate of a covered wagon.

All that experience teaches us at most, is to make it a new set of mistakes; it teaches us nothing, alas, about blundering into brand-new mistakes, as our multiple-divorcee records indicate.

I imagine that the most dispiriting thing about being a dedicated candidate is that you have to go back to work.

In This Election Game Winner Is Really Loser

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — For the last couple of weeks, MPs and ex-MPs, the winners and the losers, have been drifting in and out of the Capital.

Some, those who didn't finish first in the November 8 political race, are returning for the last time in likely some years, to clean out their desks, take their memorabilia and pictures from the walls, watch their secretaries shed a wistful tear or two, close and lock their Centre or West Block offices, say farewell to old friends who shared exciting times, and then go home to take up, if they can, their lives where they left them off when first they presented themselves as candidates for election to the House of Commons Post office those nine weeks they were knocking on doors and drinking all that coffee.

And some, the first-time MPs, who can't wait for the opening of the new Twenty-seventh Parliament next year, are already away, having to come up for a preview and political "casing" of the place.

EVER ON CALL

After watching MPs at work and play — and there isn't really much of the latter, there being little time and less inclination — through going-on-25-years of Parliament and eight national election campaigns, you begin to wonder why anybody in their rational mind would want to sit in the House of Commons. Even at what quite recently, while, thank you, annual $18,000-plus.

For the moment a man puts the seat of his pants to that two-Member Commons bench he knows only one thing for certain, in fact his life as it ordinarily is lived, no longer is his own.

And if he ever was lucky enough to be his own man, he isn't any more after all the days of his Ottawa life.

Instead, he'll be at everybody's street corner, cap in hand, back and forth, back home in his constituency. Then, unless he's already married, he'll be a chore-boy and yes-man for Anybody Who's Anybody in his Party here on The Hill.

(And he had better step lively in the glittering social world (and grace to one and all).

When a man decides to stand for Parliament he must be reasonable himself to the hard facts of public life that if he wins the glittering prize he is elected what generally is recognized as leader in national affairs, he ceases to be a private citizen and becomes your and everybody else's district doorman.

There is, of course, a great good luck that there are enough of these selfless — and let's face it, slightly irrational — hounds for public punishment — to do the job.

THE HOUSE

When your MP isn't glued to his Commons bench — and in this Parliament, with the Liberal minority's precarious majority making every vote count so, he will be truly stuck there — the poor harried and harassed guy will be pinned to his office desk under mountains of mail.

Phone calls, more of them collect than not, will pursue him, to restaurant, cafeteria, Commons lobby, the parliamentary reading room, the library, wherever he goes, even back to his room or apartment when the long day is done.

Delegations will haunt him, and touring groups such as Boy Scouts, a bruce of classes from the Public, Safety grades, church and college clubs will come to call.

Unless they are so large as to be completely unmanageable in the financial sense, after each Parliament Hill and arranging for them to be shown the Sights-of-Ottawa-Town, with them in lunch in the Parliamentary Restaurant.

Which can be pretty expensive, for in any Session, unless it comes from the Northwest Territories or the farthest Newfie outports — and there's no discount on being entirely safe — he'll attend lunch for hundreds, even, and it has happened to some of the Big City Constituency MPs, for thousands.

The spouse's every good and worthy cause back home will want money — twice as much as when he was making an annual $10,000 — and the one thing he can't afford is the luxury of saying no.

If he attends to business on The Hill, he's damned at home for neglecting the constituency, and if he remains in the riding to do his home-work, he's damned for playing Parliamentary hookey.

Try to tell, if often seems that when he wins the seat and that MP after his name, he really loses.

Fireplaces Are Popular

Boston Globe

More than a century ago John Greenleaf Whittier wrote "Snowbound" Many may recall the lines: "The sharp-eyed farmer sees, while they told each other long stories and plugged the leaks of old clothes."

Before the invention of modern heating devices, the fireplace was the center of interest. It was this place for cooking, for drying clothes and getting warm from the chilly corners of the room, naturally remained as cold as Greenland.

It was then "Snowbound" and other homespun literature that the fireplace won its present fame. Yet it's quite true that nothing so brightens a room, or a blustery day, or even a mellow autumn evening in November, as a bright fire.

In recent decades the fireplace has regained its popularity. Nobody thinks of building a house without one, or maybe two or three. The heating gadget in the basement or utility room provides all the heat necessary but the eye appeal of the open fire persists.

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Neighborhood Grouch Is a Rare Bird

Sometimes we wonder what has happened to the neighborhood grouch. We think our way along a mental list of people in the neighborhoods we know, and we cannot call to mind any authentic present-day example of the man who is sour about everything. We think we can hear a number of the visitors who come and go in a daily newspaper office, and although there are a great variety of people, there seems to be one stamp of uniformity upon them. There all back-slapping some effort to be, or at least appear to be, agreeable.

People who appear in newspaper offices are, generally speaking, in two categories. Those want things to be done, and those who want things left out. In these days when cooperation is the watchword, are preached as if they were religions, the visitors in either category tend to make a mild approach. This imposes some strain on editors, because the polite request constrains a polite answer.

To people in one category, we find ourselves using the use of a blunt "No," and explaining instead that although the news about the $11,647 being raised for a very worthy cause at a positively delightful bake sale, the news must be spared at the top of Page One, it certainly will get in the paper somewhere.

To people in the other category, instead of saying "No," we find ourselves saying that although the news about our visitor being convicted of impaired driving is going to be in the paper somewhere, we most certainly will not put it at the top of The One.

The mild approach produces the mild answer. Scowling and growling seem to have gone right out of fashion. We are not certain that this is a good thing. In the days when every neighborhood had a neighborhood grouch, all the other people in the neighborhood could make a point of being different from him. If nobody is going to be an authentic, crusty-whiskered, full-time grouch, everybody may be more inclined to be a fretful, part-time grouch.

We are led to reflect on the growing sameness of people by seeing on the front of a sign which was posted in the office of an Indiana newspaper editor, in 1876:

Enter slowly. Sit down slowly. Subscribe to the paper. Don't be afraid to. Say nothing unnecessarily. Engage in no controversy. Don't scratch matches on the stove. Don't talk to the printer. Don't whistle — or sing. Eyes off the manuscript. Boys, whether they are accompanied by their parents or not, are requested to keep their hands in their pockets. Professional loafers and constitutional idiots who delight in inflicting their disagreeable presence and annoying twaddle upon the printers need not be astonished if the distressed editor-in-chief in a while drops an expression not very complimentary to them.

With an editor like that, you knew where you stood. We'll bet he produced a readable newspaper, too.

A Lift for Living

Religion Has a Great Need To Discover Portable Faith

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

Primitive Indians of North America needed fire for comfort, if not for survival. Because they had no matches or flint-and-steel, starting a fire presented a serious problem. They could rub two sticks together, or they could rotate a stick between the palms of their hands to create friction. But such methods were extremely slow and tedious, and the materials were cumbersome to carry on the trail.

Some Indians solved their problem by carrying a little fire with them. An Indian took a large shell, like that of a clam, and lined it with clay. Then he filled the shell with powdery, rotten wood. Decaying yellow birch was preferred. A small ember, about the size of a kernel of corn, was then taken from the campfire and placed in the shell, where it set the powdery wood to smoldering.

The nearly airtight case of shell was then placed in a leather bag, and the tiny fire burned slowly for many hours.

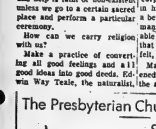
One of the great needs in religion is to find a portable faith, a faith that accompanies us wherever we go. There is always a danger of institutionalizing religious faith, pressing it into God as an apparent captive of church buildings and altars, so that we do not sense His presence and power unless we are in a certain place at a specific time.

When this happens religion becomes confined and stationary. The sense of God's presence and help is faint or non-existent unless we go to a certain sacred place and perform a particular ceremony.

How can we carry religion with us?

Make a practice of converting all good feelings and all good ideas into good deeds. Go the extra mile. Be naturalist, has told of lunching with two scientists who specialized in plant and fish research. The botanist confessed he had never kept a garden, and the ichthyologist admitted he never went fishing. That is more amusing than trade. But when church people neglect to apply faith to everyday living that is tragic rather than amusing.

A Korean convert to Christianity learned the entire Sermon on the Mount, and one day recited it to a missionary friend. When the surprised friend asked how he managed to do this, the Korean explained, "At first I tried to learn it verse by verse but my mind could not hold onto it. So I tried another method. I took just a little bit of the sermon and promised myself, 'Tomorrow I will try that on my neighbor.' By practising it on my neighbors I soon learned the Sermon on the Mount."



LIFT FROM BIBLE

All Christ's teachings are portable. The light and warmth of them can be lifted from the Bible and carried into every human relationship.

Faithfulness and uncompromising loyalty to the Highest, learned from the Bible and the church, are portable. They should be carried into our friendships, where they appear as undaunted goodwill, so that we are faithful when we are tempted to break off the relationship. Faithfulness should travel with us when we go about our daily work and business, making the carpenter more conscientious in his carpentry, the machinist more machinist, the businessman more diligent and honorable in his business. A religion that is heard, but not seen or felt, is not worthy of its name.

May all your hours be brightened and warmed by fire from the altar of God!

"Church in New Age" Topic At Study Guild Meeting

The Belleville Women's Study Guild held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. C. J. Seldon Bleecker Ave., with a large membership present to take part in the evening's timely topic - "The Christian Church in the New Age."

The president, Mrs. C. R. Roulet, opened the meeting, and welcomed a guest of the evening, Mrs. H. Arendsen. A brief business meeting was held, and gifts were collected to be forwarded to the Cobourg Women's Branch through the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association. The worship service was taken by Mrs. J. R. Reynolds with the theme - "The aspirations of a Christian".

Mrs. Ralph Ellis and Miss J. Tickell began the evening's presentation by introducing a display of many recent books and pamphlets dealing with the Christian Church, current thinking and problems, their topics ranging from the changing faith, to the problems of urbanization, poverty, individual witnessing, Bible study, and making the Church relevant to our modern scientific age. These publications had been thoughtfully chosen and were received with great interest.

CHURCH HISTORY

The history of the Christian Church was then traced from Christ and Pentecost, through its Latinization in the 3rd century when Christianity changed from a Movement to a System; the rise of Islam and the clash with the Moslem faith; which today makes five converts to Christianity's one; and the Reformation, the age of Martin Luther, Columbus, Vasco de Gama and Copernicus, when the Christian Church faced problems of superstition, idolatry, indulgence, buildings and organizations not unlike the 20th century problems of other religions, self satisfied secularism, and self confident Communism.

Members were startled by statistics from the 1963 Vatican Council which stated "that one man in every four in the world was Chinese; two men of every three in the world was Asiatic; one man in every three lives under Communism; and one Christian in every five is not a Roman Catholic.

The Christian world, it was stated, faces at least six simultaneous resolutions, those of Nationalism, Technology, Weapons, Social Attitudes, Economic Attitudes, and Population Explosion. The last revolution has perhaps the most far reaching effects, with its resultant racial changes, percentage decrease in Christian population, its food problems and effects of malnutrition, and the problems of economics, clothing, housing, education, health and revolutionary attitudes. The world population increases by 61 millioon each year, and in Calcutta alone, it is told, garbage trucks pick up each day two or three hundred people who have died of malnutrition.

Revolution, it has been said, is the greatest event of the 20th century. There is a determination to change. Nations are being built, illiteracy eradicated, building projects are modernizing whole countries, health is being improved. Vast world changes spark deep and differing emotions of optimism, and wonder, and often despair.

There are profound philosophical changes, from a religious "other sider," to a secular world view, with the attendant atheism, communism, and an increasing drift away from the old faiths which lie at the root of education.

TREMENDOUS CHALLENGES

Christianity can respond to several ways to these tremendous challenges. As Christians, men can retreat into the Church; or they can compromise, blunting every question put to the world, perhaps surrendering some familiar customs, habits, and forms. But to remain Christians, and to have the Christian faith accepted in this changing world, Christians must know their faith, and remain true to the essentials of the Gospel. The blunting, exacting question persists , what should Christians do what can Christians do - for and in a modern world?, And the only answer found so far is that each Christian must be a witness to his faith - a witness to men of other faiths, to men in the secular world, and with his own congregation, to the community, and as part of the witness of the Christian Church across national and constitutional boundaries. Science offers man a better life, but remedy for material problems alone will not long satisfy if spiritual needs are still unfulfilled. "Being a Christian means being concerned about the whole man under God - that his stomach may be filled, but also that his life may be given meaning and purpose". To be effective as Christians in the new age, Christians must "first be, and then practise, and finally say".

This program inspired a valuable exchange of thought when members spent a social hour enjoying refreshments provided by the evening's hostesses , Mrs. E. A. Fleming, and Mrs. L. W. Lant.

DECISION HISTORIC

LONDON (AP) — Legal history was made in Britain Friday as judgment was passed on the first person to be convicted of murder since the abolition of the death penalty early this month. Peter Kenneth Alt hen, 23, was sentenced in Old Bailey court to a lifetime prison term of 15 years in jail for shooting a car dealer. Under the new law, the penalty for murder is an indeterminate spell in prison, ranging up to life.

White Cane Club Hears C.C.B. Report

The November business meeting of the White Cane Club was held on Wednesday evening at the Recreation Centre with an excellent attendance.

Arlie Scott presided in the absence of president Vi Waite and extended a warm welcome.

Following the various reports the members were reminded of the recreation evening and Christmas party to be held at Kiwanis Centre on December 14th. The dinner given by the Rotary Club at St. Andrew's Church will take place the next evening.

The correspondence was read by Mrs. Maude Rollins. This included the council correspondary of the Canadian Council of the Blind. One item of interest was the fact that CNIB "National News" is now being printed in French.

The report of the 21st annual meeting of the CCB held in London, Ontario, September 20-22 was on hand.

RESEARCH WORK AIDED BY FUND

At this meeting it was learned what great work was being done as a result of research made possible through the E. A. Bakey fund.

At C.C.B. members, the group is greatly interested in the prevention of blindness. This is especially noted during the White Cane Week campaign.

"As we look into the past and note the increase in services to the blind and their well-being today, we are convinced that the future still holds greater promise for the blind people of this country", was one of the interesting quotes from the report.

It was noted that 85 blind persons have completed their university training in Canada, three in the United States and three in Europe. The music program at the Ontario School for the Blind is progressing satisfactorily.

BLIND QUALIFY FOR TRAINING

The reports on employment, services and research from the ten provinces were encouraging. It seems apparent that any blind person who has the necessary academic qualifications may take any training course that is being offered in the Federal vocational schools.

Arlie Scott introduced Mr. George Gulliver who played the accordion and Mr. Thorld Hoskin who accompanied him on his banjo. Their lively tunes were much enjoyed and George Zimmele thanked the gentlemen for the entertainment.

The girls of the Kinette Club served lunch for which Sarah O'Shea expressed the appreciation of the club. Helen Wardhaugh thanked the girls for their valuable assistance to the members on Saturday afternoons.

Women's Institutes

PINE GROVE W. I.

MARSH HILL — The November meeting of Pine Grove Women's Institute was held at the home of Miss Jayne Gay with nine members and one visitor present.

The president, Mrs. Farley Lindenfield opented the meeting in the usual manner. The correspondence which was read by the secretary Mrs. Harold Detlor, included a letter from Unionville W. I., for the memorial hospital at Cobourg and several thank-you notes. The standing committee reports also reported. The resolutions which will be dealt with at the area convention were studied by the members.

A committee was appointed to make further study of the centennial project. Current events were given by each member.

Mrs. Alex Tanner, public relations convener presided over the program and read articles on "Link with the Past" and

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT W. JEUNE

The skirt was full gathered in satin with an overlay of white tulle and the shoulder length veil was caught with three white rosebuds. She carried a cascade bouquet of crimson roses.

The bride was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. James Quinn, as matron of honor. Her dress was in street length, fashioned from gold peau de soie, in softly pleated skirt caught at back with bow of matching material. Her headdress was a gold ringlet cap with shoulder veil and she carried white carnations.

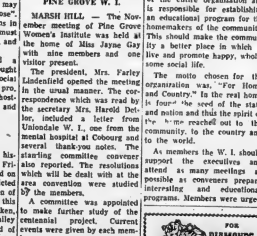
The bridegroom's mother also received wearing dark brown brocade sheath, with brown and gold accessories and a corsage of yellow 'mums.

The couple left for a trip to Florida, the bride wearing a dress of royal blue wool, a tiny feather cap to match and a corsage of pink roses.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at showers given by her family and also fellow workers from The Bell Telephone Co.

On their return the young couple will reside at 122 Dundas Street East, Belleville.



the report of the area public relations officer.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Leslie Pinkle, district president was introduced, and spoke on the topic, " How do I rate as an Institute Member." Mrs. Pinkle reminded the members that the first Women's Institute was organized February 19, 1897 and during years to follow the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario came into being. The Federated Women's Institutes of Canada and the Associated Country women of the world; The local branch of the Women's Institute is the first and most important part of the entire organization and is responsible for establishing educational programs for the homemakers of the community. This should make the community a better place in which to live and promote happy, wholesome social life.

The motto chosen for the organization was, "For Home and Country." In the real home is found the seed of the state and nation and this the spirit of the home reached out to the community, to the country and to the world.

As members the W. I. should support the executives and attend as many meetings as possible as conveners prepare interesting and educational programs. Members were urged

Charms of Paris Add Up to World's Most Romantic City

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

PARIS — Emerging from the Trans Europe Express at the Gare du Nord, we were required to go through the customary but pointless European requirement of showing your ticket after you leave the train.

Laboriously, we dropped our bags, lined around in our wallets, and came up with our Carteplaus, that wonder of the ages permitting North Americans to travel for $300.

"Ca va?" we said to the lady at the gate, in our impeccable French.

"Tenk you!" she replied, and flashed a big Gallic smile.

Outside the cab line moved with an unfamiliar precision and speed under the watchful direction of a cop. We picked up a lady's umbrella when she dropped it, and smiled.

Our cab driver did not smile. It was rush hour and the traffic was as ferocious as ever. But Paris isn't having one of its periodic unseasonable springs, and there were flowers in his car. And, as we drove through outside our room at the Plaza-Athenee, where the stationery is engraved and the china is Limoges, there were flower-pots in the sills who, we wondered, tends flowerpots in a big city hotel in this day and age?

No problem. Smile checks in, Paris changes over the years about as much as Maurice Chevalier.

SMILE CHECKS

Smile checks, in case you haven't heard, come in books of six and are issued to travellers to France. You give one to each person who has been extra nice to you. Waiters, who are at least as human and gracious as other people when spoken to cheerfully and politely.

As for the equally base canard that everyone is out to take you, we can only say that in six trips to France in the past seven years, we have yet to be cheated by a waiter, waiter, shopkeeper or anyone else. Is Paris burning over these stories? No, but it's lighted.

The stories that Paris is expensive do require qualification. A room overlooking a street of coffee and rolls in the Plaza-Athenee costs $1.85, in the bistro across the street, 30 cents. The Commissair I at Orly Airport puts out a list of 600 restaurants and says you can eat well for $1.60, $2.00 and $2.20. There are many more than 600. And while you can certainly get a bad meal in Paris, it is rare.

Sure Paris is expensive, if you stay in expensive hotels and eat in expensive restaurants. So are New York, London, Rome and a few hundred other places. Cabs cost about as much as they do in New York, less than San Francisco, but you can ride for a quarter down the metro (subway) for a few cents.

HERE IS 'MAGIC'

What, then, is the magic of this cheapjack "heart of the world," this symphony of boulevards and bookstalls, trees and monuments, stately palaces and royal gardens and great French windows, that keeps bringing Americans back here even when they die, if they're good?

It is an awninged sidewalk cafe opposite the gilt statue of Joan of Arc where an old man plays corny accordion tunes.

It is a housewife doing her twice-daily marketing with three sticks of long French bread tucked, unwrapped, under her arm.

It is a hotel porter making a restaurant reservation for us and spelling out our name, "Sloane . . . comme en Suzanne, Lorraine, Odile, Annette, Nicole Eloise . . ."

It is a poster for a sexy movie advising that no one under 13 is admitted.

It is the apprentice waiter in the hotel dining room not daring to serve the coquille St. Jacques until the waiter turns to him with a curt, brass command directing his staff with only a meaningful turn of his body or movement of his eyes.

It is rickety old buses with the balconies on the back.

It is a sidewalk bistro where the walls are paneled with dashback, the light switches are ornamented with brass and where no man is permitted on the premises unless without a tie and jacket, and the clientele is so steady that few strangers ever are famished with a reservation.

SATIRES OF LIFE

It is the beautiful girls at the crazy Crazy Horse saloon, check footing dining room where your neighbor's chair resting on your instep, and the show is an imaginative, sometimes erotic and ofty funny burlesque acts and equally funny satires on sex and life. Recently, the unifying theme song: "I Ain't Got No Body.")

It is a salesgirl in a department store who says, "Perhaps I should not tell you these, Monsieur, but I cherish your sweet find cheaper elsewhere."

It is the Bateau Mouche, a sleek floating dining room where for $10 you enjoy a candlelight gourmet dinner and a three-mile two-and-one-half hour cruise on the Seine to see the lacy poetry of the Eiffel Tower and the delicate tracery of stone and great buttresses of Notre Dame brilliantly highlighted by illumination. A live — not taped — ensemble quietly plays Basin Street and Brahms, and the effect is that of seeing a world's fair exhibit with the panoramas, not you, moving.

It is the unmistakable throb of pulse to walk endlessly, to look into every glittering shop window and saringe every one down every old street and quarter, for not one stone, not one inch of Paris is uninteresting.

It is, in short, enough just to be in Paris, where no one is ever lonely.

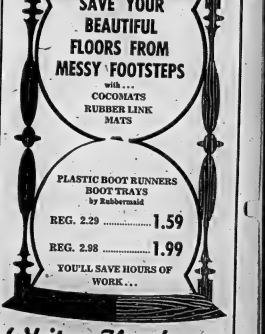
Club Activities

CONTACT CLUB

– Last Monday evening, Christ Church Contact Club had a most interesting meeting. About forty members and their friends toured radio station CJ.B.Q. under the guidance of Mr. Frank Murray. The members were impressed with the cleanliness and the facilities and it was a most educational meeting for all concerned.

Refreshments were served in the main studio following the tour. The long playing records were drawn for and won by Betty Guthrie and her guest. Mrs. Edith Pringle.



The closing meeting for the year 1965 will be in the form of a smorgasbord supper at the Tope Motor Hotel commencing promptly at 7.30 p.m. on Monday evening, November 29th.

Sculpture by Mrs. P. Faulkner

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

INTERESTING WORK OF ART:

"Works of art are . . . becoming part of the interior decorating of business . . ." — W. Carlson.

"Business men and women today have a clearer appreciation of the role of the artist than ever before."

Did you know our Belleville artist, Phillippa Faulkner, 257 Bridge Street, designed the sculpture that holds "an honorable place" in a building high on the crest of Don Mills in Toronto? Namely: the new Bata International Centre?

"The sculpture arrived safely and without scratch," comments the (Sept. 17, '65) Engineering Edition of the Bata Bulletin of Batawa, centre of the Canadian shoe industry. "An enthusiastic "task force" joined by almost everybody in the centre lugged the heavy piece of over 900 lbs. into a tight fitting elevator and onto the second floor of the building to its final position . . . an honorable place at the entrance of the large display hall of the centre where Bata Shoe Companies from all over the globe will display their handiwork during Bata World Conference . . ."

". . . a thousand people came" at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Bata," reports Mary Walpole and Cathy Smyth in The Globe Magazine, (Oct. 9, '65), hosts with that rare gift of forgetting that they were head of a vast international business empire, with more than 65,000 employes.

"More than 185 million pairs of shoes are made and sold yearly in modern shops from London to Casablanca, Paris to Khartoum, Calcutta to Singapore and Bangkok to the islands of the Caribbean.

"Not only are the shop interiors planned by Mrs. Bata, but she is fashion consultant for the shoe designs and with her husband travels around the world . . ."

Fashion is closely allied to art. And art (described by Herbert Spencer as "the effloorescence of civilized life"), is selling more and more business-es according to Walter Carlson in The New York Times. He quotes Mr. Pringle, president of a large paper industry: ". . . artists' works can tell us much about the society in which we live and work. Those of us (in business) need this kind of insight as much as anyone else."

The idea that art creates "an image of quality products in the minds of the public" is shared by many companies' management, such as Johnson's Wax, and Chase Manhattan Bank, which have offices, hall-ways and special galleries filled with paintings. But many are turning, more than ever before, to sculpture which symbolizes a company's identity.

"When approached with the suggestion of submitting a sculpture design for the Bata Centre," recalls Mrs. Faulkner, "I felt it was a great challenge and though greatly interested it took much courage...I wished to use not just steel, but other medis, such as aluminum, iron, fibre-glass. Could these be welded together? Great credit is due Mr. Danton, the welder, who was not only willing to try but made it all possible by a magic skill that is his.

"Yes, I must say it was a wonderful experience and I'm happy to have had my design accepted as you can imagine . . ." And again we quote the Bulletin:

"We have heard many comments about this interesting work of art which we gladly pass on to all those who had a willing hand in its creation. Mrs. Phillippa Faulkner, well-known Belleville artist was commissioned with its design.

"Eric Danton performed the quite intricate welding job. To join various steel, iron, aluminum and fibre glass parts together to a solid construction was no small task. Len Rowe, our painter craftsman painted all components either shining black, white or gold, (under Mrs. Faulkner's supervision.) Other fellow-workers such as John Schick prepared the Bata emblem. Never was a work piece more solidly and almost layingly packed than the sculpture by "Serge"."

A former student of Hans Hoffman in Provincetown and New York and a graduate of Parson School in Advertising and Design of New York City, Mrs. Faulkner attended the Instituto Allende, San Miguel de Allende, in Mexico as a scholarship student, and was awarded a prize in the Second Annual Exhibition of San Miguel, Judged by Carlos Merida.

For a number of years she designed the show windows of Estons and Simpsons in Toronto, where her ideas were highly regarded.

A current exhibition in Peterborough of the Canadian Society of Painters in Water Color of which Mrs. Faulkner has been a member for two years, includes one of her pictures which was accepted. This exhibition will be shown in Kingston at the Agnes Etherington Gallery later on. She is also a member of Color and Form Society which exhibits in Hart House every year.

Upon the completion of her sculpture, Mrs. Faulkner took a holiday in Europe, but not from art. She busily sketched "through the window, whether it was a bus, train, restaurant or Hotel room and these sketches, while lively fresh lines of impression that take one with her, were exhibited at the Quinte Arts Club.

Such are some of the splendid achievements of this Belleville artist — Phillippa Faulkner, whose sculpture is shown in the photograph that appears in this column today.

Ann Landers

Father Has Problem With Son and Car

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a father who has a serious problem and I need your help. First I want to thank the police officer who stopped my son. He is an alert and devoted public servant and I want him to know I am grateful.

The officer spotted Bud driving a very expensive car. He stopped the boy and asked for identification. After a few phone calls the officer was satisfied that the car was not stolen.

ANN LANDERS

In my opinion the car was stolen. It belonged to the parents of another teenager (my son's friend.) The boy's parents were out of town for the weekend and their young son said it was O.K. for Bud to take the car for the evening.

I say Bud should be punished by having his driving privileges taken away for one year. My wife says no harm was done, so we should forget it. I need your help. — STEPPED ON FATHER.

* * *

DEAR FATHER: The boy did wrong and no amount of twisting and turning can change the facts, but it's doubtful that he would be found guilty in a court of law. Your wife's notion that "no harm was done so forget it" is outrageous.

Bud should be punished — but I feel that the penalty you recommend is too severe.

I suggest that Bud be denied automobile privileges for three months. This would be reasonable and just.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 34, married, have a two-year-old child and another on the way. The problem is my mother.

From the day our first child was born mother has sent gifts until my husband is ready to blow his stack. She is making him feel like a charity case. My husband earns a modest salary but we get along just fine.

Last night mother announced that she plans to buy everything from nursery furniture to a complete layette for the new baby. My husband left the room. We don't need anything new, Ann. The baby can use many of the things the first child has had.

How can we let mother know we want her love and not a barrage of gifts? — NOT FOR SALE.

DEAR NOT: A gift can be many things. It can be an expression of thoughtfulness and love and it can also be a pay-off, an eraser of guilt, a club — and a device to create indebtedness.

Tell your mother she is creating a problem with her excessive generosity and that you can accept only birthday and Christmas gifts from now on. And make it stick. The first time she sends an "extra" — send it back.

* * *

Confidential to HOW DID IT LOOK TO OTHERS: I don't know. I wasn't there. But you were. No person can make you look like a fool without your full co-operation.

* * *

Confidential to BLACK AND BLUE AND EMBARRASSED: Tell him to practice his judo holds on his male friends. I don't blame your father for being burned up. (This is a way to spend an evening?)

* * *

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of his newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Letter—I am enclosing a recipe for a different kind of cottage pudding which we enjoy. It is quick and easy and — you guessed it—economical. If there is any left over, it is lovely sliced, buttered and popped under the broiler.—Farse B.

Answer—My new helper Shirley tested your Golden Cottage Pudding and brought me a sample to taste and it is a find indeed.

GOLD COTTAGE PUDDING
(Courtesy Farse B.)

Sift together into bowl 1¾ cups unsifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt. Then add ½ cup cooking oil (or soft shortening), 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, ¾ cup milk, 1 teaspoon lemon extract and beat in until smooth. Now beat in 1 cup grated raw carrots (2 medium). Pour into greased 9" square pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 30 to 35 minutes. Serve warm with Golden Sauce (2¼ cups): Mix together in saucepan 1 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons flour (¼ cup), until thoroughly blended then stir in 2 cups boiling water until thick and boil 1 minute, stirring. Remove from heat and add 3 tablespoons finely shredded raw carrot, 2 tablespoons each lemon juice and orange juice (or use all orange juice and 4 tablespoons soft butter. Reheat if desired before pouring over squares of Golden Pudding.

Note:—Farse, on your tip-off, I toasted a piece of left-over Golden Pudding and it was wonderful with tea at 4.00 p.m.

Question—I would like a recipe for a chocolate cake you can bake in a large pan and cut in squares. How can I substitute cocoa for baking chocolate if I am out of chocolate?

Answer:—The following is a large chocolate cake.

CHOCOLATE CAKE (large 13 x 9" Pan)

One cup of soft shortening, 2 cups sugar, 4 egg yolks, 4 squares (4 oz.) chocolate, melted, 3 cups sifted cake flour, 2¼ teaspoons baking power, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1½ cups milk, 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten. Cream shortening and sugar together until fluffy. Blend in egg yolks and melted chocolate. Sift together sifted flour, baking powder and salt and stir in alternately with milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a greased, paper-lined 9 x 13" pan at 350 deg. Fahr. for 50 to 60 minutes.

preliminary investigation of this now is under way.

"The department considers that there is an immediate need for more extensive exploration of the spread of the radioactive contamination through the waters of the Elliot Lake and Bancroft areas, and for more intensive investigation into the kinds of contamination present. . . ."

Members of the committee who made the study were T. R. Hilliard, chairman, deputy minister of energy and resources management; Dr. W. G. Brown, deputy minister of health; D. P. Douglass, deputy minister of mines, and Frank MacDougall, deputy minister of lands and forests.

They recommended the provinces undertake a detailed investigation of watercourses and waste disposal in both areas and expand its program of monitoring and analyzing mine and mill wastes, surface waters and drinking water supplies.

They also said there was some confusion over who has authority over the control of radioactive pollution: The provincial government or the federal government. Ontario should approach Ottawa to clarify this, but meanwhile should continue to work with the uranium mining industry to maintain safeguards against radioactive pollution.

Contamination, results from large quantities of wastes produced by the million of uranium. For each ton of ore processed, about one ton of solid waste and two to five tons of liquid waste are produced.

against the Rhodesian rebel government. Observers doubted Britain would go that far but said Britain might send troops to Zambia as a defensive measure.

Rhodesian rebel prime minister, Ian Smith, claimed in Salisbury that the power-line saboteurs might have been Communists — "Chinese or otherwise who have moved into Zambia in recent months."

The pressure on Britain to send at least a token military force was heightened by fears that any delay might prompt Kaunda to turn to other African nations, or even Communist powers, for military aid to protect the Kariba Dam and power line.

Ban Women! Hah!

How's this for a starter: Women should be outlawed from supermarkets!

If men did the shopping it would take about one-third the time. You don't think so? Well, here is an example.

The middle-aged (55) woman approached the bananas.

"Hmmm, that's a good price today," she mused as she carefully scrutinized the table. "How much for these three?"

The girl weighed them and told her the price.

"How much more for this one?"

Again they were weighed.

"Too much," she said. "I'd better find another banana that is a little smaller. I want them for a salad you know."

Then the customer began to tear apart the lovely display that the store had thrown up in say, three hours. Bananas were flying all over the place when our customer spotted a friend, also attacking the bananas from the other side of the stand. They collided in mid stand.

"Helen."

"Marlene."

"How are you?"

"Fine. How are you?"

"Fine. What are you doing Helen?"

(What did she think Helen was doing rooting in the middle of the banana stand — looking for apricots?)

The store worker was patient.

"I'm looking for bananas. And you?"

"The same."

(I could have cried.)

"Wait there I'll come around."

So Helen walked around to see Helen and the storekeeper was left standing holding three of Marlene's bananas in one hand and four of Helen's in the other as the two women sauntered off down the aisle.

That five other people had been waiting for service all this time was incidental. And then to not even buy the bananas.

Back to my basic promise.

Women, when they are not stopping to chat, are carrying on in strange ways. The only people who get their bread in the shape it is meant to be in are the first ones to the shelf. Poor bread. I always feel sorry for it. Sitting there on the shelf, unable to fight back, while shoppers after shopper squeezes it, punches it, picks it up, smells it and either throws it in the cart or back on the shelf.

I could of sworn -though I saw a particular loaf of bread crying. Poor thing. There it was, fresh off the baker's shelf, but its wrapper wasn't on quite right. Four women in a row picked it up, each renewing its hope, but then throwing it back on the shelf again, rejected. I finally bought it myself. No applause please.

Then I followed a lady round a supermarket once when she was trying to hide a pound of coffee some where. She had got the wrong grind so the machine she was trying to hide it as no one could see her. She walked miles until finally, arriving back at the coffee grinder — I was peeking around the corner — she casually placed the coffee back in with the packages of unground coffee. Why was I so interested? Because I wanted to tell her I would take that grind and she could simply get another.

Then there are the roast buyers.

"Hmm. Uh huh. Yes. Certainly. No. Too much fat. Oooh. Costs too much though. Well, maybe. No, better not. Oh come on. No. Live a little. All right."

(The foregoing was not a conversation between two women shoppers, it was a conversation between one lady shopper and herself.)

When men shop, they know exactly what they want. Hmm. That may not be right. We'll try that one again.

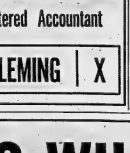
When men shop, they have no idea what they want, therefore everything they see becomes what they want and they buy it without hesitation.

When women shop, they know only too well what they want and thus spend hours trying to find it. They seldom do.

This is ridiculous. I've talked myself into the other side of the fence. There's a reason though. You see, my wife always reads my column. Not that I'm afraid of her, but when I recover from the broken arm she gave me last time, I'll have a better chance of survival.

But I still believe men could do the shopping much faster than women. They might spend a bit more to buy a few more goodies. But they'd get the job done and help solve the congestion problem all supermarkets have.

So all in favor of men doing the shopping shout, "Aye!" (Not so loud.)



However, when I think about it, my plan, excellent though it may be, will not work. Groceries cost money and since the women have all the money, they have to be there to pay the man.

There wasn't much point to this column really. The only thing it proves is that the guy who said "it's a man's world" wasn't talking about earth.

The Golden Years

Italy Delightful Place to Live But Not Necessarily Cheap One

By THOMAS COLLINS

There are now about 18,000 retired Americans living in Italy, getting their U.S. pension and Social Security cheques by regular mail. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Goodwin think they would like to join them when Mr. Goodwin retires early in 1966.

"We know Italy is a fashionable place to go these days," Mr. Goodwin says. "And it makes for a fine postmark on letters back home. But our reason for wanting to go is primarily financial.

"It has been pointed out to us that either Mexico or Italy can offer a retirement life that is both charming and cheap, Italy is more to our liking if we can move there with an income of under $400 a month and live well on it, while at the same time we bask in the Italian sunshine and enjoy some of the finest cuisine in Western civilization, then it seems we would be foolish not to.

"We would have no friends there. But we would have none in Florida or California either. With the high standard of living we would have more security for our income over the long haul, and we would escape the constantly increasing costs here . . . ."

For the Goodwins, and any others with a yen to join the 18,000, here are a few facts of life on which to make a decision:

DELIGHTFUL PEOPLE

1. Italians are about the most delightful people in the world to live among. They are friendly. They like people and animals. They have fun out of being helpful. They are personality people.

2. Italians have been seeing foreigners — in and out of wars — for 2,000 years. They don't regard Americans as freaks. They don't shrink from them.

3. Italy is an economical place to live — for Italians. Not for Americans who expect to maintain the normal American conveniences. A lot of nonsense has been broadcast about this. Costs in an Italian city, if food, housing, entertainment and conveniences are on the American scale, will pretty well balance the costs in any American city. And sometimes will be more.

4. Italy's climate ranges from cold and snow in the north to tropical weather in the south . . . about as in the U.S. It's a peninsula, with ocean water all around . . . about as in Florida.

5. A retired American couple moving to Italy might be surprised to discover that Italians aren't all country cousins who run barber shops and fruit stands. There are strong social classes in Italy. There are prosperity and affluence, mainly from Rome north. There are apartments, luxuries, automobiles, and plumbing flat out as Americans haven't thought of yet. An American couple moving to Italy with $300 a month will be rich Americans to many people because there is much poverty. They will seem poor Americans to many others.

6. Most of the 18,000 Americans now living in retirement in Italy aren't Irish - Americans, or Swedish - Americans, or just plain Americans. They are Italian-Americans — Italians who came to America to work for 20 or 30 years and have now gone home to renew family ties, to revert to Italy's way of life.

7. An American couple used to living to Italy would probably wind up in an apartment in an American colony, shielded from Italian life. They might bridge the gap into Italian life if they learned the language well, but it's doubtful. They'd probably find no jobs since Italy already is spreading its jobs. They'd eat too much, what with the two five-course meals per day Italians like. They'd go crazy trying to understand the money.

8. Italians are a great people, with a Roman Empire, a Catholic Church, a Renaissance, and a couple of artists under their belts. Americans have libelled them beyond belief. A retired couple living in Italy could have a great time unravelling this story.

9. Italy is close to home . . . eight to nine hours by jet from Rome to New York.

10. A retired American couple, in my opinion, would not burn a single bridge in going to Italy to live. But, with bridges intact and crew from home sailed away, they might go try it for six months — and see.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

All has been quiet on the northern hunting front for the past week. And it appears that the two weeks of "guerrilla" warfare ended in a stalemate, so to speak, with the invading alarods winning the first week round and the back-doo population squaring accounts in the second scratch that had seven days.

One story trickling in from the battle lines had it that one hunter in every three got his "kill." That bears out with the official ratio of a 33 per cent kill during the first weeks of warfare.

I'm told that the weather man wasn't in a 100 per cent co-operative mood as far as the hunter and hunted were concerned. He could have done better.

Prior to the first week of the invasion he sent down the rains that caused water-levels in marshes, creeks and depressions to rise to almost spring high. This forced the hunters to the higher ground but by the same token it drove the deer away from the wetlands.

"A little snow would help," griped some of the first-weekers. The weather bloke obliged—but later. The second-week venison enthusiasts were disappointed, so all hands journeyed to the different bunkhouses where deer-hunting life "in the raw" is always enjoyed.

That veteran "Canadian-style" team of hunters, the Gordon Bowles, probably the only "double-trigger" duo in the country, took the annual trek and brought home a handsome 288-pound buck. It's antlered noggin will grace the Davies' trophy room.

This will be Gordie's return to "level" since he brought home the buck with a single shot. The snows came, forcing the Davies to hit the trail home before Audrey could line her rifle sights on a quarry.

With the venison and moose in the deep freeze, there's still game to be had and sought for, says a Tweed Lands and Forests bulletin.

Ducks by the thousands are flying in the Bay of Quinte and Lake Ontario areas, but they're not easy to get and hunting conditions will test the strongest nimrod.

Don't go looking for grouse (partridge), officials advise, unless you're prepared to do a lot of walking. The birds are generally scarce.

If my friend the Great White Hunter didn't scare the daylights out of the main body, there may be a few bears still in the areas. Better get 'em quick for they'll be hibting the winter sack very shortly.

There's good wolf hunting in the Tweed district, and it could be very rewarding if the "game" are well organized and good dogs employed.

If you like a tasty meal of roasted squirrel saddle, whatever that is, you can get one cheap, for the blacks are abundant in the hardwoods. The season closes December 31st.

If you're a bunny gourmet (the four-legged kind) you might get the odd snowshoe in the low bushy country. If the snow disappears they should be easy to spot in their winter white suits.

But if you're the common-or-garden type of bunny hunter—you can get your fill of cottontails in the southern farm lands along bushy fence rows, scrub pasture lands and old apple orchards.

But a word of warning. The cottontail range takes in nearly all private lands, so be good sports-men and maintain sound relations with farmer-owners. A sportsman is one who respects property, obeys the game rules and acts a though he is a guest. No guests enter private lands without first getting permission from the land owner.

Jack rabbits are still in good supply on the open farm lands but here again Lands and Forests officials caution hunters. Several parties have been apprehended and charges laid by township authorities and land owners under the "Petty Trespass" Act. Good sportsmen won't be caught doing wrong.

Has Two Chances ★★★★★ Howe Seeks That Elusive '600' Goal ★★★★★ Scoreless In Five

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The law of averages says it's got to come soon and it can't be soon enough for Sid Abel.

Gordie Howe's 600th goal that is.

For 19 years, Howe, 37, has averaged a goal every 2.1 games. But for the last five games, he hasn't been able to net the goal that will mark another milestone in his prolific career—his 600th regular-season National Hockey League marker.

GORDIE HOWE

"I'd like to see him score it and get it over with," said Abel, Detroit Red Wings coach and general manager. "The sooner the better."

His last chance is tonight when the Wings meet league-leading Montreal Canadiens who have held them scoreless in the club's previous three meetings this season.

If Howe doesn't hit the elusive 600 mark tonight, he has another chance Sunday night against Boston Bruins.

In today's other action Boston plays Toronto Maple Leafs at Maple Leaf Gardens and Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers fight it out in an afternoon game at New York.

Sunday's other games have Montreal at Chicago and Toronto at New York.

PLAYED 1,259 GAMES

Before the start of the current season, Howe, a native of Floral, Sask., had played in 1,259 games, scored 383 goals, assisted on 786 other markers and had a total of 1,361 points.

New York will be playing its fifth game in seven days when they meet Chicago this afternoon.

Mike Walton, 22, a rookie brought up to Toronto from Rochester to stand in for injured Leaf Red Kelly, will continue to play with Toronto.

Punch Imlach has sent Ed Joyal back to Rochester of the American League. Joyal was benched off the bench in the last six games but Walton has turned in a goal and two assists in three games.

Boisterous Battle

Rollins Whip Peterborough

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Four unanswered goals in the second period, three of them on powerplays, propelled Belleville Rollins Construction to a 6-2 OHA Eastern Junior "B" win over Peterborough Don Bys here last night.

Rollins were never headed in this one, a chippy affair that saw the visitors earn a number of foolish penalties, while the winners made the most of the opportunities to grab the much-needed victory.

Belleville climbed into a tie for fourth place with the win, while Peterborough stayed in second.

Referee Bob Carey dished out a grand total of 28 penalties, 18 of them to the Don Bys. Included were misconducts to the loser's Ron Saltern and Jim Bell, plus fighting majors to Paul LaPlante and Rollins' Bob Boyle. LaPlante won the decision while numerous other near-fights were stepped before they developed.

HAROLD TOWNSEND

The winners outshot Peterborough 34-31 and led 3-1 after one period and 6-1 after a pair.

Defenceman Harold Townsend triggered what Belleville goals to cap the second-best scoring splurge? Great Hagerman was top point man with a goal and three assists. Pete Fleming earned his goal and assist with a strong game. Doug Potts also played well on defence and scored the goal that put his club ahead to stay. Terry Moir added the other marker. Bob Boyle threw three assists, and Martin, Carl Bonnheure and Steve White one each.

Saltern scored the losers' first, tying it 1-1 early in the game when his shot from the point got a lucky break off Smith's skate. LaPlane got an assist.

Terry Blewett scored the third-frame loner beating Smith with a sizzling backhiser. Smith handled everything else thrown his way.

Fleming and Boyle executed a perfect passing play, capped by Fleming's goal, after just 35 seconds to get Belleville moving. Saltern's equalizer came up until 19.07 when Potts scored from well out in front after just completing a pass that Saltern were five aside at the time.

The winners outshot the opposition 10-4 and 14-6 and they took all seven penalties in the second when they appeared to panic under pressure. Hagerman made it 3-1 with his club a man up at 11.58, sliding the puck under Rollins.

Muir's goal was the straw that broke the camel's back and was hotly disputed. He batted it in from the air after several trys at the goalmouth and the Petes claimed he shoved it in with a hand — to no avail.

Townsend made it 5-1 on a good passeshoot play with Boyle and Hagerman at 15.29. One Pete was off for this goal and two were serving time when he sank another hard drive to complete the Rollins scoring at 18.16.

The third was all penalties after Blewett's goal at 4.21.

Rollins, still seeking a full-time coach, had Moe Hunter at the helm for the one. The club does not play again until Oshawa visits next Friday.

Peterborough: Hodsoncik, Murray, Bell, Mickelson, Bissett, LaPointe, Muir, Blewett, Ellis, LaPointe, Craigs, Blanchard, Kellers, F. Schlick, Serrier, Lacey.

Fight In Toronto Hotel

Trimble Apologizes To Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A contrite and unmarked Alan Trimble Friday apologized publicly to a newspaper man he beat in a fight that started early Thursday at the downtown Royal York Hotel, moved to the waterfront, then back to the hotel.

The 250-pound former coach of Montreal Alouettes in the Eastern Football Conference said he had apologized personally to Ian MacDonald of the Montreal Star, the man he attached after the two had been drinking together.

"He was man enough to shake my hand and accept my sincere apology," Trimble said at a meeting with news agency representatives and an official of the Football Reporters of Canada.

Trimble, fired from his job with the Als a week ago, said in an oral statement:

"Football has been very good to me and I feel I have hurt it badly. In the process I almost lost a good friend but he was man enough to shake my hand and accept my sincere apology.

"I told him that I would like an opportunity to make it up to him and I hope I can make it up to him and to football. I also feel I owe my family quite a bit too.

"The how and why (of the beating) I don't really know.

"I have spent a lot of time trying to figure that out, too. I'm very sorry it happened."

MacDonald, a six-foot, 200-pounder in Toronto to cover today's Grey Cup game, suffered black eyes, multiple bruises, rib damage and possible kidney injuries. He was taken to hospital for x-ray examination.

Trimble, who earlier apologized to Harold Atkins, sports editor of the Montreal Star, said he had nothing to add to his statement when asked whether there had been profession for the attack.

MacDonald had been quoted by the Toronto Telegram as saying he and Trimble had a drink together before the beating and "I may have made it worse by needling him."

Deputy Police Chief Bernard Simmons of Toronto said the reporter refused to press a charge against Trimble, the case was closed as far as police are concerned, the deputy chief added.

Trimble, of McKeesport, Pa., coached the University of Wichita and Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League before coming to Canada as coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats. He stayed with the Hamilton club until 1962, when he joined Als.

His wife Pat and six children live in Hudson, Que.

Clash With Steelers

Browns Ogle Eastern Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tommy Wade is 23 but he hasn't arrived yet. Ed Brown has arrived, but he's 36.

And that's the dilemma facing Pittsburgh Steelers.

Either the youngster or the way up or the veteran on the way down will have to handle the quarterbacking Sunday for the Steelers, who would be the final hope for the teams chasing Cleveland Browns in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

The two team meet at Pittsburgh with the Browns needing only one victory to clinch at least a tie for their second straight title. A Cleveland victory and defeats for New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals would give the Browns the crown outright.

Off their first meeting, which the Browns won 24-19 on a touchdown with 44 seconds left to play the game figures to be a struggle. But the Steelers will be without injured quarterback Bill Nelson, who took the first-string job from Brown early in the season.

QUARTERS ALTERNATE

Both Brown and Wade alternated each week in a loss to Washington Redskins. Wade, a sophomore pro from Texas, completed only one pass in the first half and, as the score indicated, Brown wasn't much more effective when he took over in the second half.

The Giants will try to stick in the race when they meet Chicago Bears at New York, and the Cardinals will attempt to do the same against Philadelphia Eagles at St. Louis.

In other games, Green Bay Packers are at Los Angeles Rams, San Francisco 49ers at Minnesota Vikings, and Dallas Cowboys at Washington. Baltimore Colts and Detroit Lions played to a 24-24 tie Thanksgiving Day.

Only two American League games are scheduled, Boston Patriots at New York Jets and Houston Oilers at Kansas City Chiefs. San Diego Chargers and Buffalo Bills played a 20-20 tie Thanksgiving Day, while Canadian Raiders and Denver Broncos are not scheduled.

Canada's Top Harness Driver

Will Honor Ron Feagan

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Ronnie Feagan paced his mount to both ends of the $8.20 daily double at Mohawk Raceway Friday night to bring his season win total to 208.

Feagan, 23, the fourth barness driver in North America to pass the 200 mark, brought Bob Rankin's Grattan Hal G. home for a $8.20 win price in the first of two races and Doug Coates' Irishman home for $3.50 in the second.

Feagan is to be honored at a special Ron Feagan Night tonight at a trackside ceremony and will receive cars and horse. Jacklin Mayor Frank Walkom, Canadian Trotting Association officials and the various owners for whom Feagan drives will take part.

MONTREAL (CP) — Driver Gilles Lacasse guided Saucy Ethington to victory in the sixth race at Richelieu Park Friday night for his 205th win of the year.

Lacasse, 27, and Ron Feagan, 23, the top Ontario driver, are fighting to the finish for the Maurice Michaud Trophy awarded annually to the biggest winner among Canadian harness racing drivers.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Arbee, from the White Stables' of St. Marys Ont., won the Junior Invitational Trot at Windsor Raceway Friday night.

Harold Hollwood, second leading driver at the meet, guided the five-year-old brown gelding to a 2¼ length win over Gay Worthy in the ninth to win $2,500.

Calgary Gal 'Miss Grey Cup'

TORONTO (CP) — Seventeen-year-old Glenda Olberg, Miss Calgary Stampeder, is Miss Grey Cup 1965.

The five-foot-five high school student and part-time department store clerk won the crown Friday night over eight other contestants.

Betty-Mae Christianson, 19, Miss Edmonton Eskimo, was first runner-up and Dawn Richlow, 18, Miss Winnipeg Blue Bombers, was second.

Miss Olberg, a 120-pound brown-haired beauty who likes to water ski and travel, also won a 1966 convertible, a $450 necklace and a woman's dream in the latest of fashions. She'll make her public debut today in the Grey Cup parade before the game between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Glenda pulled the highest points from the judges in beauty, poise, makeup, grooming, fashion, carriage, figure, speech, projection and over-all impression.

Bud Grant Named Coach Of The Year

— Tribute To Sazio —

TORONTO (CP)—Bud Grant, who led Winnipeg Blue Bombers from last place to a berth in the Grey Cup final, was named 1965 Coach of the Year by his Canadian Football League colleagues Friday night.

The 38-year-old coach and general manager of the Bombers—a new club won only one game in 1964 but finished second in the Western Football Conference this season, was named to the honor in a poll of CFL coaches. He received the Annis Stukus Trophy and an ovation from 1,100 spectators at the annual Grey Cup Dinner.

Grant, coach of the Bombers for the last nine years and general manager for the last two, paid tribute to his assistant coaches, players and executive. Winnipeg won 11 of 16 WFC starts this season and eliminated Saskatchewan Roughriders and Calgary Stampeders in the playoffs.

Stukus, quarterback with Toronto Argonauts in the 1930s and coach of Edmonton Eskimos and British Columbia Lions 20 years later, was on the platform as Grant received his award. He now is a CTV football commentator and sports columnist for The Telegram in Toronto.

Besides lauding his associates, Grant paid a wry tribute to the four previous winners of the award—Ralph Sazio, of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, his opponent in today's Grey Cup final, in 1964; Dave Skrien of the Lions in 1963; the late Steve Owen of Saskatchewan in 1962 and Jim Trimble, then with Hamilton, in 1961.

Grant noted that Sazio, Skrien and Trimble all lost a Grey Cup game the day after receiving the award and Owen was fired within the month.

"I don't believe in Sixnex," Grant dead-panned. "But I don't know about Sazio—he says he voted for me."

Sazio, seated a few places away at the head table, just grinned.

Earlier, both coaches spoke briefly of their prospects in today's game.

"We'll be at our peak," Sazio promised, after introducing his two assistants, Kelly Mote and Joe Restic.

Grant solemnly apologized for the absence of his aides, Joe Zalecki and John Michels, who were "busy poring over last-minute details," and his players, "on the town, soaking up some of the Toronto atmosphere."

HONOR FIVE

Five men were honored at the dinner for their contributions to Canadian football.

They are Don McPherson of Regina, Bob Reid of Toronto, Barry O'Brien of Ottawa, George McMahon of Calgary and the late Jesse Flitton of Toronto.

TOP TRIO — George Reed of the Saskatchewan Roughriders has been named the Most Outstanding Player in Canadian Football in the 1965 annual Canadian Schenley Football Awards. He was presented with the Canadian Schenley Trophy at a special reception in Toronto, Thursday, November 25 and is shown holding the coveted award. Other winners were Zeno Karcz (right), of the Hamilton Ti-Cats, named as Canadian player of the year, and Wayne Harris (left), of the Calgary Stampeders, named as Lineman of the year.

'Few Creatures Were Stirring . . .'

'Twas The Night Before Grey Cup . . .'

TORONTO (CP) — Rubber-necking Torontonians cruised around downtown hotels and honked their automobile horns. But they weren't intended as warnings to pedestrians because there weren't many.

That was the scene Friday night on the eve of today's Grey Cup final between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Toronto's hotel belt, once the scene of rollicking rivalry between Eastern and Western football supporters, was calm.

There weren't even many young punks around—the types who harassed fans and police in the 1960 final in Vancouver by tossing mattresses from hotel windows, jumping on cars and starting street fights.

There was a flurry of activity around the Royal York Hotel when the Grey Cup dinner ended. Other than that, it was just another Friday night in Toronto.

The lobby—bare of furniture—is the only area of sustained celebrating and much of it seemed forced.

At the Lord Simcoe Hotel-fans stood around talking in subdued tones while at the King Edward-Sheraton, where the parties were left intact, people sat sedately.

Even the weatherman threw a damper on the proceedings. He issued a warning Friday night that cold air would be blown in by gales of 25 to 45 m.p.h. with gusts to 55 for today's game, starting at 1 p.m. EST.

Extra police were on duty, but their biggest job was controlling traffic.

A CPR special bearing fans from Ottawa arrived late Friday night, but CNR specials carrying fans from Winnipeg and Hamilton weren't due until today and they were scheduled to pull out shortly after the game.

Rain started late Friday afternoon. The ground crew at Canadian National Exhibition stadium, scene of the game, had the tarpaulin in place to protect the field.

'Just Before The Battle . . .'

'Ready For Anything' Said Coaches

By WALTER ERREVENCHUK

TORONTO (CP)—"It sounds as if Winnipeg has just blown in," coach Bud Grant of Winnipeg Blue Bombers said Friday night.

He had just been told the weather forecast for the Grey Cup game today when Bombers meet Hamilton Tiger - Cats. Gales gusting to 55 miles an hour were forecast and rain was expected.

"We're played in it all before and we're prepared for every eventuality," said Grant.

"I understand the field will be in excellent shape and that's all that matters."

Hamilton coach Ralph Sazio wasn't worried either. He said his team can make needed adjustments.

The temperature for the 1 p.m. EST kickoff for the sixth Hamilton - Winnipeg Grey Cup encounter in nine years was expected to be near 40.

IT'S 38th ENCOUNTER

Almost 30,000 western fans are expected to be in a sell-out crowd of more than 32,000 at Canada's National Exhibition Stadium in the 38th East-West cup encounter.

Thousands more will watch the climax of a rags-to-riches Blue Bombers' season on CBC and CTV national television networks.

Sazio has a look-ribbed defence to lead the Tiger-Cats into their eighth Grey Cup final in nine years. The defence was successful, he said, because of an ability to wear down opponents. This has been the traditional strength of the Tiger-Cats but it hasn't worked against Winnipeg in three sudden-death cup games.

Despite these successes, Toronto bookies Friday had Hamilton three-point favorites.

The Tiger-Cats skipped practice Friday but devoted time to discussion of Winnipeg offensive and defensive patterns. The Bombers had a light practice then held a strategy meeting.

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

Highlights of past Blue Bombers-Ti-Cat contests:

In 1953, Bomber quarterback Dallas Jack Jacobs threw a cup record 46 passes. None went for a touchdown and Winnipeg lost 12-6.

In 1957, a fan standing on the sidelines tripped touchdown-bound Ray (Dibbles) Bawel on St. Catharines-Hamilton but Tiger-Cats defeated an injury-crippled Winnipeg team 32-7.

In 1958, quarterback Jimmy Van Pelt of Bombers scored a touchdown record 22 points. Winnipeg won 35-28.

In 1959, Winnipeg scored 18 points in the final quarter to win 21-7.

In 1961, the Bombers won the first overtime game in cup history, 21-14.

In 1962, dense fog stretched the contest to two days. The game was halted with nine minutes and 29 seconds remaining on Saturday, Dec. 6, with the Bombers ahead 28-27. There was no scoring when the game was completed the next day.

Rangers Defeat Hawks

Flyers Lose Three In Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers and Kitchener Rangers are stepping out of character. The Flyers are supposed to win hockey games. The Rangers are supposed to lose them.

Both threw away the script in their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A games Friday night. The Rangers downed St. Catharines Black Hawks 4-2 to end a six-game losing streak and the Flyers lost 3-2 to Montreal Canadiens for their third defeat in a row.

Niagara Falls, still two points far from the second-place Oshawa Generals, hadn't lost a game before the current tailspin. The Rangers, with their fourth win in 15 starts, emerged from a last-place tie with London Nationals.

Robin Burns fired the winning goal for the Canadiens in the third period and goaltender Ted Ouimet made it stand up by stopping his fourth Niagara Falls breakaway of the night with 15 seconds remaining. Michel Lapaime and Norm Fergusson of Montreal matched earlier goals with Rosaire Paiement and Bud Debrody of the Flyers.

Two goals by Bob Jones sank the Hawks, who led 2-1 after the first period. Rookies Don Luce and Gary Hopcraft also counted for Kitchener while Bob Sleiski and Doug Shelton were the St. Catharines marksmen.

Peg Coach Tributes Trimble

TORONTO (CP)—Bud Grant, 1965 Coach of the Year, won a round of applause from 1,100 spectators at the annual Grey Cup Dinner Friday night as he paid tribute to the first winner of the award, Jim Trimble.

Trimble, who was awarded the Annis Stukus Trophy by a poll of his fellow coaches in 1961, when he headed Hamilton Tiger-Cats, was fired this week as coach of Montreal Alouettes. Earlier in the day, he made a public apology for assaulting a Montreal sports writer in a downtown hotel here early Thursday.

"Trimble was the first coach I played under as a professional," Grant said. "A great deal of what I know about football I learned from him."

Grant played under Trimble with Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League in 1952.

Multi-Million Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—The National and American Football Leagues will begin throwing money at top U.S. college football players today minutes after midnight — their simultaneous but separate—drafts.

If last year is any indication, the drafts again will touch off a multi-million dollar battle for player talent, and some high rollers will contract only minutes after their names are chalked up on the draft blackboards.

Kentucky quarterback Rick Norton, who appears to be the No. 1 pro-type passer among a small group of standout college signal-callers, could turn out to be the big game in the competition.

Before the draft ends, the 15 NFL teams will have selected 305 players while the AFL will have named 271.

Expects To Be Rehired Says Clair

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Clair, head coach of Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference, said Friday he expects to be rehired next season.

Clair, in Toronto for today's Grey Cup football final between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats, said he feels the Rough Rider executive has enough confidence in his ability to rehire him.

There had been rumors that Clair will be released following Ottawa's loss to Hamilton in the eastern final this year.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: Would you please tell me through your travel column what an average two-week holiday would cost in Belleville? When is the best time to go and what is there to do? I am an average spender. Any information would be appreciated. — O.M.B., Belleville.

ANSWER: Well, if you insist on a $30 a day hotel room in Miami Beach or plan to spend seven days at Disneyland and nights at the dog track, nobody can tell you.

But if you're an average spender, it will cost you about $18 U.S. a day. That includes accommodation, food, entertainment at winter rates, (peak season prices go into effect Dec. 15).

Also, if you are an average tourist, you will stay two weeks (13½ days to be exact) and your entire holiday will cost you $244.82 U.S.

These figures were extracted from a state tourist study which was carried on over the entire span of 1964.

The winter tourist will spend $5 a day more than his summer counterpart, which is actually less of a spread than most people suspected.

How do vacationers get to Florida? More than 60 per cent of the record 14,484,652 who went last year (and left $2.6 billion) travelled by car. One out of every eight visitors went by plane; 8 per cent by bus and 5 per cent by train.

Even in Miami Beach — usually considered the high-priced spread in the sun — you can find a day ocean front hotel in the middle of the winter season and minister-free first class accommodation the beach with a $10 a day double available.

But if you want to stay well below the $18 average, you're probably better off to pick a spot other than the Gold Coast.

St. Petersburg on the Gulf Coast, for example, has a great deal of accommodation aimed at a pensioner's budget. It's much easier here to find a hotel motel or efficiency apartment at more reasonable prices.

Despite the intense competition from the islands of Bahamas and Caribbean, Florida remains the star attraction for an amazing number of Canadians. Last year, 417,150 came and Miami Beach was the first stop. Fort Lauderdale was third in New York and Chicago as a producer of vacationers.

QUESTION: Could you tell me if there is a Disneyland now in Florida, or any information concerning one? — J. S., Belleville.

ANSWER: A rumor has been circulating in Florida for some time that Walt Disney will build an East coast Disneyland in the state. Now things have gone beyond the rumor stage. Disney has purchased 20,000 acres near Orlando. State officials from the governor down are sure he will announce plans for a new Disneyland.

If built it would be certain to herald a leading role in Florida tourist attraction, just as Disneyland at Anaheim, near Los Angeles, is the No. 1 draw on the coast. Of course, it would be a couple of years at least before it looked like this could near completion.

It is all but impossible to describe what Disneyland is like who haven't seen it. Basically it's an amusement park — but like no other.

The roller coaster runs up and down the Matterhorn; you go down the Mississippi on animated alligators snapping at you and elephants taking a bath in the jungle; you ride a stage coach through Indian country, and there's a frontier battle rage. You take a submarine ride and sit in a Wild West saloon and there's a pop bazooka. Disney won't allow litter on the grounds.

Sounds like it's for children? It is. But year after year, the number of adults among the 6,000,000 visitors widely outstrips the number of children.

Guelph Wallops Kingston

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Regals and Oakville Oaks remain convincingly Friday night in two Ontario Hockey Association. Senior A games.

The Regals came back from a three-game losing streak to whitewash Kingston Aces 7-0. The Oaks came from behind a 2-0 Woodstock Athletic lead to win 4-3.

One-man efforts highlighted both games. Dave Luciuk got three goals for Guelph, one in each period, to lead that attack.

Don Fuller's two goals in the second period cancelled the early 2-0 Woodstock lead and his third in the last period was the winner for Oakville's first place, with 19 points, one more than second-place Kingston.

Regular Oakville goalie Al Bennett was injured with a high stick just after the first Woodstock goal. Substitute goalie Keith Moxon came out of the stands to fill in. He allowed one more goal before Fuller took over.

Other scorers for the Oaks were Jack Pryce and Brian Price. Bobby Robinson scored two for the Athletics, while Dino Leggio and Tom Wilson added the others.

Swaps $70,000 Radio Job For 'Hogan's Heroes' Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Glib, ambitious Bob Crane has his own vision of destiny in television.

As a morning platter-chatter emcee of KNX, the CBS outlet in Hollywood, Bob showed a knack of wringing quotable interviews from top stars that was the delight to hear. Many thought he could manage a network television show that would be up to Jack Paar's.

Others thought Crane should be starring in a situation comedy series. He agreed, but wanted to call his own shot.

"I had to talk for a long time to explain to the producer why I wasn't right for Please Don't Eat The Daisies," he says. "I also had to explain why I didn't want to do My Living Doll, before Robert Cummings was considered for the role."

One thing Crane did know: he'd no longer wanted to play the next-door doctor on The Donna Reed Show.

Crane finally found his destiny when Bing Crosby Productions offered him the lead in Hogan's Heroes.

"That's me," he exclaimed.

Crane's characterization of a prisoner-of-war prisoner who runs the camp from the other side of the stockade is a principal factor of the CBS series' success.

Crane continued the radio show for a month after Hogan's Heroes began shooting. Then the dialogue started disappearing from his messages and he realized that radio would have to go. It was no small sacrifice. He had been earning $70,000 a year on KNX.

Many Resolutions Passed At W.I. Area Convention Held at Club Canada

By RETA LAWRENCE

The thirty-ninth annual convention of the Trent Valley Convention Area of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario was held at the Club Canada, Belleville, on Thursday and Friday, November 25th and 26th, with a registration of 213. This convention encompasses the combined districts of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland and Peterborough.

This year is known as International Co-Operation year and the theme is "Working Together".

After registration of the delegates, Mrs. T. M. Gresham of Colborne, acting for Mrs. H. Sherar of Lakefield, presided at the first session.

Song leader for all the sessions was Mrs. Roy Sills of Halloway with Mrs. Jack Parrott, Bellerilla, as pianist.

The proposed resolutions of the convention were read by Mrs. Ralph Sills, Halloway, for consideration of the delegates, after which each district president responded to the roll call with a short thought on the theme.

Reports on citizenship and education, including agricultural and current events, agriculture and Canadian industry, home economics and health, and public relations were presented. Roll calls, mottoes, papers, pow wows and topics used at W.I. meetings were listed.

VARIOUS REPORTS

Mrs. J. Whitehouse, (Citizenship and Education) left her audience pondering the question, "Is anybody happier because you passed this way?" Mrs. George Rigby's report on historical research and events concluded by saying, "Let's us never forget those who, through their hard work, built the foundations of our country and our way of life". Mrs. Robert Allen, Bellerilla, told of various Centennial projects being prepared by Institutes throughout the area. Her report on home economics and health by Mrs. Frank Brown of Shannonville, cited that there is a great increase in membership in 4-H Girls' Clubs. Said that these girls, due to the efforts of home economists and local leaders, have developed self-confidence, better judgment and manners and a greater sense of responsibility than the average girl. This report was given by Mrs. Rogers. The public relations report was given by Mrs. Percy Ray of Stirling. "These reports", she said, "are a guide and a beacon to those who follow".

The afternoon session was chaired by Mrs. S. R. Beatty, Madoc.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. L. R. Trivers of Thessalon, president of the F.W.I.O., was guest speaker and she was introduced by Mrs. Ivan Mc-Laren of Shannonville. Mrs. Trivers was leader of the Ontario delegation to the recent the conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World.

Mrs. Trivers said that the world has narrowed to a neighborhood before it expanded to a brotherhood. Working together means much to us. We want the things we enjoy — health, education and peace — for people all over the world. Each of us alone can do little but working together we become a force that cannot not be ignored."

The speaker talked of the "Forgotten Child" program, international scholarship fund, penalties for friendship project, national foundation fund, Adelaide Hoodless Homestead fund, Coupon plan, food control and agricultural learning, community programs, the Tweedsmuir history project, and many other subjects of interest to F.W.I.O. members. She stressed that all members learn about the A.C.W.W. and the U.N. and learn how to use the mechanics of these organizations in the cause of peace. "Our future depends not so much on the use of outer space but on the use we make of inner space — the space between our ears. Man tries to bring Heaven to earth but woman tries to let earth to Heaven." She also announced that the national convention will be held in Guelph, Ontario, in 1967 and the World Conference in Michigan in 1968.

Thanks was expressed by Mrs. W. A. Goodfellow of Codrington, who presented the speaker with a gift on behalf of the Institutes of the area.

NEW OFFICERS

The following is the slate of officers for the coming year: past president, Mrs. S. R. Beatty, Madoc; president: Mrs. Harry Sherar, Lakefield; 1st vice-president, Mrs. T. M. Gresham, Colebourne; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Clifford Barber, Belleville; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. A. Linton, Cobourg; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. A. J. Calnan, Grafton; public relations officer, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Stirling; board director-zone 1, Mrs. Rex Rollins, Madoc; zone 2, Mrs. S. R. Beatty, Madoc; board director-zone 3, Mrs. W. A. Goodfellow Codrington; alternate, Mrs. H. Carr, Castleton; auditors, Mrs. Gordon Machlin, Cobourg, and Mrs. Harold Johnston, Peterborough.

Mrs. Ralph Sills, Halloway, assistant, Mrs. Ken McMechan, Shannonville; auditor, Mrs. Ralph Sills, Halloway; assistant, Mrs. Ken McMechan, Shannonville, Mrs. Allen Linton, Cobourg, and Mrs. Earl Underoak, Carrying Place.

RESOLUTIONS SUSTAINED

The following resolutions were sustained:

"WHEREAS at present a great many cardigan sweaters have buttons or tags fastening on button and buttonhole fronts;

AND WHEREAS many of these buttons shrink and the cardigan loses its shape and spoils the appearance;

BE IT THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario do everything possible to individually and collectively to encourage the manufacturers and importers of cardigan sweaters to sell only pre-shrunk bindings.

WHEREAS at present in the different secondary schools there are completely different books being used for the same subject in the same grade;

AND WHEREAS a child moving from one school to another finds in the new faces a completely different set of books part way through the school term;

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario request the Department of Education to arrange for a uniform set of books to be used in each and is used for the same subject in the same grade throughout the Province.

WHEREAS at present regarding textbooks for different subjects in elementary schools, there are various books for the same subject resulting that the pupils change the one best suited to him or her;

AND WHEREAS books suited to one teacher in a certain subject is not suited to another teacher, additional books are purchased for the same subject with a change of teacher;

AND WHEREAS since there is not money needed for text books, it might be better used for revised books rather than additional books at the same level for the same subjects;

AND WHEREAS a child moving from one school to another finds himself facing a completely different set of books for similar subjects in the same grade throughout the province;

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario request the Department of Education to arrange for a uniform set of books so that the same book is used for the same subject in the same grade throughout the Province.

WHEREAS a goodly number of motorists, numerically, not percentage-wise, pay $20. to the Provincial Government in lieu of driver car insurance, and

AND WHEREAS the payment of this $20. does not give the insured motorist much, if any protection, against the uninsured motorist, except in serious injury cases, and

And whereas in many instances the insured motorist is financially penalized with increased premiums or claim fees because his insurers cannot recover payments made out on his behalf although he is the innocent victim;

Be it resolved that the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario do everything possible both individually and collectively to petition the Provincial government to make it mandatory that such persons must have Public Liability insurance on car before they be allowed to purchase their licence.

Between these are more than a few members who have seldom, if ever, attended Women's Institute Area Conventions.

And whereas greater participation in these events would more interest and enthusiasm for area activities;

Therefore be it resolved that Trent Valley Area Women's Institute's annual convention be changed to a definite system throughout the area.

CURATOR'S REPORT

During the afternoon, Mrs. Ralph Sills, Halloway, area curator, presented her report and mentioned that the area book would be available at the meeting for all to see.

"As we are approaching the Centennial," she said, "more books are becoming more and more interested in their ancestry." Having published the Dublin volume in the Genealogical Society of Ontario at the University of Western, Mrs. Sills was able to explain the processes necessary in order to trace one's family history.

Mrs. Clifford Barber of Belleville presided over the evening session.

ACWW CONFERENCE

Mrs. Trivers gave a report at the meeting of the ACWW conference which was held at the Royal Dublin Society Premises, Ballsbridge, Dublin, Ireland, from September 14th to the 20th, 1965.

Representatives from 49 countries attended the conference, and sometimes the attendance reached between four and five thousand. Entertainment was provided by the Irish Countrywomen's Association.

Though the work schedule of the Conference was very demanding, the delegates were treated to a visit with Lord and Lady Dunsany at Dunsany Castle; a visit to An Grianan which is the Irish Countrywomen's Association's residential college where women attend short courses on a variety of subjects; a visit to one of the Dublin Horse Show and a Fashion Show of Irish tweeds from coats to the sheerest evening gowns. The president of A.C.W.W. was Mrs. G. van Beekhoff of the Netherlands.

The ceremonies were opened by Mrs. Tavaziol, Mr. Sean Lemass, T.F. The royal treatment by the populace of Dublin as well as the presence of delegates from each country, and the 850 voice choir of the Irish Countrywomen's Association prompts

Father Objects to Beatle Haircut

BORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: I am 15 and have a Beatle haircut, which isn't very long. My father is dead against this. I'm considered one of the well-mannered, nice boys and because of my Beatle haircut my father thinks this is going to change the whole whole outlook on me. He thinks a brush cut looks so much nicer, but this is only because he's had one all his life.

I think my haircut does something for me and I'm not just wearing it because it's a fad. If I don't get my hair cut soon my privileges will be taken away. My father is a nice man and I don't want to part with it. Just the other day I got a Beatle cap and this is what really sets off.

Isn't there anything I could say to them to make them realize this all a part of being a teen-ager? Many of my friends have the same problem. — TYPICAL TEEN-AGER.

* * *

DEAR TEEN-AGER: I'm not so sure about the "typical" — I hope!

As I see it, this "way out hair style belongs on the stage. Do you go for false eyelashes on your girl friends?

Since your father realizes this is a change in your development, like thumb sucking and playing marbles, I can't see it does any great harm. Show your dad that you can keep clean and not be sloppy because of the girls you like although themselves out of a date, ask yourself whether the shaggy dog look is to blame.

Mrs. Trivers to fondly utter the Irish greeting, "Cead mile failte".

FRIDAY SESSION

On Friday morning Mrs. S. R. Beatty, Madoc, and Mrs. Reduced Miss H. McKercher, Director Home Economics Service.

Miss McKercher's address had as a preamable, "Take from the table, not the ashes, but the fire.'

"Few Canadian institutions during the last fifty years or more of a century have made greater contributions to the development of the country, its life and the well being of the farm woman than Women's Institutes."

"We must take from the past as we build the future — take from the past that which is most useful, adapt and modify to serve future needs — add to this that which is new to the area of service. A satisfying home is economically sound, physically healthful, mechanically convenient, artistically satisfying, mentally stimulating, socially acceptable, morally responsible, spiritually inspiring, and founded on mutual affection."

Miss McKercher concluded by saying that each person and organization must "Aim high". Be objective and stick to it. "You can't get somewhere from nowhere."

PANEL DISCUSSION

In the afternoon, with Mrs. T. M. Gresham presiding, there was a panel discussion by the three Home Economists in the area. They included Miss Janet Munroe of Hastings, Leonard Hall of Prince Edward and Mrs. Rogers of Northumberland and Prince Edward, and Miss Wray of fore 1825.

Petersborough County. They outlined their work and the progress being made in it, and told of the work of the 4-H Girls' Clubs, scholarships, Fall Fairs and County honor certificates and pins which have been presented for their work at fairs and on radio.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Gresham, retiring member of the Board; Mrs. Ray, retiring secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Sherar who has been president for two years.

The next annual convention will be held in Peterborough in the autumn of 1966.

MEMORIES OF ERIN

A delightful climax to the convention was a talk by Mrs. W. A. Goodfellow on her "Memories of Erin." Mrs. Goodfellow brought her audience to the conference in Dublin and then toured Ireland for ten days. She called on her own memory in a story-form — a land of leprachauns castles, mist, Irish linen, soda bread, heather and tall tales. The speaker described the life from the mechanized east to the primitive west, told the history of their patron saint and left her audience with a feeling that the Emerald Isle as quickly as possible.

Entertainment was provided at various periods during the convention by members from the various districts.

All meals were served in the Club Canada room by the ladies of the C.N.R.A.

EXPECT BRITAIN TO GUARD ZAMBIA FOR

Approve Giving Peace-Keeping Powers To OAS

From Reuters-AP

RIO DE JANIERO (CP)—The foreign ministers of 19 Latin American countries late Sunday night approved the Act of Rio de Janeiro recommending sweeping changes in the inter-American system known as the Organization of American States.

But approval came only after heated debate and parliamentary manoeuvring. The big wrangle came over giving the OAS peace-keeping powers, and passage on that proposal came by a slim margin.

Shortly before the foreign ministers approved the new reforms in the 1948 OAS charter, Spain announced a 10-year program of economic aid to Latin America that would cost up to $1,000,000,000.

The ministers' recommendations included:

—A call for a new conference next July to amend the OAS charter;

—Establishment of a committee to draft the amendments;

—Provision for annual inter-American conferences under the amended charter;

—Creation of three councils of equal status to serve as the organization's political, social and economic, and educational and cultural arms.

Division came over a clause instructing the committee on charter amendments to consider giving the political council peacekeeping responsibilities.

To some this appeared a step toward abridgement of the principle of non-interference in affairs of other nations, a key point in every Latin American nation's foreign policy. Chile initially objected to that section, and Brazil supported them.

Chief U.S. delegate Averell Harriman said no country should be opposed to the idea of the appropriate OAS agency being able to act to maintain peace. He added that the conference would be "reinventing the whole paper" by removing the clause.

The clause was upheld by a vote of 10 to 8 with the Dominican Republic abstaining.

When the entire document was voted on article by article, all but the article with the peacekeeping clause were accepted unanimously.

Canada's Satellite In Orbit

VANDENBERG BASE, Calif. (CP)—The tension of a week of frustration evaporated Sunday night when Canada's Alouette II satellite was launched into an almost perfect orbit.

The launch, aboard a Thor-Agena B rocket, went like clockwork. After a near perfect countdown, the rocket rose from the Pacific Coast launch pad only 47 seconds after its scheduled 8:45 p.m. launch time.

Less than two hours later, information from-an Alaska tracking station confirmed that the Defence Research Board satellite was in orbit and operating.

"It was a perfect launch," said Dr. John Chapman, co-ordinator of the Alouette program.

The launch had been postponed three times last week, and there were fears about another delay when winds in the jet stream at about 30,000 feet altitude started to increase in velocity Sunday. However, the

FIND BODY

QUEBEC (CP)—A snow removal crew working on the outskirts of Quebec Saturday night found the body of Gilles Godin, 27, in his car, shot through the head. Police said the car was found in the ditch and all four doors were locked.

THEY WERE ON U.S. SIDE — The eyes of a Viet namese litter bearer tell a sad tale as he walks down road crowded with corpses of American and Vietnamese soldiers at Michelin Rubber Plantation. A Ranger battalion retook the ground, 45 miles northwest of Saigon, that had been lost when Viet Cong overran a Vietnamese battalion and a regimental headquarters. Forecast Choice Of RAF Unit

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson held an emergency meeting of his cabinet today amid reports Britain was ready to send an RAF squadron to Zambia bordering rebellious Rhodesia.

The meeting lasted 1½ hours. It was called suddenly this morning after a midnight meeting of ministers directly concerned with the Rhodesia crisis broke up.

Wilson has shown wariness about sending British ground forces to meet Negro - ruled Zambia's request for troops to protect the Kariba dam. The dam is jointly operated with Rhodesia and is the main source of power for Zambia's huge copper mines. Much of the copper is exported to Britain.

Sources said Britain would send a token RAF reconnaissance squadron to patrol the dam and its power lines. A squadron is made up of 12 to 18 planes.

The question of troops for Zambia threatened to split the fragile unity British political parties have maintained in face of Rhodesia's seizure of independence.

President Kenneth Kuanda of Zambia has formally asked the British troops to protect the Kariba dam, which was sabotaged last week. The dam is controlled from the Rhodesian side.

Political observers said that if British decides to send even a token military force to Zambia the right wing of the Conservative parliamentary party would interpret the move as the first stage of military action against Rhodesia, and mobilize its parliamentary strength in an effort to block such action.

NIGHT START WAVE

The observers said the parliamentary party revolt would encourage the Afro-Asian nations to try to force the United Nations to undertake military action against Rhodesia.

On the other hand, the observers said, a refusal to send British troops would expose Kaunda to pressure from other African leaders, including Egypt, to allow their troops into Zambia.

Wilson and his top ministers discussed the troop decision at a three-hour meeting Sunday night. Among those present was Malcolm Macdonald, Britain's special envoy in East and Central Africa.

Macdonald arrived in London from Zambia Sunday to deliver Kaunda's letter asking for British troops. Sunday night he gave Wilson and his ministers an assessment of the impact on Zambia of the contemplated tougher sanctions against the white-

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Two fires caused by thrown bottles of inflammable liquids and several minor stoning incidents interrupted an otherwise peaceful Sunday in Salisbury, a police spokesman said today.

Ten Negroes were arrested after the fires late Sunday night, the first of which caused considerable damage to a timber stack. The second was extinguished quickly.

One Negro was slightly injured and another was arrested in the stoning incidents.

There have been few incidents of violence in the Rhodesian capital since Prime Minister

Would Fire On British Invaders

BONN (Reuters) — Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith today was quoted as saying Rhodesians would fire on the Union Jack if British troops entered his country.

Smith was asked by a correspondent of the West German news magazine Der Spiegel: "What would you do if British paratroopers landed in Salisbury one morning?"

Smith was quoted as replying: "I would not like to be one of those paratroopers, I can assure you of that."

The correspondent then asked: "Would you fire on the Union Jack?"

Smith replied: "Certainly. Anyone who comes to this country without the right to do so will see what happens to him."

Ian Smith declared the white-ruled British colony independent on Nov. 11.

A reported call for a strike this week by Negro workers as a protest against the independence seizure appeared today to have failed.

Police said there was no evidence of a strike as workers streamed into industrial areas from the city centre on buses, bicycle and foot.

Workers were also reported turning up at their jobs in Bulawayo, the country's second largest city, 200 miles to the south.

Helicopters patrolled over Bulawayo's townships and armed police patrolled the streets in the industrial city where a Negro was shot to death during a two-day strike last week.

Marching Does Not Convince Anybody Admits Head of Viet Nam Protests

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leader of the weekend peace march on Washington, in which thousands protested American involvement in the Viet Nam war, said today that "a demonstration doesn't convince anybody."

Despite this, Sanford Gottlieb added in a telephone interview, more demonstrations are being considered by the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE).

Gottlieb is political action director of SANE, which sponsored Saturday's march and picketing of the White House in

Like the rest of the demonstrators, the Canadians, in small isolated groups, circled slowly for two hours around the White House and then in orderly files flowed in the adjacent park area around the Washington Monument to hear speeches.

Gottlieb said future marches are being considered because "at a time when a dramatic event is needed to publicize your point of view, there's nothing like a large demonstration."

The SANE marchers carried signs urging an end to bombing in Viet Nam and negotiated settlement of the war. They were joined by more dissident groups, including one carrying the gold-starred flag of the Viet Cong.

March leaders had arranged for protesters carrying American flags to quickly surround the Viet Cong banners. Despite this, some of the 15 arrests during the march were prompted by the Communist flags.

Hanoi radio announced that the Viet Cong has liberated two U.S. military prisoners to show its good will toward the peace demonstrators.

Governor Carl Sanders of Georgia attacked the peace marchers Sunday on ABC's radio-television program, Issues and Answers.

"I can't understand any one in America would not rally around the flag and support our men in Viet Nam," Sanders told a socialist leader Norman Thomas and Dr. Benjamin Spock, two leaders of Saturday's march.

"I think marches and demonstration of the type you participated in yesterday are doing more to help Communists," the governor added.

Spock and Thomas, while describing the Viet Nam war as immoral, emphasized that they were not advocating withdrawal of American troops until there is a stable situation.

U.S. to Send Allies More A-Bombs

PARIS (Reuters) — The United States will increase its detail of nuclear warheads in Europe by 20 per cent in the next six months, U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara said Sunday night.

The present total is 5,000, McNamara told a press conference after a meeting of NATO defence ministers here.

McNamara said the planned increase would mean that the number of warheads in Europe had been doubled in five years.

The warheads, which remain under American custody, support U.S. and other NATO units.

American sources said there also are about 5,000 warheads in the United States at present.

McNamara later left by plane for Saigon to review the Viet Nam war at first hand on a two-day inspection tour.

NATO's latest moves to improve consultation on use of nuclear weapons are not a substitute for an Allied nuclear force, but an essential preliminary to it.

U.S. to Send As Many Men As Required

SAIGON (AP) — Defence Secretary Robert McNamara ended his visit to South Viet Nam today by declaring that the United States would throw in as many fighting men as needed to wage the war against the communists.

McNamara told reporters after his 36-hour tour that his impression is that "we have stopped losing the war."

He added, however, that the increased ferocity of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacks in recent weeks indicated "a clear decision by Hanoi to escalate infiltration and raise the level of the conflict."

Russia Says China Fails Viet Cong

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union blames China for the inability of the Communist bloc to offer more effective aid to the Viet Cong in Viet Nam.

It does so in a statement, published as an editorial across two-thirds of Pravda's front page, that is as notable for what it does not say as for what it does.

Although clearly a reply to a Chinese editorial attack Nov. 11, the Pravda editorial does not deny Chinese charges of efforts early this year to halt the Viet Namese fighting. It says China turned down specific proposals to assist Vietnamese premier Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, is the need for unity in the Communist camp.

The Chinese said Nov. 11 that Soviet unity pleas are a fraud. Calls for unity on Viet Nam, they said, "have no other purpose in mind than to deceive the world, to tie the fraternal countries to the chariot of Soviet-

Howling Winds, Heavy Snow Cause Damage in Province

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Anybody who wishes they'd stayed home over the weekend while the weather wreaked its wrath on their particular neighborhood, might ponder the wish of Robert Anderson.

He wishes he'd been at his home near Dunville, Ont., about 30 miles west of Welland, last week when a wind insurance salesman called. His wife Joan asked the salesman to come back this week when her husband would be there.

Saturday the gale-force winds that lashed Ontario, playing havoc with the Grey Cup Game in Toronto earlier Saturday —also ripped at his home chicken houses and farm machinery. Damage was estimated at about $600.

They might consider also the plight of two Langton Ont. duck hunters, forced to huddle on wind-swept Pottahwk Point in Lake Erie, about 30 miles southwest of Simcoe, at least until today after they were stranded by Saturday's storm.

Leroy Long, 24, and his Brother Gerald, 27, set out early Saturday by outboard motor boat. They were spotted by a plane Sunday but an attempt to take them off by boat was foiled by the weather.

Heavy seas on Lake Erie claimed at least one death, Vernon Bellows, 20, of Thorold, Ont., drowned after his boat capsized Saturday. His body washed ashore later in the day near Lowbanks, Ont. 15 miles southwest of Welland.

Elsewhere on the Great Lakes there was happier news. The British Freighter Ramon de Larrinaga, grounded by the storm Friday night off St. Joseph Island, 35 miles southwest of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was freed Sunday.

The 500-foot Canadian freighter Avondale reached shelter off

Long Point, in Lake Erie, Sunday after being reported in trouble Saturday night. With 32 men aboard, she had reported deck plates broken in the engine room and loss of steam.

The Allison a 649-foot ship of Canadian registry, with 38 men aboard reached Buffalo, N.Y., safely Sunday after reporting she was in distress Saturday in 20-foot high waves.

The Welland Ship Canal resumed operation Sunday afternoon after being closed by the weather for 25 hours during the weekend as sea-going vessels attempted to beat the Dec. 3 closing of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Other hard-hit areas were northern Ontario, where Saturday's storm left 15 inches of snow at Port Arthur and Port William — the biggest storm since 1941—and parts of New Brunswick which had more than 11 inches of snow dumped on them.

Rumored Pauline Jewett May Get Post in Cabinet

COBOURG — Former North umberland MP Dr. Pauline Jewett may be brought back to Parliament in an Ottawa West by-election, according to Liberal party sources in her riding.

Dr. Jewett lost to Conservative George Hees in the Nov. 8 general election by 500 votes, with each getting more than 10,000 votes.

According to reports, Ottawa West MP George McIlraith may be elevated to the Senate in the near future to open the riding for a by-election. Mr. McIlraith was critical of his party's campaign following the election.

Prime Minister Pearson promised Dr. Jewett "an important and government post" during a Cobourg campaign stop. He has promised to reveal cabinet postings on his return from Jamaica where he is holidaying.

Cost of Margaret's Trip Blows Up Storm in British House

LONDON (AP)—A storm has blown up over the cost of Princess Margaret's visit to the United States and how much British taxpayers will have to contribute.

Members of Parliament are critical of the lavish style in which the 35-year-old princess and her photographer husband, the Earl of Snowdon, travelled during their 20-day tour.

Two Labor MPs have presented questions in Parliament about the cost of the trip and several publications have criticized it.

MPs are demanding to be told how the tour, a whirl of high society dinners and receptions, fits the image of a Britain battling for higher productivity and greater exports.

Labor MP William Hamilton has presented three questions in parliament about the cost of the trip and its purpose.

He said he will ask James Callaghan, chancellor of the exchequer, this week to state the cost of the visit and give details of how the money was spent. He said he also wants Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart and Douglas Jay, president of the Board of Trade, to tell him how much each department will have to pay toward the cost of the trip and how many of their officials are included in deputations connected with it.

Labor MP Hugh Delargy also has formulated a parliamentary question about the cost and purpose of the visit.

The weekly New Statesman and the Sunday Telegraph both criticized the cost of Margaret's American tour.

Hamilton claimed the government consented to underwrite the visit when Margaret agreed to attend the annual dinner of the English Speaking Union and two shows organized by London fashion designers.

Foreign affairs spokesman said not all of the royal couple's tour expenses would come out of the taxpayers' pockets. He explained:

"Princess Margaret was given the full support of the Queen in the United States: When the government became aware of this they asked if she would undertake some government visits and public relations functions, to which she agreed. The government will be paying the expenses of the governmental part of the trip and the rest will be met privately."

He refused to say how much the government's part of the bill would be.

Most of the Howling Done By Wind After Cup Game

By JIM CREAR

TORONTO (CP)—Most of the howling was done by the wind on Grey Cup weekend.

Chill winds whipped through downtown streets Saturday night, and the throngs that usually whoop it up after the annual East - West football final chose to stay indoors.

Police put extra men on duty and waited for the wholesale celebrating that never materialized.

Only 74 arrests, mostly for drunkenness, were made in downtown Toronto after the game, won 22-16 by Hamilton Tiger-Cats over Winnipeg Blue Bombers. The hotel and night-club belt usually yields about 40 arrests on a normal Saturday night, police said.

Even Hamilton supporters refused to let their exuberance bubble over. There were no street demonstrations and police reported no more arrests than usual.

Some felt there would have been more revelry if two other teams had met in the game. This was the sixth in nine years between Winnipeg and Hamilton and it may be that the fans are becoming accustomed to the sure old clash.

FEW FANS STAYED

Few fans who came in from Hamilton for the game stayed around for the post-game celebrations, preferring to enjoy the victory at home.

And disappointment of Bomber fans was evident as about 1,200 of the estimated 3,000 who made the trip here didn't bother to stay overnight.

The 11 coach CNR Blue Bomber Special pulled into downtown Union Station early Saturday morning and left for Winnipeg late Saturday night.

The lobby of Toronto's Royal York Hotel was quiet Saturday night but the atmosphere was quieter than in other years. A viewer dance produced no serious incidents.

One Hamilton fan pulled out all the stops by yanking the emergency cord of the five-coach CNR special taking some 350 Tiger-Cat fans home after the game. He held the train up for nearly an hour in nearby Burlington.

The fans demonstrated briefly at the railway station when the train finally reached Hamilton, but the crowd broke up quickly.

There was no formal reception for the Tiger-Cats in Hamilton Saturday night, but a civic reception is scheduled for tonight.

70-pound Wolf Shot, Killed Near Foxboro

A 70-pound wolf was shot and killed Thursday about one mile north of Foxboro.

Elmer Ogden of Mudcat Lane was out walking his dog when three wolves appeared on the road ahead of him. He shot the one with his shotgun and the other two ran away.

It was the third wolf known to be killed near Foxboro this year.

Thurlow Twp. To Vote for 3 Councillors

There will be an election December 6th for council only in Thurlow township with all other municipal offices being filled by acclamation.

Incumbent Clayton Hall was acclaimed as reeve while Deputy Reeve Carl Thompson was also acclaimed for another term.

All of last years councillors, Horace Casey, Manley Mitchell and Mrs. Helen Ash will run for council along with newcomers Walter Hamilton and Gordon Forsythe; three to be elected. Not qualifying as councillor candidates were Ralph Plumpton, Clarence Bird and Kenneth Bradshaw.

Kenneth Grestrix and Clarence Reynolds were acclaimed for two-year terms on the school board. Other members with still a year to serve are Garnet Denyes, Lorne Jarrell and Earl Ross.

New Township Hall Proposed For Sidney

Ontario Municipal Board approval is expected before the end of theyear by Sidney township for the construction of a new township hall and municipal offices.

Plans call for the construction early next spring of a split level structure on the 4 acre concession at the intersection with the county road to Wallbridge.

Over-all dimensions of the new township office will be 36 by 85 feets with municipal hall dimensions of 33 by 34 feet exclusive of stage and kitchen.

Following receipt of OMB approval the township will make application for approval of the structure as a centennial project.

Teamsters In Power Struggle

TORONTO (CP)—While members of the International Teamsters Union (Ind.) wage a cold war against Ontario trucking firms, a power struggle within their ranks threatens to cloud the issue.

The battle against the trucking firms came to a head yesterday as members of the union's Hamilton local approved a campaign of disobedience and co-operation against Ontario trucking companies.

Local president Ray Taggart said the campaign, including outright refusal to work overtime, drive overloaded trucks and drive unsafe equipment, is intended to compel the companies to stop resisting against teamsters involved in an illegal work stoppage last month.

Meanwhile, the executive committee of the teamsters' local 938 announced that two membership meetings Sunday decided to call on international president James Hoffa to settle internal differences.

The suspension of Charles Thibault, local 938 business agent, for refusing to support Hoffa before an executive committee meeting Friday was also announced.

WANT PRESIDENT OUT

The power struggle within the 3,000-member local was sparked by Mr. Thibault and Lloyd Merritt, secretary-treasurer of the local, who are attempting to wrest control of affairs from president Ken McGoggall.

The membership meeting at Toronto, which the executive committee attended by about 130 men, called for Mr. McDougall's resignation, Mr. Merritt, the only member of the executive committee to attend, chaired the meeting.

The meeting which supported Mr. McDougall were held at Sudbury and North Bay, Mr. Merritt said. Similar votes of meetings and the committee which passed motions directing him to call Mr. Hoffa into the situation.

Both meetings also refused to accept a motion that would curtail Mr. McDougall's right to hire and fire business agents, which had been passed at the Toronto membership meeting Nov. 14.

The committee also said the Northern Ontario meeting passed votes of confidence in Mr. McDougall to carry on their negotiator of the teamsters' 25-man negotiating committee, representing five areas in Ontario with a membership of 18,000.

POISED TO STRIKE

The five locals—938 at Toronto which includes membership at North Bay and Sudbury—and others at Hamilton, Kingston, Windsor and London — are poised for a strike as early as Jan. 1.

The threatened strike stems from the alleged refusal of the trucking firms against union members who took part in the Hamilton work stoppage last month.

The trucking firms are claiming $2,000,000 in damages as a result of the wildcat strike. A conciliation board under Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville is scheduled hearings in the union-company dispute Friday and adjourned to write a report.

The union is demanding a 40-hour work week with compensating pay in a two-year agreement.

The companies have offered a work-week reduction to 42 hours from 48 over 42 months and an increase in rates of 33 cents an hour during that period. City drivers are now paid $2 an hour while highway drivers are paid on a mileage basis.

Desire for Privacy Trouble for Amish in Iowa

HAZLETON, Iowa (AP)—Under the broad-brimmed black hat is a long beard. The plain clothes of an Amishman stands a man staunchly resisting 20th-century change.

As jet aircraft streak overhead and are hundreds of miles away, he remains the master of a furrow, he continues to plow his fields with a horse.

"We're not against anything," says 65-year-old Amishman Dan Borntrieger. "The old-fashioned life is good enough for us. So why bring in the new?

"If we keep our faith on what we believe, we'll stand. If alone, we'll be nearer to God."

That could sum up the philosophy of the Amish, a group of the 1690s have fled from country to country in search of a place to practise their religion and educate their children without outside interference.

WIDELY PERSECUTED

The Amish or more specifically the Old Order Amish are related to the Mennonites (the original Mennonites or Anabaptists (Rebaptizers), organized in Switzerland in the 16th century and persecuted by the governments of many countries.

The Mennonite church based its beliefs on the teachings of the New Testament, especially the Sermon on the Mount.

The Old Order Amish, whose worship services are conducted in German in their private homes, recognize no other religious authority than their individual bishops or ministers.

The Amish came to North America with the Mennonites in large numbers after 1740 and now are located in 17 states, principally Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa, and in Canada.

Dr. F. C. Peters of the Waterloo Lutheran University in Waterloo, Ont., says only a handful of Amish Mennonites live in Canada, in southern Ontario's Waterloo County.

About a dozen families, a group of about 1,000 members of the Amish sect broke away and formed the Conservative conference of Mennonites, Dr. Peters said. They live near Tavistock, about 20 miles west of Toronto.

The 1965 Mennonite yearbook shows 20,079 baptized members of the Old Order Amish in the United States and 410 in Canada.

The Old Order Amish are the plainest of the "plain people." The men wear lapel-less coats, broad-fall trousers and hats (consequently the nicknames "hookers"), baggy denim coveralls and broad-brim hats. Beards are worn but not moustaches.

Initiations are a sign of "maturity," an Amishman explains.

USE NO COSMETICS

The women wear almost ankle-length plain dresses, plain black bonnets and shawls. They use no cosmetics. The children are less plain in their clothes.

Amish have a dread of having their pictures taken. They say it violates the "graven images" part of the Ten Commandments.

The Amish believe an eighth-grade education is sufficient to maintain their simple way of life. And the most strict of the Amish will not send children to even sect to teach their children.

Three times since 1962 the Amish in northeast Iowa have been taken to court over sending their children to schools without state-certified teachers.

At the urging of Governor Harold Hughes this week, a moratorium was called on trying to force the Amish children into the schools they consider unworldly while a solution to the year-old problem is sought.

Tunisia's President Turns Against Actions of China

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

TUNIS (AP)—China's heavyhanded efforts to create still another influential friend in Africa and helped defeat the bid to move to bring Peking into the United Nations.

A serious crisis in China's relations with Tunisia has been brought the two countries to the verge of a diplomatic break and a cost Communist regime the prestige victory of recognition by a simple majority of the UN General Assembly.

Tunisia's outspokenly pro-Western president, Habib Bourguiba, for years praised Red China's admission to the world body as a means of bringing Chinese Premier Chou En-lai visited Tunisia and obtained Bourguiba's agreement to establish diplomatic relations.

But as the Chinese sought to exploit the newly-found friendship, Bourguiba became increasingly alarmed by their subversive attempts in Africa and their blustering efforts to dominate all the Afro-Asian groups.

After long taking a position of non-alignment, Bourguiba abruptly changed course in May, came out in favor of the American position dh Viet Nam. Although most African states, leaders, he blamed the Viet Nam war on Chinese communistic aggression.

In an interview with the French magazine Realites earlier this month, Bourguiba announced Chinese leaders as madmen resembling Hitler who were leading the countries into a third world war.

"Any concessions to them would only encourage their ambitions still further," the Tunisian leader declared.

On the day he spoke in the UN assembly on China's admission, Chinese Ambassador Yao Mien delivered a bitter note of protest against Bourguiba's interview to the Tunisian foreign ministry. The note accused Tunisia of taking an anti-Chinese stand to please its "neo-colonialist friends" and demanded a disavowal of the Realites interview.

Three days later, the Tunisian government declared Yao's note unacceptable and sent it back to the Chinese embassy, saying it was phrased in unacceptable terms "reminiscent of the tone employed by colonialist countries seeking to impose their domination over peoples."

Three Klansmen Go on Trial Under Old Law

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Federal prosecutors put three Ku Klux Klansmen on trial today on charges resulting from the killing of a white civil rights worker, Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo.

Each of the Klan members—one of them already acquitted in state court, the others still awaiting trial—could be sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $5,000 under the indictment based on an old law used largely in the past to safeguard voting and property rights.

Nowhere in the indictment is there any mention of the slaying of Mrs. Liuzzo, a Detroit housewife, which touched off the prosecutions in both state and federal court.

The Klansmen—Collie Leroy Wilkins, Jr., 27, of Fairfield, Ala., and Eugene Thomas, 42, and William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Bessemer, Ala.—are charged with conspiring to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate U.S. citizens exercising civil rights march from Selma to Montgomery last spring.

Mrs. Liuzzo, mother of five children and wife of Anthony Liuzzo, a teamsters union official, was shotfrom a speeding car as she was shot to death with a rifle bullet in the head the night of March 25.

The three Klan members were arrested the next day and scheduled for trial on the murder indictments next spring.

Peterborough Alderman Dies Suddenly

PETERBOROUGH (CP) Geoffrey Joseph Feeley, 50, city alderman who in his younger days was convicted of several charges of bootlegging, died of a heart attack Saturday.

He was nearing the end of his second two-year term as a city alderman.

His 17-year bootlegging career that began in 1939 resulted in 17 convictions—the most serious a six-month jail term—on charges. He said he quit in 1955.

Dana Porter, then attorney-general, reduced a jail term for Feeley to a $100 fine in 1955 because he had given assistance in arresting two bank robbers.

He appeared before the investigation into the Peterborough police department in 1957 and the Roach commission on crime in Ontario in 1962.

During his testimony before the Roach commission, he said that Inspector Allan Stringer, head of district 8 of the provincial police, had once offered to hide him in his attic while his attorney - general's department was reviewing one of his bootlegging convictions.

He was first elected to city council in 1961.

Holstein Cow Gives Birth To 5 Calves

ROCKWOOD, Ont. (CP)—A five-year-old registered holstein gave birth to quintuplets—two heifers and three bulls —in this community, 30 miles west of Brampton.

The holstein is owned by Norman Harris, who said only four of the calves lived.

Jolly old Santa Claus greets youngsters when he visited Trenton on Saturday. Above he is shown waving to large crowd as parade passes through the downtown district.

Despite Blustery Weather Santa Parade Success

TRENTON — In spite of winds of 30 mph, gusting up to 60, the Santa Claus parade in Trenton Saturday morning was deemed a success. Some of the floats were bedraggled from the wind, and the odd prop landed in the river as the parade crossed the bridge, but Santa was there, and after all, that's all that really matters.

Knee-high majorettes who had ended through the end of the Community Gardens, starting place for the parade, got across the bridge in spite of frozen extremeties and managed to put on a smart show for the judges on the balcony of the Gilbert House, (even though none of the judges could do Lindsay's high kicks) majorettes were twirling around on purpose being blown around by the wind.

First prize in the majorette class went to Dorothy Dickey's troupe; second to Colborne; third to Ferdine Smith's and honorable mention to Iris Lohnes' troupe.

In the float class, the Trenton Kiwanis Club's "Four and 20 Blackbirds" in their pie (designed by Jack Wilson and manned by Kiwanis president "Babe" James, who alternated between being Old King Cole and Henry the Eighth.) Second prize went to the West End Methodist Church of Trenton for its Nativity scene; third to the tortoise and the hare and the old car full of munsters, entered by the Belleville Public Works' Department.

Honorable mention went to the Trenton and District Labor Council's Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs.

REFUSE TO LEAVE

As the blackbird float drew abreast of the judges' stand, Ivan Stewart's burning furnace were let loose. Off home they flew. Mrs. Stewart loaned the Kiwanians all the birds in the flock — except "Featherfoot," who, she said, wouldn't leave the float.

While the judges: Group Captain C. L. Dowsett, Wing Commander Jack Maitland, Fire Chief C. Ellis, George Kempf and Douglas Whitley, were agreed that Humpty Dumpty, entered by the Trenton Jaycees was deserving of a prize, it was felt that this float was mostly a "commercial" effort. Special mention was given, however, to the Port Hope Sea Cadet band, even though bands as such were not considered in the judging.

A number of unsolicited dogs entered into the spirit of the parade and marched along proudly in the wake of the many horses and ponies, which were legitimate entries.

Santa's float bringing up the parade, was almost entirely surrounded by small fry, who broke loose from restraining parental hands to welcome the old gentleman with the toy sack.

Hundreds, as compared to thousands in other years, lined the route of the parade, and many were heard to say afterwards that "it had been worth it."

Car Plunges Into Trent R. Near Frankford

A Toronto-dietitian man was rescued from the roof of his submerged automobile Saturday after it crashed off the road and into the Trent River, near Frankford.

Gerald Comeau, 30, of Redvale, was later released from Trenton Memorial Hospital after treatment for exposure and head cuts.

Police say he had been on the roof of the car for about 20 minutes in icy weather before being rescued by a passing motorist.

A gravel-pit supervisor working in the Stirling area, Comeau was on his way home for the weekend when his car went off Highway 33 on a curve south of Frankford. It swerved across the grassy river verge then down a 30-foot embankment into the water.

The automobile was retrieved, extensively damaged, from the river by mobile crane on Sunday.

The union announced that by Dec. 7 it expects an interim wage increase of £1 ($3) a week and a promise by discussions main demand for a 30-per-cent increase.

Last week a series of strikes hit major towns, bringing long queues for bread and sometimes driving women to rediscover the lost art of home-baking.

The proposal for a moon code, made by a citizens committee of scientists, space experts and educationists, was one of several put before a White House conference on international co - operation opening here today.

Another Poll at Hand

The turnout at the polls for last Monday's cocktail lounge vote in Belleville was disappointing. The weather may have had something to do with it, but the fact is only 43.7 per cent of the 17,000 or so eligible voters cast their ballot.

In 1962 the percentage was 49 per cent. If people really care about their community they go out and vote when the opportunity presents itself. That is what democracy is all about. Yet it cannot be said to be a true democracy, or a country in which the democratic process is effective, when 5" per cent of city voters neglect to voice their opinion.

For all that, Belleville voted in sufficient strength to approve the granting of cocktail bar licences.

Now Belleville voters face another test—the municipal elections on December 6. Once again we urge citizens to cast their ballots.

In addition to voting for their choice among the candidates for public office, the people of Belleville are being asked to decide once again whether they are in favor of Sunday movies.

As in the case of cocktail lounges this will be largely a matter of conscience. There will be those who will answer in a firm negative, but it may be asked if this is sound reasoning in an age in which we expect to increase our population, the industrial base, and at the same time attract people to live in our city.

Movies may not be the attraction they once were, because of the inroads of television. Still, if we want the city to grow, if we want people to live and work in this community we shall have to consider such entertainment facilities as the movies, and whether to permit their presentation on Sunday as on other days.

We have said it before, and we are saying it again, that the vote is the best arbiter. To have the best interests of a community at heart is to go out and exercise the voting privilege whenever issues affecting every citizen are at stake

President's Visitors

President Johnson's schedule of official visitors in the next few weeks includes Prime Minister Wilson of Britain. Wilson is due in Washington on December 17 and the two leaders are expected to discuss a wide range of world issues.

This week Mr. Johnson meets with West German Chancellor Erhard. Perhaps the most interesting of forthcoming diplomatic visits to Washington, however, will hinge on whether Prime Minister Shastri of India and President Ayub Khan of Pakistan will beat a path to the White House.

Johnson, it will be recalled, postponed a scheduled visit by Shastri last summer. The president was reported to be too busy to see the Indian premier at the time, but the real reason was believed to be his displeasure at Indian criticism of U.S. policies in Asia, notably Vietnam.

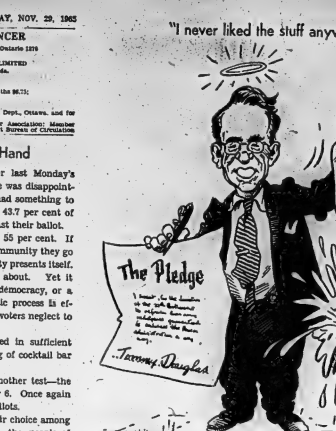
Johnson is now believed ready to receive Shastri and the Pakistani leader. The next move apparently is up to Shastri.

Easily the most important of the coming discussions, however will be those between Mr. Johnson and Mr. Wilson. They are expected to talk over such issues as Rhodesia, Vietnam, NATO policies and U.S.-British-Soviet relations, as well as the proposed treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Mrs. Kennedy Concern

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's concern over the proposed publication of a book, My Life With Caroline and Aristotle, by the children's English "nanny," Maude Shaw, is understandable.

Publication of such a book is a needless and tasteless invasion of the privacy of a young woman who has already suffered more than anyone will ever know. Whose life, even two years after the assassination of her husband is still haunted by what must seem intolerable memories.



Unlike other White House employees of the time, Miss Shaw was not asked to sign a statement pledging she would not write about the president's family. Miss Shaw's position was felt to be "different."

When she learned of the book's existence, Mrs. Kennedy, according to her secretary, "was in communication" with Miss Shaw and learned that the former employee intended to go ahead with its publication.

Secretary Pamela Turnure is quoted as saying that Miss Shaw, although not required to sign any pledge, "understood all the efforts Mrs. Kennedy made to guard her children's privacy."

Now it is too late to do anything about it, for the book is already being serialized in a U.S. magazine.

To Your Good Health

Slightly High Blood Pressure Not Unusual

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: The doctor told me my blood pressure was a little high. What can I do to lower it to normal? M.B.C.

I won't discuss high blood pressure in general, but limit today's remarks to the report that yours is "a little high."

Don't take this too soberly. If your blood pressure had been seriously elevated, your doctor would have instituted suitable treatment.

But all he said was "little high," and that is not at all uncommon. For one thing, nervous tension affects it. Patients are likely to be apprehensive for fear an examination may disclose something serious I wrong. Take the blood pressure 10 minutes after the examination is over, and the nerves have subsided and so has the blood pressure. (Pulse rate also can go up and down like that.)

Many a time a physical for insurance, a new job, or military duty results in an elevated reading just because of nerves. I recall one young man obviously healthy, who wanted desperately to enlist in the Air Corps. He had several examinations and every blessed time his pressure went soaring. He wanted so much to be accepted that the doctor finally arranged to be on hand when the young s t e r first woke up in the morning. Result: Normal pressure, because he hadn't had time to get his nerves in an uproar.

Consequently when a doctor finds blood pressure "a little high" on an initial visit, he isn't alarmed. Subsequent examinations as the patient becomes more at ease, often show a lower reading. (Abnormally high pressure, of course, is another matter.)

For the patient who still wants to do something for pressure that is "a little high," the most useful suggestions are these:

1 — If you are a tense, high-strung individual, ease up.

2 — If you are overweight, reduce.

3 — If you are worried about something, either resolve the problem or make up your mind that it isn't worth all that worry. One way or the other, get rid of it.

Worrying about your blood pressure is a fruitless pastime that just makes it worse.

Dear Dr. Molner: The doctors have diagnosed dead tissues in one of my legs as Weber-Christian disease, but they haven't had any experience with it, and don't know the cause, treatment or cure.

I have constant pain in the calf when I am standing, but when I am seated it doesn't hurt. Do you think this could be connected with the disease? — Mrs. H. M.

Weber-Christian disease is a form of panniculitis, or inflammation of a layer of fat below the skin. Fever and painful nodules are usual, and after the disease process subsides, there may be hollows where the nodules were. Yes it is quite possible that the pain stems from the disease.

There is no single cause of the disease, but usually it is a result of (a) some focal infection or (b) an allergy to certain drugs, chiefly iodides or bromides.

Treatment therefore depends on searching for either of these, and treating it. That's true of so many similar ills if we correct the underlying cause, we also correct its consequences.

Steroids (cortisone and derivatives) often help. The process usually clears up successfully, but it is wise to watch for any sign of recurrence.

Note to "Ora": The only answer I can give to intimate sex questions is that if a certain practice is displeasing to one partner or the other then it's wrong for that couple. The essence of love-making is to give pleasure, and that alone answers a good many questions.

George Brown, founder of the Toronto Globe in 1844, was born 147 years ago today—in 1818 — in Scotland. He emigrated to the United States with his father as a youth and moved to Canada in 1842. The newspaper was the chief organ of the Reform or Liberal party and Brown entered politics in order to oppose separate schools for Roman Catholics. He became the archrival of Sir John A. Macdonald, Conservative leader, but was at the same time a prime mover of Confederation.

1941—The United Nations voted 33-13 to partition Palestine.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—heavy air action continued over southern England and the eastern Mediterranean; the strength of Free French forces was announced as 35,000 soldiers, 20 warships, 60 merchant ships and 1,000 airmen; Washington disclosed Britain had already spent nearly half of its $700,000,000 assets in the United States.

Senior Class Experiments With Words

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Referring to a recent column of mine on the changing meanings of words, a high school English teacher in New York writes to tell me about an interesting experiment he made with his senior class.

He wanted to find out whether the same words and phrases meant much the same things to different people, and asked the following questions:

"The senator was elected to office by an 'overwhelming majority.' What percentage of the vote did he receive?"

"My 17-year-old son is of 'average' height. How tall is he?"

"Jane really isn't a 'brain,' but she is a 'good student.' What is her scholastic average?"

"Uncle Ned is a 'moderate smoker.' How many cigarets a day does he smoke?"

"Although this friend of mine is not wealthy, he earns a 'comfortable living.' How much does he make a year?"

"I read 'several' books this summer. How many books did I read?"

"Mrs. Jensen, our new guidance counselor, is a 'middle-aged' woman. How old is she?"

What would your answers be to these questions, before you learn what the class results? And compare your answers with those of your husband, wife, or teen-age child.

"Age as 'over-whelming percentage,' the pupils' answers ranged from less than 65 percent up to 85 percent.

For the "average height" of a 17-year-old boy, answers ranged from five feet six to six feet.

For a "good student," the scholastic average ranged from 80 percent to 90 percent.

For the "moderate smoker," the number of cigarets a day ranged from five to 30. (Nearly half of the 30 pupils considered one pack a day as "moderate.")

For the annual income of a "comfortable living," the answers ranged from $4,000 a year to $25,000 a year.

For "several books" read last summer, the number ranged from four to 18.

For the age of the "middle-aged" woman, the answers ranged from 35 to 55. (Some pupils suggested the question was different for a man than for a woman.)

The point this teacher makes — and one that cannot be made too often — is that even when we are using the same words, we may not really be speaking about the same things. Our age, our cultural level, our income bracket, and many other factors, all influence the meanings we attach to these ordinary phrases that can impede communication as much as promote it.

Churches Are Haven for All Types

By Rev. Ernest Gordon
United Church Observer

The church may not be full of members with unattractive personalities, sick minds, warped attitudes, but it seems to shelter more than its share of the mentally and socially crippled. Some are absolute nuts.

For all of which we devoutly thank God.

* * *

Where else can the emotionally stunted, the compulsive talker, the inarticulate and the desperately lonely find friends and fellowship?

The wouldn't get into the golf and country club or the Junior League or the I.O.D.E. or the bridge club. With enough money they can buy many things, but not friends who tolerate losers.

But the lonely, and the sick, can join the church and are welcomed—"You get used to it" welcome — but welcomed to every service and every social activity.

Not only that, there are always those thoughtful, sensitive folk about the church who are so concerned for the mentally ensnared as for the occupant of the wheel chair.

But in many organizations the bore will not be tolerated; the misfit will be manipulated out.

Not many, except church people, instinctively recognize that those who are crippled socially and blind and lost in personality need acceptance.

He would make a plea to those articulate high-pressure reformers, especially among church women, to cease their scoffing at church teas, bake sales, fellowship luncheons and the other activities that seem so trivial to so many eager-to-do-something professional women progressives.

The needy aren't all down in the slums of Chicago. The discrimination problems aren't all race and color. The poor around us aren't always economically disinherited.

And that is why there are so many other needy people in the typical congregation. That's the best place to have them.

Plea From Newfoundland

Corner Brook (Nfld.) Western Star

In the third annual report of the centennial commission, which held its meetings in our provincial capital and in the elaborate brochure that is available on the various projects being readied under the commission's guidance, there is a reference to a "Confederation Train" and "Confederation Caravans." The purpose of both projects is to tell the story of Canada, from its earliest history to the nation's exciting growth in the age of science.

There is, of course, only one "Confederation Train." It will visit 83 cities and towns. It is according to the centennial commission's brochure, "The train will visit all but Newfoundland, which has returned to the Yukon territory and Northwest Territories," which do not have a railroad, either narrow or standard gauge. This is not the first time or place to rekindle the ageless debate on the implications of narrow and standard gauge. The situation is what it is and will be unchanged in 1967. But, is the centennial commission aware that the CNR is experimenting with interchanging standard gauge mainland rolling stock with narrow gauge Newfoundland railroad trucks? Might it not be possible to do this with the Confederation Train, after it has toured the other parts of Canada?

In the meantime, while they are thinking about this, here is another suggestion. There will be, according to the brochure information, eight caravans each consisting of eight tractor-trailers and three station wagons. The caravans will be used to bring centennial exhibits to 680 communities not served by the Confederation Train. But take note that there will be one caravan for British Columbia, one for Alberta, the Yukon and Northwest Territories, one for Saskatchewan and Manitoba, two each for Ontario and Quebec, and one for the Atlantic Provinces.

The centennial commission has surely known that the island of Newfoundland is almost as large as the three Maritime provinces put together, and that Newfoundland and Labrador is the seventh largest province. It still has a widely scattered population, gradually being connected with a long road system. Moreover, the population of this province are relatives newcomers to the Canadian family and are not as familiar with the Canadian story as most of the other parts of the land. Surely equal advantage should be taken of the existing exhibits during the centennial year to make the former better acquainted with its story.

It does not seem unreasonable, therefore, to propose that there should be a special Confederation Caravan to travel this province, leaving the Atlantic Provinces caravan to handle the three Maritime provinces. If Quebec and Ontario, which are contiguous, have four between them, this is surely not too much to ask.

Arctic Development Lags

St. Catharines Standard

Canada's northland makes up more than forty per cent of the total area of Canada. It includes the Northwest Territories, the Yukon Territory, and 45,000 square miles of Quebec, all lying above the 60th parallel of latitude.

This came to be the dividing line in 1905, when the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan were created with their northern boundaries fixed at the 60th parallel. From there to the North Pole is one of the last large under-developed pieces of real estate in the world embracing 1,537,000 square miles.

It was in 1870, notes the Monthly Letter of The Royal Bank of Canada, that Canada took over this vast territory from Great Britain and with sovereignty it assumed immense responsibilities. One of the responsibilities attaching to sovereignty is economic, and the mass of the Arctic and its islands cannot continue to lie undeveloped for all time without of a mere assertion of owner ship.

There is much yet to be learned about Canada north of 60 degrees, but research will provide the answers to many problems. We neglected it from the time it was handed over to us until a few years ago. Today we are using new geophysical instruments to list its resources, where they are, what their quality is. Tomorrow we must move on to ascertain if there are markets for them.

Paper Work

Nashville Tennessean

Military contracting can be a burden, as Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Robert H. Charles has effectively pointed out.

Speaking to a management symposium, Mr. Charles noted that a recent request for a proposal from industry on one missile project exceeded 40,000 pages. In reply, five competitors sent in an aggregate of 240,000 pages. When 30 copies each were made, the total weight was 35 tons and it took 400 air force personnel five months to read all this.

Mr. Charles proposed that the military and industry receive only such data as is necessary to make a fair selection.

Monsignor Farrelly assured the committee that he was in favor of the proposition for park purposes and intimated that he would not ask an advance upon the amount paid to the Women's Christian Association, namely $5,000 for the lot.

Christ Church and St. George's Parish Guilds, under the convenorship of Mrs. Reg. Hinchey, served a delightful dinner in Christ Church Parish Hall last evening at which 700 persons were present. Kingston Wins Chess Matches

Kingston won two Southeastern Ontario Chess League matches here on Sunday, defeating Belleville 5½ - 2½, and Brockville 8 - 0. Cornwall, scheduled to play against Brockville and Belleville, did not make an appearance. The matches were played at the Recreation Centre.

Read how London Life can help Roger Cooper fulfill his dream:

This is Roger Cooper's dream. Read how his London Life policy can make it come true

You probably have a dream. A farm, small business, hunting lodge. Read how a London Life profit-sharing policy builds savings to make the dream come true.

A YEAR AGO, the farm seemed an impossible dream.

Roger had a wife and two young children to worry about. They could live quite comfortably on his salary as a design engineer —but couldn't save much.

And he needed more life insurance. He expected this to be another monthly expense and nothing more. However a London Life representative showed him how a Jubilee policy to protect his family can also build savings for the farm.

He purchased a $25,000 Jubilee whole life policy.

If he should die, his wife would receive $25,000 (plus accumulated dividends) in cash or as a monthly income. If he lives to retirement age (as three out of four Canadian men do), he can get double his money back. Money to buy the farm.

Here are the facts. Roger was 24 when he bought the Jubilee policy. So his premium is $30.57 a month. To age 65 he will pay in a little over $15,000. But since he is leaving his dividends to accumulate, he can get back at age 65 over $35,000. More than double the money paid in.

(Note: This figure of $35,000 is made up of $14,050 in guaranteed cash value and the balance in accumulated dividends. These dividends are based on the current scale. While they are not guaranteed, London Life has had an outstanding record of dividend payments. Dividends allotted to owners of London Life profit-sharing policies for 1965 exceed $29 million.)

London Life realizes that dreams can change. That's why a Jubilee policy is so flexible.

If Roger still wants the farm when he retires, he can take the $35,000 in cash and buy it. If he should abandon the farm in favour of renting a cottage by the sea, he can take this money as a monthly income for life or for a specific number of years.

On top of Roger's basic policy described above, he added three other features (for a nominal extra premium) which are particularly important to his family now:

(1) The "disability" benefit guarantees that if he is disabled and can't work for at least six months, London Life will pay the premiums on his policy from the date he became disabled. The Company will also give him a monthly income of $250 while he is unable to work after this six month period.

(2) The "income continuance" feature means that if he should die, his wife would receive $200 a month until 1985. Income until the children are grown. (This $200 a month is in addition to the $25,000.)

(3) Roger also reserved the right to buy more insurance at regular intervals up to age 40 without a medical examination.

That's the story of Roger Cooper.

Now, what is your retirement dream? You probably have one. And you probably have a family to support.

Remember that a London Life Jubilee policy will protect your family and build savings for your dream. In fact—as we have seen with Roger Cooper—if you start young and leave your dividends to accumulate, you can double your money before you retire.

MR. AND MRS. ANTHONY B. GALLOWAY

Galloway – Weagant

Christ Church, Bellleville was the setting on Saturday, November 20, 1965 when Joan Patricia Weagant, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Leo Weagant, Belleville was united in marriage to Anthony Bryan Galloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Galloway of Dalron.

Rev. A. Lauder officiated at the ceremony and music was provided by church organist Mr. John C. Withers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length bridal gown featuring an Alencon lace bodice with lily - point sleeves and scalloped neckline. The full net skirt was enhanced with three large scallops of lace. A shoulder length bouffant veil flowed from a pearl tiara and she carried a nosegay of red carnations and white 'mums.

Sister of the bride Mrs. Roy Clemens as matron of honor and the bridesmaids the Misses Sheila and Faye Galloway, sisters of the bridegroom were dressed alike in street-length blue chiffon dresses. They wore matching veils and shoes and each carried a nosegay of white and blue tinted 'mums.

Mr. Glen Lucas attended the bridegroom and Mr. Stan Galloway, uncle of the bridegroom and Mr. Lawrence Weagant, uncle of the bride were the ushers.

For the reception at Park Dale Community Centre the bride's mother welcomed the guests wearing a sapphire blue sheath styled dress with blue and black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a blue and green brocade dress with white and black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Dear Susanna: Do the night before your next candle-lit evening place the candles to be used in the refrigerator and leave them there 'til party time.

No, this isn't a new kind of deserT, Susanna, it is a sure-fire method of lengthening a candle's burning power.'

ROSES ARE RED!

Dear Readers: "Have you put your roses to bed for the winter?" ask our friends at the Department of Agriculture. The following little outline of procedure will, of course, be mild hat to experienced horticulturists, but for new home and garden owners the few elementary protective precautions outlined here will help to insure fine healthy blooms next season.

"Draw up as much soil as possible around the bases of the plants and add to it from other available sources so that the stems are well protected. As soon as the ground is frozen, an additional covering of straw or leaves should be added. Place cedar boughs or twiggy branches on top of this mulch to hold it down and to help collect snow." — Susanna

Families Should Try Staying Together

DEAR DORIS: This couple is married eight years, and he has a fairly good job. They have two children, one five years old and another eight months old. This other couple (brother to the first couple) have no children, married 17 years, good home.

Is it fair for the first couple to give their older child to the second couple to bring up? The child remembers his parents, cries and misses his little baby brother. He's taken good care of; better than with his own parents as they drink, go out and neglect their children.

I think the natural parents should be bringing their own children up, good or bad; and the two children should be brought up together. What do you think? — WORRIED RELATIVE.

DORIS CLARE

DEAR WORRIED RELATIVE: I agree. It's not fair — unless there is more wrong here than you and I know anything about. Certainly the little fellow will miss his baby brother and his parents. Could the child care authority where you are shed light on this particular situation?

* * *

DEAR DORIS: You answered a letter signed "Puzzled" re burial where the couple are of different religions — advising separate plots in different cemeteries.

I was married to a Roman Catholic, now deceased, and she is buried in a non-denominational cemetery in ground consecrated by a Catholic priest. This is a two-grave plot and the other grave is for myself. — SOLUTION.

DEAR SOLUTION: Thank you for straightening us out about this.

DEAR DORIS: I have just read your letter to Foster Parents; it was very good.

What I would like to know is, are there any foster children that are permanent? I was thinking of taking foster children, as we have no children of our own. I'm 43 years old and my husband is 47. We have a nice home.

If there are children that are permanent, please let me know where to apply and what is needed to be a foster parent.— HOPEFUL.

DEAR HOPEFUL: There is no let-up in the cry for foster parents. For the most part, this is temporary, specialized care; with the parents chosen to suit the needs of the particular child. And the girl or boy is being helped to re-adjust to a life with his own parents or with adoptive parents.

Yet I know cases where the placement has turned out to be permanent or at least long-term. It is safe to say that every child-placing agency is looking for couples who have a happy and satisfying marriage, and who have some understanding of children.

To learn about your local situation get in touch with the Children's Aid Society of Belleville and Hastings County, 63 West Moira Street, Belleville.

DEAR DORIS: Will you please inform us about the proper etiquette for giving a housewarming?

We moved into our new home a week ago. Someone has told us that it would be in poor taste for us to invite people because it might make them feel obligated to bring a gift, and that a friend or relative should do all the planning.

Do we serve food and refreshments, or are we supposed to assume that the guests will bring them?

We do not have any drapes up as yet, and we plan on buying them for one window at a time. Should this make any difference? — CONSTANT READER.

DEAR READER: If some good neighbors spring a surprise party, then they jolly well better bring a little food! But no law says you can't stage your own housewarming, food and all. It's being done every day.

Follow your impulses and do the friendly, hospitable things and you can't go far wrong. Think of etiquette, not as something rigid and restrictive, but as a means of making social contacts pleasing and smooth.

* * *

(Are you in doubt about the proper etiquette to use for your special occasion? Ask Doris, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for her reply.)

STEAMED CHRISTMAS PUDDING

Last year I gave you a recipe for a rich steamed Christmas pudding that called for twenty-two ingredients. Follow-up letters let me know you liked it very much.

To pamper the folks whose stomachs cannot tolerate such richness (especially after a turkey first course) and the folks whose budgets cannot tolerate the expense, this year I am giving you an economical pudding. This is a dandy compromise for it looks rich but digests easily.

HOLIDAY STEAMED PUDDING with Superb Hard Sauce (Moderately rich, serves 6)

½ cup finely chopped filberts (or Brazils Or blanched almonds),
½ cup unsifted all-purpose flour,
½ teaspoon baking soda,
½ cup brown sugar,
½ teaspoon salt,
½ teaspoon cloves (powdered),
½ teaspoon cinnamon,
½ teaspoon nutmeg or mace,
1 egg,
½ cup grated raw carrot (1 medium),
1 cup grated raw potato (1 medium-large - scrubbed but not pared),
½ cup seeded Muscat raisins,
½ cup mixed peel (optional but recommended),
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

In a medium-large mixing bowl measure the nuts, flour, soda, sugar, salt and spices and mix them well. Then stir in all remaining ingredients. Turn into well-buttered 4-cup mould, covering with snug-fitting lid or aluminum foil. Lower into large kettle containing boiling water to come halfway up sides of mould. Steam 2 hours in covered steamer or kettle. Loosen sides and turn out of mould while still hot onto serving plate. Serve with Superb Hard Sauce: Beat until pale and light ½ cup butter. Add ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups unsifted icing sugar, ¼ to ½ teaspoon almond flavoring and, if desired, 1 tablespoon brandy or rum and beat until light and airy and smooth as velvet. Pile on attractive small shallow bowl (it is beautiful on a cut glass dish) peaking up the top with fork tip. Sprinkle with nutmeg, if desired, and chill until hard.

Notes: 1) You may substitute the same amount of chopped dates or figs for the raisins in Holiday Steamed Pudding.

2) Before the Hard Sauce is chilled, you may pipe it through your icing tube to form little rosettes. These are popular especially with children. My little nephew Stevey pops them into his mouth like candy.

Multiple Sclerosis Soc. Will Form Chapter Here

Better means of diagnosing multiple sclerosis has brought many new cases to light and the incidence of the disease in Belleville and district makes a chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada a desirable part of community services, according to Mrs. Doreen Durand, executive secretary of the Society's Ontario Division.

A meeting for the purpose of establishing a chapter in the city is scheduled for Tuesday, at 8.00 p.m. in the Quinte Hotel at which time a film will be shown.

The chapter, which will serve the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward, will offer understanding and tangible assistance to multiple sclerosis patients who register with the chapter.

Multiple sclerosis is a disease of the central nervous system which is frequently diagnosed between the ages of 20 and 40. Often those young adults, many of them parents and just getting started in life, find themselves faced with a variety of symptoms - blurred or double vision, incoordination, stumbling or staggering gait, partial or complete paralysis. There is no known cure.

In many cases the patient is unable to work and so economic problems add to his physical burden.

The Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada supports medical research into the cause and control of this great neurological disorder. This is made possible by nominal membership fees, private donations and participation in the Belleville United Appeal and other unified funds.

The Society also sponsors a patient service program which is administered through its chapters across Canada. Canes, crutches, wheelchairs and other equipment is supplied to MS patients who are unable, financially, to provide their own.

For further information about the meeting on Tuesday contact Mrs. Stuart Howell, 22 Northwood Crescent, telephone 968-3130.

Christ Church Parish Presents Variety Night

Last Wednesday evening, members of Christ Church parish were entertained at the "Centennial Variety Nite '65." This variety night featured acts provided or sponsored by the various organizations of the parish. The parish hall was filled to capacity as the numerous performers were enthusiastically acclaimed for their efforts.

To commence the evening's activities, the rector, Canon R. B. Dubois Wright officially welcomed the audience and set the stage for the fun to follow, with several jokes.

The first act of the evening was a Charleston with the Misses Lynda Noakes and Janice Cherry bringing the "Roaring 20's" back to life with their dancing. The Girls' Auxiliary and Junior Auxiliary sponsored the duo.

Mr. Bill Elliott in his own guitar accompaniment, favored were several currently-popular folk tunes.

The Rover Crew put on a skit portraying their female counterparts of Scouting, the Rangers. The main items on the agenda of the make-believe meeting were learning to smoke and learning judo holds to keep the Rovers in line.

A young folk-singing quartet, "The Tradewinds," consisting of Bonnie Lennox, Penny Rose, Carol Grainger and Cheri Matthews, raised their voices in close harmony, and lived up to the high expectations of their sponsoring group, the Contact Club.

The first half of the program was brought to a close with the Servers' Guild entry, "Musical Taps," featuring the light-footed dancing of Cheryl Lafferty and Barbara Morrow. They were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Evelyn Bannon.

PANTOMIME NUMBERS

After a short intermission, the Anglican Young People's Association sat themselves before the Christmas tree and pantomimed several humorous Yuletide songs as they presented "The Night Before Christmas."

A reading was given by Mrs. E. Hickey of the Parish Guild. Mrs. Hickey's poem dealt with several amusing happenings in the parish in years gone by and was particularly appropriate as the parish celebrates its centennial. Piano accompaniment, between verses, was provided by Mrs. A. Jordan. This presentation was given a standing ovation.

The Men's Club contribution to the evening festivities came in the person of Mr. Darwin Hoskin. This young accordion virtuoso soon set toes to tapping with several renditions.

The ladies of the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary next donned black-face to become the "Minstrel Mommies." Their songs and excellent jokes, though well-received by the audience, possibly damages the advance made by civil right workers, recently.

To round out the evening, the choir presented Alfred Freyhan's "Toy Symphony." This number was presented at last year's variety night and was repeated by popular request (not the composer's). The choir proceeded to wreak havoc upon the music with the aid of gongs, tin horns, vacuum cleaners, pails, key drums and featured a stirring solo by Mr. Bill Dack on a typewriter. This presentation was under the direction of choirmaster Mr. John Wilbers, being resplendent in tie and tail (raccoon tail, four balloons, and a pull-toy), yellow rubber boots and a fur hat.

The evening ended with an expression of appreciation to the audience and to the performers by Herb Cavalier. Mr. Cavalier spoke on behalf of the Christ Church Chi Rho Fellowship, which sponsored, promoted and staged the variety. He expressed special thanks to Al Gardiner, chairman of the variety night committee, and Ted Warwick, master of ceremonies for the evening.

The presentation saw approximately $150 raised for the Parish Restoration Fund.

Ann Landers

Prefers American Hubby to European

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I saw red when my eyes fell on the words, "The American husband is the most spoiled, pleasure-seeking parasite in the world." —

I was married to a European for 10 years so I speak as an authority. The European husband would sooner be caught dead than with a dish towel in his hand. He feels it is beneath his dignity to carry out the garbage or empty an ash tray. It does not offend him, however, to sit in an easy chair with his shoes off and watch his wife haul large baskets of laundry up from the basement.

ANN LANDERS

The European husband leaves his wife home a lot. I was never invited on a business trip although my husband's colleagues often took their wives. I was not permitted to join a bridge club because my husband said respectable women don't leave the house alone at night.

Ten years with that dingbat was like a life sentence. Now I am happily married to an American who treats me like a human being. — THUMBS DOWN ON EUROPEAN MEN.

DEAR THUMBS: I'm not disputing your word but I know of some American husbands who have the traits which you describe as European. I'd rather like to hear from other women who have (or have had) European husbands. What goes (or went) on at your house, girls?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently there was a letter in your column about wives who undress in the closet. The letter attracted my attention because I am a 19-year-old girl who has a similar problem, only I hate to undress in front of my female classmates.

I just die when I have to shower after physical education. The dressing rooms don't have doors or curtains. It's not that I am overly modest, but, it's just that I wear a size 32-A cup brassiere and I am ashamed of having so little to put in it.

A flat-chested girl is like a peacock with no feathers. I feel inferior and self-conscious. Is there anything you can say to make me feel better? — LITTLE EVA.

DEAR EVA: If you are only 15 don't buy a lifetime supply of 32-A cups. You are sure to outgrow them.

Our ancestors have become dimension wacky in the last 25 years and it's nonsense. Some of these top-heavy movie stars look like pasture animals. The girl who is slightly undersized can afford to add a little, but the over-endowed ones are stuck. And I don't want any of you smart aleck college boys to write and tell me not to waste my sympathy on girls who are "stuck" with 38's. They might be doing all right — but not for the wrong reasons.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why do some members of the clergy feel free to call on members of their parish any old time and expect to be welcome as the flowers in spring?

Isn't it common courtesy to telephone and ask if a visit is convenient? Does a clergyman have a special license to drive over whenever he feels like it and ring the door bell?

I've discussed this with three other women in our parish and they, too resent these unannounced visits. If we are wrong, please tell us. Thank you. — JUST US.

DEAR JUST: No one has a right to drop in without first calling to see if it is convenient. I see no justification for a woman being trapped in her own home by a drop-in visitor when she is busy, unprepared, or perhaps dashing to another appointment.

Christmas Concerts

MOUNT PLEASANT-RAWDON MESSENGERS

RAWDON — The Christmas party of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Messengers was held at the church hall on Saturday evening under the direction of Mrs. Raymond McConnell and Mrs. David Potts. Twenty women and 36 children were in attendance.

The program opened with the singing of Christmas carols, with Janet Scott as pianist. Lorraine Jeffs welcomed the guests. Readings were given by Mrs. Grant Hobbs, Carolyn Merrick, Gordon Hoard and Kenneth Sharp. Linda Hoard gave a recitation. A harmonica solo was played by Randy Scott, piano solos by Terry Bailey and Janet Scott, accordion solos by Kenneth Couch, and vocal solos by Kathy Sharpe, Isobel Hoard, Jill McAdam and Margaret Hoard. A trio was sung by Debbie Graff, Jeannette Hoard and Bonnie Williams with the latter as accompanist and by Joan, Joyce and Lorraine Jeffs with the latter as accompanist. Other accompanists were Jeannette Hoard and Linda Potts.

Mrs. David Potts conducted several games and the group received treats for their efforts.

The study chapters were completed at the November meeting and it was suggested that an outdoor mat fashioned of bottle tops be made as outlined in the book, Margaret Hoard was the only child who completed the project and her mat was displayed.

Mrs. R. McConnell thanked the Messengers for the program. The group packed the gifts in baskets for the Fred Victor Mission in Toronto. Each basket contained a Christmas stocking filled with candy.

Each child who attended Messengers during the year was given a monogrammed lead pencil and Christmas candy. A special Christmas lunch was served.

No Favelas in Travel Folders But Brazil Has Lots of Them

By BRENDA LARGE

RIO DE JANEIRO (CP)—You aren't likely to see favelas in those brightly - colored travel folders urging you to visit "one of the world's most beautiful cities" but you can't miss them once you get here.

Favela is the Brazilian word for slum. Like most big cities in every country, Rio has its share.

They cling to the steep hillsides around the Bay of Rio. Makeshift, ramshackle huts of discarded sheet metal, plywood, scraps of wood and cast-off nails, they are home to an estimated 500,000 of Rio's 4,000,000 people.

The ugly, cramped dwellings exist not only on the hillsides. They sprout in fashionable Copacabana, a Rio suburb along one of the world's most famous beaches, and in the heart of Rio itself.

But the favelas are slowly starting to disappear. Under a program started by the State of Guanabara in which Rio is located, two new housing developments have been built 23 miles north of the city to house the inhabitants of the slums.

With financial aid from the Alliance for Progress, the multi-million-dollar United States assistance program in Latin America, sturdy cement homes are being constructed and people are gradually being persuaded to move into them.

They have to be persuaded. Many of the favelados do not like the idea of being so far from the centre of the city where most of them work.

HARD TO CONVINCE

In slums, where only one out to every 200 children has been to high school and illiteracy is high, it is hard to convince people that their lives will be better in clean, new dwellings.

Another factor slowing down the rehousing program is that, unlike the makeshift favelas, the houses in the new settlements are not free.

They are sold by the state government, on credit, for about $5.45 a month for a one-bedroom house. The new owners have 15 years to pay, but some still don't like the terms.

"Why should I go into a house I have to pay for when I can live here for nothing," one Rio woman with a family of five told an interviewer who called at her tin-roofed shack.

Welfare workers say people are moving from one of the city's most notorious favelas at the rate of about 25 families a day.

In the process, much is being learned about the health and education levels of the favelados.

There are people living up there who have never seen a doctor," said a social worker. "Great numbers of the children have never been to school and earn their living by begging in the streets."

It will probably be some time before the favelas are eliminated, although the government has made much progress during the last two years.

For now, the tourist guides look the other way and talk fast as they lead tours around the favela areas. They hope the tourists will look the other way, too.

SLUM-DWELLERS RELUCTANT TO MOVE — Ramshackle huts built of wood scraps, flattened cans and sheet metal cling to the hillsides around Rio de Janeiro (top), homes of an estimated 500,000 of Rio's 4,000,000 people. New homes (bottom) are being built for the slum-dwellers in the Rio suburbs but many are reluctant to change. They do not want to move out of the city and the new homes are not free as their slum shacks were. (CP Photo from AP)

Rawdon

BRIDAL SHOWER

RAWDON — Mrs. Frank Bailey of Mount Pleasant recently entertained her cousin from the Bethel community at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Joyce Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Reid of Bethel, who is a December bride-elect.

A program of games and contests was enjoyed and Joyce received a large array of gifts. The hostess and her assistants served refreshments.

CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

Bethel-Rawdon United Church was decorated with baskets of baby 'mums and ferns for the 91st anniversary services held on Sunday, November 21.

Mrs. Harold Elliott played the music for both services. In the morning the church choir sang an anthem and the guest soloist, Mrs. Thomas Sarles of Mount Pleasant, sang a selection.

At the evening service about 30 members of the Stirling-Rawdon District High School choir, under the direction of Donald Armstrong, with Miss Anne Watson as accompanist, sang two selections.

Rev. W. C. Cox, pastor of the church, conducted the evening service. Guest speakers for both services was the Rev. Paul Packman of Cannifton.

PRESENTATION PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Nix, Frankford Road, were given a farewell party by Wellman's Community and Mrs. Jim Concession neighbors on Saturday evening. Jim Pollock was master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins led a sing-song, with Mrs. Gerald Clancy as accompanist. Selections were read by Mrs. Chas. Carter, Mrs. Donald Walker, Mrs. Douglas Clancy and Mrs. John Carlisle. Janice and Valerie Clancy and Mrs. K. Tompkins sang solos, and Donald Taylor contributed piano music.

An address of appreciation was read by Mrs. K. Thompson and Byron Seeley made the presentation of a set of decor cloths to Carman and Maud. Mrs. Gerald Clancy read an address and made a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Nix's son, Charles Nix, of Peterborough.

The guests of honor expressed their thanks and showed their visitors through their new house.

Another Record Season For Seaway Shipping

MONTREAL (CP)—St. Lawrence Seaway shipping is heading into the home stretch of another record season with cargo up 6.7 per cent from last year. Seaway officials forecast a possible 45,000,000 tons by the time shipping ends in early December.

This has been a year of heavy upstream tonnage had jumped by one-fifth to 18,863,929 tons compared with 15,784,859 tons in 1962.

The biggest single product transported is iron ore from Labrador. It is loaded at Sept Iles, Que., for the trip upriver to the Pennsylvania and Ontario steel mills. Iron ore has made up 30 per cent of cargo shipments this year, up six per cent from 1962.

Downstream traffic, on the other hand, has decreased five per cent from last year to 17,338,714 tons. Last year large wheat sales to the Soviet Union caused unusually large wheat shipments down the waterway this year wheat tonnage was down one-quarter to make up 19 per cent of the total.

Ocean-going individual ships have set transport records this year. The Lawrencecliffe Hall carried 28,464 tons of wheat and 27,681 tons of mixed grains downstream on two separate trips, setting tonnage records.

Another ship, the Saguenay, carried a record amount of corn —27,328 tons—down the seaway.

SETS STEEL RECORD

An up-bound ship, the Wear-field, heading for Detroit with steel products, also set a record by carrying 19,064 tons. It returned to Europe with 19,420 tons of mixed grain.

A different kind of red-letter day was marked when the freighter Misahurisk, the first Russian ship to navigate the St. Lawrence routed, churned into the seaway this summer, bound for Toronto and Hamilton.

The waterway was opened early this year—on April 8—though commercial traffic was delayed by cold weather. "It was the third week in April before we really got going," a seaway spokesman commented.

The official closing has been set for Dec. 3, three days later than last year's closing, though it may stay open on a day-to-day basis until winter ice closes the gates for the year. In 1964, the last boat out passed through Dec. 5.

Winter ice first becomes a problem when it forms around gates in the canal locks. Seaway maintenance men mitigate this by bubbling hot air through the water around the gates. In the shipping channels the first ice is like an oil slick that ships can break their way through it.

Last year, tolls on the 6,200-odd vessels that passed through the waterway brought some $20,000,000 in revenue, says seaway authority spokesman Roger Cote. This more than covers operating expenses but is insufficient to pay interest on the $300,000,000 loan that financed the seaway project.

The giant engineering job, financed two-thirds by Canada and one-third by the U.S., links the Great Lakes with the Atlantic for ships having up to 27-foot draught. The six lift locks between Montreal and Lake Ontario raise and lower vessels over 210 feet.

The sermon was delivered by Mr. F. Kennedy of Thomasburg.

Mr. Smith announced that beginning on Sunday, November 28th he will be preaching a series of four sermons on Advent and the Nativity.

Man Being Kept Under Constant Surveillance

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Lucien Cardin said Sunday night that the Canadian involved in last spring's Russian spy ring is going to be kept under permanent surveillance.

"As far as I'm concerned, I'm going to see that there is surveillance on this man as long as he's in Canada," Mr. Cardin said in a television interview.

The justice minister had announced previously that no criminal proceedings will be undertaken against the Canadian because of insufficient legal evidence to ensure a conviction.

Mr. Cardin referred to the man as Spencer. The Vancouver Province in a story earlier this month said Vance was a postal worker Victor G. Spencer, 37, held identified himself as the civil servant investigated in connection with the spy case.

Two Russian embassy officials were expelled from the country over the investigation.

ON CBC-TV

Mr. Cardin was interviewed about the case on the CBC television network This Hour Has Seven Days. He was asked how the man could clear his name since there was to be no prosecution.

"If he wants to have a trial and clear his name, certainly he can have that," the minister replied but did not indicate how a trial was to be held.

He also said that several thousand dollars was paid by the Russians for information that would have been available to anyone. He said the money apparently was for expenses to travel to Ottawa. The man was a postal clerk and had no access to secret information.

Earlier, he said the man is sick and on leave of absence without pay. Sunday night he merely said the man is on leave.

Gilead

GILEAD — The members of Gilead Community Centre, held their November meeting on Friday evening with a good attendance.

In the absence of the president, Mr. Roy Huffman, the secretary-treasurer was acting chairman. Thank-you notes were read, also reports received from bazaar and catering committees.

A vote was carried to buy new floor suitable for dancing with Mr. Roy Huffman to investigate for estimates on same; decided to cater to future wedding if requested, also at Albert Grills' sale, annual euchre parties are to start December 6th with Roy and Irene Huffman in charge. Such articles as were presented to St. Andrew's, Gilead United Church are to be reclaimed and used at the Community Centre.

The December meeting date the 10th instead of the 17th due to the semi-formal planned by the young people of Gilead at the Centre. Misses Cynthia and Elizabeth Howes are conveners for the December meeting.

Mrs. Gerald Swan conducted the program and taking part were Donald Gordon, Harry Huffman and Bruce Swan; a solo by Janet Ross; humorous readings given by Mr. Ricky Vos and Mrs. Harold Pound.

Recreation in the form of bingo followed with all participating. Mesdames Irene and Wilma Huffman, adult group; Mr. Ricky Vos, secondary school group; and Mr. Allan Gordon, elementary school were the prize winners.

The meeting adjourned and lunch was served.

Why are you* headed for higher automobile insurance costs?

Because an "average" accident last year cost $810...a jump of $113 in just 5 years
Automobile insurance rates in most areas of Canada will increase in 1966. Prudent drivers ask why premiums should rise again. Here are the key reasons:
• Every year the number of vehicles on Canadian roads is increasing ... but the total cost of accidents in the past five years has gone up three times as fast as the number of cars which together must provide the money to pay for these accidents.
• And during the past five years the number of accidents has spiralled much faster than the number of cars that are on the road.
• In that same period the total cost of insurance claims has doubled.
• Since 1960 this claims cost has been climbing at an average of 640 million a year. This year's insurance bill for accidents will total $400 million.
• Each accident costs more than it did five years ago —the result of more expensive and luxurious cars, increasing repair costs, higher medical expenses and compensation for time off work or lost income.
The only way to stop this spiral is to have fewer accidents. That is the best way, too, to cut the tragic toll of 4,500 deaths and 150,000 injuries in Canada each year. Safety pays . . . it saves lives and dollars.
*Even Good Drivers Have Accidents
Drivers with a three-year accident-free record earn a 35 per cent discount off basic insurance rates. But even good drivers have accidents. Eighty per cent of all accidents are caused by people who have driven three or more years without an accident. That is why the basic rates go up for everyone—even the good driver who still gets his discount.

wind stayed below the permissible limit.

The launching originally was scheduled for last Tuesday, but was postponed one day due to radio trouble aboard the United States Explorer XXII satellite which accompanied Alouette II into orbit atop the National Aeronautics and Space Administration rocket.

Two hundred knot winds in the jetstream, three times above Newfoundland, washed out the Wednesday launch and it was re-scheduled for Saturday night.

A BIRTH DEVELOPED

The countdown went smoothly Saturday until about eight minutes before launch time when minor technical problems forced two short delays. Then, when the launch was only 95 seconds away, a hitch developed in the radar tracking system and the launch was put off until Sunday.

While final word on the orbits achieved by the two space craft will not be known until later today, early reports said Alouette II is circling the earth in an elliptical orbit ranging in altitude from 329 miles to 1,337 miles.

An earlier announcement indicated that the orbit was higher than intended — NASA officials later explained the announced targets of 270 and 1,630 miles included the earth's radius — 3,963 nautical miles — which would have made the target altitudes 4,233 and 5,593 miles.

It will take at least three days for NASA officials to confirm final orbital data, one of the problems is the extremely close similarity between the orbital paths of the Alouette and Explorer satellites. Their experiments called for them to stay less than 1,000 miles apart for at least the first month of orbit.

Word that the satellites were in proper orbits launched a round of celebrations at the nearby community of Lompoc where staffs from DRB and its two contractors — RCA Victor Co. of Canada and De Havilland Aircraft Co., of Canada — have been living since work started on the launch three weeks ago.

NASA officials were happy with the performance of the Explorer satellite, although they had a few anxious moments just after the launch when weak radio signals could not confirm that the U.S. satellite was operating properly.

REPORTS ALL OK

But word finally was relayed from Alaska that both satellites were extremely close to the planned orbits and all equipment was functioning properly.

DRB officials said Alouette II —originally the backup satellite for Alouette I launched from here 38 months ago and still in orbit — was doing the experiments assigned to both.

Both Alouette I and II were designed to investigate the top of the ionosphere, a layer of ionizes electrical activity surrounding the earth.

However, Alouette II has been extensively modified. Its antennas has been extended from 150 to 250 feet and a new power supply added.

Both satellites had life expectancies of a year. However, Alouette I is still sending back useful information to tracking stations and its predecessor was expected to remain alive for at least two years.

In Ottawa, Defence Minister Hellyer hailed the successful launching as an achievement of which Canadians could be proud.

The two Canadian satellites are the first of a series of five to be launched from this base in the next few years.

Next U.S. Step Toward Moon Landing Will Be Spacecraft Chase Before Yule

By HOWARD BEEDICT
and
John BARBOUR
Associated Press Space Writers

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) The next U.S. step toward the moon features a cast of four astronauts, two of them flying in their underwear, and an orbital pursuit, with one spacecraft chasing and catching the other for a formation flight at over 17,000 miles an hour.

All of this is tentatively planned for two weeks before Christmas.

At the end of it, the United States could have an even wider lead in space records, may have proved the complex techniques that it hopes will carry three Americans to the moon by 1970—and may have broadcast the first cries of a newborn baby to a father orbiting in space.

Somehow the series of events seems to speak for the space age, an episode in history that blends brave human dreams with the basic human emotions, the new technical power with his ancient enemy, the chance of human error.

By best measure, the U.S. and the Soviet Union are nearly neck and neck in the eight-year-old race to be moon.

But man steps into space in fits and starts. No single space spectacular puts either nation permanently ahead. It is a secret race in the factories and on the drawing boards. Victory and failure are only temporary.

OUT-THRUST U.S.

The Soviets still have the biggest operational rockets—giants that push into space with 1,400,000 pounds of thrust, compared to only 330,000 pounds of thrust for the Titan rocket that puts the U.S. Gemini astronauts into orbit.

Yet, despite its smaller boosters, the United States has grabbed every major space record. It has:

—The world's most travelled spaceman, Lt.-Col. L. Gordon Cooper, who has two flights totalling some 825 hours in orbit.

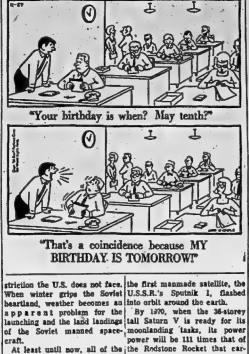
—The most man - hours in space, 942 to the Soviet-cosmonaut total of 507.

—The longest single flight—two men in orbit aboard Gemini 5 for nearly eight days.

—The most flights, nine compared with eight for the Soviets.

The Gemini 7 flight, scheduled for Dec. 4, will extend some 14-days. Gemini 6 will be launched to chase down the Gemini 7 spacecraft. Inside Gemini 7, two astronauts will have stripped down to their long underwear to prove that space travel can be comfortable, and show a faith in the integrity of their spacecraft's atmosphere.

But the Soviets are orbiting larger spacecraft. None of the manned U.S. spaceships has matched the craft the Soviets have launched for weight or roominess. It would take only one Soviet effort of long duration to wipe all of the U.S. records off the slate.



PREPARE FOR 1967

In early 1967, the U.S. hopes to have its Saturn IB booster—with 1,500,000 pounds of thrust —ready to hoist men into space on the training of three-man Apollo crews.

Until then, and possibly for some time thereafter, the Soviets will have a clear lead in rocket power.

So, who's ahead? Obviously, there is no simple answer.

In manned space flight, the Soviets seem to have one restriction the U.S. does not face. When winter grips the Soviet heartland, weather becomes an apparent problem for the launching and the safe landings of the Soviet manned spacecraft.

At least until now, all of the Soviet manned launchings have come between March and October—usually in the summer months. Every winter, U.S. space experts have wondered what the Soviets would have up their sleeves next spring.

The U.S., firing from the mild climate of the Florida Peninsula, and recovering its spacemen at sea in temperate zones, has fired men into space at all times of the year.

The chief of U.S. manned spaceflight, Dr. George F. Mueller, says:

"I don't think one flight or achievement is going to determine leadership in space. The flights over the long term will provide us with a sound basis for leadership."

GOALS ARE PRIMARY

Charles S. Sheldon II, White House space expert, says answering who is ahead in the space race is not as meaningful as considering the goals of each program.

The manoeuvres of Gemini 7, with Frank Borman and James Lovell aboard, and the Gemini 6 mission, with Walter Schirra and Thomas* Stafford, are essential to U.S. plans for the moon trip.

In that flight, a mothership will go into orbit around the moon, discharge a small space cab to take two men to the moon's surface. To get back home, those first lunar explorers will have to purses and link up with the mothership in lunar orbit.

U.S. officials have decided not to wait to test the rendezvous procedure which is critical. That is why Schirra and Stafford will chase down the Gemini 7, then fly in formation with their self-sufficient cabin. Gemini 7, Borman and Lovell will test out new spacesuits and see whether man can stumble and dress again in the cramped cockpit.

The idea of a moon race has put up national prestige as the stakes for getting to the moon first. With it have come priorities and money.

REMEMBER SPUTNIK?

It has compressed time and effort so greatly that it is hard to believe the whole thing began just eight years ago when the first manmade satellite, the U.S.S.R.'s Sputnik I, flashed into orbit around the earth.

By 1970, when the 36-storey tall Saturn V is ready for its moonlanding tasks, its power will be 111 times that of the Redstone Rocket that carried Alan Shepard aloft on a looping, 15-minute visit to space in May, 1961.

Communications satellites now ring the earth, providing instant, transoceanic television. Weather satellites keep careful eyes on the churning clouds of the earth, on watch for hurricanes and typhoons. There are navigational satellites planned and dozens of unmanned scientific laboratories already have been orbited.

Since Sputnik I, the U.S. has orbited more than 300 satellites, compared with 150 for the Soviets.

However it compares with the Soviet program, the U.S. program is going to be moving at a faster pace now than the Soviets.

Looking beyond 1970, U.S. scientists are taking aim on the Red Planet and urging a strong federal program to get men there—to Mars, 49,000,000 miles away, and the best bet to harbor some form of life in the solar system.

Russians Said Far Ahead in Rocket Field

LONDON (Reuters)—A British space expert today said data supplied by the Soviet Union for the new edition of an authoritative British reference book showed the Russians were even further ahead in the rocket field than they claimed.

The expert, who declined to be identified, also said the Russians might be planning a space sensation for 1967 to mark the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

He said his deductions were based on an examination of the material the Russians released for the 1966 edition of Jane's All the World's Aircraft," published in London today.

Previous editions of Jane's have been far from complete on information about Soviet aviation developments. For the latest edition the Moscow authorities have furnished details of Soviet aero-space technology for the first time.

The British expert said after studying the Soviet data that the new Russian rocket equipment was approaching a size that would provide enough thrust for a journey to the moon.

The Russians also have contributed to the new edition of Jane's the first reasonably complete details of the 1,500-mile-an-hour Tupolev-14 supersonic airliner. Some aircraft industry officials believe the Russians may get it into the air before the Anglo-French Concorde.

The Tupolev-144 is scheduled for its first flight in 1968. It is believed, however, that a maximum effort could get the plane off the ground in time for the 1967 anniversary celebrations.

minority regime of Rhodesia's prime minister, Ian Smith.

Wilson and his aides reviewed the problems of supplying Zambia with oil and providing it with an outlet for its copper exports, which up to now have been routed through Rhodesia.

There was growing speculation that Wilson might agree to send a small token force to Zambia and speculcy that it was not to be used in Rhodesia itself.

NO INVASION

It was thought that the Conservative Opposition might back such a step if the force was small and it was made clear that it was not the spearhead of an invasion of Rhodesia.

If Wilson decides to send troops he is assured of the support of the Liberal party, which controls nine votes in the House of Commons. Its leader, Jo Grimond, called Sunday for "short, sharp and decisive steps" to be added to the present sanctions against Smith.

The Roman Catholic church in Rhodesia bitterly criticized the Smith government for having seized independence from Britain and warned that the government's racial policies were disastrous.

In a pastoral instruction Sunday, the bishops headed by Archbishop F. D. Markall, accused Smith of making a "diabolical mockery" of the words "Christian and Western civilization" in his claim that he had declared independence to preserve it.

The sources said it would be senseless to set up a force unless it is known beforehand that political decisions to use nuclear weapons would be made and that the command and voting arrangements would be.

The NATO defence ministers, at their one-day meeting Saturday, set up three committees to study the elements vital to the taking of such decisions.

The sources said that at present NATO has thousands of unclear weapons on both sides of the Atlantic under different kinds of control arrangements. One committee is to make detailed arrangements but guidelines for decisions by governments are lacking.

The committees will report to the defence ministers at the end of the next April.

Your Car

Preparation Pays Off in Months Ahead

By EUGENE R. MILMOE

With antifreeze, winter or all-weather oil, winter lubrication, snow tires and a strong battery, you're all set for winter . . . or are you?

Rugged tests lie ahead. Sub-freezing temperatures, snow and icing can pose all sorts of driving problems. Fortunately, there are automotive products to combat most potential sources of trouble, and the careful motorist includes most of them in his winter preparation plans.

The list includes: skid chains for severe ice conditions (whether or not you have snow tires), a fuel line antifreeze to prevent freeze-up of water or condensation anywhere in the fuel system, automatic windshield washer antifreeze and windshield de-icer spray.

The winter-wise driver will also make sure of his thermostat, heater hose and muffler. And those who do not guard against battery troubles with a home battery charger should do the next best thing and always carry a pair of booster cables.

B. A. asks: "If an engine has been properly built and kept fairly new and clean, how can piston or rings suffer damage?"

Bad ignition timing can cause knock and vibration which will be severe enough in bring on damage.

From L. T.: "Can you tell me why our '59 sedan is rough and rocky at 15 or 20 mph? I've already replaced the plugs, points, condenser and tuned the ignition."

This is often due to a clogged air cleaner, sticking choke, carburetor maladjustment or some other condition which causes an over-rich fuel mixture. Valve leakage is the next suspect on the list.

O.D. writes: "For the past few months, whenever my car is started in the early morning there's a dull knock in the engine. After the engine has thoroughly warmed up, you can no longer hear the noise."

Sounds like a sticking valve condition.

R.B. asks: "Have you ever heard of a regular engine tapping developing after new spark plugs were installed?"

Yes — when they're the wrong plugs! If they reach too low in the combustion chamber, valves or pistons could be tapping against the plug electrodes.

Two Hunters Rescued by Helicopter

SIMCOE (CP)—Two hunters, marooned on a barren island a mile off Lake Erie's nearest shore since Saturday were rescued shortly after daybreak today by an RCAF helicopter. Both were in good condition.

Leroy Long, 24, and his brother, Gerald, 27, both of Langton, Ont., were brought directly here from the stretch of marshland, 30 miles southwest, where they had huddled in an abandoned fishing hub for nearly 36 hours.

The helicopter, from search and rescue headquarters at Trenton, Ont., had arrived here about 4 a.m., but officials decided to wait until dawn before attempting the rescue from the tiny wind-blown island Off Long Point, a 26-mile-long peninsula.

The men left St. Williams Saturday in a 15-foot boat, powered by an outboard motor, and were reported missing Saturday night.

Russia Says

U.S. collaboration for world domination, to use the question of Viet Nam as an important counter in their bargaining with the United States. . . .

PEKING FAVORS SPLIT

Peking then called for a formal split—"draw a clear line of demarcation both politically and organizationally between" the Soviet and Chinese camps of Communists.

Pravda commented Nov. 18 that the Chinese editorial was "saturated with impermissible, utterly groundless, slanderous, provocative fabrications . . .

Sunday's editorial says the Soviet Union had tried "to organize joint actions" and proposed co-operation "on highly important specific issues," all by implication related to Viet Nam. The Chinese refused, it said.

"Those who refuse to co-operate and turn down proposals for joint actions against the aggressors are hampering the struggle of the Vietnamese people and help the aggressor," says Pravda.

OBSTRUCT AID

There were no details. But the editorial fits in with reports long circulating here of China's obstructing Soviet efforts to send war materials and possibly even troops to North Viet Nam.

When it comes to heaters, we're full of hot air.

Ever heard anyone complain about how long it takes the heater to get going in a Volkswagen?

We have.

That's why we've added a heater booster this year. (Built in, not stowed away in the luggage compartment like the old unit.)

It fills the VW with hot air faster. And keeps it filled automatically. A thermostat shuts it off when things warm up. And switches it on again if things cool down.

So no matter what goes on outside, it's always good and warm inside a 1966 Volkswagen. And the windshield is always good and clear because our new heater booster pumps extra warm air through the defroster vents, too.

There are one or two other things that might give you a nice warm feeling about driving a Volkswagen in the winter-time.

Like the extra traction you get from having the engine over the rear wheels. And the snugly sealed bottom that keeps snow and salt from damaging vital parts. And the fact that there's no radiator to fill with anti-freeze.

If the idea of owning a Volkswagen has left you a little cold up until now, why not come in and see what we've done for 1966?

We think it will thaw you out.

Cappy Days are Here Again"

The Hamilton Tiger-Cats are Canada's Kings of Football. They won the Grey Cup Saturday over a tough Winnipeg Blue Bomber squadron—and they won it by being the better team on the afternoon's play. They are worthy champions. Saludos amigos!

The Jungle Kings' victory climaxed a not so wonderful as weird and wacky weekend of sports that was. Tradition, comedy, upset, frustration and mental tragedy each had a part in the national drama of the gridiron. Perhaps the saddest act was not written in the script.

The traditional Cup "Kiss of Death" was unwittingly placed on the brow of Bud Grant, the Blue Bomber coach. A more literal kiss was the "suicide" type that could be Jim Trimble's swansong to Canadian football.

Grant was voted the "Coach of the Year" by his compadres who should know football. Saturday night Grant remembered that the Annis Stukus Trophy for the country's top coach lived up to tradition. No coach has ever won it and followed through with a Grey Cup victory.

Trimble failed to show at a pre-game press conference called after his regrettable "assault" on a Montreal sports writer.

The writer, it was stated, was badly abeaten by Trimble in and after a hotel room altercation in Toronto, "Needling" on the part of the scribe was mentioned.

Trimble was recently fired by the Montreal Alouettes brass. Could it have been that the writer's alleged needling touched off a frustration fuse that had been slowly burning in Trimble's mind.

It seems hard to believe that a man of Trimble's stature and record in Canadian football would suddenly go berserk and vent his fistic fury on a man who had been "needling" him!

Police records will reveal that this "illegal assault" takes place many times in many centres after Saturday night drinking bouts. Nothing, unless the injuries are of a very serious nature, becomes of it.

A short time ago a handsome young negro world boxing champion administered a severe beating to a challenger to his world title.

In the fantastic world of sport, the beating was local. Cassius Clay was hailed as a superman in his division. Perhaps rightly so. Time will tell.

Perhaps the comparison is ridiculous. One man in a moment of unbridled fury beat up another and surrendered his proud status in the world of sport.

Another did the same in the ling of sports duty and was paid three-quarters of a million dollars.

Another facet in the wild weekend of anything can happen, was the main body of the football experts went down to defeat in the prediction stakes. This agent floundered in the depths for the third time—but in what illustrious company?

Even Jane Stoppe the Gawia prophet peach was forced to nibble with the rest on a crow sandwich. Jane's record was set back when she picked the Bombers.

Now that the "Oskewawa's" led by that news room doughty daily double have subsided, it's back to the prophetic drawing board.

THOMPSON TRIUMPHS

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP)—Australia's Peter Thomson, the British Open champion, faltered with a last-round 75 Saturday but had enough of a lead to win the Caltex golf tournament with a 72-hole score of 282.

TORONTO (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats called the tune in Saturday's 22-16 Grey Cup triumph and when the performance ended, the chances of Winnipeg Blue Bombers were blown in the wind.

The Tiger-Cats' victory beat was hammered out by their mauling, unyielding defensive corps, which dominated play this season in the Eastern Football Conference.

It proved enough to snap the Western Conference Bombers' great 1965 comeback on the wind-buffeted gridiron at Canadian National Exhibition Stadium before a sell-out crowd of more than 22,000 fans.

The maestro was captain John Barrow, Hamilton's all-star defensive tackle, who was named the game's outstanding player. He stole a wind-stilled punt out of the hands of kicker Ed Ulmer in the third quarter after it sailed back across the line of scrimmage, and he recovered a fumble by quarterback Kenny Ploen of Bombers that stalled a key last-quarter Winnipeg drive.

Barrow got able assistance from others on Tiger-Cats defensive front wall: Angelo Mosca, Dave Viti, Marty Martinelli and Jim Reynolds.

DEFENCE WAS THERE

When a Winnipeg ball carrier was able to find a hole in this granite forest of jersey or skirt around it, all-star defensive halfbacks Billy Wayte and Garney Henley were there.

This defence forced Winnipeg's explosive offence to give up 116 yards on 31 plays, including the three on which the Bombers conceded safety touches.

It also rescued the Ticats' own hit-and-miss offence which coughed up a record-tying five fumbles to a Winnipeg defence rated second only to Hamilton's in Canada this season.

The safeties—only four were conceded in previous Grey Cup games stretching back to 1909—provided the victory margin which brought Hamilton its ninth Grey Cup in 17 tries and its fourth in nine against Winnipeg teams, dating back to 1935.

After the game, Hamilton coach Ralph Sazio commented:

"This great defence has carried us from the start while we were rebuilding and getting our offence together. The biggest three or four plays of the game were when Bombers' fullback Art Perkins didn't make a first down with just a few minutes to go, the fumble by Ploen and the way we held them right at the end."

BARROW REPLIES

Barrow, who joined Sazio to take the first drink of champagne from the battered trophy, was asked about the wisdom of giving up three safeties.

"Now, you're second-guessing. . . . If they had managed to break loose on just one series after a safety it would have been a brilliant stroke. They didn't and we got the ball."

Despite winds recorded to 30 miles an hour and temperatures in the mid-30s, it was a great battle.

Hamilton jumped ahead 10-0 in the opening quarter, dropped behind 13-10 by the half, moved in front to stay in the third quarter when it gained a 22-13 margin and held Winnipeg to a field goal in the tension-packed final quarter.

The Ticats got touchdowns from halfback Bob Cohee on an eight-yard first-quarter run and Willie Bethea in the third on a 29-yard pass play with quarterback Joe Zuger; two converts and a game-opening kickoff single by halfback Don Sutherin; a third-quarter single by Zuger, and the three safeties.

LEWIS LED

Halfback Leo Lewis, the Bombers' great veteran and their top player in the game, and Perkins scored touchdowns for Winnipeg, both in the second quarter. Tackle Norm Winton converted the second and kicked a 14-yard field goal early in the final quarter to complete the scoring.

The statistics were enough to give fans fits trying to fathom some pattern in the Hamilton victory or some reason for the Winnipeg loss.

The Bombers had 18 first downs to six for Hamilton and recovered five of six Ticat fumbles. Hamilton, however, outrushed Winnipeg 156 yards to 122 and gained 71 yards passing to 72 by the Bombers.

Henley made the only interception of the game, snaring a pass in his own end zone after it was carried by the wind over the head of end Farrell Funston, the intended receiver, on Winnipeg's first deep penetration into Tiger-Cat territory.

The only serious march by either club against the wind came in the final quarter when Bethea dodged several Bomber tacklers in a 37-yard run down the sidelines to the Winnipeg 16. A fumble by reserve quarterback Frank Cosentino two plays later killed the drive.

Hamilton did hold a margin moving into the wind. The Ticats gained 73 yards rushing against the wind. They didn't attempt a pass in this situation, but Zuger averaged 29 yards on six passes into the wind while Ulmer averaged only 17.

Winnipeg was minus 15 rushing against the wind and Ploen completed two passes into the wind for minus three yards. He clicked on five more with the wind for 58 yards while Lewis threw once with the wind for 14.

Zuger was good on two of four passes and Cosentino missed on one, all with the wind.

The game's top individual offensive performances was by Bethea who carried 12 times for 67 yards, caught two passes for 71 and gained one yard on a kickoff return. Lewis was next with 62 yards on 13 carries and 28 on a kickoff return.

Dave Ralmzy rushed for 36 yards on 10 carries, caught two passes for another 39 and ran back a kickoff 10 yards. Cohee picked up 43 yards on four carries.

HADDIX TO COACH

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Harvey Haddix, lefthanded pitcher who retired this year after 14 seasons in major-league baseball, was named pitching coach of Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League Sunday.

Fans Welcome Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP) —If they were disappointed, the 1,500 Winnipeg Blue Bomber fans didn't show it Sunday afternoon as they gave the defeated Grey Cup finalists a tumultuous welcome at a homecoming in Winnipeg Arena.

And the cheer of approval was deafening when halfback Leo Lewis promised: "Stick with us and we'll try to get it for you next year."

The Bombers arrived at the Winnipeg RCAF station where a 44-car caravan formed to take them to the official reception.

There, the enthusiastic crowd carried banners such as "well done Bombers" and gave the players a standing ovation as they walked around the arena waving and shaking hands with the fans.

The fans again rose to their feet when quarterback Kenny Ploen, halfback Leo Lewis veteran Herb Gray and coach Bud Grant were introduced. Grant, selected Coach of the Year, was almost drowned out by the cheers when he said the plans would start

HEADS FOR SCORE — Leo Lewis of Winnipeg Blue Bombers leaps into the Hamilton end zone for the Blue Bombers' second touchdown in Saturday's Grey Cup contest in Toronto. Grey Cup Statistics

Wind Showed No Favoritism

By ED SIMON

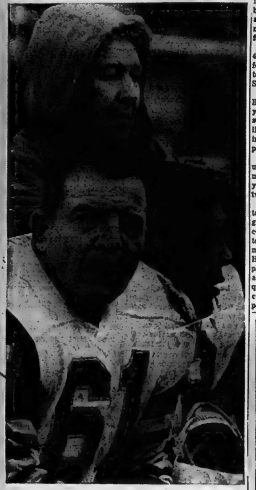
TORONTO (CP)—The heaviest blow suffered by Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the 1965 Grey Cup game was the 35-mile-an-hour wind that blew across Canadian National Exhibition Stadium.

Its effects were felt by both clubs Saturday as Hamilton Tiger-Cats defeated the ..... ers 22-16. But the Ticats, whose offence hasn't been anything to brag about all year, ground out enough yardage with the wind at their backs to get by. The Bombers didn't.

Between them, Winnipeg and Hamilton put together a total offence of 426 yards, the lowest since the same two clubs managed only 413 in the 1959 final. By contrast, Hamilton and British Columbia Lions installed 725 yards last year on a field made treacherous by rain that fell throughout the first half.

Neither side accomplished much Saturday without the wind at its back. The Bombers faced it in the first and third quarters and suffered a net loss of 18 yards. The Ticats did a little better, gaining 73 yards in the second and fourth quarters, but both clubs failed to score a point against the breeze.

IT WAS MISERABLE



It made life miserable for both punters, Joe Zagar of Hamilton, who led the Eastern Football Conference with an average of 44.3 yards this season, managed only 21.8 on eight efforts Saturday.

Ed Ulmer of the Bombers, a 41.5 punter in the Western Conference, found things even tougher. His ever-all average Saturday on nine kicks was 23.3.

But if the wind cost the Bomber offence a uncounted yardage, there were plenty of statistics to prove that the Hamilton defenders played a prominent part in thinning the Winnipeg attack.

Eighteen Bomber plays wound up behind their line of scrimmage for a total loss of 118 yards while the Ticats had only two piled up for minus 10.

Winnipeg strategy constricted to the big loss as the Bombers gave up a total of 54 yards conceding three safeties in order to retain possession. Twelve more rushes were smeared by Hamilton for 43 yards, a completed Winnipeg pass lost seven and 13 yards were lost when quarterback Kenny Ploen was caught twice attempting to pass.

HE NEED NOT HAVE WORRIED — Tackle John Barrow of Hamilton wears a worried look as he sits on the Tiger-Cats' bench during the Grey Cup final in Toronto Saturday. However, his team went on to defeat the Winnipeg Blue Bombers 22-16, and Barrow was named outstanding player of the game. (CP Photo)

Larks Sign Varsity Star

TORONTO (CP) — Gerry Sternberg, 22-year-old 170-pound halfback with University of Toronto Blues football team, signed a contract during the weekend with Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference.

Sternberg, who led the Ontario - Quebec Intercollegiate Athletic Association League in touchdowns, said he has a gentleman's agreement with the Alouettes that would free him of any obligation should he decide to return to school to take a law course.

Earlier this year, Sternberg had a professional tryout with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Conference.

Habs Regain Lead; Howe Gets '600'

Hawks, Leafs Split

HAPPY HOWE — A victorious Gordie Howe is seen with Detroit Red Wings manager Sid Abel shortly after scoring his 600th National Hockey League goal in Montreal Saturday night. Abel is holding the lucky puck. Despite his goal, Detroit lost to Canadiens 3-2. (CP Wirephoto)

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens won first place during weekend National Hockey League action while Gordie Howe pulled out of a slump to break records.

The Canadiens, who picked up two what it takes solo possession of the league leadership were the largest for Howe, who packed No. 600 into their sets and, a player off the ice.

Howe, Detroit Red Wings' big right winger, scored his 40th regular-season goal Saturday but it wasn't enough as Montreal downed the Wings 3-2.

Two minutes after his historic goal, Howe high-sticked Montreal defenceman J. C. Tremblay, smashing his cheekbone. Howe went to the penalty box with a smile but Tremblay was taken to hospital.

In other NHL action Saturday, Boston Bruins edged Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 and Chicago Black Hawks shut out New York Rangers 1-0.

In Sunday's games, Montreal beat Chicago 2-1, Toronto downed New York 4-2 and Detroit clipped Boston 5-3.

Montreal jumped off to a 2-0 lead early in the first period on goals by Gilles Tremblay and Yvan Cournoyer. Bobby Rousseau scored the winner in the third period.

Norm Ullman scored the other Detroit goal.

Howe had been gunning unsuccessfully for his 600th goal through five games since Nov. 11.

HABS TAKE LEAD

Canadiens took first place with their win over Chicago Black Hawks Sunday.

The victory, Montreal's second over Chicago in three games, moved the Canadiens two points ahead of the Hawks.

Henri Richard and Claude Provost scored Montreal's goals as Richard's came just nine seconds after the game got under way.

Pat Stapleton, replacing injured defenceman Elmer Vasko, scored the Hawks' lone marker.

Kenny Wharram's goal with less than six minutes remaining gave the Hawks their victory over New York Saturday.

The big factor in the Chicago win was veteran netminder Glenn Hall, who handled 47 shots on goal. The shutout was Hall's third of the season and the 63th of his 13-year career.

Reg Fleming's tie-breaking, third-period goal gave the Bruins their victory over Toronto. The other Boston scorer was right winger Eddie Westfall.

Fleming's goal sparked an outburst from Toronto netminder Terry Sawchuk which earned him a 10-minute misconduct and an automatic $25 fine.

SAWCHUK COMPLAINS

Sawchuk complained that Boston's Forbes Kennedy took him out of the play with his stick and held him outside the goal crease while Fleming scored.

The veteran goalie skated quickly over to referee Bill Friday. When Sawchuk started to get noisy, the official signalled the misconduct.

Orland Kurtenbach capped a three-goal comeback in the second period, leading Toronto to their victory over the Rangers Sunday.

New York took a first-period 2-0 lead on goals by Vic Hadfield and Jean Ratelle.

But Toronto came back with goals by George Armstrong, Dave Keon and Kurtenbach. Bob Pulford scored into the empty net with 40 seconds remaining in the game.

A pair of first-period goals by Floyd Smith sparked Detroit to its victory over Boston Sunday.

Gary Bergman, Norm Ullman and Val Fonteyne were the other Red Wing marksmen.

Tommy Williams, Dean Prentice and Johnny Bucyk scored for Boston.

How's Great Moments

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordie Howe's 600th National Hockey League goal, scored against Montreal Canadiens Saturday night, adds to the record every time he puts the puck into the net.

The 544 mark, made by Montreal's illustrious Maurice (Rocket) Richard, now retired, was reached by Howe Oct. 27, 1963. He scored No. 545 Nov. 10 1963.

When Montreal goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley was beaten on No. 600 Saturday, it marked the third time he has been the victim in Howe's milestone goals. Worsley, then with New York Rangers, was in the net when Howe scored No. 500 and was with Canadiens when Howe equalled Richard's 544 mark.

The milestones:

No. 1—Oct. 16, 1946, at Detroit against Turk Broda. Detroit 3, Toronto 3.

No. 100—Feb. 17, 1951, at Montreal against Gerry McNeil. Detroit 5, Montreal 1.

No. 200—Feb. 15, 1953, at Chicago, against Al Rollins. Detroit 3, Chicago 1.

No. 400—Dec. 13, 1958, at Montreal, against Jacques Plante. Detroit 2, Montreal 2

No. 500—March 14, 1963, at Detroit, against Lorne Worsley. New York 3, Detroit 2.

No. 544—Oct. 27, 1963, at Detroit, against Lorne Worsley.

Montreal 6, Detroit 4.

No. 545—Nov. 10, 1963, at Detroit, against Charlie Hodge. Detroit 3, Montreal 0.

No. 600 — Nov. 27, 1965, at Montreal, against Lorne Worsley. Montreal 3, Detroit 2.

Three-Point Weekend

Generals Take Over Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oshawa Generals moved into first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series with a three-point weekend.

The Generals defeated Montreal Canadiens 9-6 Saturday and tied Toronto Marlboros 6-6 Sunday.

The idle Niagara Falls Flyers slipped into second place, one point behind the Generals who have 24.

In other games, Montreal managed a split in their games defeating Kitchener Rangers 4-1 in Montreal Sunday, while Peterborough Petes came from behind a three-goal deficit to defeat Hamilton Red Wings 7-6.

Oshawa defencemen Bobby Orr scored four goals in the two-game series, two in each game. A pulled hamstring muscle late in the Marlboro game forced him out and opened the way in four Toronto goals to earn the tie.

Other Oshawa scorers were Barry Wilkins, Chris Hayes, Brian Morenz and Bill Little.

Barry Watson tied it up for Toronto, while other goals came from Doug Dunville, Jim Keon, Mike Corrigan, Brent Imlach and Terry Caffery.

O'SHEA GETS THREE

Danny O'Shea scored three goals for Oshawa in the Montreal game to lead that attack. Orr had his two, while Wayne Cashman, Brian Morenz, Ron Dussiaume and George Babcock got the others.

Don Lissemer and Jacques Lemaire each scored twice for the Canadiens. Michel LaPalme and Serge Savard added the others.

Montreal's win over eighth-place Kitchener kept them within two points of third - place Peterborough.

ELECT PRESIDENT

TORONTO (CP) — Charles Ryan of Toronto was elected chairman of the Ontario region of Canadian Automobile Sport Clubs at the annual general meeting Sunday. Ryan won the two-year term over James Gunn, a former national president of CASC trying to gain the regional office.

TORONTO (CP)—"The wind doesn't score touchdowns."

That's how Winnipeg coach Bud Grant wrapped up his Blue Bombers' 22-16 loss to Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the 53th East-West Grey Cup game Saturday.

What it boiled down to was that a tough Hamilton defence spoiled Bombers' strategy designed to make the most of high winds that battered Canadian National Exhibition Stadium throughout the contest.

Captain Herb Gray explained it this way:

"Holding a 13-10 lead, Winnipeg had one of three choices to start the second half—kick, receive or take either the east or west ends of the field. Bombers chose to receive.

"We knew Hamilton would take the wind because they couldn't afford to take the chance of dropping further behind, then being forced to come back against the wind. This gave us the wind in the final 15 minutes and we hoped we could come back if we lost our margin," Gray said.

It didn't work out and Gray finished a loser in what he said was his last game. He plans to retire after 10 seasons of Canadian football.

"This Grey Cup win has got to be the greatest for me," said coach Ralph Sazio in the jubilant Hamilton dressing room.

"We had to make so many changes this season and go with so many rookies."

Ticzta won the cup in Sazio's rookie year as head coach in 1963, beating British Columbia Lions 21-10. They lost to Lions in last year's game. The 1965 win makes it two out of three for the 43-year-old Sazio.

"I'll admit I was scared stiff about the weather," Sazio said. "I knew that the wind would be a disadvantage to us because of their great running.

"No doubt there were a lot of bad breaks in a game like this, but I think they gambled an awful lot. I know we didn't use 40 per cent of the stuff we worked on all week."

Grant said the wind "took a lot away from the game," including the pass. A pass could be thrown accurately for only about 15 yards, thus allowing defensive halfbacks to protect both against rushes and passes by lining up six feet behind the line of scrimmage.

Three minutes and 43 seconds into the third quarter Hamilton halfback Willie Bethea grabbed a pass from quarterback Joe Zuger and flashed down the left sideline for a 69-yard touchdown.

"Good pass, great catch, good run," said Grant in review.

"They played well."

on-the-job training

seems like a shrewd investment

If you face the prospect of costly equipment just sitting there with no one to run it . . . now is the time to investigate how you can fill the "skill gap" in your business through the Ontario Department of Labour's new program, On-the-Job Training—O.J.T.

O.J.T. is a system of training on the job using your equipment, methods and procedures. Training is conducted in a work atmosphere. The Department of Labour can provide technical and financial assistance to help you develop your own O.J.T. program and locate trainees.

The Province's long-existing Apprenticeship program has been extended to include many new trades. In addition, a completely new system of training—a wide range of short-term skill development programs designed to meet your own custom requirements—has been introduced.

Together these form the Ontario Department of Labour's overall program: ON-THE-JOB TRAINING—O.J.T. Ontario's economy needs over 35,000 skilled workers now. Don't let this "skill gap" result in lost profits in your business. Take action now and investigate the advantages of O.J.T. For full details, write to:

Playing Role of Old Gnome Brennan's Toughest Part

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Walter Brennan, one of the last of a great generation of character actors, is still going strong enough at 72 to play a dual role as tycoon and 90-year-old gnome.

"This is the toughest job of my career," said Brennan of his roles in The Gnome-Mobile. It was clear that he was enjoying every minute.

Brennan arrived for lunch in his suite as tycoon, and he was elegantly tailored and springy of step.

His gnome garb is something else again. He is laden with aging makeup that requires an hour to apply. Camera magic reduces him to one-third his normal size, and he leaps about like a—well, like a gnome.

Obviously there is plenty of life in the man who won three of the first five Academy Awards for supporting actor (Come and Get It, 1963; Kentucky, 1938; The Westerner, 1940), He and Donald Crisp survive among the character men who have won the Oscar. Joseph Schildkraut, Thomas Mitchell, Charles Coburn, Barry Fitzgerald, Edmund Gwena and others are gone.

While the early supporting Oscars went to mature players like the above, the prize often goes now to younger men: Red Buttons, Frank Sinatra, Jack Lemmon, Edmond O'Brien, Peter Ustinov, Anthony Quinn.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED.

"Yes there's no doubt that character acting ain't what it used to be," said Brennan. "A lot of the great ones are gone, and there aren't many to take their places.

"You can't expect to find them in former stars. A young actor is always a leading man. And the young actors aren't willing to put in the time to study their craft. They want instant success."

Brennan started films right after the First World War, building the set with a makeup kit that provided a variety of disguises.

Brennan bit his stride as a contract player for Samuel Goldwyn. He made eight films for Goldwyn and 40 features. The actor never concerned himself with billing, nor did he overcharge for his services. He figured "to do his job with as much skill as he could muster, and that was plenty.

His long experience paid off with the Real McCoys, which ran on television for six years. Last season he attempted another series, Tycoon, but it didn't survive.

Undaunted, he has filmed a pilot for another series, making it for his own company. The thought of the television grind doesn't face him.

"Shucks, work is my hobby," he reasoned. "Without it, I'd die."

SHOWMAN WELL PREPARED

CBC director George Bloomfield has a philosophy degree, studied law and worked as a psychiatric counselor before becoming an actor.

AT THE BELLE — The ever welcome James Stewart in his fifth starring role is a widower Virginia farmer with six sons and a daughter in the motion picture "Shenandoah", Technicolor showing Tonight and Tuesday for the last time at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

AT THE BELLE — Sophia Loren and George Peppard in a scene from a tale of intrigue and gripping behind-the-scenes action, "The Key", at 7.30 and 9.30 p.m. "The Great Spy Mission", Technicolor spy drama in Panavision and Color, opening Wednesday, at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE PARK — Steve McQueen portrays a treacherous musician who plots to kill Natalie Wood in "Love With The Proper Stranger", the new Pakula-Mulligan drama for Paramount which opens Tonight at the Park Theatre. On the same program "Who's Been Sleeping In My Bed", starring Dean Martin. One complete show starts at 7.30 p.m.

Starry Jim Brown Sparks Browns' Win

Aces Slump, Lose Three In Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The story of the decline if not the fall of Kingston Aces of the Ontario Hockey Association first for A series can be told simply enough: 7-0, 3-2 and 11-0.

The Aces came out with absolutely nothing after a three-game series with Guelph Regals, Galt Hornets and Woodstock Athletics during the next week, but still managed to remain in contention for first place.

As for the winners, the turnpoint was at the expense of the Aces moved them well up in the standings.

In the other game, Oakville Oaks defeated the Hornets 6-3 Sunday to move three points back of the second-place Aces.

After the 7-0 beating at the hands of the Regals Friday, the Aces moved to Galt. Earl Balfour and Bob Maxwell scored for the Hornets before Davey Jones replied for Kingston.

In Woodstock, Tommy Wilson figured in six of the 11 goals for the last place Athletics, scoring four himself.

Hornets Close In On Amerks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pittsburgh Hornets are hot on the heels of Rochester Americans in American Hockey League standings.

The Hornets shut out Portland Buckaroos 5-0 during the week-end and Rochester Amerks beat 3-2 to narrow the Americans' first-place lead to six points.

For a team as hot as the Americans that's close.

Rochester wasn't making it easy, however, as they handled the Buckaroos, Western Hockey League champions, their second loss of the season.

The 4-3 win lengthened Rochester's undefeated streak to 10 games, one short of and one tie, and gave them 27 points in the western division.

In other week-end action, Buffalo Bisons downed Cleveland Barons 7-4, and lost to Baltimore Clippers 2-1. Cleveland won their other one 2-1 against Baltimore. Springfield Indians dropped weekend games to San Francisco Seals 4-1 and Seattle Totems 4-3, while Providence moved into third place in the eastern division with a 3-1 victory over Hershey Bears.

World Hockey Tourney

PRAGUE (CP-AP) — Canada meets the United States March 3, 1966, in the first day of the world hockey championships in Prague, the executive committee of the International Ice Hockey Federation decided in Czechoslovakian capital Saturday.

The schedule for the event, which lasts until March 13, was drawn up by the committee under the chairmanship of J. F. Ahearne.

Canada meets defending champion Russia March 11.

The schedule indicates a will take place in a new stadium at Ljubiana while group B will play in Zagreb and group C in Jesenica.

Minor Hockey

In two games played by Wellington and Albury tykes, Mickey Bird, on Saturday, the Bruins and Red Wings tied 2-2 and Hornets edged the Aces 8-7. Don Wright scored all nine Bruin goals. Stephen Destrator had six, Harry McDonald two and Garry Parks one for the Wings.

L. McQuaid looked after all the Hornet markers. John Fisher had four, Dwayne Destator two and Ted Noah one for Aces.

ISLE HAS ONE BIRD

Sable Island's only bird is the lpswich sparrow, found from New England to Georgia, which nests on the island.

Chiefs Defeat Houston

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kansas City Chiefs have forgotten about the trouble Fred Arbanas had with his eye. The only trouble was Arbanas was beginning to suspect the Chiefs also had forgotten about him.

"They just haven't been throwing to me," Arbanas said recently in discussing the sight of his left eye. "As far as I'm concerned, I'll never me I can catch it."

The Chiefs threw it near him Sunday and Arbanas, who made the All - American football league team last year after leading collegiate receivers as the Chiefs ripped Houston Oilers 52-21.

In the only other game scheduled, Boston Patriots edged New York Jets 27-23 and entrenched the Eastern Division title.

Against the Oilers Arbanas grabbed a five-yard pass from Len Dawson for one score and caught a 27-yarder from Pete Beathard for the other.

The victory kept the Chiefs in the Western race with a 6-4-2 record compared to San Diego Chargers' 6-3-3 and Oakland's 5-4-3.

The Patriots brought their record to 7-3-1 by beating the Jets and dropped the latter out of contention for the eastern title with a 3-8-1 record. Buffalo had clinched a tie for the title in a 30-20 tie with San Diego Chargers.

Babe Parilli, who completed only 10 of 33 passes and missed nine attempts in a row at one stretch, connected with Tony Romeo on a two-yard pass for the deciding touchdown with 54 seconds left in the game.

Jets' quarterback Joe Namath, who completed 24 of 39 passes for 284 yards and one touchdown, brought New York within 27-23 with 3:03 left but left deficit to the 23-20 lead before Parilli got the Patriots rolling again.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Rousseau, Montreal Canadiens' little right winger, picked up a goal and an assist in weekend action and increased his lead in five points in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

Rousseau, who scored 19 goals in 66 games last season, has 11 goals so far this year. He is also the league leader in assists with 12.

Chicago's Stan Mikita picked up two assists during the week-end and moved into a tie with teammate Bobby Hull, who has been sidelined for the last week with a knee injury.

Hull has a league-leading 13 goals and six assists while Mikita has eight goals and 13 assists.

Next in line is Jean Beliveau of Montreal who has 19 points on six goals and 13 assists.

He is followed by Bob Nevin and Don Marshall of New York Rangers, Nevin with 10 goals and seven assists and Marshall with seven goals and nine assists.

Doug Mohns rounds out the big seven with seven goals and eight assists for 15 points.

The leaders:

Aces Slump, Lose Three In Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The story of the decline if not the fall of Kingston Aces of the Ontario Hockey Association first for A series can be told simply enough: 7-0, 3-2 and 11-0.

The Aces came out with absolutely nothing after a three-game series with Guelph Regals, Galt Hornets and Woodstock Athletics during the next week, but still managed to remain in contention for first place.

As for the winners, the turnpoint was at the expense of the Aces moved them well up in the standings.

In the other game, Oakville Oaks defeated the Hornets 6-3 Sunday to move three points back of the second-place Aces.

After the 7-0 beating at the hands of the Regals Friday, the Aces moved to Galt. Earl Balfour and Bob Maxwell scored for the Hornets before Davey Jones replied for Kingston.

In Woodstock, Tommy Wilson figured in six of the 11 goals for the last place Athletics, scoring four himself.

Hornets Close In On Amerks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pittsburgh Hornets are hot on the heels of Rochester Americans in American Hockey League standings.

The Hornets shut out Portland Buckaroos 5-0 during the week-end and Rochester Amerks beat 3-2 to narrow the Americans' first-place lead to six points.

For a team as hot as the Americans that's close.

Rochester wasn't making it easy, however, as they handled the Buckaroos, Western Hockey League champions, their second loss of the season.

The 4-3 win lengthened Rochester's undefeated streak to 10 games, one short of and one tie, and gave them 27 points in the western division.

In other week-end action, Buffalo Bisons downed Cleveland Barons 7-4, and lost to Baltimore Clippers 2-1. Cleveland won their other one 2-1 against Baltimore. Springfield Indians dropped weekend games to San Francisco Seals 4-1 and Seattle Totems 4-3, while Providence moved into third place in the eastern division with a 3-1 victory over Hershey Bears.

World Hockey Tourney

PRAGUE (CP-AP) — Canada meets the United States March 3, 1966, in the first day of the world hockey championships in Prague, the executive committee of the International Ice Hockey Federation decided in Czechoslovakian capital Saturday.

The schedule for the event, which lasts until March 13, was drawn up by the committee under the chairmanship of J. F. Ahearne.

Canada meets defending champion Russia March 11.

The schedule indicates a will take place in a new stadium at Ljubiana while group B will play in Zagreb and group C in Jesenica.

Minor Hockey

In two games played by Wellington and Albury tykes, Mickey Bird, on Saturday, the Bruins and Red Wings tied 2-2 and Hornets edged the Aces 8-7. Don Wright scored all nine Bruin goals. Stephen Destrator had six, Harry McDonald two and Garry Parks one for the Wings.

L. McQuaid looked after all the Hornet markers. John Fisher had four, Dwayne Destator two and Ted Noah one for Aces.

Says Elliot Lake Radioactivity Will Poison Huron

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP) — The spectre of radioactive contamination trickling uncontrollably in increasing amounts from the Elliot Lake watershed into the Great Lakes was outlined here Monday by Dr. Jean Pigeon of Blind River.

"I am concerned about the big lakes, particularly Lake Huron," he said. "The contamination cannot be held back for any great period of time.

"It will trickle down and will certainly reach Lake Huron. After a few decades, there will be an excessive amount of radiation in this lake and it will stay there."

Unless rapid steps are taken to improve the present methods of controlling radioactivity in the uranium mining areas of Elliot Lake and Bancroft, contamination would continue and reach the other lakes, said Dr. Pigeon in an interview.

Commenting on the "safe" level of radioactivity said to be in Elliot Lake in an Ontario government report released Friday, Dr. Pigeon said the contamination process is an accumulative one.

SAYS IT MULTIPLIES

"The amount of radium people are getting is like a geometrical progression and is compounded."

He said water contaminated, water will stay that way for many thousands of years."

The government report suggested a five-point program for reducing radioactivity in the lake. There is no danger involved in drinking the water during a short period, it said.

Charles Formas, chairman of the town's board of trustees, said the report, in recommending safe levels for future water consumption, did not state the contamination count now in Elliot Lake.

"The last time we heard was in April, 1965, and at that time the level was seven picocuries per litre.

A picocurie is a unit of measurement of radiation.

Wells described in the report showed picocurie counts of 20 in Pecors Lake and 36 in Quirke Lake, both within 10 miles of here.

Atom Bomb Control Is Studied

MOSCOW (Reuters) — British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart and Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko discussed world disarmament problems during a three-hour meeting here today.

Informed sources said the subject would probably come up again at later meetings during Stewart's five-day Moscow visit, due to end Friday.

Today's discussion centred on problems of non - proliferation of nuclear weapons the sources added.

After the meeting, the ministers drove to the guest house in the Spiridonovka Palace, where Gromyko gave a lunch in Stewart's honor.

Stewart was accompanied by Disarmament Minister Lord Chalfont, who speaks fluent Russian, and other officials.

The Russians were expected to take a tough line on British aim's support of United States policy in Vietnam, and on the British plans for an Atlantic nuclear force,as an alternative to the American-sponsored multilateral force plan.

PLANS PROBE

British officials here said Stewart would make a serious probe of the prospects for an East-West agreement to ban the spread of nuclear weapons.

The Russians have said such an agreement would be incompatible with a NATO nuclear force that opened the way for West German access to nuclear weapons.

This conflict of positions was expected to be the main hurdle in Stewart's talks.

SUGGEST PACT

WASHINGTON (AP)—A nonaggression pact between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Soviet-led Warsaw Treaty Organization was proposed today to the World Disarmament conference on international cooperation.

The conference's committee on arms control and disarmament, which made the suggestion in a report, also said that in the long run China will have to be included in any system for international security and disarmament. But it added that "the long run can be very long."

"Mr. Diefenbaker called George by his first name today."

Hellyer Ahead Of Schedule

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Hellyer has attained his goal—10 months ahead of schedule—of reducing the strength of the armed forces to 110,000 and thus achieving annual administrative savings designed to reach $100,000,000 by 1970.

Authorities said Monday the forces officially numbered 110,190 at Oct. 31, last date for which figures are available, but that this number included at least 180 personnel on retirement leave.

The goal of 110,000 was set for August, 1966, two years after integration of the armed forces' top command structure went into effect. Strength of the service is expected to sag to some 107,000 early next year but then gradually rise again to about 110,000 where it will presumably level off.

However, with the economy booming, recruiting for the armed forces is difficult.

Lt.-Gen. Frank Fleury, comptroller - general at Canadian forces headquarters, said last month that recruiting had been "very poor" in the previous six or seven months.

Recruits numbered 8,237 in the first 10 months of this year compared to 8,384 in the same period in 1964, a drop of 747.

FORCES ARE SMALLER

The navy with 19,130 men, the army with 44,840 and the RCAF with 46,210 now are at their lowest numerical strength in 12 years. At March 31, 1964, less than a year after the Korean War ended, the forces numbered 112,326.

When Mr. Hellyer took over the defence portfolio in 1963, the forces stood at 122,270. When integration took effect in August, 1964, they were at 119,000.

In lopping the names of more than 13,000 men from the military rolls, Mr. Hellyer combined divisions, slowed down recruiting temporarily and abolishing many administrative posts.

Officials said strength of the combat forces has not been greatly affected by the reduction in personnel. The cut was meant to apply among administrative people.

However, they added, some weaknesses still remain to be corrected. The navy is 1,000 short of technicians at sea, the army could use more infantrymen and many RCAF pilots are being lured back in civvy street by attractive commercial flying jobs.

Viet Cong Is Back On Attack Again

SAIGON (AP)—The Viet Cong resumed in the attack today after a brief lull in heavy ground fighting during Defence Secretary McNamara's latest inspection of the South Vietnamese war zone.

Another major buildup of U.S. and South Vietnamese forces seemed certain in the wake of McNamara's visit. He left for Guam Monday night with a warning that North Viet Nam had clearly decided to escalate the conflict. He forecast a long war.

Within hours of McNamara's departure, the 85,000-ton nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise left the Philippines to join units of the U.S. 7th Fleet operating in Viet Nam. The world's largest carrier was escorted on her first mission by the guided missile frigate Bainbridge, also nuclear-powered.

In South Viet Nam's Central Highlands, a guerrilla battalion apparently overwhelmed 200 government militiamen 15 miles east of An Khe, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry division. McNamara visited the American encampment Monday.

About 200 other guerrillas attacked a South Vietnamese special forces camp and a nearby militia post 30 miles southwest of Saigon, near the Cambodian border in Phong Dinh Province. The guerrillas fired recoilless rifles and mortars for almost five hours. U.S. spokesmen reported 15 Viet Cong dead and light government casualties, but no U.S. dead or wounded.

A few miles away the Viet Cong released 24 captured government soldiers in what Saigon spokesmen called a periodic move to undermine government

Liberated GI's Laud Viet Cong

PHNOM PENH Reuters — One of two American soldiers freed by the Viet Cong guerrillas as a gesture to anti-war groups in the United States said today the Saigon authorities were not the government in South Viet Nam.

"The Viet Cong, they are the people," Sgt. George Edward Smith told a press conference here.

Smith and specialist Claude D. McClure were freed two days ago on the border between Cambodia and South Viet Nam.

Both said they were treated well in captivity. McClure, who was wounded at the time of his capture, said he was fed in the same way as the Viet Cong fighters.

McClure said his captors cared for his wounds, shared their food with him and allowed him mail from his family and Red Cross packages.

"Had it been the Saigon government I would have been tortured," said McClure.

Expect First RAF Units Will Arrive In Zambia Today

By GEOFFREY WHITEHEAD

LONDON (Reuters) — An advance detachment of the RAF, being sent at the urgent request of Zambia to help guard a strategic dam on the Rhodesian border, was expected to land on Zambian airstrips today.

A well-informed source said Prime Minister Wilson decided Monday night to send a token military force to Zambia in response to repeated calls for help from Zambesia's President Kenneth Kaunda.

Final details of the operation were expected to be settled at a cabinet meeting today.

It was believed that the aircraft to be sent to Zambia will be an armed reconnaissance plane, a small force of ground troops, probably from the RAF regiment, was expected to follow.

Power from the big Kariba Dam in Zambia's lifeline. The dam's hydroelectric output, third largest in the world feeds the "copper belt" on which much of Zambia's economy depends.

Zambia and Rhodesia administer the dam jointly, but the power station is on the Rhodesian side of the border. Last Friday saboteurs blew up a pylon inside Zambia, causing a temporary power failure at one big copper mine and curtailing power to two other mines.

HEAD OFF ASSISTANCE

The main purpose of the government's decision, which was made in principle at an emergency cabinet meeting Monday, is to head off the possibility that Arab or African troops will be sent to Zambia's assistance.

(In Ghana, about 3,000 persons Monday joined a volunteer militia established by the government last week "for the liberation of Southern Rhodesia.")

It was understood that the British units also would man airfields in Zambia so that they could be used to fly out copper exports and fly in oil supplies if the normal trade route through Rhodesia is blocked by Prime Minister Ian Smith's white-minority break-away government.

SEEK PASSES

BERLIN (Reuters) — Thousands of West Berliners lined up Monday for passes to make Christmas and New Year visits to relatives on the other side of the Communist Wall dividing East and West Berlin. Eastern offices, staffed by East German and West Berlin postmen, reopened under an agreement reached last week after five months of tough bargaining.

Wider Powers Urged

By CY FOX

MONTREAL (CP) — Representatives of 60,000 French-speaking Quebec teachers want their province to have Labrador and much-boosted powers of government.

Wider governmental powers for Quebec also are urged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of French Canada, which says Quebec should become independent if Canadians lose their will to remain united.

The recommendations are among scores scheduled for submission to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism today, the second day of the commission's hearings in Montreal.

The variety of urgings is vast —ranging from the teachers' insistence on Quebec and French-language rights, to the off-beat bilingualism of one Indian group.

That organization favors Iroquois, not French, as the second language with English for residents of the group's home reserve.

Monday's hearing brought strongly-worded assertions of Quebec autonomy from small groups but the teachers' organization preceding Quebec - rights today is the biggest such body in the province.

URGE NEW STATUS

It is the Quebec Catholic Teachers Federation, and is in agreement with the 7,000-member junior chamber in urging a new constitution for Canada designed to give Quebec a special status within a two-nation confederation.

Included in the constitution, the teachers want a clause authorizing Labrador to Quebec, thus reversing the 1927 decision of the British Privy Council which gave Labrador to Newfoundland.

The 25-strree group broke away from the national Canadian jaycees in a 1960 dispute over language rights.

Nkrumah's Prestige Enhanced

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — The breakaway Rhodesian regime has served to strengthen Ghana President Kwame Nkrumah's prestige at home and in the rest of Africa.

Mobilization of Ghana's armed forces and installation reinstitution of an unpaid militia just started—will require belttightening by the people, Nkrumah says.

Government newspapers have announced that any commodity shortages and other hardships should be blamed on Rhodesia's white prime minister, Ian Smith.

Centennial Conference Superb Example of Real Co-operation

HALIFAX (CP)—John Fisher told the national centennial conference Monday that it is a superb example of federal-provincial co-operation.

Mr. Fisher, celebrating his 53rd birthday, shared the enthusiasm about how the Canadian centennial commission programs are going with provincial delegates to the conference.

It is held every six months as federal-provincial check on the progress of complex and far-reaching programs being put into effect by the commission.

There were apparently few complaints from provincial members on the commission's board of directors as sessions began. Mr. Fisher is board chairman and centennial commissioner.

Provincial Secretary Bona Arsenault of Quebec, handing out an illustrated bilingual booklet on Quebec's 77 municipal centennial projects, said it would have taken his province 25 years to achieve such results alone.

The Quebec projects are mostly regional cultural or recreational centres, ranging from an $8,000,000 conservatory in Quebec City to a $220,000 cultural centre on the Magdalen Islands.

Tourism Minister J. Al Ouellet of Ontario said after the closed meetings that Mr. Fisher and the other 115 full-time commission employees deserve praise and thanks.

Mr. Auld said that after Monday's meeting, he felt that "things are beginning to mesh right across the country."

The national centennial conference brings together 60 members from across Canada, 20 of them appointed by the provinces and forming an advisory committee to the state secretary.

Open sessions concentrated heavily on the value of publicity and there were strong suggestions the commission is missing the boat.

Grant Walker, business editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail, suggested a little "old fashioned circus publicity" to get things going.

And publisher Arnold Edinborough told the delegates to substitute "a little low cunning" for the sober approach.

The centennial commission is organizing a number of projects that will touch almost every Canadian citizen.

UN Is Hunting for Ways To Speed Handling Business

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—With only half of the key issues on its agenda disposed of, the UN General Assembly cast about today for some way of winding up business by its Dec. 21 target for adjournment.

Assembly president Amintore Fanfani of Italy was reported consulting with advisers on the prospect of transferring items from the lagging main political committee to other committees.

The 117-nation political committee has been tied up for six weeks with debate on a series of disarmament proposals. It still has six items on its docket.

Two of the issues, introduced by Britain and the Soviet Union, are expected to take at least two weeks for disposition.

Britain wants a full airing of its item calling for peaceful settlement of disputes.

The Russians are certain to demand full debate on their item dealing with "the inadmissibility of intervention in the domestic affairs of states." This has been viewed as a launching pad for Communist attacks on U.S. intervention in the Dominican revolt and American policy in Viet Nam.

Pentagon's Figures Indicate Viet Nam Air Attacks Failing

WASHINGTON (AP)—On the basis of the Pentagon's stated objectives, the U.S. air war against North Viet Nam is far from a success after nearly 10 months.

Based on the same announced goal , there are some elements of failure.

These views are the consensus in discussions with qualified sources within and outside the U.S. government, and are supported in a study of other information available from the government.

A main objective of the bombings, which began last Feb. 7, was to cut down the flow of North Vietnamese soldiers and supplies into South Viet Nam.

The evidence, chiefly the government's own figures, shows that despite heavy-battle losses Communist forces in South Viet Nam are stronger in numbers than ever before.

U.S. officials also believe the enemy has the capability of moving as many as four more divisions into South Viet Nam during the next six months.

Another major announced goal of the bombing was to prod the North Vietnamese into halting their support of the Viet Cong in the south. Hanoi's leaders now seem more defiant than ever.

Indications point to intensified U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam.

Defence Secretary McNamara almost certainly would dispute this conclusion. Until the limited air war has been a failure.

Authorities reflected his views last summer. If it were not for the bombings, infiltration of men and arms would have been far greater.

Critics in the armed services and in congress complain that hamstringing of communications lines obviously is not doing the job. What they want is a heavy ranging assault to knock out North Viet Nam's ability to sustain the aggression south of the 17th parallel dividing North and South Viet Nam.

Reports from diplomatic sources in Hanoi indicate that Viet Nam say that the Communists can carry on with considerable leadership but no basic disloc ation.

The U.S. fighter-bombers are destroying much in the target area, these reports say, but the North Vietnamese are quickly either repairing or bypassing damaged areas.

U.S. jets are barred from chopping at North Viet Nam's industry, food and power facilities.

Hanoi, North Viet Nam's capital and seat of much of her industry, and Haiphong, chief port of entry for seaborne supplies from Russia, are also off limits.

So, what has the bombing accomplished? According to data available here, more than 50 bridges have been at least temporarily disabled.

The railway in North Viet Nam has been reduced to operating only sporadically and in sections.

Intelligence reports indicate that road traffic is at a standstill during the day and is getting that way at night with an increase in night raids.

Another major target in the north, has been ammunition depots. These are difficult targets to destroy, the damages facilities are dug in. Still, about one-third of North Viet Nam's ammunition capacity is estimated to have been destroyed.

But, with all of this bombing, the latest figures released by the defence department a month ago showed that Communist strength in South Viet Nam had risen by about 40,000 or so in the previous three or four months to 240,000, including regulars, irregulars and political agents.

OSD Teacher to Be Loaned To Bermuda for 6 Months

Mr. Norman Rickaby, a teacher at the Ontario School for the Deaf, Belleville, will be temporarily relieved of his duties to teach in Bermuda for six months. The appointment is effective January 1, 1966.

In a letter to Mr. D. J. Williams, Director of Education for Bermuda, Hon. W. G. Davis, Ontario Minister of Education says: "We are indeed happy to be able to lend this very young man to your Department and I know he will enjoy the fine hospitality of Bermuda and no doubt gain much useful experience".

Mr. Rickaby, 53, will be teaching language, speech and regular school subjects to deaf children between the ages of eight and fourteen. At present there is one qualified teacher for three classes of deaf children. The 22 children attend a regular public school of 675 pupils.

Mr. Rickaby said he was going to help out "in a difficult situation" until a permanent teacher, qualified in instruct deaf youngsters is acquired.

Mr. Rickaby has been on the staff of the Ontario School for the Deaf since 1962. During that time, besides teaching a variety of academic subjects, he has been prominent in extra-curricular activities for the children, including coaching instruction and students' council as a few of his interests.

He graduated from Toronto Teachers' College and after a year of teaching at the O.S.D. he obtained his specialist's certificate for teaching of the deaf.

Mr. Rickaby's interest in helping deaf children stems from his childhood when he attended classrooms where his father, James Rickaby, was teaching the deaf. Mr. Rickaby Sr. is a teacher of the deaf in Metro Toronto.

Council Delays Decision On Fire Prevention Laws

With time running out for the 1965 council, city fathers at their last pre-election meeting on Monday night passed on only routine matters.

Two by-laws, one to regulate the sale and setting off of firecrackers, and the other fixing the time when outdoor fires may be set, were tabled for later action after councillors disagreed with the terms set out.

Alderman Frank Murray declared the by-law terms "a lot of bunk," while Alderman Don Corke said the by-laws were unworkable and that their passing would be "grossly unfair."

PHONES COSTLY

The cost of telephone service at city hall drew a complaint from Ald. Doug Boyle who said that the $7,000 figure referred to in the city manager's budget report seemed exhorbitant.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said, however, that the amount was sin line with the budget estimate. The only way the figure could be reduced was to cut down on long distance calls, he said.

The proffered sale of approximately one-half an acre of city property to the Wilson Concrete Company drew objection from Ald. Don Whalen, who asked why the property had not been advertised as called for under city regulations.

He wanted to know why the former principle of disposing city property had been abandoned in this case.

Council was told by the city manager that the property in question was almost completely surrounded by Wilson Concrete property and he could not see any other persons being interested.

But Mayor Ellis agreed it was quite proper to advertise the property as being for sale and said that Wilson Concrete had been paying taxes on the property thinking it was theirs, but old records had shown otherwise.

Over the objection of Ald. Doug Boyle who claimed that the local transit commission was already usurping city lands, a space for bus stops, council agreed to provide a bus stop on the west side of Front Street between numbers 340½-344.

TO BAN PARKING

Also to facilitate traffic in the area, council agreed on a no parking ban on the north side of College street between North Front Street and Reynolds Crescent.

The much talked of College street bridge was again up for discussion, the question this time being raised by Alderman nearby Marsala who asked if the Department of Highways engineering report on the safety of the structure should be referred to 1966 as was voted at the last meeting.

He said the report had shown that emergency repairs should be attended to at once.

But Alderman J. Allin said it would be folly to spend three to four thousand dollars on bridge repairs when there was every expectation that a new bridge would be constructed next year.

A pre - engineering report from Proctor & Redfern Consulting Engineers on the proposed new College Street bridge has been received by the works committee but city engineer wants to consult with the department of highways before the report is brought in before council.

WRITE OFF ACCOUNTS

Public works accounts of $1,653 and culvert accounts amounting to $912 were written off by council as being uncollectible. The city manager said that every effort had been made to collect the accounts.

Many of the accounts were old, dating back six years or more, and it had been found that owners had signed no work orders authorizing culvert construction.

Procedure now is to have owners sign work orders before the job is commenced by public works.

A special committee of Aldermen, Ben Corke, Joseph Theocroft and Thomas Lally was named by Mayor Ellis to confer with Sidney township council regarding provision of a roadway outside the city limits to connect with a proposed road way to serve the Sir MacKenzie School.

Mayor Ellis said the roadway was necessary to cut the distance which must be walked by children attending the school. Pupils living only one half mile from the school have to walk more than a mile to get to school, he said.

Alderman Ken Soden, chairman of a special committee appointed to investigate the desirability of disbanding the city parking authority and other civic boards, said a public meeting on the matter would be held at city hall on December 7th.

Manager-coach Of Team Given Framed Plaque

Municipal recognition for a Belleville man who earlier this year headed the Canadian weightlifting team in world competition at Teheran, Iran, was given at city hall yesterday.

Mr. Kenneth Carr-Brain, manager-coach of the Canadian weightlifting team at the Teheran competition was presented with a frame plaque and gold cuff links by Mayor J. R. Ellis.

While in Teheran at the world games, Mr. Carr-Brain was presented with a medal by the Shah of Iran.

WORKED OVER TNT

TRAPANI, Sicily (AP)—Workmen excavating to build a new floor for a marble shop at Erice have found more than 2,000 pound bomb in the basement. It had been there for 22 years.

City roadways, either under reconstruction or in the building stage, were again the topic of discussion at city council yesterday.

Councillors wanted assurances that the Pinnacle Street reconstruction would be completed as planned this fall and that Victoria Ave., and at the same time wanted to know why the work on Victoria Ave. was expected to allow streets in West Park Village to remain in such poor condition.

Mayor J. R. Ellis said the city engineer had "taken action" with regard to the West Park Village streets and unless the roadways were improved completely public works forces would be instructed to do the work.

COMPLETE BASE COAT

The mayor also assured that "weather permitting" the base coat of asphalt on Pinnacle St. would be completed as far as Victoria Ave. this fall.

He said that the underground work between Bridge and Victoria Ave. was virtually completed and the roadway is nearly in and needed only grading before paving could start.

Alderman George Brown had a complaint about the paving on Pinnacle St., south of Bridge and said some of the base coat asphalt had already shifted.

Council was told that this was being repaired.

"The idea was to place the base coat this fall to allow for settling before the top asphalt coat goes on next spring," said Mayor Ellis.

Laws Governing Lotteries Should Be Revised Says OPP Man at Rotary Club

Chief Inspector Jack Halen of the Ontario Provincial Police anti gambling squad told Belleville Rotarians yesterday he believed the laws governing lotteries should be revised.

"Not only should charitable and religious organizations be able to hold lotteries, but I think service clubs should be included too," he said.

In a wide - ranging address, Inspector Halen described how service club "ring nights" can be infiltrated by individuals in groups of two or three. Using crooked dice, they have been known to win anything from $3,000 to $10,000 from an evening's crap game which the clubs concerned had only planned for charitable purposes.

"If it has not happened here, there is a time to fear future when it does happen," he said.

Inspector Halen, who spent 18 years with the OPP in the Belleville and Madoc areas, said his branch deals not only with lotteries, gambling operations and bookmaking, but with prostitution.

"Where you find lottery tickets for sale in stores, where there are many bingos, where there is liquor sold, that they are going to offer this or that . . . this is where you find the majority of our bookmaking operations, gambling houses and houses of prostitution."

"Believe me, gambling," he added, "they all seem to go together."

Inspector Halen said in one bingo investigation it was discovered that a car — the same vehicle in each case — had been given away five times between Kirkland Lake, Nort Bay, Toronto and Ottawa.

There was a group of individuals who went back to the United States. Warrants against them are still outstanding, and they are down in Florida. They took with them over $1 million," he said.

PLENTY OF MONEY BET

The inspector said that in addition to horse betting there was also betting on sports action, particularly in the United States.

"On Saturday nights, throughout Ontario during the winter months, you can safely say that at least $250,000 is wagered on whether a certain team wins or loses."

Comparing it with the liquor question, Inspector Halen said that now there were cocktail lounges and taverns in cities that did not think there were so many drunks on the streets as during the period liquor could not be bought.

"I recall during the year 1940 to 1945 more rowdyism alcohol was drunk in certain communities than many other beverages," he said. "I can recall one individual who drank a 45-gallon drum of anti-freeze from September to December."

Asked why radio stations give horse track results when for the most part the tracks were so far away for people to attend, Inspector Hatch said radio stations gave the results as a news service and not as a wa ger. vice.

Liquid-Air Truck Upsets, Driver Unhurt

The driver of a liquid-air truck escaped injury last night when the vehicle rolled over on the Madoc County Road at the Ridge Road intersection.

The tanker was empty of the fuel at the time.

Provincial police said Lionel Clement, of Montreal, was driving the truck south on the Madoc road when it slipped over the shoulder at the intersection, skidded out of control and rolled.

The truck was left at the scene overnight, awaiting the arrival of a company mechanic and tow truck from Montreal.

Three Youths Plead Guilty To Car Theft

Three Montreal youths who carried gallantry too far today pleaded guilty to stealing in Belleville magistrate's court to car theft.

Gilles Boily, Roger Lauzon and Leonard Gosselin were driving a friend and his family to Hamilton when their car developed motor trouble in Belleville, Detective Inspector Harold Reid said.

"Our investigations reveal that Lauzon was doing this family a favor by driving them to Hamilton where the man had an appointment," said the inspector.

Gallantry was also shown by Belleville city police who hailed a passer's car on Dundas East West because it was smoking badly. The officers suggested to avoid a breakdown overnight on the road they stay at a city motel — and even took them to the Later, however, said the inspector, Lauzon and Boily left the motel, took a car parked side the Dundas Street residence of Stan Kvarda, picked up the others at the motel and drove on to Hamilton.

They were arrested Monday in Simcoe and later heard their case through interpreter Paul Mercier.

They would like the case disposed of as soon as possible," said the interpreter after conferring with the youths. "They have an appointment in Montreal . . . They would like to know if they can get out."

"Of course they can," replied Magistrate T. Y. Wills, remanding them for a search of police records. "It's a serious offence."

PC Party Must Reach Young Says Camp

TORONTO (CP) — The Conservative party will probably have the next election unless it starts work now in trying to reach Canada's young, Dalton Camp, national president, said Monday night.

He told the Toronto and district young Conservative council that young Canadians make up the majority of the population and must be given a more active political work if the Conservatives are to make a better showing.

The party also must be brought up to date and dragged, he said, and remodelled and refashioned into a more relevant and meaningful shape.

"What we lacked in Toronto was cohesion and organizational thrust from 1963 to 1965. Forget the polls and charts—get out and work. If we had started much earlier, we'd have finished much stronger."

Mr. Camp, who lost his bid to unseat Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp in Toronto's Eglinton riding in the last election, said because of the condition of the party, Conservatives can only blame themselves for losing the election.

Teen-ager Given Year in Jail

A Belleville teenager today was sentenced to a year definite and 12 months indefinite in day on a series of housebreaking charges.

W. Graham Doyle, 17, was sentenced to reformatory by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

He was charged on 11 counts involving thefts in the East Hill area, — four break, enter and theft, two break, enter with intent and five charges of theft.

Candidates Seeking Seats On Civic Bodies State Views at Ratepayers' Meet

TRENTON — Over 70 persons came out last night to the annual ratepayers' meeting. Those that did some were given a pre-meeting treat in the form of a very enjoyable concert by the Trenton Citizens' Band, and the Christmas medley should have established a "peace on earth" atmosphere for the meeting. It didn't.

All candidates for council, and some for public boards, were faced with answering "questions" thoughtfully provided for them in written form by the questioner, Eric Kalfus.

Mr. Kalfus, (who claims he has been misused some town ordinance by what he claims is council's failure to make the owner of the dog-at-large where he lives, live up to his agreement), wanted to know why another pool wasn't considered, asking the voters if they wanted a $75,000 swimming pool—provided the latter two conditions services are needed in town.

Ex-councillor Donald R. Fraser, seeking a seat on council this term, termed such things as a swimming pool "the icing on the cake," and suggested that ten citizens should have sanitary sewers, storm sewers, water, light and gas, before considering educational services for his children," before recreational facilities were considered.

Mr. Kalfus wanted to know if the present council intended to do something about "improving its image."

The question had an answer to that: the people should take a new approach to council, and council should get down to brass tacks" type" with matters at hand and plan ahead ten or 15 years.

"A candidate for council should have definite ideas and what he intends to do to if elected, and once elected, he should have the courage of his convictions to carry his ideas out."

MAYOR GIVES REASON

At the outset of the meeting, Mayor Ken Hutchison accompanied by O. W. Larry told the audience present, and the unseen audience via the station CHTN that "this is a novel year. Regardless of the outcome, our next council will be a Marchbank (McDonald.)"

Mayor James MacDonald, with his team behind him as Trenton's Chief Magistrate, appealed for re-election on the strength of his record of office, because he wanted to bring to completion such projects as a new bridge for the town, the Centennial Park project and the water storage pond in Murray Township.

Councillor Duncan McDonald, also a candidate for the mayoralty race (as a standing child two as finance chairman), said council had only control over 20 cents out of the tax dollar.

The mill rate should be kept "stable," stated Mr. McDonald, and everyone should be spent only on essentials.

"I want to dispel a rumor that I've been sponsored by any individual," said the councillor, "It's not true. I only wish to serve the people of Trenton."

Councillor Ross Burtt, chairman of welfare, was not at the meeting, owing to death in his family, but his report was read by Mr. Larry. The welfare department had handled 1,200 child care, welfare cases and the care of the aged, will end the year in the black (from 1963 to 1965 Burtt, but brought forth facts and figures to prove that this was unfounded.

Councillor Joseph Gould, who did not choose to run this election unseat Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp in Toronto's Eglinton riding in the last election, said because of the condition of the party, Conservatives can only blame themselves for losing the election.

Drug Addicts In Britain Are Growing Abroad

LONDON (Reuters)—One of Britain's growing army of drug addicts lay in bed Monday in a parson's home, the first heroin addict picked up by Narcotics Anonymous, a new voluntary service manned by clergymen.

The youth was found collapsed in a telephone booth in Hackney, Wicked. The minister say their telephones "have never stopped ringing."

The new service ministers started the round - the - clock telephone service last Saturday following a startling government report that disclosed a boom in drug taking in Britain.

Rev. Edward J. Erswell said he had taken 50 calls alone.

"Some are very frightened people," he said. "The difficulty is reaching them. Sometimes they put the phone down when we ask where they are."

PICKED UP ADDICT

The co-director of the service, Rev. John Mitchell, said the night call from the young heroin addict and immediately was picked up collected at the phone booth for treatment.

Six other addicts have been contacted since the service began.

Fifteen voluntary workers have offered help. The clergymen have had no training but they say they are not alone. Many youngsters are feared to be graduating from marijuana to heroin and cocaine.

Doctors were criticized in the government report for over-prescribing drugs under Britain's national health service.

One doctor issued 600,000 prescriptions to addicts in a single year.

TRENTON — At a nomination meeting in Brighton last night two persons were nominated for reeve for the incumbent J. E. (Ed) Solomon and Frank Goodrich.

The three vacant seats on council, six persons were nominated. Frank Pearsall, Charles Sills, Bowler Sharpe, Peter Hypher, Earl Chatten and Frederick Irwin.

Three public school trustees were acclaimed: G. J. Spencer, R. S. Nesbitt and Harder Bonisteel.

The deputy reeve Gerald I. Ross was acclaimed as was the one nominee for the Hydro Commission, Douglas Hale.

Shortage of Pilots Delays Shipping

KINGSTON (CP)—A shortage of harbor pilots in the Lake Ontario, N.Y., has caused a line-up in seven ships awaiting downbound passage in Montreal.

Officials said 20 ships had been moved through the St. Lawrence canals in the past 24 hours. Pilots are expecting 17 more today.

The Cape Vincent office, about 10 miles south of here, has a staff of 12 pilots. Regular control officers said pilots are having difficulty returning to the station after guiding ships downstream.

CNR and CPR Make Progress To Give Service

OTTAWA (CP) — The CNR and CPR are working out a proposal for improved passenger train services between Ottawa and Montreal and will present it to the board of transport commissioners within 10 days.

This was the main outcome of a closed-door discussion held here Monday between members of the board and senior officers from the passenger departments of the two railways.

The proposal was initiated by the board after it received a flood of complaints about the reduction of Ottawa - Toronto service.

Commodity Trade Deficit In September Is Shown

OTTAWA (CP)—Exports fell and imports continued to rise in September creating a commodity trade deficit of $15,800,000 in the month compared with a surplus of $128,000,000 in September last year, the dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The bureau said the September total amounted to $719,100,000 compared with $742,400,000 in Sept. last year, and imports amounted to $734,900,000 in value compared with $616,200,000 in September last year.

Exports in the first nine months of this year were 1.2 per cent higher than a year earlier at $6,232,000,000, while imports for the same period were 12.2 per cent higher at $6,198,000,000.

This left Canada with a commodity trade surplus in the first three quarters of 1965 amounting to $33,900,000, down sharply from $633,900,000 for the same period last year.

EXPORTS HIGHER

Exports to the United States in September were nearly eight per cent higher at $424,400,000. They were 12 per cent higher in the nine-month period at $3,645,400,000.

But imports from the United States at $503,800,000 rose nearly 20 per cent in September. Imports from the U.S. for the nine months they were up 13.6 per cent at $4,328,200,000.

The trade deficit with Britain usual trade deficit with the United States, amounting to $710,000,000 in the first nine months of 1965 compared with $577,400,000 in the same period of last year.

Sales in the United Kingdom amounted to $90,200,000 in September, down more than 15 per cent from $106,400,000 in September last year. Exports to the U.K. were off nearly four per cent in the nine-month period at $868,700,000.

Imports from the United Kingdom rose 23.8 per cent in September this year, amounting to $80,400,000 in September last year. In the nine-month period cumulative purchases were four per cent higher at $447,100,000.

This meant that the usual trade surplus with the U.K. was smaller both in the month of September and in the three quarters. The nine-month surplus this year was $421,600,000 compared with $474,200,000 in the same period last year.

In Ameliasburg Election Candidates Talk to Homeowners

By ELMER BONTER

CARRYING PLACE — Six of the eleven candidates seeking support to fill vacancies in the offices of reeve, council and school board in Ameliasburg township made serious bids for election last night at a meeting sponsored by the local Homeowners' Association.

For the first time in many years residents of the township have been asked to decide on a reeve. While both of the nominees qualified for the election for chief magistrate, five nominees, including a housewife, for the first time — threw their hats in the ring for three council vacancies. And the same time four nominees let their names stand in the contest for two school board seats.

UNABLE TO ATTEND

Incumbent reeve Harold Bonter and two members of the last council invited to express their views and call for support were unable to attend owing to a regular commitment to council business.

Seeking the township Fred Evans of Redneersville said it would not be fair to criticize the administration of the past six members, without spokesmen present to answer in its defence. He pointed out, however, that they will have another chance this Friday night when the Ameliasburg Homeowners hold a "Candidates Night" at Tober County Gardens, Rossmore.

NEED CHANGE

Mr. Evans emphasized the need for a change in township affairs and spelled out point by point his reasons for opposing the municipal arena at this time. He presented a platform with four main points fashioned to review — and where necessary overhaul — planning, establishing long term guidelines for the development of the township.

PICKED UP ADDICT

The co-director of the service, Rev. John Mitchell, said the night call from the young heroin addict and immediately was picked up collected at the phone booth for treatment.

Six other addicts have been contacted since the service began.

Fifteen voluntary workers have offered help. The clergymen have had no training but they say they are not alone. Many youngsters are feared to be graduating from marijuana to heroin and cocaine.

Doctors were criticized in the government report for over-prescribing drugs under Britain's national health service.

One doctor issued 600,000 prescriptions to addicts in a single year.

Shortage of Pilots Delays Shipping

KINGSTON (CP)—A shortage of harbor pilots in the Lake Ontario, N.Y., has caused a line-up in seven ships awaiting downbound passage in Montreal.

Officials said 20 ships had been moved through the St. Lawrence canals in the past 24 hours. Pilots are expecting 17 more today.

The Cape Vincent office, about 10 miles south of here, has a staff of 12 pilots. Regular control officers said pilots are having difficulty returning to the station after guiding ships downstream.

FLEET RANKS FOURTH

The Norwegian merchant fleet is the fourth largest in the world, with 5,401 vessels aggregating 14,477,112 gross tons.

Dr. Churchill Elected

Dr. C. D. Churchill, a member of the Homowners' executive, acted as chairman for the meeting.

He confirmed that he favored a plan to ease the tax burden for township residents.

Candidate for council Mrs. Reta Barrick said time and desire to serve were the two main issues that persuaded her to enter the race. "Your problems will be my problems if I am elected," she asserted in her call for a majority of votes from the electors on December 6th.

UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE

Council aspirant Arnold Weatherall disclosed that he was a lifetime resident of the community and had served five years on the school board. He pointed out that he had learned from experience that equalized taxation had not done for him what he expected. He recalled an unpleasant experience he endured due to pollution of his property and which was only concluded when his neighbor moved away despite intervention by the township health authorities, the township school board and the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

Seeking a seat on council Ed Cruikshank of Gardenville endorsed wholly the need for a road development program that would affect roads in his locality.

SCHOOL CANDIDATE

Jack Jones and Morris Pulver, two of the four candidates who qualified for two vacancies on the school board expressed a desire to serve.

Speaking from the floor Don Spencer called for support for Mrs. Twilla Langman who is seeking re-election to the school board.

T. C. D. Churchill, a member of the Homeowners' executive, acted as chairman for the meeting.

Auto Insurance Jumps

Canada's phrenetic motoring public has only itself to blame for the increase in automobile insurance rates—an average rise of 5.6 per cent —next year. It will mean more pressure on already strained family budgets, and yet it is a stringency that was to be expected.

Something had to be done to curb the accident toll. If the insurance companies are motivated primarily by self-interest, the increase in the rates, while guaranteeing their solvency, may also have the effect of inducing a greater sense of responsibility among the driving public.

For one thing, the increase could have the effect of pricing some of the younger and more reckless drivers right out of the game. This would be all to the good. On the other hand, the driver with a safe driving record should continue to enjoy lower insurance rates.

Provincial increases contain some surprises. The largest rise in the country is a 12.5 per cent increase in the smallest region of all—the island province of Prince Edward Island, while Quebec —probably the most hazardous of all—gets off lightly with an average increase of 1.5 per cent. The All Canada Insurance Federation attributes this to a decline in accidents in La Belle Province during the past year.

If the statistics mean anything, then Ontario drivers ought to take a hard look at their driving behavior, particularly in these areas: Sault Ste. Marie (13 per cent rise), Niagara Falls (13 per cent), Brantford and the Lakehead (13 per cent.)

No official figure has been quoted for this area. However, a Belleville insurance executive said the basic premium rate on private cars would be increased by approximately 5 per cent. This would be in line with the national average.

Dawg Gone

Lex Schrag of the Toronto Globe and Mail has been searching for an Ontario dish to compete with Gaspe Salmon and Brome duckling. A reader has suggested Muskoka Hash. Alas, complains Schrag, this delicacy is now as dead as a dodo.

"Hunters killed the lambd industry," he declares. "They abandoned dogs in the bush. The dogs turned feral."

Schrag may know his lamb, but we wonder whether he knows his hound-dawgs.

The well-trained hunting hound may be readily found safely encased within the pages of any sportsmen's magazine—but it is our experience that this is the full extent of his range and that he is never found in his natural habitat outdoors but only embalmed in print.

The dedicated hunter will 'and' nine one hundredths per cent myth. The hunter does not abandon the hound but the hound the hunter.

Throughout the long hours of afternoon, as the sun slowly descends towards the horizon, the faithful dog diligently nose the fields and copses ahead of his proud master, descending into every ditch, sniffing along every hedgerow and plunging energetically into every bush-lot. Most of the time, by exhibiting the greatest care and caution, he is able to keep both himself and his owner without disturbing any of the wildlife enjoying a sunny siesta. If, by miscalculations, friend hound-dog should chance to stumble on a fox or a jack-rabbit, it can usually contrive to pick up a scent which will enable it to slowly-meander around in circles within view of the hunter until it is physically forced to terminate its display of tenacious stupidity.

But some five o'clock, when the sun's rim dips below the horizon and dusk descends, the luckless hunter wending his weary way back to the car is suddenly greeted by such a tonguing as would do credit to the convention of a sheik's mothers-in-law.

The hunter who abandons a hound has often done so in sheer self-preservation, after hours of futile whistling and honey-voiced calling while he watched the drifts fill in the miles of road dividing him from home. The first hour passes rapidly, with the car's motor running and sandwiches to be eaten. But then, as the gas gauge sags, the motor has to be turned off, the numbing cold creps into the car, the moon rises and brings every jack-rabbit and fox in the territory out to frolic and the hunter is revitalized hound fises and recedes as it circles around the car in merry chase.

Some hunters leave a bag beside the road, to which the hound is supposed to return. They make their way home to trade the music of the hound for that of their own hearth-stone, as their wives discuss such things as cold dinners, missed bridge dates and the low mentality of men who hunt. As this theme is exhausted, a brief night descends. With Sunday's dawn, there comes the shock of donning clothes and boots still soaked from yesterday's outing and the long trip breaking trail to the point where the hound was last seen the night before.

Abandoned dogs, indeed. How about the poor abandoned hunter?

St. Andrew's Day Warms Scot's Heart

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

What has St. Patrick got that Saint Andrews lacks? St. Patrick's Day has achieved the status of an international institution replete with kisses, (clay) and shamrocks, with every Irishman (real and imaginary), sporting a "touch of green" in honor of the saint On the other hand, St. Andrew's Day passes almost unnoticed; even many Scots are uncertain of the date set aside in his honor. Let's revived St. Andrew's Day, for modesty has never been an outstanding characteristic of a people who coined the phrase, "Here's tae us, there's nane like us!"

The origin of the St. An drew's Cross (The Saltire), goes far back to the formative years of the Scottish nation when, according to tradition, the Piets (Scots) engaged an English force at Athelstaneford near Haddington. Before the battle the Scots saw a vision of a white cross (saltire) against the blue sky. This they adopted as the symbol under which they would conquer —as conquer they did.

Throughout subsequent history the Cross of St. Andrew has united all Scots in spite of their differences (political and religious) for it was above "Party and "Faction". It was carried into battle by both Whig and Jacobite supporters.

The Cross was carried by both the Covenanters (Whigs) in the 17th century at the Battles of Drumclog and Bothwell Brig (with the insignia Covenantal Religion, King and Kingdoms, inscribed on the blue field) and by the Appin Regiment (Jacobites) at the Battle of Culloden in the year 1746.

A tattered, battle-stained fragment of The "Colors" of the regiment is still in existence showing the "cross" and holes made by the musket-balls on that day so fatal to the hopes of the Stuarts.

The Scot is many things. He is above all, the eternal wanderer, and perhaps for this very reason he carries within his warm spot in his heart for the "Lone shieling" in the "misty Isles" no matter how long he may be separated from it. It is a feeling that no politicians can "legislate" out of his heart and that the politicians have taken the Cross of St. Andrew out of the Union Jack is a thing making him no less of a loyal Canadian, it makes him, in fact, a better one for he places a high sense of value on tradition in which alone lies integrity and stability.

In the warp and the woof of this country's pattern there is room for everyone. Surely Joseph's "coat of many colors" was no less of a warm coat for being multi-colored. In this "new bi-lingual, bi-cultural" country let us introduce a "culture" for neither "French" nor "English" for Scots-Canadians played a major role in this country's development in peace and war and see no shame in honoring the land of their origin.

Forces Merger And the Election

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Would you please print the following few lines for the record:

During the campaign for the recent Federal election the Liberal candidate, Mr. R Temple, maintained vociferously and steadfastly that the armed forces were happy and contented under integration.

The article: "Deputy Chief of personnel gives integration talk," in The Intelligencer of Nov. 23, proves beyond a doubt that Mr. Temple was either misinformed or made incorrect statements.

The electorate would do well to remember this irresponsibility when the next election is called.

Liberal Forever.

Contest in City For School Board

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

On behalf of the Belleville and District Council of Home and School Associations, I would like to say how pleased we are that, after years of apathy, there is to be a contested election of the Belleville Public School Board. We feel this shows a renewed interest in education on the part of our citizenry.

The elected School Board is as good as the people who serve it. It is up to us to see that we get the best and how of our education for the next few years. Since the future of Belleville depends on our children, and their future depends on the education they are getting right now, this is indeed a great responsibility.

We would ask the voters, on December 6, consider very carefully the qualifications and interest in education of the eight people they will elect to the Public School Board. Think carefully, and please get out and vote.

Eleanor Jourard,
President, Belleville and District Council of Home and School Associations.

Strictly Personal
N.Y. Store Puts Groom In Spotlight

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

That famous New York shop with the unforgettable name — once you have memorited it — Hammacher Schlemmer, has decided to set up a new registry service, called Hail to the Groom.

This is going to be the male counterpart of the Bridal Registry idea that is popular in so many shops. The bride-to-be registers her name and her needs, so that friends contemplating getting her shower and wedding gifts know exactly what she likes and wants.

Now the sadly neglected groom is being projected into the centre of the picture, on the usual assumption that he is almost an equal partner in the marital venture. This is a bold move toward gaining parity for male husbands, but I suspect it is doomed to failure.

For one thing, the new registry for grooms will fall "typical items" that relatives and friends can buy for a pre-wedding party: bar accessories, specialized tools, cutlery, desk equipment, weather instruments, home electronic items, valet stands, and so forth. Noble, but futile.

"If Hammacher Schlemmer (I just love to write that name) is going to be as realistic in its Hail to the Groom shop as it is in other merchandising areas, it will have to get up a much different list of "typical" items.

Like a lifetime supply of blank cheques, imprinted with the husband's and wife's name on them. This lifetime supply will last less than two years.

Also, an enormous carrying case for charge plates, receipts for returned merchandise, duplicate payment slips, and bank statements marked "Overdrawn."

Also, a capacious shoulder-strap bag for the husband to carry at parties, when his wife is wearing a formal gown, and has no place to stash her cigarets, lipstick, compact, mirror, cleansing tissue, car keys, loose change, and handkerchief.

The groom will also need a seeing-kit for his personal use, to sew buttons on his shirt; some extra pants pockets; a darning-egg and needle, so that he can repair his worn socks; an elementary, illustrated cookbook, for those mornings when his wife won't feel like getting up; an electric pant-presser for those rumpled suits that hang in the closet, and hang and hang; an inexhaustible supply of light bulbs; fuses; a spliced house and car keys, scores of day and night flashlights that somehow don't light any more, and a closet full of ready-to-eat breakfast cereal.

These are the realities of matrimony, as Hammacher Schlemmer would be well to know — and not desk accessories and weather instruments.

It's interesting that the bride gets a shower; the groom gets a Hail.

Faint Heart Murmur Often Found in Young

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: When I took my 13-year-old daughter for a check-up, the doctor said she had a heart murmur it apparently developed recently as about two years ago nothing was wrong.

He said not to worry unless she showed signs of being unusually tired or some other symptoms, and he would like to see her once a year.

Do you think she could outgrow this? Or should I take her to a specialist? The doctor told me she could participate in all activities at school and didn't seem too concerned, but you know how we mothers are. — Mrs. L.

Yes, I know how you are. Lots of fathers are like that, too. Naturally, we worry if we think something could be wrong.

Still, in your case, I wouldn't be unduly alarmed. It is not unusual for adolescents to have faint heart murmurs which disappear. (And not unusual for younger children, either.)

A murmur, of itself, isn't necessarily ominous, and often means nothing at all. You have to evaluate these common murmurs in respect to medical history and other symptoms, if any.

If the youngster has had infection of the strep (streptococcus) type, such as sore throats, joint pains or other symptoms suggestive of rheumatic fever, then close vigilance is necessary.

Or if the child seems frail and tired, then one may suspect (not always correctly!) that heart disease may exist.

But if the child is normally healthy and vigorous, mere presence of a murmur isn't significant.

Too often in the past children have been labeled as "heart invalids" by needless restraints and precautions just because murmur was noted but didn't mean anything.

Many times your daughter examined fairly recently, and I have no doubt that you have done so many times. Your doctor knows her, and can judge her condition with accuracy, taking into consideration her health history her tolerance of exercise, and (if warranted by any doubt) any change in heart size or shape, or even electrocardiogram.

If it will ease your mind, see a heart specialist, but I think it sounds to me like the typical situation in which to trust your doctor's advice and not worry. Don't worry your daughter, either.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son is 19. I am a widow and he is an only child and has had his own way most of his life. He started smoking when he was 11½ and was a heavy cigaret smoker until a couple of years ago when he switched to pipe and cigars.

I was pleased until I noticed that he inhales all the time. I am wondering if the switch has been beneficial. — Mrs. E. R.

We know that pipes and cigars are less hazardous so far as the lungs are concerned, probably because most people don't inhale the smoke from them. We don't yet know how hazardous compare when they do.

In other respects, the nicotine from any source can affect the body in different ways. I therefore would hope that your son would stop inhaling (because that certainly increases the amount of nicotine he absorbs) but apparently he's going to have to find out for himself.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a danger of cancer from cooking meats outdoors over charcoal? We do this every year long. — Mrs. R. M.

No.

Mrs. L.S.: Your husband is completely wrong. Removal of the wisdom (uterus) does not prevent sexual activity. It does, however, make pregnancy impossible.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 128, Dundee, Ill., for your copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Today in History

Nov. 30, 1945 . . .

John Bunyan, the English religious writer, was baptized 327 years ago today—in 1628 — near his Bedford home. Early in life, Bunyan was beset by religious visitations, one of which bade him give up the pleasure of church-bell ringing, or else the steeple would fall on him. At the age of 32 he was imprisoned for 12 years for heretical preaching, during which time he wrote "Pilgrim's Progress." He wrote about 60 books before his death in 1688, including Grace Abounding to the Chief of Sinners, one of the world's first autobiographies.

The Belleville city council has passed a resolution petitioning the Ontario Legislature to make single men pay a pole tax of $5 instead of $1 as the tax is at present. The increase is desired owing to the extra expense all municipalities have to bear owing to the war.

Meaningless Advertising

Stratford Beacon-Herald

The current radio sales pitch for a patent medicine says that it contains "... a tested, recognized, laboratory-tested ingredient." The ingredient is not named.

It's wonderful the way words can be strung together to sound important without actually saying anything.

"Medically recognized," if it means anything, means that a physician has been trained to recognize it. Most medically-trained people would recognize paper pulp, in two-dollar bills, or traffic lights turning from green to yellow.

"Laboratory-tested" means it is something of a kind that gets tested in a laboratory. Water tanglefoot, steel ingers and coil springs for mattresses are among the things we can think of that get tested in laboratories.

The fact that a test is made does not, of course, imply that the item tested gets approval. There are thousands of laboratory-tested samples of one thing and another that end up in the trash basket after being tested.

"Ingredient" is a fancy word for any part of anything. "My, what a delicious fruit cake you made, Mary. What do you put in it?" ... "Oh, I put ingredients in it." Ingredient doesn't want to give you her recipe.

If there were a Parkinson's Law of Language, it might say that the longer the words, the less they mean.

Siestas Not A U.S. Cult

Peterborough Examiner

Eve of Roma, the internationally-known beautician, had some pungent comments to make on North America's life after first visit to Canada recently. It's all rush, rush, rush, she said. "Your women are all they all work so hard and die too soon." Nor does she spare the women. Women on the continent become so tired and they get irritable and bossy and then the man don't like them and that's why the men work so hard and healthy outdoor recreation has addressed by this interpretation of this is profound. Apparently it's all because of bossy women, and the women are bossy because they have too much hurrying and perhaps also because the men work too hard and put pep into them. Who started all this is difficult to say.

Clearly something must be done about this if we are not to become a nation of bossy wives and men who work hard and lacks on golf courses. Eve's remedy is leisurely lunches, siestas and plenty of sleep. An excellent ideas if you don't mind giving up a booming economy, and this is what makes us a little suspicious of Eve's diagnosis. How did Italy achieve its economic miracle with all this leisure and siestas. Perhaps it is only the Americans and the lucky few that can afford them. If not, perhaps we had better send a fact-finding team over there to learn the secret.

Socialism—U.S.-style

Ottawa Journal

American style of government at any suggestion of socialism in their way of life. But, call it socialism or no, the state has moved in to guide the economy. What would the old robber barons of capitalism have thought of the U.S. government unloading from its stockpiles of copper and aluminum to check price increases in these metals? They would have cried treason.

Free enterprise, of course, gave up being totally free long ago when metal shortages had no objection to the government buying for stockpiling when they tended to increase price. They would be expected to foresee that the day might come when the government could use stockpiles to hold down prices; whatever protests they now make are hollow.

The modern captains of business are far removed from the rough old days of all - out competition when the weak went to the wall and Andrew Carnegie said "Steel is Power, or Pauper." Steel, copper and aluminum magnates today may want to be palaces of industry but they cannot resist a bit of government assistance when they can get it.

Shocking What!

This is an age of shock.

We hear of plane crashes claiming 100 lives, of boats sinking taking nearly as many lives, of thousands being killed in Viet Nam. We are shocked by wars in Pakistan and Cyprus and by the growing number of people burning themselves to death in various protests.

One of the greatest shocks of all came to a lady who read a newspaper columist's suggestion. She was so shocked that she immediately, for the first time in her life no doubt, wrote a letter to the newspaper stating her "surprise" at the instructions handed out in the column.

For years she had trusted and loved the columnists. She had complete faith in what the writer said. And then the big shock.

Some of life's setbacks are hard to comprehend. (An Ottawa Rough Rider fan told me that this morning.) The lady it is to be known here only as D.H. — there are two reasons for that. One, it sounds secretive. Two, that's all I know of her name.

I should have, at least two paragraphs ago, outlined the nature of D.H.'s shock, but it is so terrifying, so earth shaking that I have not been able to bring myself to write it as yet.

Until I build up my courage sufficiently to put this terrible shock into words, I have to hide behind literary technique. A good column grabs its readers, keeps them hanging and chokes them until they are gasping, clutching, begging for air. Then it hits them right between the eyes with a shattering statement — boom!

After the reader picks himself up off the floor he should then phone all his friends and tell them what a wonderful column he just read. He tells them that by turning to page such-and-such of the newspaper they too can experience Utopia.

Then bells begin to ring, a chorus is heard singing in the background and there is peace everywhere.

That is a column.

Now back to reality. As I was about to say before I rudely interrupted myself, I think I have rambled long enough. The time to get to the meat is now.

Are you ready?

Here it is:

Are you a MIF? That is the question. Whether 'tis nobler to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune — ah, the thought is terrible — better to be a MIF. ?

I can see by the expression on your face that you do not know what a MIF is. What ever happened to education?

For the benefit of those that do not know, I will explain. A MIF is a stereotype, perhaps that should be damning, term, meaning Milk in First.

There now, doesn't this make more sense?

No?

Well, let us look into the problem further.

It all started when our humanitarian friend D.H. read the newspaper column which advised a woman — I find it hard to say, but I must — that a person at a large social gathering — the agony is intense — could put the sugar and cream in her cup before the tea is poured in.

I know it is a shock, but that was the advice.

D.H., rushing to the aid of society, promptly wrote the columnist saying, "I was surprised at your instructions."

How anyone who did not know that the tea should be put in first managed to live so long is beyond me. But it is never too late to mend your ways.

D.H. explained that when a person is called a MIF in society that means her manners are not first rate.

That think will probably not cause a world revolution though it is hard to imagine something of such great social significance being bypassed by the revolutionaries.

But think what it would mean to you if you were a MIF.

Years of education, good breeding and hard work would all be lost under the terrible title of MIF. No respectable person would dare speak to you again. You would never be invited out. Students all over the world would turn you in effigy and march on their capitals demanding action. You would be damned for the rest of your miserable life.

There is only one thing for you to do if you are to escape the horrible fate waiting for all MIFs. Buy three tons of tea and practice day and night putting in the tea first before the cream and sugar. Practice. Practice. Practice until it becomes part of you, until you do it automatically.

I think I will form the "Universal Society To Fight Against The Dreaded Enemy, MIF." Anyone wishing to join simply write in and give me their name. There is a small initiation fee of two sugar cubes.

The choice is yours! But if you are to remain a responsible citizen, it is up to YOU to fight MIF.

Charge!

G. H. Doucette Has Given Up Bachelorhood

CARLETON PLACE, Ont. (CP) — George H. Doucette, 68, former Progressive Conservative MP for Lanark and a minister in three Ontario governments, has given up bachelorhood.

Relatives of Mr. Doucett in this community go miles southwest of Ottawa received word of the wedding late last week. But they know the bride only as a nurse from Toronto.

Mr. Doucett, who decided to give up politics shortly before the federal election Nov. 8, promised further details in a letter. He telephoned his niece, Mrs. Stanley Brunton, from Ohio while en route to Arizona on a honeymoon trip.

The former bachelor MP and the nurse were married in Toronto.

Mrs. Brunton and her brother, Allan Doucett, a nephew, were taken by surprise by the news.

So was a former parliamentary colleague of Mr. Doucett's, who noted that the former MP had spoken about a year ago of his bride. "But he didn't say anything about going tandem, the old fox!"

Mr. Doucett was elected to the Ontario legislature in 1937 and served as minister of highways and of public works under three premiers, George Drew, T. L. Kennedy and Leslie Frost, until he resigned and was elected to the Commons by acclamation in 1957. He won re-election in each succeeding federal election until announced his resignation.

Lake Ontario Cement Lets Mill Contract

PICTON — R. D. MacLean, president of Lake Ontario Cement Limited, has announced that the company has awarded a contract for the installation of a second 2,250 H.P. grinding mill and auxiliary equipment to Ryan-Comeau, a joint venture between Richard and B. A. Ryan (1968) Limited and Comeau Construction Company Limited, both of Montreal.

This installation, together with a new ship-loading covered silos which were recently awarded to Carter Construction, comprised phase two of the company's expansion at Picton and will cost an estimated one and three-quarter million dollars. Phase one, involving the installation of a third kiln, a 2,250 H.P. grinding mill, new blend silos and miscellaneous related equipment, was completed during 1965.

It is expected that the installation of the new mill will be completed by the spring of 1966 in time for the heavy summer shipping season. Engineering and project management will be handled by Foundation Engineering of Toronto.

Red Cross Sets New Homemaker Service Fees

The most outstanding development in Red Cross Homemaker Service since the beginning of the year has been the amendments to the Homemaker and Nurses Services Act. A number of new regulations are in effect, the most significant being that the Red Cross can now collect up to $12.00 per day for the services of a homemaker for a period of at least eight hours between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Cost of the service to the Belleville Red Cross, and the fee charged, is $8.90 per day.

The new regulations came into effect for one year at a provincial executive meeting in November. The fee are based on the cost to each Ontario branch for 1964. In order for Red Cross to receive the maximum benefits from the new regulations, it has become necessary for the society to review not only its costs, but also its thinking in connection with fee setting.

There are three groups of people using this service: those able to pay the full fee, welfare cases (for whom the Welfare Department contracts the service from Red Cross) and the middle group, who require homemaker service assistance at times of illness.

This latter group is asked to co-operate with the service reviewed by the supervisor, Mrs. J. A. Buchanan, by signing a Health and Welfare Department form requesting assistance. The Health and Welfare Department bases the service from Red Cross and may accept or eject the case according to the need and finances of the family. By the Provincial Government, advantage of legislation passed by the Provincial Government, who pays half the expenses.

The municipality pays the remaining half. The tax paying citizen is entitled to apply in time of sickness, providing he has insufficient resources to meet the total cost of this service.

In cases where partial assistance is required, the Welfare Department pays up to $5.75 day for the service of a homemaker for a period of at least eight hours between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. The remainder is to the Belleville Red Cross, and the fee charged, is $8.90 per day.

Patenting Costly And Time Consuming

DEAR DORIS: I have invented an article which I think is unique. It can serve as a decoration or be put to a useful purpose.

The patent attorneys in my city inform me that a preliminary search as to patentability would cost me $75 and the fee for patenting in Canada is $330. As this sum is far out of reach for me, is there a less costly way I could get a patent on it?—INVENTOR.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR INVENTOR: Perhaps you could do it yourself, but here's what you have to send to The Commissioner of Patents, Ottawa:

(1) Your petition.
(2) A specification, in duplicate, "including a claim or claims."
(3) A third copy of claim.
(4) Two copies of drawings on tracing cloth.
(5) One copy of drawings on Bristol Board.
(6) Filing fee: $30. When application is granted, a final fee of $30.

A patent attorney knows the ropes. What he charges is up to him, and he could save you endless headaches.

You might well do some of the preliminary searching yourself, by looking up The Canadian Patent Office Record in your public library. If you don't search, you take the risk of finding out later that a previous patent exists — of some invention which is similar to yours — and would be infringed on by you.

In which case all your work and worry goes down the drain.

DEAR DORIS: I am a widow and I have three children to take care of. I have met a very nice man. He has two children and he wants me to marry him. Do you think it will be O.K. to get those children together from both sides? — JUST WORRIED.

DEAR JUST WORRIED: Well, it's been done before. Hassfeld Bros. Ltd. could give your three a father, his the mother they need.

Making it work will call for warmheartedness and rare good humour. You'll need to keep consulting with your new mate, and making every one of those youthful personalities feel he is an important part of the new unit; no room for favoritism, no chance for jealousy. And you and your husband must bend over backwards to support each other in all matters of discipline.

DEAR DORIS: I'm 14. Like most normal girls my age I like boys. And here is my problem:

This boy in my class is quite friendly with me. He has asked me before if I'm going to be home on the weekend and I have told him whether I'm going to a dance or to the show, etc. He says that if he ever gets there he will see me there.

What I want to know is if he likes me for just a friend or something more serious or is he just leading me on? He is 16 I think. If he asks me to go out, should I go or should I just try and let the whole thing pass over? — THANK YOU.

P.S.: Whether I like your advice or not I am quite willing to take it.

DEAR THANK YOU: At 16 a boy wants a date. At 14 you are better to avoid solo-ing, in favor of what he seems to be suggesting: ending you at the local dance. To dream up anything serious, right-now, only shows inexperience.

DEAR DORIS: You may find this a little childish but it is getting to be quite a problem. I am 16 years of age and like this girl quite a bit. I have only walked home with her a couple of times from school, and do not know if she even knows my name.

What can I do to get a date with her? I do not have a car and no driver's license and would feel fooling going to a football game or the like if we did not go in a car. None of my friends have cars either so even if you can help me find a solution for breaking my shyness I could not double date with anyone. — HELP.

DEAR HELP: Last time I went to a football game — last month —our group was part of a great crowd of walkers streaming into the stadium. Adults often prefer to leave their cars home and take a bus, because of parking problems.

For high school events, the bus is even more popular. Next time you walk her home make a joke of introducing yourself to her. If she likes you, she'll jump at the chance of a walking or bussing date.

Am I right, girls?

CURRIED TONGUE WITH BARLEY

Evelyn W. writes: "Five mornings (or nights) every week I have to pack lunches for 5 people in my family. Every other week I buy an ox tongue because it is cheaper than ham and roast beef and slices so nicely. I have been wondering if I could use this for a meal . . ."

Beef tongue is perfect for sandwiches but also it is excellent for a meat course. For the past few years I have given here recipes for Boiled Pickled Tongue with Sweet Sour Sauce, Beef Tongue with Fruited Sauce, Jellied Veal Tongues, and Tongue with Barbecue Sauce. Recently I made Curried Tongue from half of a large beef tongue. For your six-member family, I think the following would be just right. I am giving a barley casserole I served with it.

Italian Lasagna; Individual Waldorf Salads; Pumpkin Pie with Whipped Cream; Coffee.

CURRIED TONGUE

3¼ cups diced cooked beef tongue (well packed),
¼ cup butter or margarine,
1½ teaspoons curry powder,
2½ tablespoons (8 teaspoons) flour,
½ teaspoon salt,
½ teaspoon garlic powder,
2 chicken bouillon cubes,
2 cups boiling water.

For economy's sake buy a large beef tongue. Cover it with water, bring to boil and simmer covered until tender - 3 to four hours. While warm, lift from broth and peel off skin and trim off fat from base of tongue. Cut into dice and measure 3½ cups. (Any extra over is good sliced cold or for sandwiches.) Melt butter, stir in curry powder until it is hot and soaked with butter. (This is called "cracking the curry".) Blend in the flour, salt, garlic powder and bouillon cubes, then stir in the boiling water until thick. Add diced tongue to a 10-cup casserole and heat through. Serve on finely boiled rice or with this BARLEY AND VEGETABLE CASSEROLE (new and easy and good).

(Evelyn, you may have to double these amounts to serve your crowd.)

In a casserole soak together for 2 hours ½ cup pearl barley with one 10-oz. can of cream of vegetable soup and 1 canful of water. After soaking, stir, cover and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 2½ to 3 hours or until tender, stirring twice during this baking period. No trouble and a welcome change from rice, potatoes, noodles, etc.

V.O.N. Hears Report on Care of Aged

At the November meeting of the V.O.N. it was announced that regional director, Miss Ethel Grindley would be visiting the Belleville branch during November. The president, Mrs. J. E. Nelles advised members present that the annual dinner meeting would be held at St. Thomas' parish hall during mid-February and that arrangements were underway for obtaining a speaker. Mention was made regarding the formation of a Womens' Auxiliary Committee in Belleville during the coming months.

During the fall one of the V.O.N. staff members, Miss Olive Pryce, attended a nursing workshop, held in London, on care of the aged. Miss Pryce brought back a report to other members of the staff.

At the conclusion of further business discussion, Miss Dorothy Conner, head of the report on nursing activities for October, a total of 504 home visits was made during this period. Fifty-two per cent of the cases were medical and surgical, 37 per cent were maternal and infant care and 11 per cent were health supervision cases.

The Victorian Order of Nurses is a participating agency of United Appeal.

VOTA VITA MISSION CIRCLE

The November meeting of the Vota Vita Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church was in charge of the president, Mrs. W. Soble, with Mrs. A. Gazley leading the opening hymn service.

Business and reports were dispensed with and it was noted that the executive will be having a turkey supper at the church on December 14th, for members, with the Senior Mission Circle as special guests.

The slate of 1966 officers was placed before the group by the nominating committee and was approved and accepted.

Mrs. A. Wynne spoke briefly on the work at the Grand Ligne Mission, with a plea that we pray for those young dedicated Christians as they go forward to do God's work at the mission.

Mrs. E. Burns' group was in charge of the program which was from the study book on Bolivia.

Mrs. W. Dempsey was in charge of the devotional, and Mrs. R. Burr read the Scriptures, followed by prayer.

Mrs. E. Burns, Mrs. A. Gazley and Mrs. A. Travis brought some interesting thoughts of Bolivia under the headlines: "Summary of first six decades," "Evangelism in Depth," and "Live up to Your Calling."

Mrs. W. Soble thanked those in charge of the program.

The meeting closed in prayer and a social time followed by refreshments served by Mrs. Burns' group.

Ann Landers

Worried About Child Who Stabs Dolls

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm an unmarried woman in my 40's. An arthritic condition has kept me close to home these past few years. My major interest is collecting and dressing dolls. The youngsters in the neighborhood call me "The Doll Lady." I give my dolls to needy children. I also sell dolls to folks who can afford to buy them.

One boy in the neighborhood has a sadistic streak that is frightening. This lad has bought several dolls from me. His friends confided that he stabs them with knives, pokes out the eyes and burns the arms and legs with matches.

ANN LANDERS

I have refused to sell him any more dolls and I told his mother why. She invited me to mind my own business. (His parents indulge him to the point of idiocy.) I'm afraid one day a child may suffer at his hands. Do you feel I should say something to the school authorities? I am not an interfering type, but I may regret it later if I don't do something now. What do you say? — K.T.

DEAR K.T.: The boy needs to be examined by a specialist. By all means report this behavior to the school principal at once.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has decided it is easier and cheaper to ride the bus to work than to take the car and pay parking. So, for the first time in 13 years of marriage, I have a car at my disposal. I was thrilled until I got my orders: The car is to be used for one purpose only — to drive the children to and from school.

My husband says I may not use the car for errands, grocery marketing, visiting friends or family or doctor appointments. He says I should use a bus or taxi as in the past.

In all fairness I must say he is a good husband and father. I've never had to worry about excessive drinking, gambling or other women. It's just this one subject he's a little nuts on. Thanks for any help you can give me. — G.M.S.

DEAR G.M.S.: Does your husband give any reason for his outrageous restrictions? Can he afford gasoline? Does he worry about using up the clutch? Surely he isn't concerned about your ability to drive, or he wouldn't allow you to chauffeur the children.

A man who would deny his wife the pleasure and convenience of the family car for no good reason is a tyrant. And you can tell him I said so.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That letter signed "A Mother First, Last and Always" made me want to upchuck.

Why do some mothers get insulted if their kids are not included in every invitation? I don't blame a bride for saying "no children please" when asked if little tots can be brought along to a wedding dinner or reception. A bride's wedding day is supposed to be her happiest, and she has a right to want it to be perfect.

Some children who are considered "perfect little ladies and gentlemen" by their parents are holy terrors. They laugh (or cry) in the church, they are first in line at the sweet table and they can give the most elegant affair in the favor of a lodge picnic.

Most people hate it when anyone criticizes their little darlings, but I agree with you, Ann. Children do not belong every place and if their parents don't know it, someone should tell them. — ANOTHER MEANIE.

DEAR ANOTHER: I appreciate your support. Some mothers wrote to say I was wrong and that they would rather stay home than go where their children are not welcome. To them I say, "Fine. Stay home. Everyone will be happier.

* * *

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity," containing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ICEBOX RAIDERS

Dear Susanna: If you're really sneaky as I am, you'll have fun with this one. When e v e r there is a little jar of goodies on hand, such as homemade jelly or some special chocolate syrup, that you wish to keep hidden in the refrigerator from the rest of the crowd so it won't get dipped into between meals, here is a marvelous camouflage:

Set the jar right inside another empty container — one that can't be seen through. And push it into the farthest corner of the refrigerator. But use your imagination. Find a container that looks so completely uninteresting that nobody, but nobody, is ever going to be bothered even looking inside.

Personally, I find one of those large round salt boxes with the lid cut off and set in loose-ly gives 100 percent protection every time. Cold salt at mid-night anyone? So goes who is stops ringing.

Heavy Vote Could Encourage De Gaulle in His Policies

French voters decide next Sunday whether President de Gaulle or one of five other candidates will be the country's next president. In this story on the election, Canadian Press reporter Peter Buckley says the outcome will affect the course of Western history.

By PETER BUCKLEY

PARIS (CP) — The French presidential elections in December will decide not only who is to be chief of state for the next seven years but also, to some degree, the course of Western history.

A lot may depend on whether President Charles de Gaulle, 75, is returned to office—as widely anticipated — and the percentage of his vote. An overwhelming endorsement may encourage him to continue his policies which many Western countries consider disruptive. A rather weak endorsement or an upset may push France onto a different course.

Involved are such highly-important issues as the country's European Common Market, NATO, Western relations with Communist countries, nuclear disarmament and the balance of power within Europe.

On all these issues the introspective general, with his thoughts on the glories of France, has shaken up long-set policy patterns, adding to the concern of Western policy-makers. And on all these issues de Gaulle's opponents for the presidency have voiced opposition. But their hopes of receiving a favorable reaction from the electorate are dim.

FRANCHISE WIDENED

Many observers feel the die was cast when de Gaulle told television viewers Nov. 4 he will stand for another seven years. He is considered unbeatable.

This will mark the first occasion on which the French president will be elected by the universal vote. The system was instituted by de Gaulle, part of sweeping constitutional changes made when he came to power in 1958 at the height of the Algerian crisis and established his Fifth Republic.

Previously, the president was a figure with drastically limited powers, elected by some 80,000 French "notables" — elected officials from every government branch. De Gaulle's own accession to power was approved by a majority of the "notables" who voted in 1958.

Now the president possesses enormous power. He will be elected directly by the people in a vote held solely for that purpose. No other issues are on the ballot.

The difference the new constitution has made in French politics can be simply seen by imagining what Canadian political scene would look like if Governor-General Georges Vanier were given the powers of President Lyndon Johnson.

POSTERS DEFACED

Under the new constitution, more than 28,000,000 French men and women are eligible to vote for president.

Besides those in France, there are more than 600,000 eligible voters in France's overseas territories.

DE GAULLE CONSIDERED UNBEATABLE — French President Charles de Gaulle, shown at press conference earlier this year, is considered unbeatable in France's presidential elections Sunday, December 5. It will be the first time a French president has been elected by direct universal vote.

(CP Photo from AP)

Most of them, about 425,000, are in the four "departments" of the Caribbean—Martinique, Guadeloupe, French Guiana and La Reunion. Nearly 200,000 others live in the territories—areas which have refused independence, including St. Pierre-Miquelon off the coast of Newfoundland and such other exotic locales as New Caledonia, New Hebrides and the Polynesian islands of the South Pacific.

Posters in Paris subways have lately been defaced with the words "Les cocus vont voter" (The cuckolds will vote), merely the finest insult to offer a Frenchman. The words are repeated so often in their jarring irreverancy that they are being reduced to the simple initials "L.C.V.V."

Despite such indications of discontent with the choices facing the voters, electoral officials predict a turnout of as many as 80 per cent of the total electorate.

Provision is made in the constitution for two separate votes, two weeks apart, although only one is likely to be needed this time.

To be elected president, the winner must obtain more than 50 per cent of the votes cast.

If no single candidate obtains that many on the first ballot, next Sunday, Dec. 5, a second vote will be held Dec. 19.

On the second ballot, only the two leading candidates will be listed, making a winner certain. If, after the first ballot, one of the two leaders withdraws—a possibility some of the opposition strategists have been considering among themselves—the next strongest candidate goes onto the second ballot.

The electoral system has been designed to keep what the French call "adventures" off the ballot.

Each of the six candidates whose names were officially posted Nov. 18 had to deposit 10,000 francs ($2,150) with an electoral commission which supervises the voting.

His candidacy had to be backed by certified testimonials from 100 deputies or senators, mayors or other elected officials from France and its overseas territories. There are about 40,000 or more of these.

Once recognized as a candidate, however, he becomes eligible for public help with his campaign.

The electoral commission arranges publication and distribution throughout France of documents supporting the candidate and posters proclaiming his candidacy.

SUBSIDY HELPS

He also gets four hours of free time on each of the national radio and television networks to get his views across.

If he wins more than five per cent of the total vote, the government pays 100,000 francs towards his campaign costs. If he fails to get five per cent, he loses not only the hope of getting the 100,000 francs but his 10,000-franc deposit as well.

The government's 1965 budget set aside 32,000,000 francs—nearly $7,000,000 — for election costs and can increase that sum if necessary. Political observers expect groups supporting various candidates to spend an additional equivalent amount in non-subsidized campaigning.

Main requirements for voters are that they must be over the age of 21 and hold French citizenship.

Campaigning ends at midnight Friday. Polls are open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., although voting hours can be extended to 8 p.m. in some areas.

The new presidential election system is being used for the first time and it appears to leave some crucial points be covered.

What happens if the 75-year-old de Gaulle or some opponent dies or drops out before the votes are counted? There is nothing in the constitution covering this point. Election officials suggest, however, that the campaign would probably be called off, if de Gaulle should die, and a new one started later.

Tomorrow: Restoration of French glory is aim of de Gaulle.

Says Soviet Way Best System Ever

By JOHN WEYLAND

MOSCOW (AP) — Meet Ivan Petrov, Muscovite.

He works 41 hours a week, shares his apartment with another family, owns a radio, wears wrinkled clothes, and thinks communism is the best of all systems.

Ivan is no particular Muscovite, just an example drawn up from available information to show what life is like in the Soviet capital.

Ivan is a skilled worker in the prime of life and earns the equivalent of $130 a month. Mrs. Petrov has a job which brings in $85 more. The family spends more than half its income for food. They get along by eating lots of potatoes, bread and cabbage, even this leaves little money for other things.

It's a tight squeeze. But the Petrovs are better off than many of the other 8,500,000 Muscovites, and incomparably better off than the rural population. They are typical in that they represent the worker class, which communism has concentrated on aiding.

Ivan and his wife strike Westerners as drab and unkempt. He wears an old suit jacket, colored shirt open at the throat, pants of a different color, light gray or tan shoes, and a cap. She wears a kerchief over her hair, a skirt, sweater, and heavy shoes.

Both are brawny and overweight.

KEPT BUSY

Mrs. Petrov lacks the time—or appliances and other aids—to keep up appearances. She has her job; she spends 40 minutes each day getting to and from work; she waits in lines at shops she has meals to prepare, the housework to do.

It doesn't leave much time for the children, either. The baby spends all day at a nursery. The older child goes to school, or in summer to a pioneer youth camp.

When the family does get together for a few hours in the evening, they listen to their $30 radio. The parents are slowly saving for a television set, which will take their total wages for a month and a half.

Washing machine? Refrigerator? They cost twice as much as in North America. And the waiting lists are long. It takes three to five years to get one.

The Petrovs don't even dream of buying a car. The price for the cheapest small Moskvich model is $4,400.

Ivan likes to take a drink. Vodka costs $3.20 a bottle, beer 45 cents, wine $2.80.

But Ivan is not seething with resentment against the system. His rent is low, about $20 a month. Medical treatment is largely free. In his old age he will get a state pension.

NAMES VICE-PRESIDENT

Robert H. Cornwell, an engineer who carried out a survey of Canada's petroleum-refining capacity during and following the Second World War, has been named a vice-president of National Drillers and Chemical Corporation, it was announced in New York Tuesday.

C. M. Drury, Canadian minister of industry and defence production, Monday explored with Michel Maurice-Bokanowski, French industry minister, prospects for closer economic and trade relations between the two countries at a Paris meeting.

Federal Govt. Urged to Stop Alcohol Growth

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) The federal government gets more and more dependent to stop the growth of alcoholism while it depends on revenue from alcoholic beverages, the Canadian Federation of Alcohol Problems was told Monday.

Dr. John Linton of Toronto told delegates at the federation's convention a larger effort by the federal government is called for if the growth of alcoholism is to be stopped.

But this increasing problem is being aggravated "with more people involved directly and indirectly with the trade and . . . government depending more and more on revenue from the sale of alcoholic beverages to balance their increasing budgets."

"It is not a problem of prohibition, "how out of sale and how it relates to society and how society relates to it," Dr. Linton said.

BACKS AWAY

Dr. Gordon Porter, chairman of the federation's long range committee, said the church has "backed away" from strong emphasis on total abstinence and given only "token support" to programs dealing with alcohol problems.

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said in a letter to the convention that efforts are being made to prevent the spread of alcoholism by treating the potential alcoholic before he problem becomes total addiction.

Arthur Blair, general manager of the Abstainers Insurance Co. of Toronto, Ont., said more non-drinkers are taking advantage of his company's benefits.

His company has offered a 25-per-cent reduction in car insurance to abstaining drivers in Ontario since 1956, and recently has done the same in Alberta and Manitoba.

The reduction applies to drivers 25 years old or more and the insured person must sign a declaration that he does not drink alcohol and will not do so during the life of the policy.

Teachers of Quebec, with 8,000 members, wants French as well as English educational facilities available across Canada.

A group of Teachers from the French-language University of Montreal says French-Canadians have not received their share of research grants from the National Research Council. Therefore the Quebec government should gradually take over the job of assisting research.

The greater powers urged for Quebec by the catholic teachers and the Jaycees include the power to negotiate international treaties, the power to enact immigration laws and control of such fields as family allowances, divorce and the organization of broadcasting networks.

WORK IN U.S.

The Indian group—the Caughnawaga Defence Committee—urge English and Iroquois as the two languages for their big reserve near Montreal because most Indians from there work in the United States.

The committee's brief says "there is no employment for us as the French-language world."

Paul Rochon, a Montreal journalist, representing the Quebec nationalist Societe Nationale Populaire at Monday's hearing, had no doubt about the future rate of French-speaking minorities outside the province—assimilation by the 17 English-speaking countries.

Mr. Rochon had a different prediction concerning the French-speaking population of New Brunswick, and of their province as a whole.

"New Brunswick is separated from western Canada by Quebec. An independent Quebec will grow in strength and New Brunswick will gradually be assimilated by Quebec and become part of the state of Quebec."

The commission, eight of whose 10 members are sitting in on the Montreal hearings, also received briefs today which urge bilingualism in the federal civil service, greater concern for various ethnic groups and higher pay for bilingual employees of the CBC.

morale South Vietnamese military commanders feared these reliefs may encourage their troops to surrender rather than fight.

U.S. spokesmen said air force and navy jets battered bridges, highways and suspected troop concentrations in North Viet Nam, while two air wings flew 309 attacks against suspected Viet Cong targets in the south. More than 200 structures, including fortifications, were destroyed within 30 miles of Viet Nam, the spokesmen reported.

B-52 bombers from Guam unloaded their heavy explosives on three suspected Viet Cong camps in Binh Duong Province, 30 miles northwest of Saigon. Results of the strike were not announced.

Income Tax Explained

A column designed for the working taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER
Retired Supervising Assessor, Income Tax Department

UNREPORTED INCOME

When the taxpayer signs his name on the first page of the return, he certifies it is a true statement of all his taxable income for the year. If he has not disclosed all his income then he has filed a false return. When this is found out by the Income Tax Department, such taxpayers are dealt with more severely if the tax evaded is of a substantial amount.

Where the taxpayer has forgotten a T4 slip for just a small amount or overlooked other income of a trifling nature, it is usually accepted as a natural oversight and only the additional tax is assessed plus interest from April 30.

When a taxpayer has filed a return and afterwards discovers he has omitted an item of income, he should not file an amended return. The proper procedure is to wait until the Assessment Notice is received, then write to his local district income tax office, giving the details of the omitted income, and request that his original return be adjusted.

The most frequent item of income omitted is interest on savings bonds. The taxpayer should note that everytime he cashes a bond coupon, he signs a form at the bank issued by the Minister Wilson and questioned the for the amount of interest received. If he had taken the effectiveness of sanctions ordered by Britain and tacitly time to read this form he would backed by Nigerian Prime Min-have seen it was a report to the ister Sir Abubakar Talawa Bal-income tax office showing he ewa.
had paid that amount of interest. The income tax department matches these forms to the taxpayers return and if the interest shown has not been reported, it will be added to his income and additional tax assessed plus interest.

For a personal reply, enclose a self addressed, five cent stamped envelope, plus 25 cents for each question.

Question 1: If I forget an item of income, should I file another return?

Answer: No. After you receive your assessment notice, write your local tax office advising them of the omitted item and ask that your original return be adjusted.

Question 2: I paid my tax in full on April 30, but I have been assessed an amount for instalment interest. Why?

Question: You probably did not have tax deducted at the source on 75 percent of your income, so you should have paid your taxes quarterly. The interest assessed is on the quarterly payments you should have made.

It clearly will be unpatriotic to criticize the government so long as Rhodesia is held responsible for economic shortcomings.

ASSUMES WIDE POWERS

Furthermore, wide powers have been assumed by the government under the African Defence (Ghana) Act rammed through Parliament last Friday. Under it, the president assumed the equivalent of martial law control.

Nkrumah's prestige in the rest of Africa, which appeared at a low point at the end of the African summit meeting here last month, has risen sharply in the period since Rhodesia broke away.

The Ghanaian leader has forgotten a T4 slip for just a small amount or overlooked other income of a trifling nature, it is usually accepted as a natural oversight and only the additional tax is assessed plus interest from April 30.

Senate, Supreme Court Reorganization Urged By Law Student Group

TORONTO (CP) — Sweeping reorganization of the Senate and of the Supreme Court of Canada are proposed by a group of law students in a brief to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

The brief being submitted Tuesday night by the students' law society of the University of Toronto says the Senate should be replaced by a federal upper house composed of leading members of provincial cabinets, who would meet as a permanent federal-provincial conference.

Each province would be represented by its premier and ministers of finance and health and the attorney-general. Federal cabinet ministers could take part in debates but not in votes.

The students say that federal bills dealing with provincial fields of jurisdiction should require a two-thirds majority in the new Senate.

The brief also recommends that the Supreme Court be divided into English common law and Quebec civil law sections. Federal grants to the provinces are urged to finance instruction of both French and English in schools across Canada.

The Young Women's Christian Association, with 74,000 members in Canada, also calls for improved teaching of French and English in primary and secondary schools to strengthen national unity.

URGE MORE TONGUES

The Ukrainian National Youth Federation of Canada recommends that Ukrainian and other languages besides English and French be taught in schools wherever enough parents request it.

Studies of the school instruction in Canadian history and of the history and characteristics of all ethnic groups are urged.

The CBC, National Film Board and National Museum are asked to give more attention to the cultural contributions of ethnic minorities.

The Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association says the education departments of the 10 provinces should make increasing efforts to interest school boards in introducing the second languages, French or English, as early as possible in elementary schools.

The provinces are also asked to remove their restrictions to the mobility of teachers between provinces.

The association repeats its proposal of 1964 for an exchange program under which Ontario high school students would get summer jobs in Quebec and vice-versa. Fraternization between youths would greatly improve understanding.

Seymour Twp. Nominees Discuss Township Affairs

CAMPBELLFORD — Seymour township council held its nomination meeting in the Masonic Temple, Campbellford, on Monday afternoon.

The office of reeve had three nominations, incumbent Morden McMillan, M. Wight and R. Parr.

For deputy reeve only two were nominated incumbent deputy reeve M. Wight and James Gaucher.

The names were nominated for councillors, only three to be elected, incumbent M. Brunton, declared himself, the other two incumbents, C. Rowe and J. Gaucher were undecided, other nominations incl-e-d Carl Free, Neil McCulloch, Allan Curle, H. Stillman, Alex Rutherford, James Hagerman and Everett Parr.

For school trustees for Seymour township school board: Mrs. D. Dart, Robert Lisle, Ray Pollock, James Hagerman and Carl Free, three to be elected.

G. Stephens, township clerk, acted as chairman for the meeting.

Incumbent reeve M. McMillan said he would again be a candidate for the office. He stressed the work on roads in the township at county and local level and intimated more extensive construction next year. He stated he had been a member of three county council committees, finance, assessment and industry and agriculture. He felt the county level of government had a special duty to fulfil in organized government.

In his address incumbent deputy reeve Wight stated the United Counties had organized a "need" committee to investigate and initiate a program whereby road construction would take place where needed rather than from undue pressure of parties concerned. He announced a new bridge would be constructed in 1966 over the Trent River at Healy Falls, and consideration is presently being given to a bridge in Campbellford.

$533,000 ESTIMATED COST

The cost of the bridge at Healy Falls was approximately $533,000, the Department of Transport paid over $200,000, the Department of Highways paid 80 per cent of balance and the United Counties the remainder of the balance. In the "need" study it was agreed that no one should have to drive more than one and a half miles before coming on to a good road or highway.

James Gaucher, councillor for 1965, said he had been a member of council for four years. He stated the work was becoming increasingly complicated. He expressed his personal opinion against amalgamation of Seymour and Campbellford public schools. He felt the township was quite capable of running its own public school educational system.

Morris Brunton, another councillor of 1965, declared his intention to seek the office again. He expressed gratification, as a member of the fire committee with the adequacy of the Seymour Fire Protection system and as a member of the Community Centre committee would like to see the project completed as soon as possible.

Carlton Rowe, councillor, in 1965, spoke of the Conservation Authority of which he was a member and their efforts to keep the Crowe River as clean as possible. A new dam had been built at a cost of $8,400, with 26 acres to be used for a park or some other purpose. One use of the dam was to keep carp from becoming established in the Crowe River. Mr. Rowe stated that while financial gain from an office in municipal council was small, he felt it was a good opportunity to acquire experience for young men.

Members of the School Board felt their first year on a township Board was an exploratory one and a challenging one. Almost all members and School Board nominees expressed disapproval of the amalgamation of Seymour and Campbellford schools as set up and passed at Counties Council. Open disapproval was expressed with the Reeve and Deputy Reeve for having voted in Counties Council in favor of amalgamation.

SHOULD HAVE VOTED

R. Lisle felt the education now presented emphasized a materialistic trend and not enough attention was given to character building. He stated success was measured in money rather than good clean living and that right thinking leaders should be developed.

Carl Free presented facts and figures in opposition to those presented by P. S. I. Rikley and felt amalgamation should have been decided by the ratepayers involved rather than Counties Council representatives.

Edward Cryderman, a member of C. D. H. S., reported for the Campbellford and District High School. He stated the present enrolment as 575 pupils, a staff of 31 teachers and the large number of options available. There are 97 pupils taking music as a course in the 26 class rooms. A driver's course has been introduced extramurally, 12 students are in the two-term course. Cost of this course to the School Board is $500.

The school cafeteria is supplying about 260 full course meals per day at a cost of 40 cents per meal. This amounts to a loss to the Board of approximately 10 cents per meal or a cost to the taxpayer of $26 per day. Labor costs are $7.85 per month in addition to cost of upkeep. Food costs have shown a profit of $1,900 for the two years it has been operated.

As candidates have until 9 p.m. Tuesday, November 30th to qualify, only a few gave a decision at the nomination meeting.

MORE ROADS FOR THE NORTH—A $100,000,000 road-building program is planned to bring all potential resources in the Northwest Territories within 200 miles of a permanent road. Each year for the next 10 years, the department of northern affairs plans to spent $10,000,000 to tap resource potentials and provide links between established communities. The department hopes the road program will aid a developing tourist industry and help bring costs more in line with the south. The roads program is confined to the western portion of the N.W.T.

Public Pressure Firing Cause Says Indian

KENORA, Ont. (CP)—Indian social worker Fred Kelly said Monday he is being dismissed from his $4,000-a-year job with the Kenora Children's Aid Society because of "public pressure from the town and a high level of the provincial government."

The pressure, he said apparently had been exerted on Harold B. Treen, director of the society.

Earlier Monday society spokesmen said the dismissal had nothing to do with an Indian protest march last week in which Mr. Kelly played a leading role.

Mr. Treen said the decision to give Mr. Kelly a notice of dismissal after a 21-mon-h probation period was entirely his own responsibility as director and had nothing to do with the Indian march.

Mr. Treen said Mr. Kelly's work with the society "has been in the field of community organization, the Indian-white committee and research.

"I have reason to believe from my board of directors that the society can't sponsor this kind of work indefinitely," he said.

However, Jack Doner, a member of Kenora's Indian-white committee said Monday, that the dismissal was a misunderstanding that can be worked out.

"The whole thing can be worked out very nicely so that Mr. Kelly can remain with CAS," Mr. Doner, a Kenora lawyer said.

He said there may have to be a redefinition of Mr. Kelly's work with the society.

"I think Mr. Kelly can continue to be a spokesman for the Indian people of the area," Mr. Doner said.

I own a wine cellar

(And we live in an apartment!)

No matter what I whip up for an evening meal, I've a wine on hand to make it mean something. Stew will do—if there's chilled DuBarry Sparkling Vin Rosé on the table. And just taste what Manor Claret can do for hamburgers. Manor Sauterne for fish and chips! And my whole cellar hardly cost the price of a box of good hand kerchiefs.

74 Sherry An appetizer wine, most popular in Canada. Serve with hors d'oeuvres, and the soup course.

74 Port A delightful dessert wine. After dinner, with snacks, with cheese ...perfect

Manor St. Davids Sauterne Chilled, it does wonders for white meat of any kind—fish, fowl or pork—and salads.

Manor St. Davids Claret Canada's most distinctive "wine of the country", ideal with steaks, hamburgers, red meat of any kind.

Mazel Tov A rich "kosher" wine. Delicious—appeals to everyone.

DuBarry Sparkling Vin Rosé An "anytime" wine that's light and tingling on the tongue. Serve before, during and after any meal at all.

Person Not on Plane May Have Caused Blast

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mass murder or accident? . . .

And either way, who was responsible for the explosion which shaked flight 21 and its 52 occupants from the sky last summer?

The request is over but the files on the Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-8B flight north out of Vancouver last July 8 remain open.

The coroner's jury said the 52 persons aboard died "unnatural and accidental" deaths when the blast tore the tail from the four-engined plane.

Coroner Glen McDonald said he disagreed with the word "accidental."

In its verdict Friday the jury said an explosive substance foreign to the normal contents of the aircraft caused the explosion and recommended the RCMP continue its investigation.

The jury had been told the backgrounds of the 52 persons on board had been studied and all but three were reported satisfactory. Investigation had also been made into the possibility a person not on the plane may have caused the blast.

Sgt. Bob Mullock, who heads the force's work on the crash, said the probe will continue until the person responsible is known or the RCMP is satisfied he can never be identified.

HANDLED EXPLOSIVES

The passengers still in question:

Steve Kolesnar of Vancouver, father of five. His job as a powderman was to handle explosives for heavy construction companies;

Peter Broughton, formerly of Ontario (community unknown) who was extremely interested in small - arms ammunition and cartridge reloading materials;

Douglas Edgar of North Surrey, B.C., unemployed, who lived mostly by gambling. He took out $10,000 in flight insurance 20 minutes before takeoff.

Sgt. Mullock told the inquest Kolesnar had an extensive criminal record and had been acquitted on "one or two" murder charges, one laid in Canada. He had a dishonorable discharge from the army.

A construction company had hired him the day before and paid his plane fare.

The sergeant said Edgar was the only one with no apparent reason for boarding the plane. He had told his wife he was going to Prince George to take a job promised by a foreman friend on a pulp mill under construction. The RCMP says...no work application was made at the Prince George mill and no foreman there knew Edgar.

Sgt. Mullock said Broughton was returning to Cassiar in northern B.C. to work. Reloading equipment and gunpowder was found in Broughton's home, but the type of gunpowder was not powerful enough to have caused the explosion in the plane.

FIND BLACK POWDER

Rolande Rouan, an RCMP chemist, told the inquest traces of black powder were found in four sections of the aircraft near the left rear toilets.

Mr. Rouan said there could have been other explosives combined with black powder and the residue from these explosives could have been washed away by rain.

Another explosives expert testified 33 ounces of black "sporting" powder would have been sufficient to cause the crash and that such an amount could have been procured from a sporting goods store.

Several witnesses told of seeing strange men in the aircraft shortly before it took off.

Tom Kelly, an upholsterer mechanic, said he saw two strange men aboard the plane with an RCMP man. Several other persons said they also saw the constable and two strangers.

George Murray, lawyer for the attorney - general's department said his department had identified the RCMP constable and could produce him if necessary. He said the constable was showing friends through the plane.

Mrs. Hubert C. Eldred, a cleaning woman, said she saw a strange-looking man emerge from the rear section of the plane as she was cleaning the interior. She said she noted at the same time that the door to one of the lavatories was swinging.

SAW NO STRANGER

Three other cleaning women aboard the plane with Mrs. Eldred at the time said they saw no stranger on board;

John Syra of 100 Mile House, B.C., near where the plane crashed, said he saw the explosion that ripped the plane apart.

"The front part of the plane seemed to continue to fly while the tail section seemed to hesitate and then fall away from the front part of the plane.

"The front . . . continued to fly for about 20 seconds before it went into a spin. The plane's engines seemed to sound normal before the spin, the they seemed to open a faster speed as the front part spiralled.

"Then it disappeared in the trees and there was a terrific blast as it hit the ground."

Both the department of transport and RCMP investigated the crash and both investigations are continuing.

The tall section of the plane was reassembled from more than 5,000 pieces of wreckage recovered from the crash scene.

No Signs of Malnutrition Among Peking Man on Street

Peter Dalhoff, foreign affairs commentator of Denmark's national television service, spent four weeks in China assembling material for Danish programs, in this article, written especially for The Associated Press, he reports on the life of an "average" man and his family in Peking.

By PETER DALHOFF

PEKING (AP) — Syn Chin-Kang, 28, is employed at Peking's Textile Factory No. 2 as a spinner. His wife, Pangwe Hua, is employed at the same factory and each earns 75 yuan a month. They have two children, a boy and a girl, five and three years old.

They are healthy and handsome and they live in a modern two-room flat with kitchen and toilet not far from the factory. They have Chairman Mao's collected works on their bookshelf.

Syn and his family apparently live the way the party would like all Chinese workers to live, since their home is among the private residences shown by the foreign minister to visiting foreigners.

Questioned, Syn said he paid five yuan (about $2 Canadian) for the flat monthly, including gas, electricity and central heating. It costs 20 yuan a month to send their children to kindergarten; they pay 40 to 50 yuan in the bank each month and the remainder—nearly 100 yuan — is spent on food and clothing. They pay no income tax.

To what extent is Syn really typical of the majority of Chinese workers?

Comparing notes with Western residents in Peking and on the basis of observations made during four weeks in China, it appeared that Syn could very well be regarded as an example of an average Chinese worker in some fields, but not in all.

WAGES VARY

There are workers — for instance, the very hard-working pedicab drivers and some categories of workers in the coal and steel industries—who earn 90 to 100 yuan a month, but most monthly wages appear to be about 40 yuan. Syn and his wife apparently belonged to the upper half of wage earners.

His home was typical of some Peking homes. Blocks of flats have been put up over large areas in the periphery of Peking, and hundreds of thousands of people now are living under more or less the same housing conditions as Syn and his family.

But even a larger number is still confined to old, dilapidated one - storey houses in narrow and often ill-smelling streets of old Peking. As the city authority plans to clear the slums, little is spent on maintenance.

It is possible to look into these houses when walking through the streets, in Peking, in Shanghai and Canton, since the doors are often open.

FURNITURE SPARSE

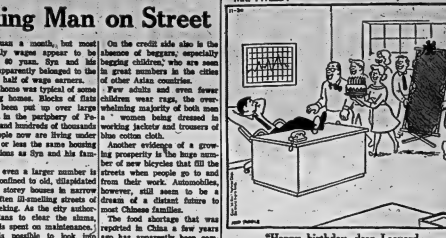
The furniture normally consists of one or two-large beds or bunks, a table and a few low stools. The cooking is usually done in the same room or sometimes on a coal stove outside in the street. In many homes the walls are covered with colored clippings of magazine illustrations.

To a European, the conditions under which most Chinese city dwellers live are depressing. At least the slums are gradually giving way to new houses and most people certainly do not live worse—rather better—than many inhabitants of, for instance, Bangkok or Bombay.

On the credit side also is the absence of beggars, especially begging children, who are seen in great numbers in the cities of other Asian countries.

Few adults and even fewer children wear rags, the overwhelming majority of both men and women being dressed in working jackets and trousers of blue cotton cloth.

Another evidence of a growing prosperity is the huge number of new bicycles that fill the streets when people go to and from their work. Automobiles, however, still seem to be a dream of a distant future to most Chinese families.



The food shortage that was reported in China a few years ago has apparently been completely overcome. Shops and food stores have an abundance of food—meat, vegetables, fruit and bread. Only rice and cotton cloth are rationed, but you can have a large bowl of rice without giving up ration cards in any restaurant or canteen for only 0.15 yuan.

Rice is still the basis of a standard Chinese diet, supplemented by spinach, which is seen in huge quantities in every vegetable shop. Prices for one kilogram (2.2 pounds) of spinach: 0.06 yuan.

Some other prices are: One preserved egg 0.20 yuan, half a kilogram of mutton 1.20, canned pork 0.70, smoked sausages 1.50, preserved pig's liver 1.20, one half of chocolate 0.20, one wheat loaf 0.30, a packet of 20 Chinese cigarettes 0.18, Albanian cigarettes 0.25, a large bottle of beer 0.28, and a bottle of mao tse (Chinese rice brandy) 4.00.

Compare dwith an income of 60 to 75 yuan a month, some of these prices are relatively high, and undoubtedly some of the foods mentioned are still regarded as luxuries by most Chinese. Fish and meat are only occasionally served in most Chinese homes.

But, at least, there is no evidence of malnutrition among the people one sees in the streets.

Paternity Suit Filed Against Football Player

CLEVELAND (AP) — A paternity suit was filed Monday against football player Jim Brown, Cleveland Browns' ace fullback. The suit was brought in juvenile court by Brenda Ayres, 18, who brought an assault and battery charge against Brown last June.

A jury acquitted Brown July 23 of charges he beat Miss Ayres in a motel room.

The charge was filed following a conference between Leo Chimo, director of legal services for juvenile court, and Russell Adrine, counsel for Miss Ayres and her mother, Mrs. Barbara Ayres, 38, a divorcee.

Miss Ayres said she is expecting a baby soon after the first of next year.

The suit asks for a determination of fact on whether Brown is the father and should provide for care of the baby and prenatal care for the mother.

Scientists May Provide Answers to Perplexing 20th Century Problems

By WICK TEMPLE

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Twelve years of sex research by two scientists at Washington University here may provide answers to what they call some of the most perplexing problems of the 20th century.

Dr. William H. Masters, a gynecologist, and his assistant, Mrs. Virginia Johnson, will publish a book early next year on their findings in the heretofore unexplored field of human sexual response.

Just as Alfred C. Kinsey explored it physiologically, in the laboratory, with 600 volunteers.

Some of the problems to which their research may find answers are the sex life of older persons, sexual inadequacy, and a safe sex life for cardiac and hypertension patients. They say they also have developed the first natural contraceptive that can be injected.

"The most important thing to come out of this research is knowledge that human sexual response can be directly investigated," Masters said.

Kinsey's research answered questions on the what and why of sex. The research of the Washington University team answers the "how" questions.

"Medicine has never before tackled the problem of what happens in the body during sexual experience," Masters said.

The volunteers, primarily married couples from a cross section of the population of this metropolitan area, are carefully screened and interviewed. Half are rejected. Those accepted attend orientation sessions with Masters and Mrs. Johnson.

During the research, the team has treated frigidity and impotence, which Masters calls basic factors of divorce. Results of these treatments will not be announced until the scientists have completed five-year histories of a meaningful number of patients.

The laboratory contains color movie cameras and considerable scientific apparatus, including electrocardiographs and brain - wave and biochemical equipment.

READY TO ADVISE

After observing 7,500 female sexual stimulations and 2,500 in men, the team believes it now can advise doctors what to tell cardiac patients about their sex lives. They can tell members of the growing "over 50" population that they can have normal sexual experiences. They can advise pregnant women on sexual problems.

In their study of conception and contraception, the research-ers said they discovered a sperm-killing vaginal substance in certain women. When injected, it kills sperm in 10 seconds, Masters said. Since this would be a natural contraceptive substance, Masters believes it might meet some religious objections.

Masters, 50 and bald, did pioneer work in sex steroid field before beginning research on sexual response. He is married and has two children. Mrs. Johnson, 40, studied psychology and sociology but has no advanced degree. She has two children, was divorced a year before she joined the research group.

Masters and Mrs. Johnson, with the aid of dozens of scientists and St. Louis civic leaders, have founded the Reproductive Biology Research Foundation, a non-profit agency financed by private donations and grants.

Their book to be published in April is entitled Human Sexual Response. A second book, Human Sexual Inadequacy, will include their findings on frigidity and impotence.

China's Troops Probe Himalayan Frontier

NEW DELHI (AP)—Chinese troops are probing south all along India's Himalayan frontier and some Indian blood is being spilled.

Peking is flooding New Delhi with protest notes charging India with provocations and warlike activity.

Why this Chinese war of nerves? Two theories are popular in government circles:

—The Chinese, frustrated by a lack of success in Africa and Southeast Asia, are hardening their stance from India to Korea in order to exploit every opportunity to cause trouble, especially for the United States.

—The Chinese intend to give moral support to Pakistan in its conflict with India and at the same time create "irritations" and conflicting claims that could be propaganda preparation for renewed hostilities against India.

New Delhi doesn't expect a major Chinese attack soon, however.

One of Prime Minister Shastri's Chinese experts notes that the winter snows have closed the mountain passes leading south from Chinese-held Tibet to the Indian plains.

Neither do Indian experts expect a major Chinese intervention in the Viet Nam war.

Chinese troops on the Indian front push across the border with impunity and in the last two weeks have heated up virtually the entire front from the Ladakh region of Kashmir in the west to the eastern mountain passes more than 1,000 miles across the subcontinent.

The Chinese have made probes into the northeast frontier agency for the first time since they launched a major attack there in 1962 and one Indian expert on China said Peking's current campaign seems aimed at destroying the last vestiges of restrictions left over from the 1962 border war.

After that bloodletting, China unilaterally announced demilitarized zones had been established along its frontier with India. The Chinese now have violated their own ground rules and obviously no longer consider them valid.

This, the Indians fear, may be groundwork for a new, serious attack — perhaps after the passes are clear of snow next spring.

Canada Doubles Value Of Foreign Aid in Last 3 Years But Still Low

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP)—Canada has more than doubled the value of its foreign aid in the last three years but Canadians still give less per capita than Britons or Australians to help poorer countries.

A study of foreign aid in the Commonwealth published here today shows Canada, the richest member of the Commonwealth in per capita wealth, gave $7.35 a head of population in foreign aid during 1964. Of three other Commonwealth countries cited as rich members, Britain gave $10.37, Australia $10.50 and New Zealand $5.16.

However, more than two-thirds of Australia's foreign aid total goes in grants to its neighboring trusteeship dependencies of Papua and New Guinea; New Zealand devotes about half its foreign aid to South Pacific island dependencies. Canada's aid is more widely distributed, although Asia gets the lion's share.

COMMISSION STUDY

"Aid in the Commonwealth," a statistical study by the privately-endowed Overseas Development Institute, was commissioned by the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association and published to coincide with the opening of the 11th CPA conference in Wellington, N.Z.

The study points up imbalance and inconsistencies in the pattern of foreign aid.

The Commonwealth, with 47 per cent of the non-Communist world's population of developing countries, receives only 28 per cent of total non-Communist development aid. The Commonwealth has 13 per cent of the non-Communist world's "rich" population, but gives only 10 per cent of total bilateral aid.

Canada, which last year devoted about $80,000,000 of its total foreign aid of $140,000,000 to the Commonwealth, gave almost half to Asia. India and Pakistan received $34,186,000.

Ceylon and Malaysia alone received about the same amount as Canada aid as all nine African Commonwealth countries together — about $4,000,000.

The rate of total foreign aid received by developing countries varies widely, from 60 cents for each Nigerian in a year to $1.87 for each Indian and $189 for each of the 5,000 inhabitants of Niue Island in the South Pacific.

Noting that the Commonwealth itself supplies less than one-third of the total non-Communist aid received by Commonwealth countries, the survey concludes that the organization "could not conceivably become a self-contained unit from the aid point of view."

"It is inherent in the composition of the Commonwealth, with its great preponderance of developing countries, that it should be primarily a receiving group which looks outside its membership for the bulk of the economic aid it needs."

Dr. Russell Scott One of Ablest To Offer Services

In Belleville's coming election, a number of sincere and qualified men are competing for seats as aldermen on the city council. One of these men is Dr. Russell Scott, whose outstanding record of past accomplishments is ample proof of his business and administrative ability.

Dr. Scott, a World War II veteran, is a graduate of Queen's University and has been a highly respected medical practitioner in the Quinte area for many years. His determined character and vigorous drive have brought him success in many community and business enterprises. He has held such positions as Chairman of the Belleville Library Board, Chairman of the United Appeal, Past President of the Belleville Fair Board and has been a member of the Belleville Public School Board for 12 years — of which he was Chairman in 1965. As the enthusiastic General Chairman of the Hastings County International Flying Match held here several years ago he brought considerable favorable publicity to this area.

Dr. Scott is a respected family man with a keen interest in community affairs. Well informed and with a successfully proven background in administration, he is an outstanding choice for alderman in Belleville where these qualifications would be of great value. If elected, Dr. Scott would prove to be a tireless worker with the welfare of the city always foremost in his mind.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver

Tonight at the Club Canara where the Belleville District Fish and Game Club holds its postponed monthly meeting has been dubbed the "Night of the Hunter."

This is an annual event when the deer and moose-seeking sitzreels of the club are invited to get up off their haunches and tell fellow members their experiences, tall and short, and odd incidents that befell them on the forest floorlands.

Some of the best stories have never been told. In previous years the boys have shown reticence in getting to their feet and relating experiences that rank with the best.

Hunters like other people, are blest with imagination and some of the better yarns emanating from the wilds have been figments of the imagination created after a tasty venison dinner with all the liquid trimmings or during a wet, windy day when hunting was out of the question.

I've been told some fantastic stories during the many years behind a sports desk.

For instance, there was the duck-seeking sinner who discovered a lake near Enterprise that was covered with a solid coating of mallards, blacks and other feathered dinners.

He and two companions let go double blasts into the mass and it rose like a magic carpet into the sky—just one solid chunk.

They had killed a half dozen but the duck mass was so thick it carried the dead with it until it reached a spot where it could spread and the dinners fell into the water.

One of the tallest yarns to come out of moose country is that of the hunter who in desperation mounted a wounded moose that was charging him and took him over a precipice.

Man and moose plunged over the cliff to the rocky terrain hundreds of feet below. "It looked like sure death" recounted the hunter, "until the moose reached about ten feet from the bottom. I decided to get off. I did and walked the rest of the way down the incline."

A veteran angler once told me the muskies were so thick in the Ottawa River years ago that he rode them downstream and guided a big catch ashore with a pesvy.

And a poker-faced Ananias from "across the bay" once told a sports hall session that he was tooting a moose mating call on his "come-and-get-me" pickolo when he looked up and saw a big bull standing over him. It was wearing a sign which read "Whohell do you think you are, Lawrence Welk?"

A true story was related to me by a former city hunter-surgeon, since passed on, who was caught on a deer runway when the rains came in a deluge.

He said he took refuge in a thicket while dogs and hunters went past him. He heard a rustle behind him and not three feet away was a doe. "For a full minute I did not move," he said. "I could have reached out and touched it.... Later it went on its way."

But the tallest yarn I ever heard was that of the "ghost-riding dogs and deer." It seems hunters had their dogs chasing two big bucks when suddenly a low heavy cloud stood swept in at tree-top level.

The dogs and deer disappeared. Nonplussed, the hunters looked around them. Then one uttered a loud cry pointing to the sky. There on the edge of the cloud scud were the dogs and deer riding the misty carpet.

Off the hunting beam is the racetrack story told at the recent OMHA convention in Toronto by a city comptroller. It seems the man was attending his first track meet when he saw a bucked gentleman making signs over a horse. The nag went on to win. The ritual was repeated a second time and the horse won.

The third race brought out the same mystic signs. The track fan decided to bet a hundred on the nag. Halfway around the track the horse fell dead.

He approached the frocked gentleman and asked why the first two horses won—and the third expired.

Said the priest, "you must be of the Protestant faith."

The man admitted he was.

"That explains it," said the member of the clergy. "Only a Protestant cannot tell the difference between the blessing and the last rites."

"Bones Crack, Hands Break"

MOSCOW (CP) — A Soviet newspaper man who recently attended his first Canadian football game pictures the scene as something like a battlefield.

The reporter, Konstantin Vishnevetskiy, watched Ottawa Rough Riders defeat Hamilton Tiger-Cats 23-3 at Ottawa's Lansdowne Park September 11. He was in Canada with a Soviet parliamentary delegation.

Writing in Nedelya, weekly magazine of the government newspaper Izvestia,'he told of watching players return to the bench "one "the front" with injured noses, broken hands.

"The wounded were helped at once. After a short rest and cold drinks they again run onto the field."

Vishnevetskiy wrote that the bones of players on the bottom of pileups could be heard cracking. He described the men as "sweating" and "fierce" and said the atmosphere in the park was heated throughout the game.

"The nervous tension was, so great that some hearts couldn't stand it. Several times people asked the doctor on duty to go to a certain spot (in te stands). Once even the siren of the first aid ambulence was heard."

And he reported that one spectator died of a heart attack.

Vishnevetskiy's reference to broken hands and cracking bones may be exaggerated but he was right about the heart attack. Dr. Eugene Roesch of Montreal suffered the attack during the game and was dead on arrival at hospital.

The Soviet reporter apparently misunderstood the paging of doctors. It's common practice for doctors to be paged when their offices have a call for them from a patient.

SELECT PARKER

TORONTO (CP) — Ranny Parker, a linebacker and offensive guard, was voted the most valuable football player on University of Toronto Blues by his team-mates. Parker, a 22-year-old fourth-year student of architecture, had a successful tryout with Toronto Rifles of the Continental Football League last summer but decided to remain in school.

Pro Football Draft

'All Was Calm, All Was Bright'

NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody cheated in the pro football draft this year and both Santa Claus and the Easter Bunny are forreal.

Everything was on the up and up all the way. There wasn't a single signing announced before the players were drafted. No secrets were held a bodies were spirited from New Orleans to Las Vegas to Waikiki.

It was so pure and wholesome that three young men from Illinois popped up at the American Football League draft with their lawyer and announced they had been brought to New York by the National Football League but were open to offers.

Oakland Raiders passed the first six rounds of the AFL draft and finally announced in the seventh round that it had drafted and signed Tom Mitchell, an end from Bucknell.

There were reports in early morning that Mitchell had signed but these, of course, were erroneous and exaggerated.

Mazy players who went home to see the folks for Thanksgiving wound up in unexpected places—such as a New York hotel.

If the NFL's army of recruiters took an interest in a collegian, the AFL teams couldn't seem to locate him on the telephone. If the AFL bird dogs were hot for a prospect, they neglected to call up the NFL and tell them where they were.

There was much banter about an early mock draft by the AFL Nov. 2, with sharp denials and counter - accusations that the NFL had drawn up a list of 13 players who must be signed to maintain prestige. There was a remarkable resemblance between the actual draft and the advance stories.

Retains World Title

TOKYO (Reuters) — Masahiko Harada of Japan retained the world bantamweight boxing title here tonight when he outpointed Alan Rudkin of Britain in 15 rounds.

Harada gained a unanimous points decision in the action-filled bout.

Harada dominated throughout with his rushing, two-fisted attacks, but the cool British boxer survived a hectic period in the early rounds to box his way out of trouble.

Apart from when Rudkin slipped to one knee near the end of the first round there were no knockdowns.

Marcetta Leads WHL Point Race

SEATTLE (AP)—A new name heads the list of individual scoring in the Western Hockey League this week.

Milan Marcetta, Victoria centre, moved into the top spot on the strength of seven points in three games last week. He has a total of 29 points.

Marcetta's team-mate, winger Bob Barlow, holds the goal-scoring lead with 14, and Seattle's Gayle Hoffman has the lead in assists, with 23.

San Francisco's Jack McCartan held the top spot in goaltending, with a 2.73 average after 11 games.

"Mountie" Greets Chuvalo

LONDON (CP)—A 21-year-old ash-blonde fan dressed in a Mountie uniform was on hand to greet George Chuvalo of Toronto when he arrived here for his Dec. 7 fight with Joe Bygraves, former British Empire heavyweight boxing champion.

Wendy Brown of Sandringham, Norfolk, greeted Chuvalo, who arrived looking hale and hearty in a houndstooth sports jacket, with the explanation that she was the secretary and, at the moment, only member of the George Chuvalo Fan Club in Britain.

"We hut formed the club this morning," said Wendy, on the point of suffocation in red-and-blue serge, Mountie hat and size-11 boots.

Chuvalo took the fan club and a session with British sports writers is stride, and at the urging of photographers, he posed with Miss Brown perched on his knee.

Want Clay To Fight In London

LONDON (AP)—Two British boxing promoters have made a joint offer to Cassius Clay to defend his world heavyweight boxing title in England next year.

As challenger they named Brian London, 31-year-old English battler who was knocked out by Floyd Patterson in the 11th round in a world title fight in 1958.

Promoters Jack Solomons and Laurie Lewis joined forces to try to tempt Clay to London.

London, who lost the British heavyweight title to Henry Cooper in 1959, said he thinks he could beat Clay.

"Clay hasn't got a punch," London said. "But make no mistake, he is very good."

Printers Midgets Tie Gananoque

Travelling at a goal-a-period pace, Belleville Richard Ellis Printers played to a 3-3 deadlock with Gananoque in OMHA midget action here last night.

Ellis' led 1-0 in the first but Gananoque made it 2-2 by the end of the second and the clubs traded goals in the third.

Mike Healey, Ron Fuller and Jim Holgate triggered the Belleville goals in that order. David House gained the only assist.

K. Adair, F. O'Donnell and R. Mangan scored for Gananoque. D. Dell collected two assists.

There were nine minor penalties in the game, five to Gananoque.

The next OMHA action involving Belleville teams takes place here tomorrow night. Trenton and the Riteways meet in novice at 6.30 followed by Napanee and Rollins peewees at 7.45.

Trade Winds Blow Past Champions

Dodgers, Twins Pat

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers and Minnesota Twins, 1965 league champions, may be forced to stand pat during the annual baseball meetings

There were no indications two days after the opening of the meetings that any of their challengers wants to make any trades with the champions that might help them win successive pennants.

Trading was under way between other clubs, however, with New York Yankees swapping utility man Phil Linz to Philadelphia Phillies for shortstop Ruben Amaro, and New York Mets buying Al Luplow, Cleveland Indians outfielder, for a reported $30,000.

The Mets also sent pitcher Tom Parsons to Houston Astros to complete a previous deal for catcher Jerry Grote, and, California Angels signed veteran pitcher Lew Burdette.

Burdette, longtime star with Milwaukee Braves, has been a free agent since posting a 3-5 record with Chicago Cubs and the Phillies last summer.

23 DRAFTED

Neither the Dodgers, World Series champions, nor the Twins took any players in Monday's draft of minor league prospects, although 23 players were picked by other American and National League teams.

Many of those drafted were veterans trying to win another chance to make the big time in the major leagues, such as Gary Geiger and Moe Drabowsky.

A few were youngsters, including 17-year-old Guillermo Montas, a lefthander drafted by Sarasota Fla., who was drafted by the Angels.

The minor league players drafted by the majors brought $473,000. The top minor league teams drafted another 41 lower-classification players for a total of $288,000.

Geiger, in the majors eight years, was one of three players taken from the roster of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, although he never appeared in a Toronto uniform. Boston Red Sox had assigned him to Toronto at the close of last season.

BRAVES GAMBLE

Atlanta Braves took a $25,000 gamble on the injury-plagued outfielder, who batted .207 for Boston in 1960 but played only a few games last summer.

The other players taken from Toronto were pitcher Bob Hefner, who was with the Leafs for only a few games in midseason, and shortstop Jimmy Williams, who batted .287 for Waterloo in the Mid - West League. Cleveland claimed Hefner and Williams went to St. Louis Cardinals.

Drabowsky, dropped by Kansas City Athletics to Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast League last summer, won eight of 10 games to gain his way back to the majors. He was drafted by Baltimore Orioles.

Besides Drabowsky, Vancouver lost pitcher Ken Sanders, who compiled an 8-8 record for the Mounties last year. He was picked up by the Red Sox.

Vancouver and Toronto each picked up a player in the minor-league draft. Marv Breedling, a veteran infielder who played for Rochester Red Wings of the International League last season, was the Mounties' acquisition, claimed from Elmira of the Eastern League. The Leafs took Fred Michalski from Asheville of the Southern League.

'Let 'Em Fight It Out'

TOKYO (AP) — The World Boxing Association president, James Deskin, said today he will propose that Cassius Clay be made co-champion with Ernie Terrell for the world heavyweight crown.

Deskin said "now that Clay has been reinstated by the WBA, he has earned the right to be co-champion."

Terrell is recognized as champion by the WBA, while Clay is the first-ranked challenger.

Deskin said: "The heavyweight division is in a mess, has been in a mess. Let them (Clay and Terrell) fight it out and get it over with."

League Denies "Bribery"

KINGSTON. CP—The president of the Kingston area Church Athletic League today denied charges by a minister that purpose of the league is to "tempt and bribe" young people into Sunday school and church attendance.

The charge was made by Rev. Floyd E. Green, rector of the Anglican church at Newboro 30 miles south of here, in a letter to the Kingston Whig-Standard. His church does not participate in the league.

His remark followed an October decision by the league to suspend 17 churches from the league's winter sports program because they had not filed registration attendance sheets to the league secretary.

Children playing in the league must have at least 80 per cent attendance at Sunday school.

"We're not bribing anyone," John Cunningham, president of the league, said in an interview today.

"We have 82 hockey teams and about 1,000 children in them. "If we didn't have rules we couldn't operate."

Protestant, Catholic and Jewish denominations in the area belong to the league, which also sponsors basketball, baseball and bowling for about 3,000 children in the year-round program.

Has Way To Defeat Mr. Clay

LONDON (AP)—George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, arrived by plane Monday and said he knows the way to beat Cassius Clay.

"Floyd Patterson went about it the wrong way," the husky 28-year-old Torontonian said.

"He stayed too far away from Clay. You've got to get in at him and attack the body. I think I could beat him."

Chuvalo is here for a 10-round fight against Joe Bygraves, former British Empire champion, Dec. 7.

GEORGE CHUVALO

"I reckoned this was the best way to get at Clay for the world title," Chuvalo told reporters. "If I can win two or three fights in Europe, I shall be well in line for a title shot.

Chuvalo said he still claims he should have got the decision against Ernie Terrell, who defeated him Nov. 1 for the World Boxing Association version of the world title.

Bygraves, 34, has had only three fights in the last three years. This year he knocked out Albert Westphal of West Germany in one round and lost on points to another West German, Gerhard Zech.

Bud Marquardt Reminisces

Helped The West Win First Grey Cup

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG CP — His six-foot four-inch frame settled into a restaurant chair, Bud Marquard began to reminisce about "seven wonderful years."

He had a lot to remember—a pass catch for a touchdown that helped the West win the Grey Cup for the first time; five Grey Cup appearances and a "rowdy bunch" who were his mates on the 1935 to 1941 editions of "Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

"We were one big happy family," he said, "but when the whistle blew . . . I've never known a bunch that loved to play football so much."

The seven year story began in 1935 after Bud and a fellow North Dakota State University graduate "rode freights" to California.

Right behind came a forwarded letter, inviting Bud to come to Canada to play basketball with Winnipeg Toilers.

Bud had been a centre in college basketball and an all-state selection with "the scraps of Minnesota high school basketball"—a unit from Moorhead.

SWITCHED TO FOOTBALL

But the 52-year-old native of Stirnger, N.D., never did get to play basketball in Winnipeg. Instead, a man named Joe Ryan gave him a $500 contract to play a game he took up only at his mother's urging.

"I was shy . . . afraid of people," said Bud of the rhymoll of deciding whether to go out for high school football "I wasn't going to . . . but my mother talked me into it."

Ryan was manager of the Winnipeg team in the Western Football League and as on the prowl for imports. Besides Marquardt, he enticed three other Dakotans into the fold —the great Frittie Hanson, Herb Paschel and Joe Perpich.

That's how Bud came to play a role in the dawn of a new era for football in Western Canada—1935, the year the Winnipeg Rugby Football Club brought the Grey Cup west for the first time.

The 1935 Winnipeg squad carved a niche as the West's first undefeated team. Calgary Stampeders matched the performance in 1948.

The club won 11 games. They shut out the opposition four times and yielded just 43 points while scoring 228 themselves.

SCORED KEY TOUCHDOWN

Among the triumphs was a 3-1 decision over Sarnia Imperials, the first time a western senior team had beaten an eastern senior team.

But, noted for his pass catching, made most of his contributions that season playing defence.

He saved his first touchdown for the Grey Cup—an 18-12 victory for Winnipeg over Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Bud caught an 18-yard pass from fullback Bob Fritz after Herb Paschel had recovered the opening kickoff.

Marquardt and Bombers went on to win 40 of 66 games during the next six years, including an 8-7 Grey Cup win over Ottawa Rough Riders in 1939 and an 18-16 Grey Cup triumph over Ottawa in 1941. Bud's play earned him all-star berths in 1938, 1939, 1940 and 1941.

"Down inside we felt we were the best team," was Bud's explanation for the success.

Bud's last game was the 1941 Grey Cup and was "the best I ever played."

BROKE TIE

With the score tied 8-8 in the opening minutes of the second half Winnipeg's Bernie Thornton roared in from his right end position to tackle Ottawa's Orville Burke in the act of throwing a forward pass.

The ball popped up in the air. Marquardt caught it and ran 44 yards for a touchdown.

Bud had married Rene Walton in Winnipeg in 1939 and settled down to his job in the merchandise department of Hudson's Bay Co.

He was transferred to Edmonton in 1946 and was one of the original directors of the Eskimos when they re-entered the Western Interprovincial Football Union in 1948.

His next stop was Calgary, where he served 18 months as an executive member of the WIFU's Calgary Stampeders. Bud returned to Winnipeg in 1962 as divisional merchandise manager.

He said the modern game is scientific but in his day "we had more fun."

Last August, the surviving comrades of the 1935 team were reunited in Winnipeg. A highlight was the appearance of the Grey Cup — compliments of British Columbia Lions - and a drink of champagne from the old trophy.

"It was a wonderful surprise," Bud said.

Young People's Concerts Open Ninth TV Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' Young People's Concerts, starting their ninth television season, may not be a barrel of laughs. But if young people—and some older ones—will sit quietly and pay attention, they will find the series has a special charm.

Monday night, Leonard Bernstein was once again busily moving from conductor's podium to piano explaining musical forms in the clearest, simplest way possible before leading the New York Philharmonic through two symphonies.

Bernstein's informal method of explaining music is a delight. To illustrate one point he sang a few notes from Help, a new rock-and-roll song. And then moved into a Brahms symphony. It was effective and enlightening.

For the adult viewer, the Philharmonic sounds are a delight. But one of the most fascinating hallmarks of the series is the way the camera pans over the audience, catching the composering children in poses ranging from deep absorption to restless wiggling.

In this first concert of the season, however, some of the camera work seemed inferior. And on several occasions, the viewer was distracted by the sight of a television camera being wheeled into a new position around the orchestra.

The hour is a blessed relief from the frantic comedies, that, because they appeal to youngsters, infest the early evening network schedules.

NBC will repeat for the fourth time the Christmas Sing Along With Mitch show originally broadcast in 1963. Miller, who was Mitzi when NBC dropped the series a couple of seasons back for poor ratings, hopes that public response to the repeat may revive interest in the show.

Nearly Million Feet of Film Contained in Movie Library

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When movie and television producers need shots of a seagull, a shipwreck or a sunset, they call Klaus Dyer.

You name it and Elmer is likely to have it among the 1,000,000 feet of film contained in his unique movie library. And if he doesn't have it, he'll go out and shoot it.

Elmer Dyer has been making movies for 33 years, and he has lost none of his enthusiasm for film.

The Dyer place is stacked to the ceiling with cans of film he has taken in his lifetime. They are arranged as to subject: birds, flowers and fruits, football, ambulances, snow, but most of the cataloguing is inside the canny film-maker's head.

"They want a signal flare over at Pentical Junction, he told an assistant. "I think you'll find a signal flare in the fireworks I shot at the Rose Bowl."

Dyer started in the movie business for Universal in 1932 and worked for most of the studios over the years in filming background and aerial shots, notably Hells Angels for Howard Hughes. The idea of a library came out of his hobby of collecting films of all kinds.

"I must have six or 7,000 feet of old airplanes, including some of the early ones of the Wright brothers," said Dyer.

During the last 20 years he has shot only in color. His forsight now is paying off in the era of tinted television.

"I have filmed every major city in the United States," said Dyer.
